Ford Makes $1,000,000 in Retail Grocery Trade and Rivals Begin Auto Boycott

Efficiency System Enables Him to Undersell Competitors and He Is Adding New Stores.

By PAUL Y. ANDERSON
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

DETROIT, Mich., March 26.—Henry Ford's gigantic success in the retail grocery business here has frightened Michigan grocers so badly that they have secretly launched a boycott against his cars, and are endeavoring, with the sympathetic co-operation of grocers' associations elsewhere, to expand the boycott to national proportions.

The menace of a chain of Ford stores, which would put half the retail grocers in the United States out of business, has been given real substance by what has happened to grocers of Detroit and Dearborn, and has caused merchants' associations in other states, including Missouri, to jump with fright and move with alacrity.

Ford started selling groceries only to his employes. Since then his stores have been thrown open to the public. By bringing to the grocery business precisely the same principles of mass production, elimination of wasted effort and the other methods which have contributed to his success in manufacturing, he is underselling Michigan merchants, and has them on the run.

Profits Put at $1,000,000

His great markets have been open to the public at his Highland Park and Dearborn plants for some time, and now others are being opened along the line of his railroad, the Detroit, Toledo & Ironton.

Despite the fact that Ford's markets undersell every retailer they compete with, his profits in this venture alone are reported to have been in excess of $1,000,000 last year.

Michigan retailers turned their Ford boycott first against wholesalers, refusing to accept goods delivered in Ford trucks. Now they are refusing to buy of wholesalers who sell to Ford.

The extent to which this boycott is reaching out is indicated by excerpts from a letter addressed to Henry Ford by L. F. Padberg, secretary of the Missouri Retailers' & Merchants' Association, as follows:

"Much bad feeling exists today in St. Louis and Missouri from the independent retail grocer and butcher toward the Ford Co., on account of you operating retail meat markets and groceries in Detroit. Protests are coming in from all parts of Missouri steadily.

"As a matter of principle, why should you, after having been favored by God in acquiring your wealth, try to drive your fellowman in other lines out of business? You are trying to mislead the people into the belief that the corner retailer is holding them up, overcharging them, etc. You know it is not true.

Autos and Chain Stores.

"How many automobiles do you sell to chain stores? I am sure every grocer and butcher buys and operates an automobile in his business, mostly Fords. No line of business has popularized your small trucks as has the grocer and butcher.

"St. Louis has 500 chain stores—no delivery. St. Louis has 2500 independent grocers and butchers. They deliver. If they did not deliver it would mean at least 2500 Fords less. You, in your meat market, advocate cash and carry, no delivery. Should we follow? Remember, no delivery, no Ford truck.

"In conclusion, don't let us fall out. Close up your meat shops. You can't sell meat and groceries cheaper than we do at a profit. Operating without a profit in competition with us is unfair and monopolistic."

The Missouri letter has been privately circulated in great numbers by Detroit merchants, who are extremely wary of attacking Ford openly. Representatives of merchanting associations in Detroit will talk at length with inquirers, but not for publication.

The wholesalers are in a painful predicament. The retailers are boycotting them if they sell to Ford and yet they are afraid to stop for fear he will supercede them. They fear he will throw out a few million dollars and start wholesaling houses which will run them out of business.

How Ford Began Selling Groceries

Several years ago, when Ford announced his $5 a day minimum wage, the retail grocers and butchers near the Ford plants decided, it is said, to share in the prosperity, and gradually raised their prices. Ford construed this as rank profiteering and started Ford markets for his workmen where goods

NATIONAL WEALTH OF U. S. PUT AT $355,300,000,000

Discounting Depreciation of Dollar, Real Increase Is Approximately One-Fifth.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 26. — The national wealth of the United States amounted to $355,300,000,000 in 1925, according to the estimate of the National Industrial Conference Board. The last estimate made was the census estimate of 1922 when it was calculated at $320,080,000,000. In 1912 the census estimate of the national wealth was $186,030,000,000.

In terms of 1913 purchasing power of the dollar, the board estimates the national wealth at $188,000,000,000 in 1912 and at $223,090,000,000 in 1925. The board pointed out that the nominal increase in wealth of 90.7 per cent during the 13-year period thus becomes a real increase of 19.1 per cent or almost one-fifth.

INDIAN, DYING, LEFT LEGEND OF ONE OF NATURE'S FREAKS

By the Associated Press.

CHEYENNE, Wyo., March 26.—I-See-O, last of the Kiowa Indian scouts, who died at Fort Sill recently, left a legend of the strange origin of Bear Lodge, or Devil's Tower, in Crook County, Wyoming.

The tower is one of the nation's nature freaks, rising 600 feet above a rounded ridge of sedimentary rock and measures more than a mile around the base. It is composed of a group of columns about six feet in diameter, the whole resembling a bundle of matches.

Before the Kiowa Indians came south they were camped on a stream in the far North where there were a great many bears, according to the story told by I-See-O to Major-General Hugh L. Scott. One day seven little girls, chased by bears, took refuge on a low rock. One prayed: "Rock, take pity on us! Rock, save us!" And it heard them. It rose, pushing the children higher and higher, finally to the sky, where they are now, seven little stars in a group (the Pleiades.) The marks of the bear's claws are on the rocks yet.

Because the Soviet regime has permitted more Russians to fish in the Caspian Sea for Sturgeon, which yield caviar, according to Paul Perreau, western manager of an American importing house. Caviar sold in New York for $14 a pound in 1917. Today it is $7. New Yorkers are the largest consumers of caviar, with Chicago second, said Perreau, who is here, on a visit.

RAY OF HOPE OF AVERTING ENTIRE CLOSING OF MINES

Isolated Districts in Pennsylvania and Iowa Agree to Continue Old Scale After Friday.

POLICY COMMITTEE MEETING TOMORROW

Union Coal Miners Use "Pinching Out" Tactics of 1922 to Bring Operators Into Line.

By the Associated Press.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., March 26.—The Policy Committee of the United Mine Workers of America will at least have developments favorable to the miners in two isolated districts, Iowa and Central Pennsylvania, to consider when it meets here Monday to determine the union's course after the expiration of the present wage agreement next Thursday, March 31.

The situation surrounding negotiation of a new wage agreement for the central competitive field of the bituminous industry, comprising Illinois, Indiana, Ohio and Western Pennsylvania, took on a more favorable tinge from the miners' viewpoint today with the announcement at Des Moines, Ia., that 30 independent operators had agreed to continue the present wage scale after March 31.

Also at West Frankfort, Ill., two mines of the Industrial Coal Co. posted notices asking the miners to continue to work.

Good News and Bad.

March 11 executives of the Association of Bituminous Coal Operators of Central Pennsylvania announced at Altoona that proposals of the mine workers to continue at the present scale after expiration of the Jacksonville agreement had been accepted.

On the other hand, the policy committee will have to consider the collapse of efforts to negotiate similar temporary settlements in Ohio and in northern West Virginia.

In the present situation, the miners wish continued the present scale of $7.50 a day for laborers and $1.08 a ton for loaders, negotiated at Jacksonville in 1924. The central field operators of union mines wish wage reductions in the form of a scale on a competitive basis with non-union mines of Kentucky, West Virginia and Tennessee.

"Pinching Out" the Operators.

The Iowa and Central Pennsylvania advices indicate that tactics employed successfully by the union to terminate the 1922 strike in the bituminous fields may be a factor this year. The 1922 strike ended when the miners "pinched out" the operators in the central competitive field by negotiating temporary settlements in outlying fields with operators producing 60,000,000 tons. By thus disregarding the precedent of allowing the central competitive field to set the wage scale for the whole bituminous district, the miners left the operators in the position of choosing between meeting the miners' demands or losing business to their competitors.

Two West Frankfort (Ill.) Mines Tell Men to Keep On.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WEST FRANKFORT, Ill., March 26.—New hope for settlement of the wage controversy between mine owners and miners without a strike April 1 came here today with the posting of notices at the two mines of the Industrial Coal Co., telling the men to continue at work.

The notice ordered that machine men continue cutting and that loaders continue to shoot and load coal. Since it is customary to "skin up" all places before a suspension, this action is taken to mean that prospects for a last-minute settlement may not be as remote as it would appear on the surface. It requires about three days to clean up the underground workings, preparatory to a suspension. Mine officials declined to say what connection the order had with the possibilities of a settlement.

West Virginia Operators Refuse to Attend Peace Meeting.

By the Associated Press.

FAIRMOUNT, W. Va., March 26.—Coal operators of the Northern West Virginia district ignored the invitation of Van A. Bittner, international representative of the United Mine Workers, to participate in a conference here today for the purpose of negotiating a wage scale to become effective April 1.

The invitation was sent Monday by the union leaders to all operators in the district, most of whom

TRAGEDY DISCLOSES THEIR LOVE AFFAIR

Count de Janze Had Sought Divorce — Police Dog Stands Guard Over His Mistress in Car.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, March 26.—Countess Alice de Janze, formerly Alice Silverthorne of Chicago, and Raymond Vincent de Trafford, youngest son of a wealthy and prominent British family, tonight lay gravely wounded in a hospital from shots declared by the police to have been fired by the Countess.

"I fired," she was quoted as saying before she lapsed into unconsciousness. Police found the couple wounded in a first-class compartment of a London-bound train just about to leave the Gare-Du-Nord. Standing guard over the Countess was her German police dog, which kept off everyone until the police arrived.

De Trafford managed to say, "She fired," police said, before he too lapsed into unconsciousness. He also was reported to have said the shooting grew out of a jealous quarrel.

Late tonight the condition of both was said to be serious after operations had been performed on both for removal of the bullets.

The dowager Countess de Janze, told of the shooting, was deeply affected. She said the Countess had left Count de Janze two months ago to live with de Trafford.

De Trafford is 27 years old and a former lieutenant in the Coldstream Guards.

It is understood that Count de Janze recently sued for a divorce from the Countess, who is 27 years old, and that their two daughters were left in his charge.

Countess' Aunt, Armour's Cousin, Thought With Her in Paris.

CHICAGO, March 26.—Countess de Janze, who shot Raymond Trafford, and then herself, in Paris today, formerly was Alice Silverthorne of Chicago. She is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Silverthorne of Buffalo, N. Y.

She was married to the Count here in September, 1921. A daughter was born in 1922. She also is a niece of Mrs. Francis E. May, who is a cousin of J. Ogden Armour. Prior to her marriage she was prominent in society here and traveled abroad frequently.

At Mrs. May's Sheridan road home it was said she was in Paris. It is believed she has been residing with the Countess.

News of the shooting was received with surprise by Chicago relatives. Mrs. George M. Silverthorne, an aunt of the Countess, said: "It cannot be Alice. She and her husband were so happy together and such a thing would be impossible. There must be some mistake."

The marriage of the Count and Countess in 1921 was a brilliant social event. After the ceremony, Mrs. J. Ogden Armour turned over to them the Armour estate at Long Island, where they passed two weeks. From there they went to Paris and have not been back to the United States since.

The wedding followed a romance of only a few weeks. They met in Paris in May and were engaged three weeks later.

The Countess' parents are dead. She had made her home with Mrs. May when in Chicago.

COOLIDGE, CHAPLIN TIED FOR GREATNESS IN CHILDREN'S POLL

But Berkeley (Cal.) Police Chief and Alexander of Macedon Head the List.

By the Associated Press.

BERKELEY, Cal., March 26.—School-children apparently have no conventional ideas of greatness, according to Prof. L. A. Williams of the School of Education, University of California, who has tested more than 3000 school children on the point.

The children gave an equal number for greatness to Sherlock Holmes, Andrew Jackson, Charles Chaplin, Mohammed, Buffalo Bill, Premier Mussolini, Roald Amundsen and President Coolidge. Among the also-rans were Nikolai Lenin, Louisa May Alcott, Corot and Galileo.

Prof Williams asked the children to give their reasons for believing in the greatness of their heroes. Some of the answers named Rockefeller as "leader in oil stations;" Woodrow Wilson, "the man who signed the contract for the World War;" Lincoln, "Because he was simple;" Coolidge, "Who sees that the people do right by prohibition;" Jefferson, as "leader of free love," and Galileo, who "made his pupils invent the thermometer."

August Vollmer, chief of police of Berkeley, and Alexander the Great received the same number of votes as the greatest of the great.

PITCHER SLUGGED WITH BAT AFTER HE 'BEANS' PLAYER

Attack on Milburn Sheoffner Follows Injury of Frank Zoeller in Atlanta Game.

By the Associated Press.

ATLANTA, Ga., March 26.—Knocked unconscious by a blow on the head from a baseball bat, Milburn Scheoffner, a pitcher for the Rochester team of the International League, was found under the grandstand shortly after he had retired after pitching four innings in today's exhibition game against the Atlanta club of the Southern Association. A broken bat lay at his side.

Police were investigating on the theory that he was slugged by a fan in retaliation for hitting Frank Zoeller, Atlanta outfielder, on the head with a pitched ball in the third inning.

Schoeffner was said to be in a serious condition at a hospital tonight.

Zoeller, when he was hit, ran at Shoeffner with a bat, but other players prevented a fight. Zoeller collapsed afterward. He was in a state of semicoma for some time and also was taken to a hospital, but it was said his injury was not serious.

Frank Zoeller is a St. Louis boy, who started with the McKinley High School baseball team. He played with Memphis of the Southern Association for several seasons and also had a tryout with the Washington club of the American League. He resides at 1926 Louisiana avenue. He is about 28 years old.

NEGROES TO BUILD $250,000 CHURCH

Edifice of Semi-Classic Design to Occupy Site at Pine-Lawton Cutoff.

A $250,000 church is to be built on a $60,000 tract of ground at 3531-33 Lawton boulevard, which was recently purchased by the St. Paul A. M. E. Church, the oldest Negro congregation west of the Mississippi River. The building is to stand at the southeast corner of the Pine-Lawton cutoff, within view of Grand boulevard.

The site has a frontage of 86 feet on Lawton and is 126 feet deep. The church building plans were drawn by Frank F. Roberson, a local Negro architect who describes the design as semi-classic.

With its main auditorium seating 3000 and its lecture room 1500, the building, equipped with Sunday school rooms, showers and a swimming pool, probably will be the most pretentious church owned by any Negro congregation in the country.

The Rev. Noah W. Williams is pastor of the church which now has 3000 members. The congregation was founded 86 years ago, with some of its members still in slavery and first met on Water street. In 1842 a small frame building was built on a lot at Eleventh and Green (now Lucas avenue).

A brick building was built on the same site in 1871 and the present church at Leffingwell avenue and Lawton boulevard, was built in 1892.

The Rev. Mr. Williams has been planning the newest structure for several years for a location farther west, since the center of Negro population is moving in that direction and the purchase of the Lawton boulevard property was made with a view to accessibility.

WOMAN'S CHEAP MENUS STIR ALL NORWAY TO EXCITEMENT

Wives, Their Allowances Cut Down by Husbands, Threaten Author With Violence.

By the Associated Press.

OSLO, Norway, March 26.—Norway is in ferment over a cook book. It is a book of recipes written by Mrs. Esther Meidell of Kongsberg. It contains menus for a family of four at cost of $25 monthly.

The author came to Oslo and gave public demonstrations. Police had to clear the streets of eager husbands and housewives seeking cheap and wholesome food. Four doctors appointed to supervise the experiment and ascertain the nutritive value of Mrs. Meidell's dishes, gave a verdict in her favor. Her menus cut down on animal foods and substitute vegetables.

Husbands are citing the cook book as a reason for reducing their waves' allowances and Mrs. Meidell is said to have received anonymous letters from women, threatening violence. Socialist and communist leaders are incensed. They are negotiating for higher wages, citing high costs of living. The new cook book has embarrassed them.

REFUGEES FLOCK TO SHANGHAI AS ANTI-ALIEN HATE GROWS IN CHINA

Bombardment of Nanking Fans Flame and Hostility Spreads Beyond Nationalist Area.

CANTON GENERAL DEFIES THE WORLD

Chiang Kai-shek Says Powers Can't Send Enough Warships to Thwart Chinese Aims.

By the Associated Press.

SHANGHAI, March 27, (Sunday)—All Americans evacuated from Nanking are on board ships enroute to Shanghai, where they are expected to arrive tonight.

By the Associated Press.

SHANGHAI, March 26.—Americans and other foreigners were fleeing tonight from points along the Yangtze Valley, driven by anti-foreign sentiment among the Chinese which the bombardment of Nanking has fanned to full blaze.

Meanwhile, a statement was issued by the Cantonese Generalissimo, Chiang Kai-shek declaring that the foreign Powers could not send enough warships to China to suppress the "aspirations of the Chinese people."

Chiang, who arrived here today, again declared that foreign lives and property would not be endangered by the Nationalist army in Shanghai, and said the Nationalists had no intention of using force to change the status of the international settlement here. That problem would be settled by diplomatic means, "at the proper time and place." He waved aside the Nanking outrages and bombardment as an isolated incident.

Chiang Doesn't Visit Nanking.

Chiang did not stop off at Nanking on his way from Wuhu, as had been expected, and his arrival here came as a complete surprise to the foreign authorities. Shanghai, with its armed and barricaded international settlement, offers the most secure place of refuge in Nationalist China, and it is toward this port that the refugees are headed.

Hankow, Nanking and Chungking are some of the points evacuated or about to be evacuated by the foreigners, while the United States destroyer Preble, has gone to take off small groups of Americans from Kiangyin and lesser ports below Chinkiank. Friction is reported between the foreigners and Chinese at Chungsha, Hunan Province.

The trouble is not confined to Nationalist territory, for the United States Consul at Chefoo, on the Shantung Peninsula, has requested the dispatch of a destroyer there following clashes between police and Shantungese (Northern) troops.

Crisis at Nanking Passes.

With the evacuation of all the remaining Americans from Nanking, the crisis in that city is apparently ended. One killed and four injured constitutes the American toll of casualties, as far as known.

Dr. J. E. Williams, American vice president of Nanking University, whose death was reported in previous dispatches, was shot by a Cantonese soldier who had just participated in the looting of his home.

Those injured were Miss Anna E. Noffet, a mission worker, shot twice by Cantonese troops; marine Private Plumley, Earl T. Hobart, manager of the Standard Oil plant on Socony hill where one band of refugees were beseiged by Cantonese until relieved by the Anglo-American naval gunfire; and an unnamed American sailor.

American women were treated brutally by the Cantonese soldiery, but with the exception of the shooting of Miss Moffet, who is expected to recover, the offenses apparently were limited to insults and rough handling.

Japanese women and children were outraged and assaulted, and at least two Japanese men were shot or bayonetted in vain efforts to protect the women.

The American marines, sent ashore to guard the consulate at Nanking, acquitted themselves splendidly, and accompanied the Socony Hill refugees safely to the warships in the river. Refugees arriving here were fervent in their praise of the navy men, declaring: "The navy saved us; without it, every foreigner would have been murdered."

One of the outstanding incidents was the heroic action of an American sailor who, when the refugees were huddled on Socony Hill, surrounded by mobs of loot-crazed Cantonese, stood on the roof of the

1500 U.S. MARINES, REINFORCEMENTS, SENT TO SHANGHAI

Another Regiment Ordered From Quantico to San Diego to Embark for Service in China.

WASHINGTON BACKS ADMIRAL WILLIAMS

Last American Reported Safe Aboard Warship at Nanking — General Situation Tense.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 26.—A call for reinforcements was received tonight from Admiral Williams at Shanghai and another regiment of marines, 1500 strong, was ordered rushed across the Pacific to his aid. The text of Admiral Williams' message was not made public.

Just as the call for reinforcements was being received, Rear Admiral Hough at Nanking reported the rescue of the last known American victim of outrages by Cantonese troops.

From Pekin United States Minister MacMurray advised the State Department that he had directed consulates in Nationalist-controlled territory to make every effort to evacuate Americans in view of the demonstrated inability or unwillingness on the part of the Nationalist authorities to protect American lives.

Tense Situation at Hankow.

From Hankow, United States Consul-General Lockhart reported that Americans were being embarked for the coast. The situation was tense but there had been no disorders as yet. In Shanghai, the great center of American activities in China, and the place of refuge for those fleeing from Nanking and other interior ports, the situation was said to be "very tense."

Consul-General Gauss at Shanghai also reported on critical conditions at the river ports of Kiansyin, Taichow, Chiaoto-cheng and Chinkiang. A destroyer has been sent from Shanghai in an effort to bring off in safety the Presbyterian missionary group at the two former and the Seventh Day Adventists at the two latter ports.

This alarming picture confronted officials on top of Admiral Williams' call for help. An immediate conference of high naval officers took up the question of sending more marines.

The State Department was no sooner open than a conference took place in Secretary of State Kellogg's office with Secretary of the Navy Wilbur and Admiral Eberle, chief of naval operations, and Major-General Summerall, Chief of Staff of the army, attending. Announcement of the sending of the 1500 marines followed that conference.

The failure of the Cantonese Generalissimo, Chiang Kai-shek, to go to Nanking to stop outrages, raised the question in the minds of some Washington officials as to the identity of the forces that committed the outrages there. The direct report of United States Consul J. K. Davis, and of Admiral Hough makes it certain that the rioters were in Cantonese uniforms, but it may be that they were mercenaries recently allied with the Northern factions in the Chinese civil war, and who turned traitors to join the Nationalists.

Assurances of Little Value.

Wilbur made it clear that while heretofore the Washington Government has been hopeful that the Nationalist assurances of the desire to protect foreigners from violence might prove trustworthy, the Nanking incidents showed troops were either wholly out of control of the commanders or that the assurances were of little value.

In either case, the Washington authorities decided that Admiral Williams alone could determine the force he might need and the decision to send the marines by the transport Henderson, sailing from San Diego within the next ten days, was reached with little debate.

Meantime, the light cruisers, Marblehead and Richmond, will reach Shanghai from Honolulu April 3 and the slower Cincinnati 36 hours behind them. A force of 1000 marines and bluejackets could be set ashore from these ships to supplement men already landed.

The Henderson was ordered today from Southern waters to San Diego after it had been determined she could reach that port by the time the marines were assembled and equipped to go aboard. The possibility of using the army transport, Chateau Thierry, now at San Francisco, was considered for a time but abandoned as unnecessary.

Prefer to Use Naval Forces.

It seems likely that today's consideration of using troops from Manila or Honolulu was more in the nature of a survey of possibilities in the future than an immediate question. American policy has been to use naval forces in such emergencies.

Any landing of American army forces might be read as an intent to seize and hold territory or organize a punitive expedition, and in view of the delicacy of the situation in China, use of troops probably will be avoided unless there is no other way of giving Americans in China a hope of escape.

That protection is the immediate concern of President Coolidge and his advisers and the sole object of all American naval activities. No thought has yet been given in Washington even to the question of reparations for American lives taken or property destroyed.

Construction work on American gunboats at Kiangnan dock works at Shanghai, temporarily suspended when the Nationalists captured the city, will be resumed Monday, Admiral Williams reported to the Navy Department.

The American Red Cross today appropriated $10,000 for the relief of hundreds of American refugees from Hankow and elsewhere in the Yangtze Valley as a result of the rapid evacuation to Shanghai.

Trying to Carry on Business.

Chinese and foreign business interests at Shanghai are struggling with some success to stabilize their local situation, Julian Arnold, United States commercial attache, cabled the Commerce Department today. The general strike engineered among Shanghai business houses was declared to be only partly successful, although it interrupted the work of custom house staffs and the postal services.

Leading Chinese business men, Arnold added, are meeting together daily to plan co-operative action to combat communistic agitation. As evidence that ordinary business conditions are not so badly disturbed, he reported that full war risk insurance was being tendered at a 2 per cent premium, even for business houses in the Chinese area of the city, while for establishments inside the area, which foreign forces have undertaken to defend, the rate is only one-half of one per cent.

27 MISSING IN CRASH AT SEA

All Thought Drowned When Fishing Boats Collided.

By the Associated Press.

REYKJAVIK, Iceland, March 26.—Twenty-seven lives are thought to have been lost in the collision of two fishing boats today. One vessel sank after the collision, carrying with it seven of the crew. The other boat is missing and is thought to have gone down, with 20 of its crew.

What Happened at Nanking Told In Official British Statement

Cantonese Gunmen Began Attack on Foreigners and Troops Joined Them, Drawing Anglo-American Bombardment.

By Leased Wire from the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, March 26—The following connected narrative of events at Nanking was written by Ashmead Bartlett, correspondent of the London Daily Telegraph, and picked up by the New York World's wireless station as was broadcast today by the British official wireless.

Latest information from Nanking confirms reports that, as a result of threats of drastic action made by the British and American Admirals to the Cantonese commander, foreigners who were marooned have been rescued. One hundred and fifty Americans were reported still unaccounted for, but official advices state that these are all now safe except one, who was killed. Another was wounded.

By a prearranged plan, all foreigners should have concentrated in the International Export Building, outside the walls, where they would have been removed to the ships without much difficulty, but in the general confusion which followed the entry of the Cantonese, only a portion succeeded in reaching the building.

British Consul Wounded.

The remainder made for the Socony hill inside the walls of the town, the rising ground being visible to warships in the Yangtze River. The moment of departure of Northern troops saw the Cantonese gunmen, long concealed in the town, come forth to loot and attack foreigners. Bertram Giles, British Consul-General, was wounded in the first rush on the consulate, which was protected by six marines from the Emerald.

Shortly after the attack by the gunmen, the regular Cantonese army entered the city and got completely out of hand, running wild and looting all shops and the British and American consulates. At 4 o'clock Thursday afternoon the situation became very grave as observers from the warship saw a huge mob, mingled with regular Cantonese soldiers, advancing against the refugees on Socony hill.

Hasty consultation between the captains of the Emerald and of the American destroyers led to the instant decision to protect the refugees by a heavy barrage of shrapnel. This policy alone saved the lives of nearly 100 men and some women, for the shrapnel cut off the Cantonese, who had never before met shell fire.

Refugees Flee to Safety.

Taking advantage of the respite, the refugees made their way through the tortuous winding streets through a gate to where they found British and American marines just landed, who covered their retirement to the ships without a single casualty so far as is known. From this moment all communication was cut off from the British and Japanese consulates.

Various reports and rumors stated that the British consul was dead together with Capt. Shear and the military escort, and that the Japanese consul also had been murdered. These have turned out to be incorrect, but Dr. John E. Williams (of Shawnee, O.) vice president of Nanking University, has been murdered in cold blood.

On Thursday afternoon after the ships had laid down their barrage, General Pai Tsung-hsi, Nationalist commander, sent an emissary to the Emerald demanding immediate cessation of the bombardment. Senior officers of the British and American vessels replied that he must himself come and discuss the situation not later than 10 o'clock. He failed to appear.

Naval commanders were then in a difficult position for although the majority of foreigners were safe, 10 British and about 100 Americans, missionaries, remained somewhere in the city and their fate was unknown. Moreover, there was the Japanese consul whose fate was uncertain. It was impossible to land sufficient forces from the ships to storm the walled city and it was likewise impossible to bombard strategic points in the darkness.

Ultimatum to Gen. Pai.

Therefore, after Gen. Pai failed to show up at 10 o'clock, he was sent an ultimatum ordering him to wise the commanders threatened 10 o'clock Friday morning, otherwise the commanders threatened to take most drastic measures. During the whole of these proceedings the warships were freely sniped by Cantonese troops from both sides of the river, one sailor being killed on the Emerald.

In the morning no reply to the ultimatum had been received and no foreigners were handed over. Admiral Hough of the United States Navy arrived in a dispatch boat to take command of the American forces. Urgent consultations were held between him and the British senior naval officer, and the American Admiral was so impressed with the gravity of the situation that he cabled to the American commander in chief at Shanghai that he considered, if concrete action were not taken firmly and immediately, lives of the remaining American and British subjects would be lost. He recommended the shelling of military points. Such action was approved jointly by the British and American commanders in chief at Shanghai, and final warning to this effect was sent to the Cantonese commanders.

At 6 o'clock Friday evening it was announced that Consul Giles, slightly wounded, Capt. Spear and the while British consular party, including the marines, also wounded, had been handed over by the Cantonese and that drastic action had been postponed.

JUDGE SEES AUTO RUN DOWN WOMAN AND SPEED AWAY

Mrs. Ella Smith, 34 years old, of 3622 Clark avenue, was seriously injured at 7 o'clock last night when run down at Grand boulevard and Market street by a northbound automobile which did not stop. She suffered a possible fracture of the skull and severe bruises.

Among the witnesses was Police Judge Rosecan, who was passing in his automobile. He told police the machine was a Franklin touring car, either dimly lighted or not lighted at all.

BORAH COMMITTEE MAY SERVE UNDER OLD SENATE RULE

Its Investigations in Mexico, Nicaragua and Even China Thought Possible.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 26.—The Senate Foreign Relations Committee may function this summer, investigating the Mexican, Nicaraguan and perhaps Chinese situations, in spite of the failure of Senator Borah (Rep.) of Idaho, its chairman, to obtain formal consent of the last Congress to continue its activities.

A resolution adopted in 1921 as part of the Senate rules provides that the regular standing committees "shall continue and have power to act until their successors are appointed."

This resolution was adopted at the opening of the Sixty-seventh Congress, the purpose being a complete reorganization of the standing committees so that additional places could be given the Republicans who had rolled up a large Senate majority in the Harding tidal wave of 1920.

On the basis of this authority, Borah is expected to issue an early call for a meeting of the committee with a view to authorizing a subcommittee to act. With the retirement of Senators Pepper (Rep.) of Pennsylvania and Lenroot (Rep.) of Wisconsin, those favoring inquiries into the Mexican and Nicaraguan situations would control the committee.

There is doubt that the committee could obtain funds to pay traveling and other expenses, since all vouchers would have to be approved by Chairman Keyes of the Senate Audit Committee, who has declined to approve expenses of the Reed Senate Campaign Funds Committee.

There is a difference in the status of the two committees, however, the Borah committee being a standing committee and the Reed committee an especially appointed one.

Just before Congress adjourned, Borah offered a resolution proposing that his committee hold investigations into the Mexican and Nicaraguan situations and visit those countries if it deemed that course advisable. Administration Senators had the resolution so amended as to require the committee to remain within the United States, and in this form reported it favorably to the Senate. It failed in the filibuster in the closing days of the session.

INCREASE TO FREIGHT WORKERS

6 Per Cent Boost to N. Y. C. Employes by Arbitration Body.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 26.—An increase of 6 per cent over present wage schedules for all railway freight handlers and station employes of the New York Central Railroad was handed down tonight by the United States Board of Arbitration, according to an announcement by J. A. Robertson for the Brotherhood of Railway Clerks.

The decision will result in an annual increase of $2,000,000 in wages.

1156 Typhoid Cases in Montreal.

MONTREAL, March 26.—One hundred and twenty-four new cases of typhoid fever were reported in the 24-hour period ending at noon today, bringing the total number of cases up to 1156. Free clinics for inoculation against the disease have been opened.

Refugees Flock to Shanghai As Anti-Alien Hate Grows

Standard Oil Building, amid a hail of bullets, and gave the signal which brought into play the big guns of the warships.

The Japanese did not participate in the bombardment, their forces acting independently and concentrating on the work of rescuing their own nationals, but they did not hesitate to give aid to other foreigners when the opportunity arose.

Envoys Parley in Pekin.

Pekin dispatches say the American, British and Japanese Ministers there conferred today regarding the antiforeign situation, foreshadowing action to prevent a repetition of the Nanking outbreak.

The United States legation also instructed the Consul at Hankow to lodge a strong protest with Eugene Chen, the Cantonese Foreign Minister, against "the outrageous and unprovoked attack upon and the killing of American citizens by Nationalist forces."

Officials would not comment on the arrival here of Gen. Chiang or the possible significance of the move. It was obvious, nevertheless, that they were surprised and no little disturbed by his failure to go in person to Nanking and use his power to save the foreigners. Apparently he passed Nanking on his way to Shanghai without stopping.

Nationalist leaders at Nanking and Shanghai transmitted to the foreign naval commanders a request, purporting to come from China, that the threatened rebombardment at Nanking be postponed to give him a chance to reach the scene and get foreigners safely to the warships.

Admiral Williams joined in suggesting delay for this reason to Admiral Hough, and Admiral Hough replied that Chiang's coming was "problematical," and his ability and will to control the rioting soldiery even more in doubt. Hough said he would proceed with the bombardment unless ordered not to do so or the refugees were permitted to come out in safety.

Unified Command Sought.

A petition is being widely signed by British and non-British residents, as well as by French residents of the French concession, asking that defense of the concession be entrusted to Major-General Duncan, British commander-in-chief here. The defense of the concession now is under the municipality, but the petitioners want it placed under a single control.

Herrin Miners Break Record for Banks With Deposits.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

HERRIN, Ill., March 26.—Total bank deposits went considerably over the $5,000,000 mark today for the first time in the history of Herrin. Deposits were divided between the three Herrin banks, one of which has gone over the $3,000,000 mark. The enormous deposits are attributed to the impending strike in the soft-coal fields and desire of the miners to lay by enough to weather a long suspension.

APPEAL TO KEEP ORRICK AT HEAD OF POLICE BOARD

St. Louis Business Group Will Ask Four Hostile G. O. P. Senators to Move for Reconsideration.

BATES STANDS PAT, 3 OTHERS SILENT

Edward B. Pryor Advises Governor of Plan and Baker Suggests Conference on Action.

A group of St. Louis business men, who wish Allen C. Orrick to remain at the head of the Police Board, are planning an appeal to the four St. Louis Republican State Senators whose votes against confirming Orrick influenced the Senate majority to reject him. The Senators will be urged to bring about a reconsideration.

William Maffitt Bates, Senator from the Thirty-second District, said yesterday that he would stand pat against Orrick. The three others, Mogler, Depelheuer and Warner, who voted against confirming Orrick, have made no expression. The two St. Louis Democratic Senators, Kinney and Brogan, voted to confirm Orrick.

Edward B. Pryor, president of the State National Bank, whose name led a list of 20 signers to a telegram sent to Gov. Baker Friday night, heard from the Governor by telephone yesterday. The Governor, Pryor said, expressed pleasure at the direct action of the business men, and suggested that the local Senators be seen.

Plan Parley With Governor.

Pryor said that about 40 persons, besides the signers of the message, notified him yesterday morning of the approval of the move to retain Orrick. He did not keep a record of their names. In the telegram, a personal conference with the Governor was suggested, but no time has been set for such a meeting.

Reconsideration of the refusal to confirm appears to be the only chance of keeping Orrick. A recess appointment of Orrick, after adjournment of the Legislature, has been suggested, but this would be unprecedented, and lawyers doubt whether it would be legal. The intent of the Constitution, lawyers say, is that recess appointees shall serve only until the Senate has had an opportunity to pass upon them.

In Jefferson City last night a Democratic Senator expressed the opinion that if the Governor sent Orrick's name to the Senate asking confirmation, his appointment would be approved because of the expression of public opinion here.

Democrats for Orrick.

It was pointed out that all five Democrats in the Municipal Corporations Committee which recommended that Orrick's appointment be confirmed, had voted for him both in committee and on the floor.

As has been told, the unfriendly attitude of the Republican City Committee toward Orrick had some effect on the Senate's action. Another focus of opposition to Orrick was the antagonism of certain Negroes. The St. Louis Argus, Negro weekly, recently printed an editorial headed "Orrick Should Not Be Confirmed." The article charged him with being "unusually prejudiced against colored people," with having gone out of his way to express such prejudice, and with having "said that the Negroes were not fit to be on the police force, not allowing colored men to take the examinations."

The Police Department now contains 12 Negro patrolmen, 7 Negro detectives and one detective sergeant. Two Negro patrolmen were dismissed by the present Board for misconduct. Department officials say applications of Negroes for appointment to the department always get due consideration.

Harmony in Police Board.

Orrick and his Police Board colleagues have worked in harmony, with his ideas predominated. Orrick, a lawyer and a clubman, is nearly 56 years old, has a record of service in the Spanish-American War and the World War, and attained the rank of Lieutenant-Colonel. He carried the military idea into his conception of the task which he undertook two years ago.

He officially viewed his home city much as he would have viewed a community where he might have been placed in command with a detachment of troops, and with responsibility for protection of life and property. Here, no preliminary survey was needed, for he knew the town.

He set out to speed up police action and to slow down crime. At the time, the city's riddance of the Egan gang, accomplished through the Federal courts, was still fresh in the public mind, and there was a general desire to prevent the formation of any new criminal aggregation which would take its place. Some thought there would always be gangs anyway. "Not necessarily," was Orrick's view.

And police got their orders: "Don't pass up crooks. Arrest them every time they appear on public

He set out to speed up police activity and to slow down crime. At that time, the city's riddance of the Egan gang, accomplished through the Federal courts, was still fresh in the public mind, and there was a general desire to prevent the formation of any new criminal aggregation which would take its place. Some thought it was no use, that there would always be gangs anyway. "Not necessarily," was Orrick's view.

And police got their oders: "Don't pass up crooks. Arrest them every time they appear on the streets. Go after them in their hangouts. Use force when necessary. Make the town unpleasant for them."

Months of nightly hauls followed, with dragnet arrests, and with many discharges in court and releases of suspects after the 20-hour period of legal detention. There were complaints of police tyranny, and one grand jury made a report of partial censure. But the Police Board, under Orrick, stuck to its policy, and Gov. Baker stood by his appointees. In the course of a year, the police policy was not changed, but its workings came to attract much less attention. This was partly because the accustomed ceases to be news, but it was still more because police found much less material to work on.

Figures on police activity showed nearly 14,000 more arrests in the first 10 months of the Orrick board than in the corresponding 10 months of the previous year, under the former board. This included the normal increase in traffic and other arrests, but much of it represented increased activity.

Orrick's board got almost through its first year without the occurrence of a bank robbery in St. Louis. Shortly before the year was up, two outlying banks were robbed within a few days. Outbreaks of bank and payroll robbery have occurred since, and chain store and filling station robberies have been rather frequent of late, but these crimes, a number of which have been solved, have not been the work of men of the arrogant gangster type, but of scattered crooks, working together in the most temporary associations.

Gambling was included in police orders for strict law enforcement, and here Orrick's board went farther than its predecessors, and closed lotto games. Lotto, a simple game of chance, not involving the mental strain of some card games, was played for prizes in public halls, sometimes for private profit, and frequently for the benefit of church organizations or lodges. The Board sought a ruling on lotto, and the City Counselor held that it was a gambling game. Police thereupon closed lotto games.

Some persons who supported the Orrick policy toward crime did not approve of the anti-lotto rule, considering the matter too small to be worthy of the Police Department's attention.

Not Blamed for Wet City.

As to activity against the sale of liquor, the W. C. T. U. has complained within the past year that "prohibition has never been placed in effect in St. Louis." For this, however, the women blamed not the Police Department so much as the Prosecuting Attorney's office, which has refused to issue warrants in many cases where police have applied for them. The strict standards of evidence set by the Prosecuting Attorney have had a tendency to keep down the number of arrests in liquor cases, and the difficulty of obtaining convictions under the State dry law, from St. Louis juries, has had a similar effect.

Dr. Frank L. Magoon, whose advancement from vice president to president of the Board is in prospect if Orrick is not confirmed, is in sympathy with the Orrick policies.

FORD GROCERIES MAKE $1,000,000; RIVALS BOYCOTT HIM

were sold at rock bottom prices. There was trouble confining sales to Ford hands. Finally badges were given to workmen and nobody without a badge could buy.

Presently badges were lent and transferred and trafficked in. Finally Ford threw the market doors open to the public. The general scramble ensued.

The wares increased until today one can buy not only groceries and meats, but shoes and haberdashery in the Ford markets.

"Why," said a Detroit citizen today, "Ford will sell you a pair of shoes for less than any Detroit retail store can buy them from the manufacturer. That sounds funny, maybe, but it's true."

The Ford markets are hugely overgrown Piggly Wigglys.

The salesmen stand still and the public and goods move. In his factories, Ford speeded up production and cut down cost by reducing movements of workmen; the work moved, not the workmen.

System Is Thorough.

The Ford markets are thoroughly merchandised. A minimum number of salesmen stand still, around them machines whirr and cut up pork chops or parcel out portions. Commodities pop through chutes and upon conveyor belts. The public pays cash and carries away the wrapped and corded parcels, and it is in this immense system that the retailer reads his extinction.

"Ford's excuse," they complain, "is that we were profiteering and getting rich. Well, let anyone look and see how much money the independent grocer or butcher has; then look at Henry Ford."

Detroiters Silent.

This is the way the matter stands now, with prospects that the Ford boycott may flare into an open flame any day. The fact that the merchants' organizations will not talk for publication indicates the general caution towards Ford. The same caution operates in Michigan newspaper offices. There are no editorial criticisms. This is explained by saying: "Well, there are 100,000 workmen drawing at least $6 a day; that's $600,000 a day in wages coming into the public currency. And almost everybody you meet either is, has been, or is going to work for Henry Ford, or is related to somebody in the same circumstances."

Thus a criticism has cutting edges on every side, it is explained, and when a man has $360,000,000 lying around in Detroit banks just as a "cash balance," it is as easy for him to draw out a couple of millions to start an opposition newspaper or a commodity wholesaling system as to turn over his hand.

In fact, to think of the things that cannot be done by a man with two billions is more difficult than to think of those that can.

Ford Expected to Take Stand in Libel Suit This Week.

By the Associated Press.

DETROIT, Mich., March 26.—Henry Ford is expected to be called to the witness stand next week in the trial of the $1,000,000 libel suit brought against him by Aaron Sapiro, organizer of farmers' co-operative associations. Sapiro charges that articles in the Ford-owned weekly publication, the Dearborn Independent, damaged him.

Fred L. Black, business manager of the Independent; many depositions and Sapiro's testimony will precede the calling of Ford, who may not testify before Wednesday, if so soon.

EFFORT OF SLAYER OF SNYDER TO END LIFE IS DISCLOSED

Gray Tried to Drink Poisoned Whisky on Train After Arrest, Declaring It Medicine, Prosecutor Says

By the Associated Press

NEW YORK, March 26.—Insurance totaling $104,000, payable to Mrs. Ruth Snyder, might have been hers, it was disclosed today, if the murder of her husband, Albert Snyder, last Sunday, had been interpreted officially by the authorities as a killing by burglars. That fact was made known simultaneously with the disclosure that Henry Judd Gray had attempted to kill himself while being brought here from Syracuse.

District Attorney Newcombe said the $52,000 insurance carried by the art editor, who was clubbed to death and chloroformed in his bed, included a double indemnity provision in case of accidental death, murder by burglar coming under that category.

The desire to obtain the insurance money is said by the police partly to have inspired the killing by Mrs. Snyder and her admirer, Gray. Both are awaiting trial for murder.

Attempted Suicide on Train.

The police today reported that while on the way to New York to be questioned Gray attempted to take a drink from a bottle he said was medicine and which detectives had taken from his suitcase in a Syracuse hotel. He was not permitted to take the drink. The contents of the bottle, on analysis, was found to be whisky in which a deadly poison had been mixed. One drink of it would have killed a man, a toxicologist disclosed yesterday.

Today was Mrs. Snyder's thirty-second birthday, and she spent it in a tearful mood, weeping frequently. Her attempts to see her daughter, Lorraine, failed again today. She has not seen the child since the murder.

But for the murder she would tonight have been in the midst of the gaiety she has said she loved. A birthday party was to have been held at her Queens Village home. The guests, according to Mrs. Snyder's attorney, were to have been the same 16 who were at the bridge-whist party last Saturday night, after which Snyder was killed in his bed.

Separate Trials Demanded.

Gray, who entered a nervous collapse in his cell yesterday, was improved today.

Attorneys for both the principals, jointly accused and jointly indicted for the murder, today declared their intention to fight for separate trials.

The District Attorney, declaring the crime had been committed jointly, said he would oppose separate trials, insanity pleas or any change of venue.

FOUND WOUNDED IN STREET

James Dodd, 61 years old, a laborer, of 1016 Dillon street, was found on a sidewalk at Twenty-first street and Chouteau avenue, with a bullet wound in his right thigh, at 7:30 o'clock last night. He was removed to City Hospital. He said he was talking with a Negro woman in the neighborhood, when a Negro with a revolver approached and while the two Negroes were scuffling for the weapon, it was accidentally discharged, wounding him.

GOOD-WILL FLYERS TO MEET FOR THEIR JOURNEY HOME

Aviators Leave French Guiana to Join Other Crews Coming From Panama.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 26.—The French cable was advised today that the United States army good will fliers left Cayenne, French Guiana, at 8 o'clock this morning in continuation of their homeward journey.

The next scheduled stop on the flight is Paramaribo, Dutch Guiana.

By the Associated Press.

PANAMA, March 26. — Lieuts. Leonard D. Weddington and Ennis C. Whitehead of the United States army good-will flight took off from France Field this morning for Maracay, Venezuela. They are en route to join the other good-will flyers who left Cayenne today for Paramaribo, Dutch Guinea.

The recent good-will planes at Buenos Aires, in which two flyers perished left the good-will flight with only three planes and four surviving crews. Accordingly, Lieuts. Weddington and Whitehead crossed South America to Chile, where they embarked for Panama, to obtain a new plane and rejoin the other flyers, who are following schedules to fly up the east coast of South America.

By the Associated Press.

GEORGETOWN, British Guiana, March 26.—Commander Francisco de Pinedo left the mainland of South America today, continuing his four-continent flight in the direction of the United States. He took off at 6:40 a. m. for the Island of Guadalupe, French West Indies, arriving at Point-a-Pitre this afternoon. This island is southeast of Porto Rico and about 400 mile sfrom the South American mainland.

GOVERNMENT PHYSICIANS TO EXAMINE NAT GOLDSTEIN

Congressman Dyer Makes Plea in Washington for Pardon or Commutation for St. Louisan.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, March 26.—Attorney-General Sargent today ordered that an examination of Nat Goldstein be made by Government physicians, with a view of determining whether the St. Louis politician is too ill to be sent to the Leavenworth Federal penitentiary to serve his two-year sentence for participation in the Jack Daniel whisky conspiracy.

Goldstein's appeal for clemency was rejected Thursday by Judge Robert C. Baltzell, who presided at the original trial of the conspiracy case at Indianapolis.

Carrying the appeal to Washington, Congressman L. C. Dyer of St. Louis today asked Sargent to grant clemency on the double ground of Goldstein's ill health and the meagerness of the evidence against him. He asked for pardon or commutation of sentence.

Dyer telegraphed the Marshal at Indianapolis, asking him to withhold serving the warrant in the Goldstein case until the examination ordered by Sargent could be completed. The Marshal had in-

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 26.—Authority to purchase the Sewell Valley and the Loop & Lookout Railroads, two short lines in West Virginia, was given the Chesapeake & Ohio Railroad by the Interstate Commerce Commission. The Chesapeake will pay $1,000,000 for them. The Chesapeake also sought permisison to purchase the Green Briar & Eastern Railroad in the same general vicinity, but today's decision postponed action.

MALTZAN AND WIFE GUESTS OF 150 AT TEA

German Ambassador Says "Speed, Pep and Service" in St. Louis Impressed Him.

A tea in honor of Baron Ago von Maltzan, German Ambassador to the United States, and the Baroness von Maltzan, who have been in St. Louis since Thursday, was given yesterday in the ballroom of Hotel Chase. About 150 men and women attended, including the St. Louis Consuls of six European countries and leaders in the German organizations of the city.

In the receiving line were the Baron and Baroness, Dr. George Ahrens, the German Consul here; Mrs. Ahrens, an dthe Ambassador's secretary, Dr. Edward Von Selzam. The Ambassador wore a simple black business suit, and a black-and-white check tie. The Baroness was stylishly dressed in a black crepe dress, with metallic trimming at the waist and a touch of green at the collar to harmonize with green earrings. She wore a small close-fitting black satin hat.

The gathering was exceedingly informal. The Baron and Baroness chatted with their visitors in English and German. The Ambassador remarked that he was impressed most in St. Louis by its "speed, pep and service." The Baroness said she had been having a wonderful time.

This morning they will attend services at St. Peter's Evangelical Church, Warne and St. Louis avenues, and tonight they will attend the Beethoven Memorial Concert of the Liederkranz Club at the American Theater. Tomorrow they will start back to Washington.

Among those present at the tea were Marc Seguin, the French consul; Godfrey E. P. Hertslet, the British consul; Gaston du Bois, the Swiss consul; Hector M. E. Pasmezoglu, the Greek consul; Arrigo Gasperini, the Italian consul; John G. Borrensen, the Norwegian consul; former Congressman Richard Barthold, Circuit Judge Hartmann, Mr. and Mrs. William F. Woerner, Charles Rebstock, former Circuit Judge Grimm, Associate City Counselor Dolan, George S. Johns, Casper S. Yost, August J. Fertig, Dr. and Mrs. A. H. Doellefeld, Hugo Anschuetz, F. ENGINEERS' QUEEN

MISS HELEN DIEHM.

MISS HELEN DIEHM CROWNED QUEEN OF THE ENGINEERS

Ceremony is Climax of Annual Masquerade Ball of Washington U. Students.

Miss Helen Diehm, freshman in the School of Commerce and Finance of Washington University, was crowned queen of the engineering students at the engineers' annual masquerade ball at Francis gymnasium last night. The retiring queen is Miss Nellie Houghton.

Miss Diehm, who resides at 79 Aberdeen place, was chosen by ballot from among five girls several days ago, but the identity of the successful candidate was kept secret until masks were removed at 11 p. m. and the new queen was crowned by St. Patrick, patron of engineers. She was attended by the four other candidates as maids. Miss Virginia Murphey, Miss Frances Butts, Miss Vera Louise Hawley and Miss Claire Piquet. The gymnasium was decorated as a Moorish garden.

The masquerade and coronation brought to a close two days of celebration by the engineering students in honor of St. Patrick.

Twenty seven engineering seniors were made knights of St. Patrick.

MOTHER OF 6 DROWNS HERSELF IN THE RIVER

Passersby See Mrs. Rose Pentino Wade In—Body Found After an Hour.

Mrs. Rose Pentino, 46 years old, of 5478 Beacon avenue, mother of six children, waded into the Mississippi River at the foot of Morgan street and was drowned yesterday.

Passersby gathered there at 10 a. m., told Patrolman Doerr they had seen a woman disappear in the water. There were footprints leading into the river and none returning.

The policeman waited for an hour and saw the body float to the surface a short distance south of Morgan street. He and a fisherman set out in a rowboat and recovered it. Attempts at artificial respiration failing, the body was removed to the morgue. Papers in the clothing led to identification by Mrs. Pentino's husband, Anthony, who has a grocery at the Beacon avenue address. He said his wife had been ill for two years.

Mrs. Pentino had left home about 9 a. m., after making arrangements to visit her sister-in-law, Mrs. Marie Pentino, 1117 North Sixteenth street. She never arrived there.

Her six children are: Mary, 22; Nellie, 19; Louise, 17; Annie, 7; Sam, 5, and Joseph, 4.

RAIDERS FIND LIQUOR IN 5 ST. CHARLES BARS

Federal Agents From St. Louis Swoop Down on Seven Saloons in Town.

Federal prohibition agents, led by James Dillon, yesterday afternoon visited St. Charles, where in recent weeks there has been much criticism of the wide-open character of liquor law violations. In five of seven places raided the Federal agents found violations.

The raids were made almost simultaneously, the agents visiting all of the saloons in the radius of a few blocks, leaving a man in each place and proceeding to the next on the run. Even then the news spread rapidly and as Dillon and his men dashed into the place of Ed Jones, a Negro, at 411 North Main street, they bumped into the proprietor leaving the place and with a gripful of whisky in each hand. Jones was arrested and a search of his place yielded two more gallons.

Seven gallons of whisky, two gallons of wine and some home brew beer was found back of the bar in the place of John Stell at 130 South Main street. A search of the saloon operated by Ben Achelpohl at 437 North Main street yielded seven pints of whisky. Fred Achelpohl, brother of the proprietor, who was behind the bar, was arrested.

A quart of whisky was taken from the safe in the place of Moses O'Bannon, a Negro, from where an agent who visited the place earlier in the week had seen him take it to serve drinks. O'Bannon was arrested.

The agents found three pints of whisky and 26 pints of home brew in the saloon of Joseph Davis, a Negro. They visited the saloons of Rudy Meyers, at the bridge, and of Alex Kluth, 204 North Main street, but found nothing.

All of the prisoners were brought to St. Louis and locked up at the Page Boulevard Police Station, where it is likely they will remain until they can be arraigned for bonds Monday morning before Commissioner Atkins.

HOW E. G. LEWIS KEPT THE MONEY JUST ROLLING IN

Dizzy Finance Disclosed by Postal Fraud Order Against Atascadero Promoter.

POOR OLD WOMEN CREDITOR-INVESTORS

One Oklahoman in Prison for Embezzling $75,000 to Put Into Ex-St. Louisan's Schemes.

Post-Dispatch Bureau,
20-23 Wyatt Building.

WASHINGTON, March 26.—How E. G. Lewis, whose operations in St. Louis were stopped by the postal authorities in 1905, continued to collect money by mail from persons who still believed in him is recounted in the 161-page recommendation Horace J. Donnelly, Postoffice Department solicitor, submitted to Postmaster-General New to obtain the fraud order issued against Lewis and his Atascadero Defense and Reconstruction Fund of Atascadero and Los Angeles, Cal.

One of Lewis' "creditor-investors" was S. F. Haynie, former Treasurer of Carter County, Oklahoma, who advanced $75,000 for a half interest in four oil wells Lewis promised to drill on the California property.

"The money sent to Lewis by Haynie was obtained from the county tax fund," Donnelly wrote, "and Haynie has since been convicted of embezzlement and is now serving a sentence of 31 years and $290,000 fine in the Oklahoma State penitentiary."

Similar Action in 1905.

In 1905 an order similar to Thursday's was issued against Lewis and the People's United States Bank, but Lewis obtained release a year later for himself. He also tried to obtain a release from the order against his bank but the Federal District Court and the Federal Circuit Court refused to lift the postal ban on the bank.

According to Donnelly's recommendation Lewis has been promoting enterprises through the mails for the last 25 or 30 years. He is now 58 years old.

After his enterprises in St. Louis went into bankruptcy, Lewis settled in California. In 1912 he began the development of the town of Atascadero, midway between Los Angeles and San Francisco. By 1924 he had progressed far enough to contemplate a merger of all his properties built up with money obtained from investors throughout the United States. The new organization had a capitalization of $15,000,000 and included the Atascadero Estates, Inc., Atascadero Land & Improvement Co., Atascadero Mercantile Co., Atascadero Mill & Lumber Co., Atascadero Press, Atascadero Copper Co., Caladero Products Co., Lewis Foundation Corp., National Graphite Co., Permanent Residence Apartment Corp., Women's National Publishing Co. and interests in other corporations and projects including several oil and mining ventures.

This merger contemplated the securing of additional remittances from former investors Donnelly stated, but apparently all was not going well.

Held Bankrupt in 1925.

In January, 1925, Lewis was adjudged an involuntary bankrupt by the Federal Court in California. Thereupon he evolved the "defense and reconstruction fund." The conduct of this fund was the basis of the fraud order against Lewis yesterday.

Through his two publications the Atascadero News and the Lewis Journal the former St. Louis promoter told his former investors and creditors if they would send in the real estate receipts plus 20 per cent of the face value in cash, he would apply the money to the rehabilitation of his fortune.

He promised large returns for the money sent in.

During the formal hearings on the fraud order Lewis said he had received about $800,000 for this fund of which $700,000 was in cash.

Persons remitting to the fund gave Lewis carte blanche. The money was to be sent to the San Luis Obispo branch of the Pacific-Southwest Trust & Savings Bank, and according to the form order Lewis furnished his investors, the money was to be deposited to Lewis' account. Nothing was said about an audit. In his newspapers Lewis promised that the money would be spent in buying mortgages on his bankrupt properties and that the investors had just as good security as the banks which held the mortgages.

Charges Diversion of Funds.

Solicitor Donnelly declared, however, that the money was not used as promised.

"The evidence before me shows and I also find that remittances obtained by Lewis for his fund were not used nor were they intended to be used, to buy in the underlying mortgages of the several properties of the Lewis bankrupt estate and that persons contributing to the fund do not have the same security as the banks holding the mortgages on these properties nor any security except Lewis' promises," Donnelly wrote to the Postmaster-General. "I find that pretenses, representations and promises to the contrary are knowingly false and fraudulently made."

Besides the case of the Oklahoma county treasurer who used embezzled funds to invest in the Lewis enterprises, Donnelly cited two heart-rending letters which revealed the class of people to which Lewis appealed.

After pointing out that it had been a shrewd move on the part of Lewis to have the bank accept remittances, Donnelly quoted the following letter, written by an old woman, who knew Mr. and Mrs. Lewis and had been an investor since 1904 or 1906:

Two Specimen Investors.

"I am glad that your bank also believes them true and honest. This check I expect will be the last I can ever help them—for I am laboring under quite heavy debt, trying to pay up principal and interest on monies hired to invest with them at previous times, and it is slow work for a woman of 63."

The second letter said in part:

"I am a woman 63 years old—had a big dream of coming to California to reside and loaned Mr. Lewis $200; also contributed several smaller sums to various things. I do not think he was a thief, but got into too many things to make a success of them.

"I still believe in him and am sending $3 toward his reconstruction fund—as I think if a bank will back him they must have faith in him."

This woman gave as her excuse for not remitting earlier that she had "had this money saved twice and had to give it to the doctor."

Donnelly's recommendation contained 25 specific charges against Lewis and his company. The hearings on the fraud order consumed five days. The transcript of the testimony covered 392 typewritten pages.

Liberal quotations from Lewis' newspapers made up a great part of Donnelly's recommendation. After quoting the promises Lewis made to his creditor-investors, Donnelly cited what the postal inspectors reported to be the facts.

Lewis was nothing if not an optimist when he informed his creditor-investors about the deals he had made to build up a fortune with which to pay his debts. In writing May 6, 1925, about the arrangement he had made with Haynie, the Oklahoma County Treasurer, he described in detail how he expected to make large profits from oil wells on his property.

"With these next four wells completed, and they should be completed within six or eight weeks from their start, I plan to drill additional wells, five at a time, until a total of approximately 50 wells have been drilled," he wrote. "If they average but 100 barrels per day, this would give [illegible] tion of 5000 barrels per [illegible] this property, or about [illegible] per annum income from it. I [illegible] confident that I shall [illegible] very large flowing wells [illegible]

Receivers Run Portland Paper.

By the Associated Press.

PORTLAND, Ore., March 26.—Receivers were in charge of the Portland Telegram today, having been appointed by Circuit Judge [illegible] after a hearing on a petition filed by the Lumbermen's Trust Co. and the Bank of California as creditors. W. F Briggs, secretary of the trust company, and MacDonald Potts, business manager of the paper, were named receivers. It was announced they would continue publication. The application for receivership followed filing of a suit for $2000 for rent.

REED COMMITTEE JOB OFFERED SHORTRIDGE

Californian Hesitates to Take Goff's Place Because He Doubts Authority.

By the Associated Press.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 26.—Senator Shortridge (Rep.) of California today confirmed reports from Washington that he had been named to succeed Senator Guy D. Goff, (Rep.) of West Virginia whose resignation from the Reed campaign fund investigating committee was reported yesterday. Shortridge said he had not accepted the appointment and had not made up his mind whether to do so because he was "in extreme doubt as to the legal existence of the Reed committee after the adjournment of the sixty-ninth Congress."

No action can be taken on Goff's resignation nor the Shortridge appointment until Vice President Dawes returns to Chicago April 8. Dawes, who has the appointive power, has not yet received Goff's letter of resignation.

Authority of Reed Committee Put Up to Dawes by Goff.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 26.—On his return to the United States next month, Vice President Dawes will be called on to indicate his own view as to whether the Reed Campaign Fund Investigating Committee of the Senate has authority to function during the recess of Congress, in view of the failure in the filibuster of a resolution to continue its life.

The question has been put squarely up to the Vice President by the resignation of Senator Goff (Rep.) of West Virginia, who soon is to depart with Mrs. Goff for an extended tour of Cuba, Panama, Hawaii and the Far East.

In his letter of resignation, received today at the Vice President's office, Goff asks Dawes to appoint his successor so that the committee might have a full membership in carrying on its investigations of senatorial elections last year.

Goff, as well as other members of the committee, are of the opinion that the body has authority to function and he and Senator Reed of Missouri, the chairman and Senator McNary (Rep.) of Oregon met last Saturday and directed a deputy sergeant-at-arms to proceed to Pennsylvania to seize ballots in four counties wanted in the Vare-Wilson senatorial contest.

FURNITURE MEN TO BE RE-TRIED

WASHINGTON, March 16.—Manufacturers belonging to the National Alliance of Furniture Manufacturers again will be placed on trial in the United States Court at Chicago, charged with violating the anti-trust laws, the department of Justice announced today. A jury at the first trial disagreed March 21 and the determination to re-try the defendants was announced after the Attorney-General had studied the report of the Government's trial lawyer.

"The substantial character of the evidence submitted in support of the indictment" the department's announcement said, "appears to demand that these most important cases be prosecuted to a definite conclusion at the earliest possible date." There were 190 manufacturers associated with the national alliance who were estimated to produce about 75 per cent of the country's output of bedroom and dining room furniture. Some pleaded guilty and paid fines. The others stood trial.

of this property and that 300 barrels per day average for the wells would not be too optimistic an expectation.

"To drill the 50 wells will require an expenditure of approximately $1,500,000 to $1,000,000 but they should produce for the next 30 years or more. With the completion of No. 14 and No. 15 and the four additional wells now financed, my share of the production should provide ample resources to me to drill all the remaining wells without further help."

Donnelly pointed out, however, that drilling on well No. 14 was stopped in June the same year, and abandoned on No. 15 in August.

Donnelly vs. Lewis.

In summing up the case against Lewis, Solicitor Donnelly said: "In addition to the many straight-out misrepresentations of fact, a careful study of Lewis' literature, in the light of facts adduced at the hearing, discloses that Lewis is a master at dealing also in half-truths, which prove effective for his purpose of misleading and deceiving prospective investors. "At the time of the filing of the petition in bankruptcy Dec. 15, 1924, Lewis was in the midst of his proposed merger. He states that the day following the institution of bankruptcy proceedings he received unsolicited $1000 from a former investor.'

In reply, Lewis said: "I do not believe that any man could sit down and write 300 or 400 newspaper pages of copy extending over two years the way I have and so keep everything in mind that he would not make some slips somewhere along the line if it was all checked up on him. I do not believe that would be human. But they certainly were not intentional, and there was no intention at any time to defraud anybody."

LEGION COMMANDER ST. LOUIS VISITOR

H. P. Savage to Be Entertained at Dinner at Claridge Hotel.

American Legion members of St. Louis and East St. Louis will greet Howard P. Savage, national commander of the legion, who will arrive here at 10 a. m. today for an unofficial visit.

He is to speak at a meeting at the East St. Louis High School auditorium at 2:30 p. m. A parade will precede the meeting. A St. Louis Reception Committee headed by State Commander Harry Castlen will escort Savage to the clubhouse of the Jackson Johnson Post, 4160 Lindell boulevard, where from 6:30 until 7:15 there will be a reception. The party will then proceed to the Claridge Hotel for dinner as guests of the Jerome Goldman Post. Savage, Castlen and Ferre C. Watkins, department commander of Illinois, will speak.

Initiation exercises for 50 new members of the post and a dance will conclude the evening's program. Mayor Miller is scheduled to make the St. Louis address of welcome to Savage.

TWO OBSTACLES, TO COMPROMISING DELMAR DISPUTE

Property Owners in the District and Railway Trainmen Yet to Be Heard From on Plan.

CITY AND WABASH READY TO AGREE

Scheme for Viaduct of 20-Feet Clearance Halted by Citizens Year Ago Basis of Settlement.

Representatives of the city government and the Wabash Railroad wish to remove at once the "eyesore" and "Chinese wall" of the Delmar grade crossing, they said at a conference in the City Counselor's office yesterday. They declared themselves ready to agree to the same compromise plan which was agreed upon last year, but which they were unable to place in effect then.

Two obstacles remain. The first is the attitude of a group of property owners in the Delmar and Parkview districts, to the south and east of Delmar crossing. They fear that the compromise plan, in its variance from the city's original plan, would injure their section by increasing the height of the viaducts to be built later at the other crossings, or even by permitting elevation of tracks at those crossings. The Wabash, in the compromise plan, pledges itself not to attempt track elevation.

Trainmen the Other Obstacle.

The second obstacle is the opposition of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen to both the city's original plan, for a Delmar viaduct with 18 feet clearance over the rails, and the compromise plan for a 20-foot clearance. The trainmen demand a 22-foot clearance, as prescribed by a State law passed two years ago, and as specified in the railroad's original plan for Delmar crossings.

Neither obstacle was removed in yesterday's conference. Marion C. Early was present as attorney for the property owners, whose intervention frustrated the attempted compromise of last year. He said he could not commit his clients to accept the new plan until he was assured that irreparable damage would not result. He urged that a plan for all the grade crossing eliminations, as far south and east as De Baliviere avenue, be taken up with the Delmar case. Mayor Miller protested, saying that Delmar presented an emergency, and that it might take 15 years to finish the whole collection of crossings.

The trainmen were not represented in the conference, and no definite plan was made for a discussion with them. David W. Peters, Jefferson City attorney, is their legal representative.

Various Plans for Crossing.

The various plans for Delmar crossing, differing in terms of clearance, and described by President Kinsey of the Board of Public Service and others in the conference and previously, are:

City's original plan, 18-foot clearance. Most economical in construction. With grade of not more than 2½ per cent, structure on the east would extend to a point some distance west of the Pershing Theater. Would make it impossible, as a matter of grade, for the Wabash to elevate its tracks south of Delmar.

Railroad's original plan, 22-foot clearance. Structure would extend nearly to Hamilton avenue on east, and correspondingly farther on west, greatly increasing consequential damages. would make it possible for Wabash to elevate tracks south of Delmar, by raising them as much as four feet at Delmar (thus reducing actual clearance to 18 feet.)

Compromise plan, 20-foot clearance. Structure would extend to Pershing Theater or beyond, with larger consequential damages than 18-foot plan, though less than 22-foot plan. Would make it possible (Kinsey holds) to raise tracks two feet at Delmar and elevate them to south, but Wabash pledges itself not to seek such elevation.

Persons at Conference.

Those attending the conference were the Mayor, Kinsey, Early, City Counselor Muench, Nat S. Brown, vice president and general solicitor of the Wabash; George F. Haid, counsel for property owners west of Delmar crossing, favoring the compromise plan; Engineer L. R. Bowen of Kinsey's office; and Associate City Counselor Senti. Reporters were admitted.

The case is now before the State Supreme Court, and arguments are to be heard April 12 on the question whether the 22-foot clearance statute of 1925 applies to the Delmar crossing, elimination of which was ordered by the Public Service Commission in 1924. If it were decided that the statute does not apply, the trainmen's objection would be removed as to Delmar, though not as to the other crossings. The statute provides that the commission may authorize a lesser clearance where it finds 22 feet impracticable.

Most of the discussion was between the Mayor, reinforced by the City Counselor, and Early. There was no argument betwen the city's representatives and Brown, who repeated his assurance that the Wabash would enter into the compromise plan as to Delmar, and would not elevate its tracks south of Delmar in future.

This implied, Brown said, that the road would depress its tracks, as otherwise the grade crossings south of Delmar would never be removed. He was not ready to say that the city's present depression plan would be accepted by the Wabash—he thought it would not be.

The Mayor and City Counselor tried to get Early to agree, in behalf of his clients, to concur in the compromise plan, but Early insisted that he would not commit himself until assured that the city's interests would not suffer. Muench replied that the city's interests were being represented by the Mayor and himself, and Early replied that the Law Department had not made what he deemed the proper effort, in the past, to expedite the case in the courts. He said the problem was one of engineering, not of law.

Kinsey disputed this assertion, and said it was a law problem. He said the city's engineers would carry out, in the best manner possible, the decision reached by other city officials. He said that, as compared with the original 18-foot plan, the 20-foot compromise plan is not economical, and is not good engineering, but that it is possible to carry it out, and he thought it better to do so than to wait indefinitely under present conditions.

Brown explained that the 20-foot plan would be better for the railroad than 18 feet, as giving a better grade line for the start of depression, and as affording more opportunities for switching work.

Early agreed to go over the plans with city engineers as soon as possible. "We've made progress," the Mayor said. No time for another meeting was set.

Some of Early's clients, intervenors in last year's proceedings, and still parties of record in the case whose consent is required for a compromise, are R. A. and G. B. Bullock, Jerome Giuseffi and C. H. Rodehaver, property owners in the Delmar crossing district; Mrs. Ellen Baker May and Frank H. Gerhart, owners in the De Baliviere crossing district; and the Gatesworth Hotel on Union boulevard.

Business Men to Go to Aid of Rapid Transit Bill

ers, in an election, have approved this method.

If St. Louis were to build subways costing $100,000,000, car riders would be called upon to provide by fares $5,000,000 interest each year under the general bond plan. Under the Detroit plan fares to make up only $1,500,000 interest each year would be required. Property would contribute 70 per cent of the cost, the $70,000,000 would be invested and forgotten—no interest paid.

It was to enable the city of St. Louis to adopt the Detroit or assessment plan that the enabling act so emasculated by the Senate Committee was introduced to the Legislature. The other chief provision empowers the Board of Aldermen to create a rapid transit commission and provide it with money to draft a rapid transit plan for submission to voters.

The measure had clear sailing in the House. It was advanced upon the calendar and passed without a dissenting vote. No opposition in Senate committee appeared until about a week ago. It came from two sources—scattering St. Louis property-owners and from Kansas City, St. Joseph and Springfield—which were placed within its provisions.

Tracing the Opposition.

Consulting Engineer Smith sought to trave down the St. Louis opposition to the end that a meeting among representatives of downtown business was held at the Mayfair Hotel last Tuesday. Some property owners were alarmed by the provision that the cost of rapid transit lines could be assessed, "wholly or in part," against benefited property. The phrase was unfortunate. It said to some property owners that they would be compelled to pay the whole cost of any rapid transit system. Mayor Miller hastened to assure those at the meeting that there was no such intention. He pledged that no effort would be made to assess more than 75 per cent against property.

Engineer Smith told the meeting that because of the short time remaining before adjournment, it would be necessary to take the measure without change. Any attempt to amend it at that late hour would result only in killing it, he said. A two-year delay would ensue. The business men chose to accept the Mayor's promise that no effort would be made to assess total cost against property and voted unanimously their support of the bill.

Smith Agrees to Changes.

Engineer Smith returned to Jefferson City. There he found that, in his absence, amendments were being demanded from Kansas City, St. Joseph and Springfield. Those cities, foreseeing no need for rapid transit for many years, were asking to be taken from under its provisions.

Smith hastened to agree. A committee member professed to see that the bill gave authority to the St. Louis Board of Aldermen to assess property for subways, without referendum to the people. City Counselor Muench assured the committee that the board would have no such power—that no rapid transit plan could be adopted in St. Louis until it had been referred to a vote of citizens, but the demand persisted. Very well, Smith said, amend the bill to require a majority vote of the people or even a four-sevenths vote, that being the requirement of the law regulating the issuance of bonds for acquisition of public utilities by any city.

Then he recalled that, having consented to amendment, the fears of property owners in St. Louis could be allayed and he drew another amendment specifying that no more than 75 per cent of the cost of subways could be assessed against property; the car riders to pay 25 per cent.

This appeared to be satisfactory to the committee and Smith felt that every objection had been met. The committee met in executive session for final action Friday noon. On Friday night Senator Michael Kinney of St. Louis, chairman of the committee, reported the bill favorably to the Senate.

Drastic Alterations.

Smith was amazed when he got a copy of the bill to see that his amendments had been cast aside and there had been substituted others which, as will be shown, make it doubtful if St. Louis ever could acquire subways under them.

Smith's suggestion that a majority of four-sevenths vote be required to approve any subway plan had been raised to two-thirds. Further, there had been inserted a provision that the consent of 51 per cent of the property owners along any subway route must be obtained—a double-barreled requirement exceedingly difficult to fulfill.

The more disastrous blow, however, was the change in the percentage of cost which might be assessed against property. This had been reduced from 75 to 40 per cent, destroying virtually all of the advantages of the assessment plan. The chief burden of subways would fall upon car riders. Benefited property would carry the smaller load, whereas transportation experts now agree that property, not the rider, should pay the major share. Subways constructed under this amendment would probably require too high a riding fare ever to meet popular approval. The power of the Board of Aldermen to create a Rapid Transit Commission has not been impaired.

What Members Say.

No one of the committee can be found to assume responsibility. Senator Casey of Kansas City said to a Post-Dispatch correspondent in Jefferson City that he had sponsored the amendment requiring a two-thirds vote, but denied the one reducing the assessment limit.

Senator Lon S. Haymes of Springfield said he left the meeting before the assessment amendment was adopted and did not know who proposed it. Senator Willard left early and did not remember. Senators McCawley and Hollingsworth were absent from the meeting. The chairman, Senator Kinney of St. Louis, could not remember who cut the assessment percentage. Senator Depelheuer of St. Louis could not be reached.

Senator Casey predicted last night that the bill would meet further opposition on the floor of the Senate.

"The public service corporations will be against it," he said. "Their opposition will not appear on the surface, but it will be there just the same. You can see the scenery."

However, the ctiy administration is going to Jefferson City Wednesday to say that, as the bill affects St. Louis alone, the Legislature should be willing to let St. Louis fight out at home all other problems of rapid transit.

The committee received only 12 protests of record from St. Louis. Most were written in the belief that the Board of Aldermen could decide to build a subway, assess property as it pleased and there would be no recourse. As has been told, Counselor Muench is certain that the board under the enabling act would have no such authority and that no subway plan could be made effective without approval of voters at the polls.

Objectors in St. Louis.

The substance of the objections raised from St. Louis follows:

Breckenridge Jones, chairman of the board of the Mississippi Valley Trust Co., whose clients are large holders of United Railways securities, urged defeat of the bill on the ground that unlimited taxing power was placed in the hands of the city.

Aaron Waldheim, president of May Stern Co.: Business already is overtaxed and the city doesn't need subways.

Delmar Investment Co., of which C. A. Tilles, having approximately a $2,000,000 investment in United Railways securities is an officer: "As very large taxpayers, we object to the bill."

International Harvest Hat Co., I. Appel, president: Bill should not pass in present form. Opponents should have a chance to be heard.

J. Sheppard Smith, member of the Reorganization Committee of the United Railways, and president of the Mississippi Valley Trust Co.: Represents owners of real estate and desired to be heard in opposition.

Sam A. Mitchell, attorney for the Mercantile Trust Co.: Asked public hearing for opponents of bill.

Henry Nicolaus, investment broker: "All that will be required to build subways by means of assessments under the bill, will be action of Board of Aldermen. No popular approval will be required. Rents downtown would become so high that tenants would move."

M. E. Singleton, president of the Missouri State Life Insurance Co.: The whole cost of subways would fall on downtown real estate. This would be inequitable.

Former United States Senator Wilfley, representing downtown real estate interests, suggested postponement until 1929. Favored subways, but thought plan should be given more thought. Referred to difficulty of United Railways in getting a new franchise for its reorganization.

CHICAGO JURIES FREE WOMEN HELD FOR KILLING HUSBANDS

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, March 26.—A woman need not be young or beautiful to win acquittal on a murder charge in Chicago, two juries have decided on successive days. Acquittals came quickly for two middle-aged mothers charged with slaying their husbands.

In the case of Mrs. Bertha Heilman, 48 years old, who strangled her husband to death with his own shirt during a quarrel, there was an apparent indifference to personal comeliness. She is a large woman and muscular. A jury required less than 30 minutes to exonerate her.

Mrs. Alma Olson, 46, was garbed plainly, and her features showed the strain of years of suffering. Testifying, she used these words:

"I was sick and tired of it all, I followed him into the bathroom and shot him five times."

The jury, after short deliberation, returned a verdict of not guilty, holding that Mrs. Olson was insane at the time of the crime but had since recovered.

St. Louis Man Dies in Germany.

August Koechling, 70 years old, a widower, of 1440 Hampton avenue, who went to Germany several months ago to visit relatives, died yesterday at Nieder Mas Behr, Germany. He was a native of Germany. He is survived by a son, Henry C. Koechling, and two daughters, Mrs. Alice Sprock and Miss Louisa Koechling. Funeral services will be held from an undertaking establishment at 4104 Manchester avenue when the body arrives.

Strike Vote on Canadian Pacific.

By the Associated Press.

MONTREAL, March 26.—Strike ballots were being distributed today among 5000 to 6000 union freight handlers and clerks of the Canadian Pacific Railway as a result of the breaking off of wage negotiations. The Canadian Pacific Railway telegraphers will seek a 15 per cent wage increase in negotiations Monday.

ROBBERS GET $1455 IN SALOON HOLDUP

Two Armed Young Men Get Funds East St. Louisan Had to Cash Checks.

Two armed young men obtained $1455 in a holdup at the saloon of Jules Dorsh, 100 North Twenty-first street, East St. Louis, at 11:45 o'clock last night.

Dorsh was standing beside a table, watching two customers, Fred Neal and Herman Flurschuetz, play cards, when the robbers entered and commanded them to raise their hands. Dorsh attempted to fire his automatic pistol, but the cartridge failed to explode and he dropped the weapon to the floor.

"Don't make any noise; there's more of us out in front," the robbers cautioned, as they marched the three men to a rear room, where they were made to lie on the floor. One robber took $50 from Dorsh and $5 from Flurschuetz, while the other went to another room, hammered a lock from an old wooden trunk and removed $1400 in currency.

The money was kept on hand to cash pay checks for industrial workers. The trunk also contained $1200 in cashed checks, which the robber threw on the floor. He and his companion then ran out and escaped.

Five Men Get $500 in Holdup of Grocery.

Five men, all armed with revolvers, held up Ben Appel, his son and two customers in Appel's grocery, 2000 Wash street, at 9 o'clock last night, took $400 from a cash register and from under a counter and escaped in an automobile. As they drove away, they fired five shots into the car of Milas Banks, Negro, of 2324 Carr street, who had parked his automobile in front of theirs.

As Mr. and Mrs. Louis Johnson, 5148 Washington boulevard, were putting their automobile in the garage in the rear of their home, at 10 p. m. they were held up by two men who took the car and a wrist watch, which Mrs. Johnson was wearing. The robbers drove off in the car, with a third man following in another machine.

Nathan Tashman and his wife, Lena, were held up in their grocery store at 3039 La Salle street, at 10:30 p. m., by two men who escaped with $130, taken from a hiding place in a sack of beans.

A man who held up Philip Elder, manager of a Kroger store at 3456 Winnebago avenue, and three customers there, at 8:20 p. m., taking $20 from the cash register, padlocked the front door on the outside to forestall pursuit.

Abe Cook, 3963 Greer avenue, walking near his home, at 9:15 p. m., was held up by two men who got out of a roadster, robbed him of $40 and drove away.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of Charles J. Perrot, departed this life 3 years ago, March 30, 1924. Sadly missed by the family. (c)

In loving memory of our dear sister, Frances Senf, who departed this life March 23, 1918.
Sadly missed by
SISTERS AND BROTHERS.

In memory of our dear wife, mother and daughter, Ella Macker, who departed from life March 28, 1926.
Sadly missed by all. Lovingly remembered by JOHN MACKER AND FAMILY. (c)

In loving memory of Carl Keller, who died March 28, 1926:
Dear father, can it be true that one year has passed
Since God called to you?
The call was short, the shock severe,
To part with one we loved so dear.
WIFE AND CHILDREN.

In loving memory of Georgia Jellison, who departed this life March 27, 1920:
March recalls sad memories,
Tears in silence often flow,
Though you died seven years ago.
Sadly missed by
PARENTS, BROTHER AND SISTERS.

In sad memory of my dear husband and father, Bruno Albrecht, who died March 25, 1916:
Just a line of sweet remembrance,
Just a memory fond and true.
Sadly missed by
WIFE AND FAMILY.

In loving memory of our dear son and brother, Louis Glanzner Jr., who departed this life March 27, 1926.
Sad and painful was the call
Of one so dearly loved by all.
God took him, it was His will,
But in our hearts he lingers still.

Sadly missed by all who loved him

In loving remembrance of our dearly beloved husband and father, Fred C. Blomberg, who died March 26, 1926:
A precious one from us has gone;
A voice we lived is stilled;
A place is vacant in our home
Which never can be filled.
MRS. L. BLOMBERG AND FAMILY.

In loving memory of our dear wife, daughter and sister, Elizabeth Schade Smith, who departed this life one year ago, March 27, 1926:
The moon and stars are shining
Upon a lonely grave,
Where sleeps our dear Setty,
Whom we loved, but could not save.
God knows best;
He took her home to rest.
Sadly missed by
ALL WHO LOVED HER.

In sad memory of our dear husband and father, Thomas G. Brickey, who departed this life March 18, 1924:
So unexpected and so sad, three years ago today,
Our dear father was called away.
He bade no one a last farewell;
He said good-bye to none.
His loving heart had ceased to beat,
And before we knew it, he was gone.
Sadly missed by
WIFE, DAUGHTER AND SON.

In loving memory of our darling daughter, Marie Widerman, who departed this life one year ago, March 24, 1926.
We didn't know the pain you had,
We did not see you die,
We only knew you went away,
And never said goodby.
Sadly missed by mother, father, sisters, and all who loved her.

In loving memory of my dear wife and our dear mother, Emma West, who departed this life one year ago March 25, 1926:
The moon and stars are shining
Upon a lonely grave,
Where sleeps our dear good mother
Whom we loved, but could not save.
One year has passed, our hearts still sore,
As time goes on we miss you more.
Your loving smile, your loving face,
No one can fill your vacant place.
Sadly missed by her HUSBAND AND CHILDREN.

In memory of our dear wife and mother, Emelia Roenfeld Lochmoeller, who passed away one year ago, March 26, 1926:
Gone, dear mother, gone forever,
How we miss your smiling face,
But you left us to remember
None on earth can take your place.
But some day we hope to meet you
When our days on earth are o'er,
On that beautiful Isle of somewhere
Where sorrow is no more.
Her loving HUSBAND, CHILDREN AND GRANDCHILDREN.

In loving memory of our dear baby, Doris Marie Roach, who died March 25, 1926:
Dear darling baby, how we loved you,
How we miss your sweet face and voice;
Our home has never been the same
Since God took you home with Him and the angels to dwell.
Sadly missed by her
MOTHER, STELLA M. RAAF, MR. AND MRS. WM. H. RAAF, GRANDPARENTS, AND SON.

In memory of my dear wife and mother, Minnie Viermann, who departed this life one year ago March 23, 1926:
The golden sun is shining upon dear Mother's grave,
One we loved so dearly, tried so hard to save.
When we lost dear Mother we lost our dearest pal.
We love and miss you and forever shall.
So rest in peace dear Mother,
Your place in heavenly bower
The day when we shall meet again grows nearer every hour.
Sadly missed by
HUSBAND AND CHILDREN, FATHER, SISTER AND BROTHER, AND ALL WHO LOVED HER.

In memory of our beloved mother and our dear sister, Mrs. Charlottie Hofmeister, who departed this life one year ago, March 28, 1926:
Days of sadness oft come o'er us,
Tears of silence often flow,
Love shall always keep you near us,
Tho you left one year ago.
Never shall you be forgotten,
Never from our memory fade.
Loving hearts shall always linger
Around the grave where you are laid.
CHILDREN AND RELATIVES.

Sadly missed by

In memory of Rose Moore (nee Moran), who departed this life 5 years ago, March 24, 1922:
A wonderful mother, woman and aid,
One who was better God never made.
A wonderful worker, so loyal and true,
One in a million, that mother was you.
Just in judgment, always right,
Honest and liberal ever upright;
Loved by your friends and all whom you knew;
One wonderful mother, that mother was you.
Sadly missed by CHILDREN.

Little tribute to our darling son, Morris Leston, who departed life two years ago, March 21.
It is just two years, Morris, darling,
That you have passed away,
But still you are always in our hearts
With each passing day.
And wouldn't it be wonderful, Morris, dear,
To see the things we see,
The beautiful birds and flowers,
And the great big beautiful trees.
I know it's very hard to go
And leave this world behind,
Because you know we have suffered, Morris, darling,
When God plucked you from our vine.
But just think of the tears mother has shed,
And how father's heart has bled,
And all of brothers' love.
Surely they must have cared.
But we know you are safe, Morris, darling,
And if we live as you have lived, Morris, darling,
Way up in the heavens so blue,
We will surely be in heaven with you.
Sadly missed by

ANSWERS TO QUERIES

The Post-Dispatch reserves the right to reject any query. Personal and telephone calls or answers by mail cannot be given attention, except letters on medical questions of undoubted sincerity when accompanied by stamped addressed envelope.

Q. A.—The five States that lead in Indian population are as follows: Oklahoma, Arizona, South Dakota, New Mexico and California.

C. W. C.—Candied mint leaves are made as follows: One pound of sugar, ½ cup of water and ⅛ salt spoon of cream of tartar. Boil the ingredients together without stirring until they form a very hard ball when dropped into ice water. Take from the fire, stir carefully against the side of the pan until the mixture is cool and has a granulated appearance. Dip the mint leaves quickly, one at a time, and put them on greased or oil paper until crisp. This dipping must be done very carefully.

MARTHA.—Your escort should give the dinner order to the waiter after asking you about your preferences or desires. You should look at the menu and should decide whether you want the popular priced dinner provided in most restaurants, or whether you prefer to choose various items from the menu. A lady considers her escort's finances as well as her own desires when ordering instead of carelessly, or deliberately choosing the most expensive items. If you desire us to recommend a physician to you, write again, repeating your question, and send a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

W. L. V.—The idea that "there is a man in the moon" probably was suggested from the fact that the fanciful figure observed on the surface of the moon, when looked at with the naked eye, is supposed to resemble a man leaning on a fork, on which is supported a bundle of sticks. The legend runs that this man was imprisoned in the moon for having gathered sticks on Sunday. Chancer, Shakespeare and other poets refer to this superstition, and in the Bible we read of a man that was stoned to death for gathering sticks on the Sabbath. According to authorities, the passage referred to in Numbers has given rise to the fable of the "man in the moon." When examined with a telescope, however, the outlines that form the figure of the man in the moon resolve themselves into shadows cast by the lunar mountains.

DAISY.—In putting away woolens and furs, beat and brush out all the dust, as the first and most important step. Where eggs are not, the live moths cannot come. Even with the lowest order of creation there is no such thing as spontaneous creation. See to it that every thread and hair of the stuff is visited by the brush. Then hang it in the hottest sunshine you can find. Leave it thus during the day and when the articles are brought in at evening put them in a clean trunk, box or barrels that have been wiped clean and then swabbed with camphor. Of all known drugs this is most abhorrent to moths and other creeping things. Next day take the woolens and furs out into the porch or in a bright, airy room with a hardwood floor for the permanent packing. You should have an abundance of newspapers saved for the occasion. Printer's ink is unwelcome to moths. Lay in between the folds of each article plenty of camphor balls or gum camphor or cedar sawdust. Envelope, it next, in newspapers, pinned carefully at the open ends, and store the wrapped articles in the clean trunk.

MEDICAL QUESTIONS

Health and sanitation questions of public interest only will be considered. Diagnosis or treatment of individual cases will not be given

A READER.—There is usually no objection to having a tooth pulled under such circumstances, in the early stages of pregnancy. Gas should be taken, as in the hands of an expert it is practically free of danger, and the pain and nervousness are thereby avoided. We suggest you tell your dentist of your condition and he will advise you about your tooth.

MRS. WM. J. L.—Chickory is made from the root of a plant called cichorium intybus, grown in Europe originally and now in the United States. It is largely used as an addition to coffee and is harmless though not beneficial. Coffee essence is made from the coffee bean, having the same properties in a concentrated form as ground coffee.

H. A.—The free use of vaseline kept as constantly applied on the finger nails, avoiding acid soaps, wearing rubber gloves when necessary to protect the hands while working and wearing ordinary gloves while out of doors will help the dry, brittle condition of your finger nails. Dry the hands thoroughly after washing and apply vaseline.

MRS. R. M.—The degree of danger for a goitre operation depends upon the extent of the operation and the skill of the surgeon. For an average case done by an expert, the danger, if any, is very slight. No fear should be had for reaction from ether, as every precaution is taken for safety. Nervousness would not add materially, if at all, to the danger.

YOUNG MOTHER—Such cases as you describe should be under the care of a physician, but you might try the following formula for the worms: Santonin ½ grain, and calomel 1 grain. Mix and make a powder and take at bedtime and follow with a dose of castoria before breakfast. A rectal injection: Mix carbolic acid 5 grains, glycerine ½ drachm and water 1 pint.

MISS S—There is no specific diet or exercise that will put flesh on the calves of the legs. The best prospect for such would be walking and the taking of a tablespoonful of maltine with cod liver oil after meals.

W. O. P.—You should consult a baker for the receipt you wish. Agar is not in any way injurious when used properly.

W. C.—Crab lice can be eliminated by applying mercurial ointment (blue) for three nights consecutively to the affected parts, and taking a bath each morning and changing the underwear and bed linen each morning. A card addressed to Children's Bureau, Department of Labor, Washington, D. C., asking for "Child Care" by Mrs. Max West, will bring you the information you desire.

GERTRUDE.—To determine the cause of the boils you should have an analysis of the urine made. There is always more or less general weakness or run-down condition when boils appear, and it should be benefited by the taking of the tonic of elixir of iron, quinine and strychnine. Take as a dose a dessert spoonful in a wine glass of water three times daily after meals. Much success is being had with the serum, or rather vaccine, treatment, and is worthy of a trial.

DISTRICT MANAGER

CENTRAL ILLINOIS TERRITORY
ELECTRICAL APPLIANCE INDUSTRY

To the right man, we offer an exceptionally good opportunity to make some real money. Our product is nationally advertised and the territory is very fertile. The man we hire must be able to train salesmen in our direct method of selling, and supervise those already in his territory. We prefer men between the ages of 25 and 35. Phone R. D. REED, Mayfair Hotel, Monday A. M. for interview. (c)

SALESMEN

EAGLE SUPPLY CO., INC., DISTRIBUTORS FOR WAYNE LINE OF OIL BURNERS, ELECTRIC REFRIGERATION AND WATER SOFTENERS, HAVE OPENINGS FOR SEVERAL MORE HIGH-CLASS SALESMEN.

THE EARNINGS OF TRAINED MEN IN THESE LINES IN ST. LOUIS ARE GREATER THAN THE EARNINGS OF THE AVERAGE SALESMEN. THE MEN WE SELECT WILL BE THOROUGHLY INSTRUCTED AND BACKED BY AN EXTENSIVE NEWSPAPER AND DIRECT ADVERTISING CAMPAIGN.

OUR MEN WORK ON A DEFINITE SALES PLAN. WE WILL CONSIDER ONLY EXPERIENCED SALESMEN WITH CLEAN PAST RECORDS. THIS IS AN OPPORTUNITY FOR EXPERIENCED OIL BURNER AND ELECTRIC REFRIGERATING SALESMEN TO INCREASE THEIR EARNINGS.

FOR INTERVIEW PHONE D. W. McCONNELL, STATLER HOTEL, MONDAY, 9 A. M. TO 12, 1 TO 5 P. M.

Feed Salesmen

Prefer men between ages of 28 and 35 who are ambitious and willing to work where there is a real opportunity for advancement. Must have car. Knowledge of livestock and farming desirable. Our line sold direct to farmers through dealers. Million dollar concern, well known nationally. Territories small so week-ends can be spent at home. Best season just beginning. Do not apply unless you are a real worker, not easily discouraged, and have absolute confidence in your ability to make good. If $50 a week and expenses interests you, with larger earnings later, write us. Give full references and experience. Prefer men living in small towns. Excellent territory open in North Central and Eastern Missouri, also Central and Southern Illinois. Box [illegible], Post-Dispatch. (c83)

SALESMEN WANTED

ARE YOU
THE INDIVIDUAL WE WANT?
DO YOU KNOW HOW TO SELL GOODS?
CAN YOU
HANDLE 15 OR MORE DIRECT-TO-CONSUMER SALESMEN?
HAVE YOU

had tailoring experience direct to consumer? The position of district manager is open with a well-established tailoring manufacturing company. Our Mr. H. E. Bloom will be at the Mayfair Hotel, from 9 a. m. to 4 p. m., Sunday to interview you.

COPELAND

Elec. Refrigeration Div.
Beck & Corbitt Co.
3010 LOCUST ST.

Have a few openings for salesmen in this department. We prefer men between 25 and 45 years of age who are looking for a permanent connection, and a real opportunity for advancement in the field of electric refrigeration, which is conceded to be one of the fastest growing industries in the country.

Specialized training given those selected. Training course starts Thursday, March 31, 1927, at 9:30 a. m. Be prompt. Training will also include district group meeting under factory supervision. Those desiring a personal interview are requested to phone GArfield 2440, Mr. Marshall, for appointment. (c)

SALESMEN.

This is an earnest endeavor to establish contact with a few men of worth-while ambition who take the placement of their ability seriously and not looking for a "scheme."

Ours is an international organization, for twenty-six years engaged in rendering an information service to business executives.

The product is nationally known and advertised; the company is the largest of its kind; the work is interesting, permanent and offers a real opportunity for immediate earnings and advancement consistent with executive ability.

Accepted applicants will be given a brief course of instruction preliminary to field training, during which period they will be moderately compensated on a salary basis in addition to a liberal commission and bonus arrangement.

We require men of good appearance, who can talk business with business men and who can furnish character and business references. Call by phone our personal director, F. J. Hauser, Claridge Hotel, CEntral 7900. Room 910. (c1)

CREATIVE SALESMEN WANTED

Preference given to men with experience in selling lines of general mrchandise or textiles to the retail trade. We want men who know retail store problems and how to solve them. Previous retail experience would be an added advantage. In any event they must have merchandising sense.

Men selected will be given thorough training, must be willing to travel most of the time and should own automobile.

This is an interesting and sizable job with a nationally known wholesaler of general merchandise for salesmen who meaure themselves by actual results. Advancement is up to the man.

Positively no applications considered unless detailed business history, age and full qualifications are given in first letter. Box D-333, Post-Dispatch.

SALESMAN

The man we want is an experienced specialty salesman having a selling record he is proud of.

He is between the ages of 27 and 40. He is not looking for a temporary cleanup proposition, but an opportunity to make a permanent connection with a big, strong organization that he can be proud to claim an association with.

To such a man we can offer an opportunity which seldom appears in these columns and which assures an earning capacity far above the average.

This is a permanent connection in a business that is different and brings you in contact with executive heads of business.

We are a nationally known organization meeting an ever-increasing need of modern business.

The man who is fortunate enough to see this advertisement and meet these requirements has a real opportunity awaiting him.

For appointment, telephone or write, Sunday or Monday, M. H. Glascock, Hotel Statler.

STRONG TONE TO WHEAT AT THE CLOSE OF WEEK

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, March 26.—Wheat had a strong tone today. At the opening the big bulge in Liverpool caused some short covering which was followed by a dip due to selling of spreaders against buying of corn but the market rallied and closed at the top due to short covering. At the close the market was ⅝c to ¾c higher, and for the week half to ⅝c higher. May, $1.34¾ to $1.34⅞. July $1.29⅝ to $1.29¾; September, $1.27⅝ to $1.27¾.

Wheat prices made new low records for the season early in the week and then the market recovered on short covering because of the Chinese situation and profit taking. Liverpool today closed 1d to 1⅛d higher, due to week-end short covering and a let-up in the pressure of American winters. A possible reduction of 5,000,000 bushel in world shipments compared with the previous week also had a strengthening influence there.

The seaboard reported good demand for nearby Manitobas and some bids for American winters. A Winnipeg message said the Canadian pool had disposed of all of its contract wheat for export and that it is long the May future in that market. Milling demand was moderate with sales of only 6000 bushel. Buenos Aires closed 1d to 1⅛d higher. Minneapolis stocks decreased 40,000 bushel for one day. Generally fair weather and seasonable temperatures prevailed over the grain belt with some precipitation in the Lake regions.

Corn was strong early and then reacted in the latter trade. Business was almost entirely local with spreaders buying early and selling later. Closing prices were ¼c to ⅛c lower and for the week 2c to 2¼c lower. May, 71⅞c to 72c. July 76⅝c to 76¾c. September 80c to 80⅛c. Shipping sales were small at 30,000 bushel. Outside markets overbid Chicago in adjacent country for corn to arrive.

Oats were firm early on short covering and the advance was checked by realizing sales and hedging pressure. The close was ⅛c to ¼c higher and for the week ⅝c lower to ¼c higher. May, 43⅝c to 43¾c. July 44¼c to 44⅜c. September 43¾c. Shipping sales were only 19,000 bushel.

Provisions were neglected and prices easier under week-end realizing. Lard closed 5½ to 13 lower.

Total operating revenues for February were $6,078,075, a decrease of $513,450 over 1926. At the same time, operating expenses showed a decrease of $219,351, the February, 1927, total bein $5,065,212.

MONEY IN STOCKS DUE TO DULLNESS

Special Wireless to New York Evening Post.

LONDON, March 26.—Arthur W. Kiddy, editor of Bankers' Magazine and financial editor of London Morning Post, in financial review, says:

"The European political outlook is obscure and uncertainties would be more clearly reflected in stock prices here, but for the smallness of speculative accounts when compared with the pre-war period, while dullness keeps money in stocks.

"The 'Economist' devotes a special supplement to currency and economic conditions in Russia, introducing the article with a kind of editorial apology or explanation, saying:

"'The greatest trading nation of the world cannot afford to be indifferent to economic conditions of a country covering nearly one-sixth of the land area of the globe.'

"The supplement indicates some progress in Russia over the last three years, but at present a slowing up in the rate of recovery is noted. Progress is most definitely established in agriculture, where communism played only a small part. On the whole, however, the supplement shows a gloomy picture.

"Our Government's policy in sending troops to China to protect Britishers is abundantly justified by events.

"The market is not disturbed by the banking situation in Japan. None of the 12 banks that recently failed are of any great importance, while it is believed that the Bank of Japan can give any necessary support elsewhere. Moreover, it is considered that some changes of Japanese banking is required, especially the amalgamation of some of the weaker institutions.

"Sir George Beharrell, a director of the Anode Rubber Co., whose new process of rubber manufacture has excited considerable interest, when interviewed by the London Daily Mail, stated that continuous experiments in the new process are being carried on in Budapest and in Akron, O., covering a whole range of rubber goods. Much success, he says, has attended these experiments.

"Oils were steadier in the market at lower levels this week. It is considered that fear of the effect on profits of successive cuts in American crude petroleum has possibly been overdone, as it is argued the lower prices mean larger consumption."

COTTON MARKET QUIET BUT TONE STEADIER

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, March 26.—The cotton market was very quiet today, but showed a somewhat steadier tone on a less favorable view of weather prospects in the South and relatively steady Liverpool cables. July contracts sold up from 14.27 to 14.34, and closed at 14.31. The general market closing steady at net advances of two to three points.

The market opened steady at unchanged prices to a decline of one point. Some overnight selling orders, which seemed to come partly from the South, were absorbed by trade buying and covering. Demand from the trade tapered off shortly after the opening, but the outlook for unsettled weather in the Eastern belt and lower temperatures in the West, probably increased the disposition to even up short commitments for over the week-end.

Offerings were so light that comparatively small buying orders were sufficient to influence prices and the market worked up to 14.11 for May and 14.54 for October, or about 3 to 6 points net higher. Scattered realizing caused reactions of a few points in the forenoon, but otherwise very little selling was in evidence.

Private cable advices received in the trade here from Japan said reports from Shanghai indicated that nearly all mills were working despite the disturbances in China, and also reported that Japanese mills were believed still to have about 400,000 bales of American cotton to buy.

The amount of cotton on shipboard awaiting clearance at the end of the week was estimated at 180,000 bales, against 97,000 last year, which was regarded as pointing to continued large exports.

Private cables attributed the steadiness in Liverpool to trade calling, covering and Bombay buying, but that the demand for cotton cloths in Manchester was quiet.

Financial and Industrial Briefs

NEW YORK, March 26.

February net operating income of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul was slightly smaller than a year ago, $954,792, against $971,404, and for the first two months this year $1,472,999, against $1,752,693 in the same period of 1926.

Frank L. Dame, president of the North American Co., explained that the proposed change in common stock from $10 par to no par, conformed with the program the directors have had in mind for years. If approved by stockholders, common stock without par value will be issued share for share in exchange for present common. Issuance of any additional stock except common stock from time to time in payment of dividends was not contemplated.

The New York Central is in the market for 3500 freight cars and 121 passenger cars.

Sales of United Drug Co. for the first two months this year were $14,500,000, an increase of $1,300,000 over the same period of 1926, and include only business in the United States.

February surplus of the Missouri-Kansas-Texas Lines was $427,605 after taxes and charges, against $334,347 in February last year and for the first two months this year $898,945 against $720,965 in the same period of 1926.

California Eastern Corporation has accepted an offer of Julian Petroleum Corporation to sell its assets in exchange for stock of California Eastern, which has arranged for $12,500,000 financing. Offering will be made shortly of $7,500,000 first mortgage 6½ per cent convertible bonds and $5,000,000 7 per cent debenture bonds.

Definite progress in developing a new process for making pulp from birch was reported to stockholders of Union Bag & Paper Co., by its president, M. B. Wallace, who emphasized its importance to the company owing to the large supply of birch in the neighborhood of its mills and very little spruce and balsam. A full commercial unit soon will be in operation at Kaukauna, Wis.

February surplus of the St. Louis San Francisco System was $454,863 after charges, against $425,751 in February, 1926, and for the first two months this year $784,219 against $906,889 a year ago.

Based on business of General Motors Corporation in the first quarter, a record year for sales and earnings in 1927 was forecast by John J. Raskob, chairman of the Finance Committee, on his departure for Europe. The automobile outlook generally was very satisfactory, he said. Exports of General Motors were running 70 per cent ahead of last year.

The Pennsylvania Railroad had a sharp rise in February net operating income to $7,142,845 from $4,549,448 in February last year. The Northern Pacific's net operating income for the month declined to $694,009 from $931,929 a year ago. Surplus of the St. Louis Southwestern dropped to $24,575 after charges, from $131,367 in February last year.

Youngstown dispatches say steel plants in the Mahoning Valley will operate next week at 83 per cent of capacity in both steel making and rolling mill divisions. Full finished sheet makers are unable to meet demands and are establishing backlogs.

CATTLE REVIEW.

Cattle in common with most other classes of livestock featured advances in price in most departments here the past week, beef steers and veal calves showing the biggest upturns. Lambs advanced 75c to $1 with more mature classes of sheep ruling strong to slightly higher. Light hogs scored a fair advance with medium and heavy hogs ranging from steady to spots slightly easier. Receipts in all departments were light, cattle making the most favorable showing as compared with last week. Quality of the beef steer run was medium to fair in most instances, a moderate number noted at $10 and better with top reaching $11.35 for full loads of mature steers, a few yearlings noted as high as $11. Bulk of sales for the week on all kinds was at $8.25 to $10.25. Several consignments of Texas and Oklahoma steers were included at $8 to $9 while low grade killers and Southern steers were noted in the $7 column. Mixed yearlings strengthened gradually through the week and at the close were strong to 25c higher. Top on full load lots of steers and heifers reached $10.75 while straight heifers sold up to $10.15 and bulk cashed in a spread of $7.50 to $10.25. Receipts of this class in proportion to others was about an average with quality good. Beef cows in the opinion of some improved their position last week but in the majority of cases values were maintained on a steady basis. Cutter cows and canners declined toward the middle of the week with dragginess a pronounced feature of the week's late trading. Bulk of beef cows sold from $6 to $7.50 with tops at $8 and $8.50. Cutters sold mainly at $5 to $5.50 although best kinds reached $5.75. Canners ranged from $4 to $4.75 largely.

Some advances were scored in best bologna, beef and butcher bulls, but majority of offerings sold on a steady basis with the previous week. Top butcher bulls sold upward to $8, while heavy butcher bulls made $6.75 to $7.50 and best bologna bulls cashed at $6 to $6.85. Common and canner bulls made $4.50 to $5.75. Firm prices were maintained in stocker and feeder cattle, both steers and she stuff, although demand was not as brisk as was featured in the previous week's trading. Inclement weather was mainly responsible for this fact. Fleshy young feeder steers sold up to $9.15, while bulk of all stockers and feeders cashed in a spread of $7 to $8.75. An advance of 50c was scored on best veals, while first cuts advanced in proportion. Heavy veals and Southern canner yearlings went through the period of trading at little change in price; slower movement featured toward the close.

Offerings in the swine department the past week totaled 74,041 as compared with 76,783 last week and 73,614 the same week last year. Quality of the bulk was right good. In the past period the market was up and down, but on the whole the market was a moderately active affair in the early rounds. Closing rounds were generally slow, packers entering late using bearish tactics. In the Friday session light hog top reached $12.40 and the bulk of the light hogs sold at $12.25 to $12.35. On that day packers were bearish and the market was a little lower on the close. Light sold for the week in a spread of $11.90 to $12.35. Order buyers and butchers were usually the main buyers early. Several days the traders cleaned up the medium and heavy weights, leaving little for the packers to work on. Extreme heavy hogs, after holding up well the first part of the week, dropped down to $10.75 to $11 at the latter sessions of the week.

Pigs and light lights were in good demand throughout the period and showed a substantial advance over last week's close. Most 100 to 130 pound averages ranged $11 to $12 for the week, with the stronger weights 130 to 150 pounds at $12 to $12.40. Inferior grades of pigs that were badly ear-marked sold down to $9. Packing sows show a fair-sized increase over last week. Best light sows sold at the close up to $10.50. Bulk of sows for the week went at $10.10 to $10.40. Stags show little improvement, selling mostly at $9@9.25.

Receipts of sheep and lambs the past week aggregate 4000, in contrast with 4910 last week and 8478 the corresponding time last year. Quality of the offerings was medium to good. With only a fair demand and comparatively light receipts, lambs show a 75c increase over last week's close. Top lambs this week went at $15.75, as to $15 last week. In the forepart of the week only odd lots were on sale, not enough to interest packers. Butchers were the main buyers until about mid-week, at which time packers, who were in need of supplies, went to local feed lots and bought a double deck of wool lambs at $15.50 and clipped lambs at $13.75. In the next session packers paid $15.75 for choice fed Western lambs. City butchers paid up to $15.75 for choice stock. On that day packers again bought a short double of clipped lambs from the feed barns for $13.75. Three head of spring lambs sold at $19 to $20. Wethers were here in limited supply and sold at steady prices mainly at $10 to $13. Bunches of clipped ewes and wethers sold to $8 to $9, respectively. Choice fat ewes sold up to $9.50, bulk ranged $8 to $9.50. Choppers and bucks sold mainly at $6 to $6.50.

Horses and Mules.

With the exception of some smooth mouthed Southern horses trade the past week looked strong to higher, big horses and harness marked workers showing strength. Demand continues to increase for farm mares with four and five year old kinds insufficient to fill orders. Smooth haired fat mules with some age sold very well, big mules also in demand. Rough haired smooth mouth mules, however, were slow, supply exceeding the demand in this class.

STOCK RISE REFLECTS A NEW BASIS

Lackawanna's $92,000,000 'Melon' Exerts Influence on Market Movements of the Past Week—Favorable Dividend Yields Question.

BEAR TRADERS IN KELSEY WHEEL GET A VERY HARD RIDE

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 26.

"BEAR" traders in the common stock of the Kelsey Wheel Co. received an unexpected drubbing on the New York Stock Exchange today when the stock opened 14½ points higher at 86, sold down to 77 and snapped back to 79.

Recent publication of the annual report of the company, showing earnings only slightly in excess of the $6 dividend, caused heavy short selling in yesterday's market which carries the stock down over 7 points to 65, the lowest price in five years, but it rebounded to 71¾, off only 1¼ net, at the close last night. Because of the scarcity in the floating supply of the stock, most of the 100,000 shares outstanding of which are closely held, "bear" traders found it difficult to cover their commitments.

Before the opening of the market today, no stock was offered below $90 a share, but a committee of the exchange is reported to have fixed $86 as a fair price, and the opening sale was 1900 shares at that figure. Incidentally, this was a new high price for the year. Subsequently, more stock became available and the quotation was materially lowered.

By Leased Wire from the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, March 26.—The Evening Post in its copyrighted weekly financial review, says:

"Basis for the activity in seasoned stocks lies deeper than the news developments, although of these the week has supplied its proportion. Neither the Chinese war nor the approach of a soft coal strike, once regarded as serious, arouse much concern in the stock market which, on the other hand, is quick to find grounds for optimism in the Lackawanna's $92,000,000 melon. It might be argued that the market shows a disposition to ignore the bad and act on the good news, but that is scarcely the fact. The reason that the move to segregate the Lackawanna coal properties from the railroad drove the good stocks up is that the directors fanned a flame that Wall street long has watched. What really fires the imaginations of those in the market nowadays is the last analysis, the prospect for stock dividends, split-ups and increased cash distributions.

Stock Split-Up Results.

"It is not the prospect for greatly increased corporate profits that makes certain stocks already high to go higher but the fairly positive assurance that through the windfall of a stock dividend, the shares may go permanently onto a better investment plane. In one sense this may seem to indicate that the courage of the bulls is aroused more by a look backward than by look forward to future earnings. The situation is not exactly that. When a handsome surplus is turned to capital through the distribution of a stock dividend the plain inference is that a corporation expects to maintain satisfactory earnings on the new capital and very often that it can afford to pay larger dividends in the aggregate. Then, too, the division of certificates into smaller units itself almost always results in a better market for the stock. Sometimes the new shares after a split are given the same dividend rate that has been paid on the smaller capital structure.

Favorable Dividend Yields.

"Years of patient waiting since 1921 on the part of share owners have brought them nearer to the harvest time in many stocks. The price movement for weeks has been concentrated in the issues ripe for action, or thought to be. If the rise frightens those that expected the turn to come long ago they should look at the same stocks from the standpoint of yields offered. Notwithstanding the enormous advance since 1923 these stocks give as much in investment return now as they did then. In price they have gone forward persistently, but greatly increased dividends has kept them on as about as favorable a yield basis as they were before. The major bull force in the stock market last year and so far this year may be traced to the new investment position to which seasoned stocks have climbed with their movement into a higher, for that matter, safer dividend level.

Seesaw Movement.

"This obviously is not to say that the good stocks now are on as favorable a speculative basis as they were in 1923. Far from it. The performance of the market reveals the almost certain approach of a period of greater distribution, indeed, on the part of big speculators. The excellent investment position of the leaders on the common stock lists makes them attractive, apparently, to those who purchase for the long pull but the speculator who plays for the broad swings now is ready to hand out stock at a price. In the circumstances an irregular market, with the advances and declines following each other in quick succession, is of course natural. So long as business conditions remain sound and money plentiful this seesaw movement may, it now appears, continue for a period.

Possible Coal Strike Influence.

"With the bituminous coal strike scheduled to begin within a week, industry appears to be confident that the event will not seriously affect production. After all, the nonunion mines can supply 70 per cent of the present requirements, and if plans are carried out the strike will not extend immediately to all of the union mines. Moreover, an enormous stock of coal has been accumulated in anticipation of the suspension. On the whole the early spring has stimulated activity in trade over the country and while no boom is in prospect, the outlook for continued good business is improving."

Decrease in Surplus.

"An explanation for the stiffening in demand loan rates at the end of the week, was afforded in the weekly statement of the Clearing-House banks, revealing a decrease in surplus of $12,074,940, resulting in a fall of the excess reserves to $63,078,320. Loans, discounts, etc., decreased $83,945,000."

Weekly Metal Review.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 26.—Steel prices were generally steady. Production continued large, while the bulk of the output went directly into consumption. There was some buying for delivery during the second quarter of the year in the way of stocking against the coal strike uncertainties. However, mill bookings on new orders so far this month, covering many qualities were said to be smaller than at this time last year. Eastern railroads were in the market negotiating for some needs for second quarter of the year. Structural steel operations remained active and some large contracts were reported pending.

Pig iron was steady, with Western producers reported well sold up.

A steadier tone has developed in copper. After a considerable period of inactivity, some of the producers seemed more anxious for business and offerings were reported at 13¾ cents for electrolytic delivered Connecticut valley points. The current needs of consumers are evidently being supplied by steady deliveries against former purchases, however, and nothing more than a very small business was in evidence. A slightly better export demand was noted toward the end of the week, but the domestic inquiry showed no improvement.

Tin was steady, while price fluctuations were comparatively small. The tendency was apparently to ignore the somewhat unsettled state of the London and Singapore markets. Consuming demand was light.

Lead was featured by a price reduction. Consuming buying early in the year was believed to have been excessive and surplus stocks were established.

Zinc was quiet with prices steady. Reports were of a curtailment in smelting operations at various points.

Antimony was firm. China conditions and reports of inability to load cargoes at Shanghai caused nervousness regarding future supplies.

New York Bank Statement.

NEW YORK, March 26.—The actual condition of clearing house banks and trust companies for the week shows excess reserve of $63,078,320. This is a decrease of $12,074,940 compared with the week before, when excess reserve of $75,153,260 was reported.

BROAD AND ACTIVE TRADING ON CURB

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 26.—Buying orders in hand at the opening on the curb exchange today brought forth a broad and exceedingly active trading list which embraced most groups favored in recent sessions. Gains of 1 and 2 points were early recorded in Goodyear Tire and General Fireproofing, respectively. The current movement in Fox Theater "A" was explained in the announcement of its control of Roxy Circuit, Inc., which includes Roxy Theater. Durant Motor rose to a new high while Libbey Owens slumped to a new low mark.

Public Utility issues held steady around the higher levels obtained on the recent upturn. Empire Power opened at its new high at 37¼ and United Gas Improvement opened up 1⅛ points at 94¾, close to its top peak for the year.

Profit-taking and shifting of speculative accounts in the last hour caused momentary pauses in trading, but renewed demand appeared in sufficient volume to prevent any recessions towards uneasiness. Among the higher priced securities American Arch improved 6 points and Grand Stores rose 3 points. American Piano showed a loss of 10 points on a lone transaction. Safeway Stores gained 6 points.

Most interest in the oil division was devoted to the lower priced shares. Creole and American Maracaibo were higher following the report on new interests seeking control.

Vacuum Oil was the strong issue in that group, selling up 1¼ points to 106. Tide Water Associated was in steady demand at rising quotations, selling up ½ point to 19.

Foreign Exchange

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, March 26.—The Evening Post in its copyrighted weekly foreign exchange, says:

"The market all week was marked by wide fluctuations and important changes in many documents, the highest interest being attached to the steady buying of sterling, which carried cables on London up from $4.85¼ to $4.85¾, a new high for the year. Bids on each day were numerous and most cases were lots of 100,000 and 200,000 at a time, but the supply was scant it is hard to effect purchases even at advances.

"French exchange held close to 3.91⅛ throughout the week, while Italian had intervals of weakness, ranging from 4.60½ to 4.61, making a new high for the year. The widest movements were in Spanish exchange, which, after advancing from 17.49 to 17.91, had a sharp reaction yesterday to 17.75. Dealings in pesetas were almost wholly of a purely speculative character, although the buying after yesterday's reaction was looked on as banking accumulation. Swiss and Dutch both made good advances in the past 10 days, and a firm tone was shown in Scandinavian exchange, Danish being in special demand toward the end of the week. German exchange was also prominent in the last half of the week, Reichsmarks moving from 23.70 to 23.75. Japanese exchange was influenced for a time by the financial troubles in Tokio, but recovered losses quickly and moved up from 49.06 to 49.18 for yen checks. Silver exchanges moved within a narrow range, being directed to a great extent by the action of the market for the metal. Rumanian, in which there had been displays of strength recently, made a new high for the year on an advance from .60 to .65. Canadian exchange, which developed strength toward the end of the previous week, was in increased demand, advancing yesterday to 1-32 premium. South Americans were irregular, Peruvian becoming weak in the last few days, falling 5 cents to 3.64.

"Strength in Canadian and Argentine rates featured Saturday's dull trading in foreign exchanges. The premium on the Canadian dollar continued to advance in prospect of an earlier revival of trade with the dominion than usual. Sterling ruled firm."

LARGER EXPORTS DUE TO FLOW OF RAW MATERIAL

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 26.—Increases in American exports in February, as compared with February, 1926, were due to an increased flow abroad of raw materials. American exports of manufactured goods fell off slightly during the period as compared with last year.

The country's imports as a whole were less in February than in the same month of last year, and the analysis today by the Commerce Department disclosed that the fall was due very largely to a decrease in the intake of raw material for manufacturing.

The figures, analyzing the foreign trade by commodities for February as compared with February, 1926, are as follows:

Exports: Raw materials, $102,806,000, against $[illegible]9,316,000; raw foodstuffs, $18,760,000, against $12,172,000; foods ready for consumption, $38,523,000, against $41,[illegible]87,000; partly manufactured goods, $[illegible]3,196,000, against $47,914,000; manufactured goods, $151,340,000, against $154,552,000.

Imports: Raw materials, $114,815,000, against $172,806,000; raw foodstuffs, $[illegible]2,804,000, against $42,111,000; foods ready for consumption, $39,794,000, against $36,026,000; partly manufactured goods, $52,131,000, against $72,809,000; manufactured goods, $61,322,000, against $[illegible]3,552,000.

Dry Goods Market Review.

NEW YORK, March 26.—Cotton goods were quiet today, with prices holding steady on fine goods and slightly irregular on coarse gray cloths. Wash fabrics were active. Worsted dress goods were dull. Silks were in good call for the higher grades, but low and medium-priced lines sold at sacrifice prices in a number of instances. Linens were firmer. Burlaps were steady, with buyers ready to take goods when any concessions are possible.

NEW YORK RUBBER MARKET

NEW YORK, March 26.—Rubber opened steady: May 41.30; July 41.60; September unquoted.

Rubber closed strong. May $41.70; July $42.30; Sept. $42.60.

New York Coffee Market.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 26.—Coffee futures opened at a decline of 2 to 8 points today under liquidation, probably promoted by the relatively easy showing of the markets at Hamburg and Havre. Brazil was steady, but there was very little buying power in evidence here, and while July rallied from 12.86c to 12.89c, closing prices showed net declines of 2 to 11 points. Estimated sales, 13,000 bags. Closing quotations: May, 13.95c; July 12.89c; Sept. 12c; Dec., 11.51c; Jan., 11.47c; March, 11.15c.

Spot coffee quiet: Rio 7s, 16⅛c to 16¼c; Santos 4s, 18c to 18¼c. Cost and freight offers included part Bourbon 3s and 5s at 16.50c to 17c.

Rio exchange on London unchanged; dollar buying rate 10 reis lower. Rio market 100 to 150 reis higher; Santos 50 to 500 reis higher. Brazilian port receipts, 35,000; Jundiahy receipts, 21,000.

Steel Market.

CEMENT AND SOAP STOCKS FEATURES

ST. LOUIS STOCK EXCHANGE, March 26.—Missouri Portland and Waltke were the individual features on the local market the past week, the general trade volume being about on par with previous week. It was the first week in new quarters. The cement stock closed at 49½ for net loss of half point, after selling up to 53. Transactions in excess of 1700 shares made it the leader in volume of business. The soap issue had a 13-point range between 73 and 86¼, closing at 82½ for 9½-point net rise. Transactions in Rice-Stix of over 1000 shares showed range of about half point.

Wagner Electric common and Pedigo-Weber showed net losses for the week.

At the short closing session of the week Pedigo-Weber sold unchanged to lower, Waltke lower after rise, and Rice-Stix lower. Fred Medart declined and Sheffield Steel was higher.

HAMBURG, Germany, March 26.—The American floating university on the steamer Ryndam arrived here today. The students and their instructors were cordially received by the local university authorities. Tomorrow they go to Berlin.

FLOOD WATERS DRIVE MANY FROM HOMES

Wabash River at Mount Carmel, Ill., Inundates Lowlands, Endangers Bridge.

By the Associated Press.

MOUNT CARMEL, Ill., March 26.—The Wabash River here tonight was still rising. The stage was 24 feet, 8 feet above flood level, and the crest was not in sight. The Wabash above here was rising slowly and the White River, a tributary, was rising rapidly. The Little Wabash, another tributary, was reported four feet higher than at any time in the last 40 years.

Many families residing along the river front here have been forced to move to higher ground. In the valley across the river hundreds of families are affected. Some are living on second floors of dwellings but most of the residents are moving westward toward Princeton, Ill.

High, northwest winds today whipped great waves across the flood waters of the Wabash and White Rivers, seriously menacing the approach to the new White River bridge at Hazleton, Ind., 10 miles upstream.

The White River at Hazleton was at a stage of 25.7 feet, with a crest forecast at 27 feet.

River Pours Through Broken Levee in Dunklin County.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

KENNETT, Mo., March 26.—Water of the St. Francis River tonight continued to pour through several breaks in the levee north and south of here. The crest was expected during the night. A large area of Dunklin County is inundated by the flood waters but most of the land covered is not in cultivation.

Reports reaching here from Marked Tree and Truman, Ark., are to the effect that the river has broken through the levee at several places and is spreading over a wide area. Many persons are reported homeless.

Boo, Bradley Horse, Wins $15,000 Louisiana Derby

FRED JR. IS SECOND, WITH FLY HAWK 3D

Jockey Dale Suffers Broken Foot When Kicked by Scotland Before Start of New Orleans Classic.

ecial to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW ORLEANS, La., March 26.—The White and Green colors of E. R. Bradley's Idle Hour Farm stable again flashed to victory in the Louisiana Derby when Boo, the favorite, running coupled with Binary Star, duplicated the performance of the Kentucky sportsman's Baggenbaggage when he accounted for the sixth running of the race at Jefferson Park this afternoon. Bagenbaggage was winner in last spring's running.

Boo triumphed by a margin of one length and a half over S. W. Grant's Fred Jr., the second choice, and Fly Hawk carried the W. Maher colors into third place. The Greentree Stable's Peter Peter was fourth, followed by Torchilla, Overlooked, Scotland, Creek Indian, Binary Star, Bob Rogers, and Porridge as named.

Boo Close to Record.

Boo negotiated the one mile and a furlong in 1:51 4-5, three-fifths of a second slower than the track record established last year by Bagenbaggage. The race was worth $14,250, net to the winner with $2000 for second, $1000 to third and $500 to fourth. The Idle Hour farm entry prevailed at to 10.

The race developed into a test of the speed and stamina of Boo and Fred Jr. after the field had completed the first five furlongs and while Fred Jr. made a valiant effort to overtake the winner after having raced from last to second in the first half mile his bid fell short and Boo was holding him safe as the triumphant son of Black Toney and I Win rushed past the finish.

Jockey Dale Injured.

Fred Jr. finished four lengths in advance of Fly Hawk, the latter coming from far back with a belated rush to nose out Peter Peter for third after the latter had also closed a big gap. Aside from a flash of early speed from Creek Indian, which made the pace for three furlongs, the others offered little formidable contention.

The start, a perfect one, was held up 11 minutes due chiefly to the injury of Jockey J. Dale, while at the barrier. Dale suffered a fractured left foot and injuries to his leg when kicked by Scotland. He had the mount on Bob Rogers, but R. Zucchini had to be substituted to ride the colt.

Record Crowd on Hand.

The race was run before what was officially announced as the largest attendance in the history of the course. The great throng, which taxed the capacity of the plant, began to gather early and practically all witnessed the running of the complete program. The grand stand was filled to overflowing long before time for the running of the first race, and a short time later the spacious lawn was beneath a blanket of humanity. So great was the crush of the crowd that the infield was opened to the public and no small num-

Browns Pound Mays and Lucas and Gain 6 to 1 Victory Over Cincinnati

Right-Handers Are Bumped After Rixey Gives Two Hits in Six Innings —Jones and Zachary Hurl Fine Ball for Dan Howley.

By J. E. Wray
Sports Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., March 26.—After a six-inning pitchers battle between Sam Jones and Eppa Rixey, with honors even and the score tied at one all, the Browns sluggers got the range on Carl Mays in the eighth for two runs and on "Red" Lucas in the ninth for three more tallies, beating the Cincinnati Reds 6 to 1. It was St. Louis' third successive victory over the Reds in Florida.

Tom Zachary, inserted into the pitching picture for the Browns in the seventh inning, started the eighth inning rally with a double, Harry Rice scoring him with one of the three hits he knocked out during the game. From that time on the game was a procession with Zachary holding the enemy helpless, while the Browns whaled away for a total of seven safeties and five runs in the closing periods.

Browns Full of "Pep."

The Browns again satisfied Manager Howley that he has a real team. They looked like a major league club battling a minor team. They are full of pep and ginger, turned smart plays and ran the bases like they were going somewhere. By contrast, the Cincinnatians performed like a troup of dumb bells, their plays on more than one occasion proving costly.

Not the least satisfactory feature of the club's showing in winning its seventh "cocoanut league" victory, was the pitching success of the two hurling candidates, Jones and Zachary, both veterans. Jones pitched a splendid six innings, yielding only three hits and one run, the lone tally coming after Schang had inadvertently interfered with a Cincinnati batter on what should have been the third out in the third inning.

Christensen was given his base on the incident, and Jones was momentarily disconcerted, yielding two hits in succession and Cincinnati's only run of the day.

Adams Plays Fine Game.

Thereafter Jones permitted only one hit and no bases on balls. Zachary's effort was equally as good as Jones' only two safeties being made off his delivery in three innings. In each instance two batters were out. Zachary's display was the more pleasing since he was driven from the box a few days ago when he faced Brooklyn.

That the Browns will not gamely stand by and suffer defeat was shown by a daring play in the fourth session which resulted in the Browns tieing the score, without having made a hit. With one down a walk a fielder's choice and a bad throw on what was called a sacrifice fly put O'Rourke on third and Sisler on first. A double steal was ordered and it so excited Rixey that he committed a balk, netting a run.

When the Browns found their batting there was nothing to the contest.

A feature was the playing and hitting of the new infielder Spencer Adams, who made two hits, both singles and played and fielded his position nicely.

"Break" Upsets Jones.

Rixey and Jones pitched big league ball for the first two innings, neither allowing the semblance of a hit. The only Red to

Four Marks Fall In Women's Meet

Broad Jump, Shotput, Relay and Baseball Throw Records Topple.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

BOSTON, Mar. 26.—Four national records were broken in the Women's Indoor National Amateur Athletic Union track meet here tonight.

In the standing broad jump Katherine Mearls of Boston, set a new mark of seven feet, 11¾ inches, while Reba McDonald of Boston, established a new record of 32 feet one inch with the eight-pound shot put.

The 440-yard relay race record fell before the Paterson, N. J., team which covered the distance in 51 and 4-5 seconds, to beat the old record of 52 9-10. The record for the basketball throw was beaten by 18 inches when Eleanor Churchill of Boston, was credited with a throw of 87 feet three inches.

LUQUE SAYS HE HAS SIGNED 2-YEAR CONTRACT WITH REDS

By the Associated Press.

HAVANA, March 26.—Adolfo Luque, Cuban star pitcher of the Cincinnati Reds, today informed friends here that he had signed a two-year contract with the team. He did not disclose the terms of the agreement.

Luque left here early this week for West Palm Beach, Fla., to confer with officials of the Cincinnati club. He said some time ago that he would not return to Cincinnati, where Mrs. Luque is suing for divorce, unless his marital difficulties were settled.

JONES SCORES 281 TO TAKE SOUTHERN OPEN

Atlanta Star Is One Stroke Over 70 for Four Rounds in Competition—Farrell and Golden Next.

By the Associated Press.

ATLANTA, Ga., March 26.—Bobby Jones, open golf champion of the United States and Great Britain, won another title today when he captured the Southern open at East Lake Country Club, his home course. He played the 72 holes in 281, eight strokes ahead of Johnny Farrell, New York, and John Golden, Paterson, N. J., who tied for second place and the $4000 money award for the leading professional. They had scores of 289.

Tournament officials announced that the first and second money awards would be divided between the two pros, but the players later obtained permission to play off an 18-hole match for first money over the East Lake course Monday afternoon, the loser to take second money of $1750.

Al Watrous, Grand Rapids, was close behind Golden and Farrell with 291, followed by Leo Deigel, New York, who had 292.

George Voight, Washington amateur, finished tenth with 297, and Watts Gunn, Atlanta amateur, was fourteenth with 299, the same score turned in by Walter Hagen.

Increases Early Lead.

Early in the day it was seen that the contest would be for second place. Jones, with scores of 72 and 66, was four ahead of the field at the close of the first 36 holes, and the professionals set out for a battle among themselves for the second place position and first money.

Bobby finished strong in both his morning and afternoon rounds. He dropped a chip shot from the edge of the green for a birdie two in the third round that gave him a 71 and in the afternoon he got a long putt down for 72.

Bobby was not on his game today and while he played great golf for an ordinary player, he was not hitting the shots that gave him a 66 yesterday. He did not have to, for he was so far ahead he could coast home.

The champion went out in par on his morning round after a poor start, taking a five on the par four first hole. He picked up a birdie at the seventh and played the rest of the holes perfectly.

Real Fight For Second.

Coming home, he slipped on two holes where he needed one more than par and had to wait until the eighteenth to get one of them back.

In the afternoon he was one over par on each side, playing the first nine in par with one exception. On the second and last nine he got two birdies to offset three holes where a stroke over par was needed.

The fight for second place was different.

Golden was leading Farrell by one stroke until the seventeenth green, where, with both well on in two, Farrell dropped a 40-foot putt for a birdie three against Golden's four. Coming to the eighteenth Golden's tee shot carried to the

Pennock Signs For Three Years With Yankees

Southpaw Will Receive $20,000 a Year, According to Reports.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 26.—Herb Pennock, star Yankee southpaw, has deserted the ranks of the holdouts and signed a three-year contract, the Evening Post says today in a dispatch from St. Petersburg, Fla. The terms were not revealed, but the dispatch says "it was intimated Pennock got his salary demands." He was understood to have asked for $20,000 a year.

Werner and Hahn Set New World Indoor Track Marks; Edvin Wide Defeats Ritola

Illinois A. C. Star Runs 60-Yard Low Hurdles in 7 1-5 Seconds — Boston Star's Mark of 2:26 2-5 for 1000 Yards Beats Outdoor Standard.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 26.—World's record performances by two American stars, Lloyd Hahn, of the Boston A. A., and Chick Werner of the Illinois A. C., tonight took the spotlight from Edvin Wide's victory over Willie Ritola in the two-mile race slated to be the feature of the United Swedish Societies' indoor track and field carnival.

Flashing a sensational burst of speed, Hahn, the American mile champion and recent conqueror of Wide, smashed the indoor mark, besides bettering the best outdoor standard, in a sensational 1000 meter duel with Ray Dodge of the Illinois A. C. Hahn broke the tape in 2 minutes 26 2-5 seconds, clipping 3 1-5 seconds from the former world's record, made by Joie Ray in 1925. The outdoor mark of 2:28 3-5 is held by Sven Lundgren of Sweden.

Werner Sets New Record.

After Wide had decisively beaten Ritola and Willie Goodwin of the New York A. C., in the two-mile special, but failed to touch the world's record, Hahn stepped on the track to turn in a sizzling performance. Dodge pressed the Boston star and came up to his shoulder in the last lap spurt, but Hahn had enough in reserve to keep the lead and pull away in the stretch to an eight-yard margin. Jimmy Connelly of the New York A. C. was third.

Werner, making a clean sweep of the hurdle series, stepped to a new world's record of 7 1-5 seconds over the 60-yard low sticks, besides equaling the indoor standard of 6 1-5 seconds at 50 yards.

Lermond Collapses.

Ove Anderson, young Finnish star, starting from scratch, was the victor in a three-mile run in which his chief rival, Leo Lermond of the Boston A. A., also a scratch man, collapsed and withdrew after covering only a mile. Anderson won easily from the remainder of the field in 14 minutes, 37 4-5 seconds.

Werner also was victorious in the other race of the hurdle series at 40 yards, but his time of 5 2-5 seconds was two-fifths of a second short of the world's record. Meyer was second in this test, with Farrell third and Guthrie placed fourth.

Chester Bowman, stocky New York A. C. sprinter, dominated three rivals in the sprint series, winning all three races at 40, 50 and 60 yards, but failing to touch record time in any of them.

He easily outfooted Francis Hussey of Boston College, who took second in the 40-yard dash; Bob McAllister of New York, runner-up in the other two dashes, and Henry Cumming of the University of Virginia.

Will Try for Record.

This was to have been Wide's farewell to board tracks, but it was announced after his victory that he would make another attempt to lower the world's indoor mile record of 4:12 on April 9, at the Seventh Regiment Armory. The Swede was beaten by Lloyd Hahn, American champion, recently, in a mile race here.

Johnny Gibson of Fordham University captured the 500-meter race from a crack field by jumping

THEVENOW, HAFEY AND BOTTOMLEY LEAD ATTACK; RUTH HELD TO ONE HIT

Wee Willie Sherdel and Young Hal Smith Mystify Huggins' Batters — Pipgras and Beall Ineffective—Frisch's Unassisted Double Plays Nip Yankee Attack.

By J. Roy Stockton
Of the Post-Dispatch Sport Staff.

AVON PARK, Fla., March 26.—Those bold, bad Yankees of Miller Huggins may have been tough lads, hard to subdue, last October but they were easy for the Cardinals this afternoon and William Henry Sherdell, the canny left hander, and Hal Smith, a green young right hander, spiked their guns and the world champions scored a rollicking victory, 13 to 2.

The good people of Florida and tourists in the sunny South came from all parts of the State to see the first spring struggle between the world series contenders and it was virtually no contest. The Cardinals socked Pipgras for four runs in the first inning, one in the second and smashed Pipgras some more in the third inning for four more tallies. It was just a breeze and it was difficult to believe that this New York team was the American League's champions.

Manager Bob O'Farrell trotted his men on the field wearing their world series uniforms. Perhaps that had something to do with it. The old uniforms had become so dirty from the red Florida clay that the new suits were shipped from St. Louis for the nine-game series with the Yankees. And the Cardinals played like champions. They collected 15 hits and performed brilliantly in the field.

Big Bambino Is Stopped.

Even Babe Ruth, the big fence-buster from New York, the $70,000-a-year clouter of baseball, was stopped dead. It was not easy to stop him. But he was stopped and it was not until young Hal Smith was on the hill and the townspeople were begging for him to give Babe one to hit, that the Bambino slammed one. Then, Smith threw aside deception and floated a nice, clean ball over the plate.

Babe swung and the ball arched viciously to center field. Walter Roettger was out there and he had always heard that when the Babe hit a baseball, it stayed and he started for Polk County. And when the ball arched to the ground and skidded on, Roettger was merrily racing. Because of his slight error the Babe managed to romp to third. He could have gone farther had he tried. But he refused to run hard and was satisfied with a three-bagger. The fans had seen him clout one, not a homer, but he had shown them the big swing and so the Babe withdrew from the picture, the natives gathered up their automobile cushions and went home and in a few minutes the nine innings were over and the Yankees departed again for St. Petersburg, where they will oppose the Cardinals again Monday.

The fielding of the Cardinals was as good as the hitting and at times it was sensational. The game was not close except in the first inning, before our nine had its first time at bat, but in that inning the Cardinals showed the fans some fancy stuff.

Frisch's Sparkling Double Play.

Combs started the contest with a slashing double to left center and it looked like Sherdel was going to have trouble. But Koenig, the well-known October goat, lined straight over second base and Frankie Frisch, keen of perception and knowing that Koenig might hit in that direction on such a pitcher, was right there to catch it and he stepped on second base for a double play, unassisted.

Then came Babe Ruth with his mighty bludgeon. Sherdel smiled and gave him a fast one outside. The Babe ignored it. Then a slow one inside and the Babe took that. Then another slow one and the Babe timed it and swung. Bat met the ball squarely and the sphere sailed fair toward right field. It was what golfers call a hook, a vicious terrific hook, and there was Jim Bottomley right in the path. But Jim gives no ground, even for vicious hooks from the great Babe. He stuck out his glove and though the hook pivoted him around and forced him back Jim held on. His hand was red and swollen when he strutted to the bench. But he had stopped the big Bambino.

For Dear Old Nokomis.

O'Farrell's men made enough runs in the first inning to win the

Bud Taylor and Canzoneri Box 10-Round Draw

7000 Persons See Bantamweight Title Bout at Chicago.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, March 26.—Bud Taylor, Terre Haute, and Tony Canzoneri, New York, battled to a fierce draw in a ten round battle generally accepted as for the bantamweight championship here tonight.

The decision was received with cheers mingled with a chorus of boos as the crowd evidently favored Taylor. Canzoneri exchanged punch for punch with Taylor, refusing to back ground under Taylor's whirlwind assault.

Joe Choynski, Chicago, old time heavyweight fighter, was referee. The judges were John H. Lyle, a judge of the municipal court and James A. Barsaloux, a wealthy real estate operator.

Shortly before the bout started Promoter Mullen announced that the receipts were $45,000, with the attendance around 7000.

Taylor went into the ring a favorite in the betting because of his greater experience. They had no trouble in making the bantamweight limit of 118 pounds at 3 p. m. Taylor tipped the beam at exactly 118 pounds while Canzoneri scaled 117 pounds.

Vacca Loses Decision.

Johnny Vacca of Boston, twice conqueror of Fidel La Barba of Los Angeles, the flyweight champion, dropped an eight-round decision to Archie Bell, a shifty New York 118-pounder. Vacca, bobbing and weaving like Dave Shade, was unable to connect with his heavy right that wound harmlessly around Bell's neck, and he looked very foolish at times.

Bell, with his superior reach and boxing skill, kept popping long lefts into Vacca's face, occasionally dropping a right cross to the chin or driving rights to the body.

Vacca left go a right to the head that shook Bell up at the start of the last round, but Bell countered with a heavy attack to the head with both hands and then switched his assault to the body. Vacca weighed 117½ pounds. Bell scaled 118.

Earl Mastro, a Chicago flyweight, defeated Sid Kelly of Milwaukee in a four round opener at 114 pounds. Kelly was floored four times in the first session but managed to stick the limit.

Tommy Grogan, Omaha lightweight, scored a technical knockout over Billy Kennedy of New Orleans, in the third of a scheduled six-round bout.

Newsboy Brown of Sioux City, Ia., won the verdict over Ernie Peters, an Indian flyweight of Chicago, in another eight rounder, dealing out an artistic pasting. Peters was on the receiving end of a continuous body attack from the start and was no match for the rugged, hard-hitting Iowa youth. Peters weighed 112 pounds and Brown 112½.

BOROTRA CAPTURES NATIONAL INDOOR TENNIS CHAMPIONSHI

BASQUE VICTOR OVER BRUGNON IN STRAIGHT SETS

French Pair Captures Doubles Honors, Winning Over Hunter and Dr. King, 7-5, 6-3, 6-3.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 26.—France completed her sweep of the American indoor tennis championships today when Jean Borotra conquered his countryman, Jacques Brugnon, for the singles title, 6—2, 6—4, 6—3, after they paired to win the doubles crown, defeating Frank Hunter and Dr. George King of New York, 7—5, 6—3, 6—3.

Spectacular stroking, teeming with sparkling rallies at the net, swept the Basque back to the peak he occupied in 1925. It was France's third straight national indoor singles triumph, Rene Lacoste having taken the title a year ago.

By their dash through both singles and doubles the tri-color-Davis cup star brought off France's first twin triumph in one event on this side of the Atlantic. Never before has an exclusively French team captured an American doubles crown, although Borotra, paired with A. W. Asthalter of New York, won the indoor honors two years ago.

Borotra was the dominating figure on the court in the doubles It was from his versatile racquet that the finishing shots in nearly every rally sped swiftly and surely through the openings in the American team's defense, but he was ably seconded by Brugnon's power service.

Dr. King proved the vulnerable link in the American combination. It was through his service that the European team broke in each set to gain their advantage, erratic forecourt play on the part of the New York man costing the losers many points and eventually paving the way to their downfall.

to the front at the start and holding the lead all the way. "Pinkie" Sober of the Holy Name club flashed a sensational spurt to outfoot Alan Helffrich and George Leness of New York A. C., aces, for second place in a driving finish. The time was 1 minute, 6 3-5 seconds.

Harold M. Osborn of the Illinois A. C., world's champion high jumper, turned in the best performance he has shown in his specialty this season, when he leaped six feet 5½ inches to win this event. He failed in three attempts to set a new indoor record of 6 feet 6⅝ inches. Gail Robinson of the New York A. C., cleared 6:3¼ to gain second place and Charley Major of St. Boniventure College was third at 6:1.

Seven Collegiate Swim Marks Fall

Michigan Stars Smash Six Records and Win Championship.

By the Associated Press.

URBANA, Ill., March 26.—Seven intercollegiate records were shattered in the nine events of the seventeenth annual western intercollegiate conference swimming meet today in the new University of Illinois tank, with Michigan swimmers smashing six old marks to win the championship by the largest number of points ever secured by a team in a title meet.

W. W. Kratz of Wisconsin hung up a new record in the 200-yard breast stroke, while Michigan set new marks in the 440-yard free style, 150-yard back stroke, 200-yard relay, 100-yard free style, 220-yard free style and 300-yard medley relay. The 50-yard free style was the only event in which the intercollegiate record was not broken, Darnall, Michigan, winning the event in a close race that found Herschberger of Wisconsin, present record-holder, in fifth place.

Michigan won the meet with 49 points, Minnesota was second with 23, Northwestern third with 14, Wisconsin fourth with 9, Illinois and Chicago tied for fifth with 6 points. Iowa, Purdue and Indiana, failing to place any men in yesterday's preliminaries, tied for seventh place.

H. B. Groh of Illinois was crowned Western intercollegiate diving champion after his brilliant performance in which he scored 21.6 points out of a possible 24 on a running one and one-half gainer to defeat Colbath of Northwestern by 4.2 points. The diving event was the only one in which Michigan failed to place.

Samson of Michigan shattered the records in the 440-yard free style and 220-yard free style events during today's finals; all of the other new records were hung up in last night's preliminaries.

game. Grabowski made a low throw on Douthit's hit in front of the plate and Holm sacrificed. Frisch walked and Bottomley caressed a fast one on the beak and poled a triple to right center, an old fashioned Bottomley hit, smacked for dear old Nokomis. Jim was run down on Bell's infield hopper, but Chick Hafey also kissed one for dear old Southern California and it was a home run over Bob Meusel's head. Four runs.

From then on it was a one-sided game. The Cardinals scored one in the second on Yankee misplays, four in the third on three singles, two walks and a sacrifice fly, two more in the fourth on two walks, a single and an infield out and added one in the sixth and one in the seventh for good measure.

It was a very impressive performance and if the Cardinals needed anything to encourage and boost their morale, the game furnished the stimulant. New York writers were properly impressed and wired thousands of words of good advertising for the Cards to Manhattan dailies.

Hal Smith Strikes Out Four.

Hal Smith's pitching in the last four innings also was pleasing. The young right-hander, who belongs to Danville, stood up there on the slab like a veteran and cut the outside corners until the Yankees were dizzy at called strikes. When they started to swing he fanned four of them for their pains and gave only four hits in the four innings. Another year in the minors may see Smith ready for action in fast company and when he is ready the Cardinal tentacles will reach out and grasp him and bring him in, via Danville, Fort Smith, Houston or Syracuse.

Billy Southworth was given a day of rest to nurse a charleyhorse and a toe which was bruised the other day when a foul bounced off Bill's bat and hit his foot.

Holm played right field and made a good job of it. The Cardinal reserves look stronger with each appearance.

RUDOLPH RETAINS POCKET BILLIARD TITLE

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 26.—Erwin Rudolph, world pocket billiard champion from Chicago, tonight completed his title match with Harry Oswald, Pittsburg challenger, with a lead of 127 points after three blocks of 150 points each. The final score was—Rudolph 450, Oswald 323.

The champion scored 145 points to 128 for Oswald in tonight's block. Both cue stars completed the match in 102 innings and each took 37 turns at the table tonight. Rudolph scored the high run of the play, 68, in the one hundred and first inning. Oswald scored his best run, 25, last night.

The Pittsburg veteran, by finishing third in the national championships won by Ralph Greenleaf last November, gained the right to challenge Rudolph when the latter gained the title in a challenge match.

Local Bowlers Again Fail in A. B. C. — Clevelander Third in All-Events.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

PEORIA, Ill., March 26.—With high scores turning up on practically every squad in the minor events of the American Bowling Congress tourney today, St. Louis pinsters were unable to get going and the performance of the Mound City men was way below standard.

Four changes occurred among the "select ten" leaders on the day's bombardment. Pete Brunett, Cleveland product, crashed into third place in the all-events division with a 1910 total and Fred Snyder, Detroit, pulled up with a 681 mark to land third spot in the singles division.

Mort Luby and George Stewart, who have been leading the doubles division for the past eight days, came close to being dethroned from their lofty spot in the doubles event when Frank Kartheiser and Sykes Thoma assaulted the sticks for a 1279 total, followed by W. Kingsbury and R. Anderson, another Chicago pair, who clipped off a 1275 mark. Both Windy City pairs had opportunities of topping the due event, but were unable to negotiate strikes when they were most needed.

C. Nord's 615 count was best among the St. Louisans in the singles event. Nord poked the maples for games of 193, 233 and 189. R. Hetzler and W. Murray pulled up with 1150 and best among the visitors in the doubles.

Milwaukee Team Gets 3029.

The Waukesha team, Milwaukee, went into third place with a 3029 total when the entire club turkeyed out in the final frame of the last game. They registered games of 940, 1046 and 1043.

Seventh place went to the Fisher Body plant team from Detroit with a 2948 total. They counted 939 in the opener, 972 in the second and finished with 1037.

The Coca Cola team of Chicago shot 2925 for thirteenth place.

FRANCO GEORGETTI AND CARL STOCKHOLM WIN SIX-DAY BIKE RACE

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Mar. 26. — Franco Georgetti, the little Italian cyclist, and Carl Stockholm, oversize Chicago war veteran, were winners tonight in Chicago's 15th international six-day bicycle race.

These two gained one lap on the field of 12 teams last Wednesday night, held that lead for three days and stole another lap tonight in the last half hour of the race. They pedaled 2,365 miles and nine laps of the 11 lap track at the Dexter Park pavilion.

Freddie Spencer of Plainfield, N. J., and Charles Winter of New York, finished second, one lap behind the winners. They too stole a lap on the field a few minutes after Georgetti and Stockholm had gained their extra lead.

Just two weeks ago Georgetti finished first in New York's six-day grind. He was paired in that race with Reggie McNamara.

DeMar, Veteran Marathon Star, Wins Laurel to Baltimore Run

Boston Star Negotiates Full Distance in 2 Hours, 43 Minutes, 49 2-5 Seconds —Michelson Is Second.

By the Associated Press.

BALTIMORE, Md., March 26.—A wise old head, topping a pair of venerable whipcord legs, put youth to route today as Clarence Demar of Boston, national champion, won his second consecutive laurel to Baltimore marathon.

Through a spattery, murky rain, the Melrose American Legion veteran covered the 26-mile 385-yard course in 2 hours, 43 minutes, 49 4-5 seconds, to clip one minute 55 2-5 seconds from his time for the national event over the same course last year. He left high, dry and out of danger, however, the sensational national record of 2:25:2-5 made at Boston last year by young Johnny Miles of Nova Scotia, and Frank Zuna's course record of 2:41:39 2-5, set in 1924. Last May 15 De Mar jogged over the Laurel-Baltimore route in 2:45:05 1-5.

Michelson Is Second.

Albert (Whitey) Michelson of the Cygnet A. C., East Portchester, Conn., placed second, 2 minutes 5 2-5 seconds behind De Mar, and with the help of his teammates, Nestor Erickson in eighth place and William Kennedy in tenth, won for Cygnet the team trophy. Michelson's time was 2:45:15 1-5.

With New York's Millrose A. C. colors looped acros his chest, the veteran, Frank Zuna, took third place away from William Agee, boy cross-country youngster, who finished fourth.

Demar's experience and superb self-confidence were manifest at the start, when he allowed young Bill Agee—who spends all his Sundays and holidays washing about the countryside in hope of some day laying his aging rival by the heels—to pound along well ahead of him for the first 13 miles. The steady pat-pat of the veteran's feet bothered the youngsters to efforts which began to dram him down before half the course's glistening macadam had flowed beneath his tread.

Demar Takes Lead.

When Agee weakened Demar stepped out unfalteringly through the puddles, and of the others in the starting field of 75 none saw aught but the ancient legionnaire's back.

Michelson ran an outstandingly game race, and fighting to overcome the champion's lead of almost 600 yards over him at the 15-mile point, he forged up steadily for the next 10 markers. At 25 miles a scant 100 yards separated him from Demar and he threatened to menace the veteran, but the last mile and 385 yards told on the Cygnet star, forcing him to drop back.

The Order of Finish.

The first fifteen finished as follows:

Clarence Demar, Melrose post No. 90, American Legion, Boston, 2:43:49 4-5.
Albert R. (Whitey) Michelson, Cygnet A. C., East Portchester, Conn., 2:45:15 1-5.
Frank Zuna, Millrose A. C., New York, 2:49:08 3-5.
William Agee, Baltimore cross country club, 2:53:07 2-5.
Francis T. O'Donnell, Atlantic City, 2:58:05 2-5.
William F. Peters, unattached, Baltimore, 3:04:10 2-5.
Harvey Frick, Millrose, 3:06:17 1-5.
Nestor Erickson, Cygnet, 3:06:32 2-5.

Webster Groves Star Sets Mark In Chicago Meet

Semple Puts Shot 49 Feet 11 3-4 Inches — Three Other Records Fall.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, March 26.—Four track records were lowered and two swimming marks were shattered in Northwestern University's fifteenth annual interscholastic meet today.

Northeastern High of Detroit and La Grange, Ill., tied for first place in the track meet with 13 points each, while Wilmington, Del., High School successfully defended its time in the swimming events with 26 points. Northwestern High of Detroit was a close second in the swimming events with 23 points.

Tommy Warne of Kokomo, Ind., contributed to the record-breaking performances of the day with a remarkable leap of 12 feet 7⅞ inches in the pole vault for a new national interscholastic record. He bettered by more than 10 inches the old mark of 11 feet 9 inches set in 1922 by John of Peru, Ind.

Semple Sets Record.

Jack Semple, tow-headed shotputter from Webster Groves, O., tossed the 12-pound ball 49 feet 11¾ inches, bettering the interscholastic mark set by Alman of Urbana, Ill., in 1916 at 49 feet 6 1-3 inches. Boyle of Rockford, Ill., jumped 6 feet 1¾ inches for a new high jump record. The old mark of 6 feet 8-16 inches was established last year by Miller of Elmwood, Ill. Boyle competed against a classy field consisting of Kuehn of Oak Park, Ill.; Dennis, Northwestern High, Detroit, and Tolly of Tilden High, Chicago, by stepping the half mile run in 2:10 7-10. Beatty, star middle-distance performer for Northeastern High, Detroit, clipped four seconds off the record made by Stocking of Rockford, Ill., in 1923. Jack Gage of La Grange High School aided his school to tie for first place by winning both the high and low hurdle races.

First places in the fancy diving and 220-yard medley relay, together with placing men in all other events except one, enabled Wilmington, Del., to win the swimming meet.

New Record for Marsh.

The Easterners set a national interscholastic mark in the 220-yard medley, traversing the distance in 2:07 7-10, which bettered their mark of last year by three seconds.

Marsh of Central High, St. Paul, set a new national mark in the 100-yard backstroke with a time of 1:07 4-10. This is one second lower than the record established in 1922 by Sam Hill of the same school.

Northwestern High School of Detroit placed first in the 220-yard swim and 160-yard medley, but failed to pick up enough second and third points to top the performance of the Easterners.

Sixty-five schools entered teams in the meet this year. Out of 47 track teams, 21 placed in the point column, while out of 18 swimming teams, 11 won points.

Mt. Carmel Five Takes Illinois Basketball Title

Beats Peoria Central, 24 to 18 —East St. Louis High Finishes Third.

By the Associated Press.

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., March 26.—By virtue of a 24 to 18 win over Peoria Central, Mount Carmel became the new "prep" basketball champions of the State of Illinois here tonight.

Mount Carmel alone survived out of a field of 500 teams which started in the district meets two weeks ago. East St. Louis won third place honors by defeating Champaign high, 25 to 20.

Mount Carmel displayed a dazzling defensive as well as offensive during the first half, taking an eight point lead at the opening of the game before Peoria Central found their shooting eye. At the end of the initial period the count stood 13 to 7 and at half time 17 to 11 with Mount Carmel on the long end in both instances. Mount Carmel held a 21 to 17 advantage at the end of the third quarter. Mount Carmel held at 21 to 17 advantage at the end of the third quarter. Mount Carmel increased their lead by two points in the final period, scoring three points while Peoria lead by two points in the final period, scoring three points while Peoria Central garnered but one point. High scorer for the game was Eaton, Mount Carmel forward, who shot four field baskets and three free throws.

"SAD SAM" JONES STOPS RIVALS WITH THREE HITS IN SIX INNINGS

Wanderers Tie Uruguay Eleven In Rough Game

Three Americans Carried Off Field Because of Injuries—40 Fouls Called.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, March 26.—The National Club of Uruguay, soccer champions of the Olympic games in 1924, were held to a 2 goal draw this afternoon by the Brooklyn Wanderers before 15,000 spectators at Ebbetts Field. Although the match was to have been an exhibition, it turned out to be one of the roughest seen in the East in many years and no fewer than 40 fouls were meted out by Referee Stott, who encountered much difficulty in keeping control of the players. This was especially true of the visitors, who, owing to their inability to speak English, were continually surrounding the arbiter and objecting to his decisions with gestures.

Twenty minutes after the opening whistle, Fernandez, center half-back, of the South Americans fouled Lydell in center field and immediately struck him as the latter arose. This caused a small sized riot which the police quelled and Stott ordered the offender out of the game and Androde, colored star replaced Fernandez at the pivot position, but did not perform in the brilliant style he displayed in the opening game of the tour against the Indiana eleven last Sunday.

Three Americans Injured.

The rough work of the Uruguayans necessitated the removal of three Brooklyn players from the field through injuries. Haar was forced to retire in the first half with an injured thigh, while Morris and Fisher were carried off in the closing period. Morris suffered a wrenched knee, while Fisher was kicked in the head, while lying prone on the field and it is believed his injuries may be of a serious nature.

The Uruguay forward line tested Fisher with three burning shots in the first four minutes of the game, but Brooklyn came right back and after a spectacular run down the field Nelson struck the visitors' crossbar with a lightning drive.

Six minutes had elapsed when Nelson sent a beautiful corner kick across the South Americans' goal mouth which Haar trapped and relayed to Sedlacek, who neatly drove the leather into his opponents' net for the first goal. Stung by this reverse the Uruguayans proceeded to keep the ball in Brooklyn territory and 10 minutes later a fine combination effort by Scarrone and Petrone enabled the latter to equalize the count.

Fernandez Is Banished.

Shortly after this marker was registered Fernandez was ordered out of the game and half time arrived with both clubs deadlocked with one goal each.

Brooklyn, after the restart, soon had the visitors' goal in danger and Adair gave the American League the lead once more when he pounced on Nelson's rebound from the crossbar. The entire Uruguay forward line gave assistance in scoring the tieing tally by brilliant pass work which culminated in Surdinarin netting with a terrific shot.

Twenty-two amateur boxers, including two champions and a former champion of the Western A. A. U. district, have filed entries to date for the special and preliminary bouts of a tournament to be held at the new St. Louis University gymnasium next Tuesday night. The meet is sponsored by the People's Motorbus A. C. Entries are in charge of George Wilsman, who plans to schedule a number of interesting bouts as special attractions.

One of the interclub events will bring together Mickey Mazer of the Motorbus boxing team, and Carmen Durso of the South Broadway A. C., in a flyweight engagement. Mazer held district championship laurels for his division four years ago and has made an impressive comeback this season after being inactive for two years. Durso was a finalist in the recent Western A. A. U. meet, losing to Clifford Doetzel, whom he previously had outpointed in a special bout. An effort will be made to match Doetzel with the winner of Tuesday night's contest.

INTERFERENCE BY SCHANG GIVES REDS ONLY RUN

Rice Regains Batting Eye and Raps Out Three Safeties—Adams Makes Fine Showing at Bat and in Field.

ch first got there on Gerber's r, an ugly bounder, but Jones t the next three down quickly. There were two down in the third ing before the first hint of faltering came, and Wallie Schang, the Browns' backstop, was responsible for that. Accidentally, or otherwise, with two men down, Schang tipped Christensen's bat and Umpire Freeman awarded the batter first base on interference. That seemed to upset Jones, for the next two men singled, scoring the first run of the game.

The Browns, aided by some world's championship dumb throwing by Red players, tied the score without making a hit off Rixey. With Rice out, O'Rourke walked and was safe at second when Kelly tried to get O'Rourke on Sisler's tap. Kelly should have thrown to first. As it was, both runners were safe. O'Rourke bluffed toward third, on E. Miller's long fly and Bressler was dumb enough to throw to second. O'Rourke then promptly went on to third.

Smart Baseball Here.

Here the Browns showed some smart baseball. A double steal was ordered. As Rixey wound up, O'Rourke was almost at the plate. He failed to beat Rixey's throw, but the action was so unexpected that Rixey stepped out of the box in making the throw and Umpire Freeman called it a balk. O'Rourke scored and the runner on first took second. Rixey tightened up and retired the side thereafter. But the score had been tied without a hit having been made.

Spencer Adams, the Browns' newest infielder, supposed to be a weak hitter, started off the fifth inning with a sizzling single, the first of the day for the Browns. But Rixey was still under control and the next three Browns failed ally.

Again in the sixth the Browns started off well when Harry Rice socked a fast shot to right field for a base. O'Rourke sacrificed and the shocked the Cincinnati Reds by going all the way to third base on the play. With one down the team was sitting pretty, but Sisler put up a weak pop and Bing Miller's hard liner went right into a fielder's glove. It was daring baseball on Rice's part and deserved better results.

Mays and Lucas Bombarded.

Mays and Zachary went in to pitch in the seventh inning, both starting pitchers having gone six innings in splendid style. A run was scored off each. Jones allowing three hits and no bases on balls, while Rixey held the Browns to two safeties and one walk.

Mays went along through one inning splendidly, but hit the rocks in the eighth. With one down, Zachary hit a real double to right field. Rice's single scored him. O'Rourke walked and Rice scored on Sisler's single. Only one man was down and O'Rourke on third, on a bad throw from the outfield. But neither Williams nor Schulte could bring him home.

Lucas was also to the liking of the Browns, who bombarded him freely, four hits, a sacrifice and an error yielding a total of three runs. Included in the slams off Lucas was Harry Rice's third hit of the day. That ended the scoring.

Manager Howley has not changed his opinion of Paul Richards' merits in spite of the nervous showing he made in the final game with Brooklyn. Richards was playing entirely out of position that day. He is too green to be judged on his one-day showing. Baseball men believe Richards "has the makings."

Tarpon Springs may be a wonderful place to train, but it is terrible for gate receipts. The highest total during the Browns' stay was $245. The lowest was Manager Dan Howley has been notified that June 11 will be "Howley day" at Fenway Park, Boston. The town meeting of East Weymouth, Mass., Howley's home, voted a holiday on June 11 in order that the home fans may attend the game at Boston.

Play Reds Again.

Next game at Miami, tomorrow. Cincinnati will again be the opposing club. Gaston and Wingard will be probable pitchers.

West Palm Beach displayed the best grounds and grand stand the Browns have seen on the "Cocoa League" circuit. The attendance was about 700.

Prior to today's game the "Cocoa League" standing showed the Browns in second place with six victories and four defeats. The Reds were last with one victory and eight defeats. Cleveland was the victim.

President Garry Harrman of the club was presented with a floral horseshoe before the game. Garry has carried a printer's card for 40 years. The printers of West Palm Beach made the presentation.

As at every other Florida city, Sisler was given a hand his first trip to the plate. He flied out.

Manager Howley thinks Adams a high-class fielder. His batting should improve, Dan says, because Adams played his first game in six months yesterday.

Rixey was a different pitcher for the Reds today from his first appearance against the Browns. On that occasion Rixey was slugged for seven safeties and three runs in the first three innings. Today not a hit or a run was made off him until the fifth.

THREE ACES—They'll Be Missed Unless They Sign Contracts

Iowa State Men Set Relay Mark In Texas Meet

Illinois and Michigan State Also Prominent — 1000 Athletes Compete.

By the Associated Press.

HOUSTON, Tex., March 26.—Iowa State's fleet team smashed the intercollegiate record for the medley relay at the Rice Institute games here today in which Illinois, Michigan State and Iowa State carried off the major share of honors.

The Iowa State runners hung up a new time of 7:34.4 in the medley event, six-tenths of a second better than the old marg of 7:35 established by the University of Texas team in 1925.

Illinois took five firsts, winning the one-mile and four-mile relays. White of Illinois soared 13 feet 3¼ inches in the pole vault in an attempt to break the All-American college record of 13 feet 8 inches held by Lee S. Barnes of the University of Southern California.

Simon of Illinois won the broad jump with a leap of 23 feet, 7 inches ,and Lyons of Illinois, with a heave of 46 feet 1 inch, captured the shotput.

Caulum, runnin the half; Thornberf, 440; Wilmer, 220, and Conger finishing up with a speedy mile, raced to the new mark for Iowa State in the medley relay.

The two-mile team from Iowa State ran off with that event, giving the Ames school two firsts.

Michigan State demonstrated its superiority in the shorter relays, capturing the quarter-mile and half-mile races. Lang, Henson, Grim and Alderman dashed off the half in the fast time of 1:27.4, with Kansas finishing second and Notre Dame third. Notre Dame led the Kansans in the 440 relay.

Rinefort, weight man from Grinnell, scored first in the discus with a hurl of 148 feet 8 inches, and took second in the shotput.

Ten meet records fell before the assault of 1000 athletes from 15 states and Mexico. Weather conditions were good.

Southern California Wins.

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, March 26.—The University of Southern California's national intercollegiate championship track team, tallying eight firsts and tying for another, romped over the Golden Bears of the University of California to the tune of 76½ to 54½ here today.

Greyhounds to Resume Racing Here Wednesday

Madison Kennel Club Plant in Readiness for Dog Invasion.

Resumption of greyhound races at the Madison Kennel Club across the river rs scheduled for next Wednesday night, officials of the organization announced late yesterday. Painters and carpenters have been employed at the plant for more than a week and everything will be ready for the return of the "sport of queens." Racing officials and employes are arriving almost hourly from Miami and there are over 300 greyhounds quartered around the track.

Since leaving the Madison county track, the greyhounds have been running at Miami. With the closing of tracks there, some of the 600 dogs were sent to Shreveport and New Orleans, La., for spring openings. The pick of the performers were assigned to this track, bringing back many of the former favorites as well as recently imported blue bloods from England and Ireland.

Sterling's Dogs Are Here.

The kennel belonging to Charles Sterling of Clay Center, Kan., which led all others in purse winnings last year on the circuit of the International Greyhound Racing Association, will be among those seen in action here. It includes Wasteful Girl, winner of the second St. Louis Derby; Suir Side, Masked Battery, Pride Of Kerry, Blue Fire and Irish Dot. Sterling also has another promising youngster named Ballyknockin,, a little brother of Suir Side's. Ballyknockin' was ranked as one of the fastest young dogs at the Miami meeting.

Another star string belongs to T. W. and F. Spencer of Wichita, Kan., and includes Mooney Hare, runner-up in the second St. Louis Derby; Cimaroon Pat, speedy hurdler; Tiger Bill, Rex Cantonian, Clinker Cantonian and Cantonian Jr., the last three closely related. Rex Cantonian, holder of several records on the Madison track, was an outstanding runner at Miami. In his first start he broke the quarter-mile record; in his second he lowered the Futurity mark. He soon beat everything available, and it became necessary to give him a handicap of 21 feet behind the regular starting box.

St. Louis Owners Ready.

There are two locally owned kennels ready to race here. They are the Show Me Kennels, owned jointly by James A. Corbett of St. Louis and Peter Wolfe of Wichita, Kan., and the greyhounds belonging to Mrs. H. de Bernhardi. Mrs. Bernhardi operates a large modiste shop here and her husband is a former grand opera singer who took up greyhound racing as a diversion. He has invested over $17,000 in dogs and equipment and spends all of his time around his pets. His chief bread winners are Reigning Regent and Spalding Brutus. The others in his kennels are young and require schooling before they start.

Some of the promising young dogs developed at Miami include Churchvire Prince, Loughbrack, Winding Brick, Golden Scepter, Magadi, Professor, Paderewski, Gossip, Scandal, Flying Mission, Warm Water, Playgoer, Hamperdinch and Scaramouche.

Amateur Baseball.

The Keystone baseball team, which has played independent ball for three years, is seeking a backer for the coming season in order to enter the Municipal Association. F. Becker, 610 Dover place (Riverside 1655M), is manager.

Pitcher and catcher wish tryout for coming season. George Vierling, 4712 Pennsylvania avenue, or F. Becker, 610 Dover place.

Three Players, Valued at Close to $100,000, Are Year's Stubborn Holdouts

Flint Rhem, Cardinal Pitcher; Roush, an Outfielder, and Critz, an Infielder, Are Real Aces in Their Respective Positions.

With just a little more than two weeks remaining before the teams go to the post in the major league pennant races, three clubs right now are unable to put their full strength on the field, because of holdouts.

Each of the holdouts is an "ace" and will be missed like the "deuce" unless he comes into the fold in a short time. And even then, the athletes will probably be unable to do their best for a time, because of lack of condition.

The major holdouts at present are:

Flint Rhem, Cardinal pitcher, who has been offered $7500 and wants $15,000.

Ed Roush, Giant outfielder, who says $19,000 is not enough.

Hugh Critz, Red second baseman, who wants $17,000 a year and a three-year contract.

Put on the open market, these three athletes would bring in a lot of cash. Rhem, winner in 20 ball games in 1926, is regarded as one of the best young right-handers in captivity.

Roush is generally conceded to be the best center fielder in the National League. He's a great fielder and a fine batter. McGraw gave up George Kelly, a fine player, to obtain the outfielder. Hugh Critz in 1926 was rated as the best second baseman in the league, and in the most valuable player competition he ranked second to Bob O'Farrell, now manager of the Cardinals.

There is little doubt concerning the ability of the trio and if put on the market, it is certain that each one would bring more than $25,000. Real baseball stars are scarce and here are three of the first water.

BUD TAYLOR AND CANZONERI BOX 10-ROUND DRAW

York, former world's bantamweight champion, had no trouble in defeating Pete Sarmiento of the Philippines, in the eight-round semifinal. Sarmiento was floored for a count of four in the seventh. Goldstein weighed 118¼; Sarmiento 119 pounds.

He occasionally switched his attack. Both sustained cuts over the eyes, before the end of the first round and their faces were bloody smears by the end of the fight.

Canzoneri presented an elusive attack, attempting to box Taylor at long range and only slugging with him when the Terre Haute blonde came piling in to close quarters.

The fifth round was Canzoneri's best showing, when he outscored Taylor five to one, keeping Taylor out of range with long lefts to the face, shooting them with such frequency that Taylor became bewildered. A broad grin broke across Bud's face after he had stopped all the punches Canzoneri unleashed and had failed to score himself.

They Swap Punch for Punch.

Canzoneri showed surprising gameness in slugging with Taylor in their spirited exchanges. Taylor chased him to the ropes half a dozen times, driving both fists to the body but Tony gamely stuck to his guns swapping punch for punch.

The decision was received with a mingle of booes and cheers, with the booes out-numbering the whoops. The crowd evidently thought that Taylor was entitled to the verdict, because of his aggressive tearing-in battle.

When the ninth round started Taylor appeared to ringsiders to have a slight shade, but Canzoneri staged a truly courageous finish that undoubtedly influenced the judges and referee in reaching their verdict. He stood toe-to-toe with Taylor, exchanging punch for punch, producing a climax that brought spectators cheering to their feet.

Lewis and Pesek Here This Week

Heavyweight Wrestlers, Who Meet April 7, Will Train Here.

Training quarters will be opened in St. Louis this week by Ed "Strangler" Lewis, former heavyweight champion wrestler, and John Pesek of Ravenna, Neb., in preparation for their scheduled engagement at the New Coliseum arena on Thursday night, April 7.

Promoter Tom Packs stated last night that Lewis has arranged to bring two heavyweight grapplers to St. Louis to serve as his training partners during the last few days of his preparatory schedule. The former champion is expected to start his local conditioning activities Thursday or Friday.

Pesek has advised Packs that he will reach this city Friday night.

Weight and appearance forfeits of $2000 have been posted by each grappler.

Pesek met Lewis in one match during the latter's championship tenure, and the "Strangler" won on a foul. The bout was held in Kansas City, Mo. After Lewis lost the title to Wayne Munn in January, 1925, Pesek severed his connection with Max Bauman's stable. It has been rumored that the break developed because of Bauman's failure to land the Ravenna ranchman a return match with Lewis.

LEBANON BASKETBALL TEAM AND ILLMO FIVE REACH TOURNEY FINAL

The Pfeffer Milling team of Lebanon, Ill., and the Illmo Lumber team of East St. Louis will meet in the final of the Mississippi Valley basketball championship tournament, Tuesday evening as a result of their semi-final victories last night at the Ainad Temple in East St. Louis.

Pfeffer defeated the Polish National Alliance team of East St. Louis, 45 to 17, and the Illmo five won from the Nashville, Ill., Chevrolet team, 46 to 18, in last night's games.

Oxford Beaten By Cambridge

Only One American, Hyatt, Wins a First — Lord Burghley Shines.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, March 26.—Lord David Burghley, Cambridge University's titled timber-topper, starred in a sweeping victory over Oxford in their fifty-ninth annual track meet at the Queen's Club today. The Cambridge captain, who is going to the United States in April for the Penn relays, won both the hurdle events for the third consecutive year. Oxford captured only two of the eleven events contested. As only first places count, Cambridge's score was nine to Oxford's two.

Robert L. Hyatt, former Harvard athlete, appearing for the last time against Cambridge, won the pole vault for Oxford for the third consecutive year. The other six Americans on the Oxford team failed to turn in any victories.

J. W. J. Rinkel of Cambridge won both the century and quarter mile dashes. The performances of the teams were considered good in view of the rainy weather.

The sumaries:

100 YARDS—J. W. J. Rinkel, Cambridge, first; Bayes M. Norton (Yale), Oxford, second. Time, 10 seconds.

HALF MILE—H. L. Elvin, Cambridge, first; D. G. White, Oxford, second. Time, 2 minutes 1-5 second.

120-YARD HIGH HURDLES—Lord David Burghley, Cambridge, first; G. Weightman Smith, Cambridge, second. Time, 15½ seconds.

SHOT PUT—R. L. Howland, Cambridge, first; Robert L. Hyatt (Harvard), Oxford, second. Distance, 42 feet 2 inches.

BROAD JUMP—V. B. Powell, Cambridge, first; G. W. Pomeroy, Cambridge, second. Distance, 22 feet 3½ inches.

THREE-MILE RUN—I. Thom[illegible], Oxford, first; W. A. Edwards, Oxford, second. Time, 15 minutes 5 seconds.

HIGH JUMP—J. D. S. Pendlebury, Cambridge, first; T. E. Tweed, Cambridge, second. Six feet.

220-YARD LOW HURDLES—Lord David Burghley, Cambridge, first; T. C. Livingstone, Cambridge, second. Time, 26 seconds.

She interprets terpsichorilly

While in the center of the "spot"
She ties herself into a knot
With ankles neatly crossed be-

She writhes and wriggles like an

Miss Fordyce Eliminated in Golf Tourney

Defending Champion Loses to Mrs. Burrows in North Side Event.

By the Associated Press.

PINEHURST, N. C., March 26.—Golf such as is seldom seen in competition featured the first round of match play here today in the annual united North and South woman's golf tournament. Three of the eight matches in the championship flight went to the nineteenth hole before decision, and one of these was decided by a stymie. A fourth was decided on the eighteenth.

Miss Louise Fordyce of Youngstown, O., present champion and one of the favorites fell by the way side before the masterful play of Mrs. Florence Burrows of New York, 4 and 2. Little known as a golfer, Mrs. Burrows turned the first nine in 38, three over men's par, winning five of the first nine holes. Miss Fordyce was decidedly off form and found traps on almost every hole.

Mrs. John D. Chapman, of Greenwich, Conn., who has won every Pinehurst tournament except the North and South and one played while she was in Europe during the last eighteen months, carried Miss Bernice Wall of Oshkosk, Wis., to the nineteenth hole and then succumbed only to a stymie which she could not negotiate.

Miss Quier Is Victor.

Miss Edith Quier of Reading, Pa. was forced to the nineteenth to defeat Mrs. E. E. Harwood of Chicago one up and Mrs. Stewart Hanley of Detroit carried Mrs. Donald Barlow of Philadelphia to the nineteenth before admitting defeat.

Mrs. Edith Baker of Belmont, Mass., took her match with Miss Helen Payson of Portland one up at the eighteenth when Miss Payson's second landed behind a house in the tournament, went down before Miss Glenna Collett, former National Champion, 4 and 5.

Miss Maureen Orcutt, Metropolitan champion, remained in the running by defeating little Peggy Wattles of Buffalo five and four and Miss Virgina Van Wie of Chicago won from Mrs. J. Broadwell of Long Meadow, Mass., 5 and 4.

Pairings for the second round on Monday follows:

Mrs. Baker and Mrs. Burrows; Miss Wall and Miss Van Wie; Mrs. Barlow and Miss Collett and Miss Quier and Miss Orcutt.

CHARGES HIGH SCHOOLS PAMPER STAR ATHLETES

By the Associated Press.

BUFFALO, N. Y., March 26.—The term "high school athlete" may become a phrase of opprobrium instead of approbation at colleges unless more care in training is given school athletes, says Andrew (Swede) Oberlander of football's hall of fame. In many schools, he charged, stars are pampered and fail to measure up to college requirements.

Second Contest In Soccer Series This Afternoon

Killarneys Can Gain Title by Beating Morgans in Municipal Contest.

After an interval of two weeks, the Killarneys and Morgans will meet again this afternoon at Fairground No. 2, in the second game of the municipal championship soccer series continued from last Sunday, due to a muddy field.

The game is scheduled to start at 3 o'clock and will be preceded by a contest between the soccer teams of the Mullanphy Playground and Sherman Park.

The Killarneys may clinch the title by taking today's contest, as they won the opening game of the three-game series.

A series with the Hutchison All-Stars of Kansas City is promised to the eleven that captures the pennant here. This will include games here and in Kansas City.

NEWHART OF NAVY WINS GYMNASTIC TITLE

By the Associated Press.

PRINCETON, N. J., March 26.—The all-around intercollegiate gymnasts championship was won by Harold Newhart of Navy at the league individual championship meet held in the Princeton gym today. Jack Snively of Princeton, holder of last year's title, was unable to compete in all of the events because of an injury.

Newhart rolled up 283.2 points. Beling of Princeton was second with 280 points; Davidson, University of Chicago, third, 274.4 points, and Sadler, Dartmouth, fourth, 260.3 points.

EASTERN BETTORS BACK OSMAND AND SCAPA FLOW FOR THE DERB

WIDENER SAYS HIS HORSE IS TRAINING WELL

After Early Flutter, There Has Been Little Demand to Wager on Rip Rap in the Future Books.

By G. F. T. RYALL,
Of the New York World Sport Staff.

NEW YORK, March 26.—Osmand and Scapa Flow are the best backed horses in what little betting there is in the future books on the Kentucky Derby. No spectacular or even sizeable wagers have been recorded, so the prices, according to Johnny Walters, who is following the market quite closely this year, are about 8 and 15 to 1, respectively.

That money should show for Scapa Flow is something of a surprise, particularly as little or nothing is known generally as to how the colt is training. However, because he is by Man O' War and won the Futurity last year is enough for a few who are willing to take what looks like a short price.

Joseph E. Widener returned from a trip to Kentucky by way of Philadelphia recently and spent several days at Belmont Park overseeing the progress of the improvements there. The writer asked him how he found Osmand and how the gelding was training for the Kentucky Derby.

"Osmand has wintered and is training beyond my fondest expectations," he said. "I feel sure that he will train on to be a good horse this year. Of course, it is quite too early to present him as the winner of the Kentucky Derby, but I have hopes."

Sande to Gallop Osmand.

Earl Sande, who is likely to work more into the duties of trainer for the Widener establishment in the course of the season, is returning to Churchill Downs and will remain there for the most part of the spring galloping Osmand and the other Widener three-year-olds.

After the first flutter on Rip Rap, there has been little demand for that colt; it is doubted if there will be much money for anything here for a week or so, or until training operations progress a bit.

Some speed will be asked from the candidates on the training track at Belmont Park before the end of another week.

The sportsmen interested in the improvement of steeple chasing have taken a big step toward stimulating interest and attracting public attention to a sport that has fallen off in popularity in the last few years by adding $20,000 to some race, for which conditions will be framed in the near future.

Will Alternate Running.

It is the intention not to make the race a fixture at any one track but to run it at a different track every year. It was suggested that the race be allocated as a sort of reward to the association that did the most for steeple chasing in the course of a year, which seems fair enough. However, it will be incumbent on the association sponsoring the race to offer a sizeable purse in added money, in addition to that given by the association. Here is where the hard feeling will come. Were the Maryland Jockey Club to have the honor of running the race for the first time it might well add $20,000 to the purse, which it could well afford to do because of the return from the mutuels.

The jockey club tracks, having no such revenue, naturally would resent setting the purse so high. Also, if the committee were to decide that the Ontario Jockey Club, which always makes steeple chasing a feature of its meeting at Woodbine, were deserving there might be opposition in some quarters against taking such an important race out of the country.

In spite of this side, which may not eventuate, there is no doubt that considerable impetus will be gained by steeple chasing by offering a $30,000 to $40,000 race. There will be plenty of horses to run, though they may scratch from the $1000 overnight events.

Want Foreign Entries.

However, the sponsors are unusually sanguine in hoping for entries from abroad. They believe that a purse of that size will tempt English and French horsemen to send their best jumpers over here to try their fortune—but they will not. It will be many years before the fate of Papyrus and Epinard are forgotten.

However, the new $20,000 or $30,000 steeplechase will be a great thing for the game and a better one for the owner lucky enough to win it. Steeple chasing is only moderately popular here. There have been too many poor races, due to the quality of the horses and the small size of the fields, in the past, to warrant loud cheers being

Bucky Moore	107	8	8	8	8	8	H. Hutton	107.40

Prate acted badly at post, but breaking well from an outer position, moved steadily into position and was hard ridden and responding gamely, held Quicken safe. The latter moved up fast after going first quarter, but tired slightly near the end. Elevate was outrun but finished well. Glennie showed good for three furlongs. Doc was far out of it most of the way. Ferseth had no mishaps.

$2 mutuels paid: Prate, win $8, place $4.40, show $3.20; Quicken, place $8.20, show $4.20; Elevate, show $3.20.

THIRD RACE—$1000, claiming, the Amole, 4-year-olds and up, one and one-quarter miles—Start good, won easily; place driving. Went to post 3:31 p. m.; at post one minute. Winner, b. g. 5, by Chief Ebo-Grizelle. Trainer, P. Reuter. Time, :24 4-5, :49, 1:15 1-5, 1:41, 2:06 3-5 (equals track record). Value to winners, $700, $175, $100, $25.

Van Patrick	101	7	7	7	7	7	7	7	M. Hurn	54.60

Chief Tierney was restrained for first mile, moved into lead when called on and won with much in reserve. Try Again, going in good form, was well up during entire trip and just lasted for second place. Radio began slowly and, saving much ground, came steadily and would have been second but for being slightly blocked just before reaching stretch. Sir Ralph tired in stretch. Repeater showed good speed for first mile. Foolscap was always outrun. Van Patrick showed a dull effort.

Two-dollar mutuels paid: Chief Tierney, win $3.60, place $3.60, show $2.80; Try Again, place $28, show $9.40; Radio, show $3.40.

FOURTH RACE—$1000, the Black Gold Handicap, 3-year-olds and up, six furlongs: Start good; won driving; place same. Went to post 4 p. m. At post 1 minute. Winner—B. h. 5 by Brown Prince II-Blum. Trainer—W. J. Raybould. Time—:28, :48, 1:13 1-5. Value to winners—$700, $175, $100, $25.

Prince Ronald	104	5	1	3^{1}	3^{1}	6	6	J. Dale	85.30

Old Slip was well up from the start, saved ground all during stretch and, finishing gamely, was well up in last 10 yards. Tempest showed a good effort and was forced to race wide. Sir Peter probably best, was weakly ridden and lost ground at stretch turn. Clonaslee was forced back in first quarter and came fast near end. Girl Scout gave way completely when reaching stretch.

$2 mutuels paid: Old Slip, win $5.40, place $4.40, show $3.40; Tempest, place $8.80, show $3.40; Sir Peter, show $3.

FIFTH RACE—$1000, claiming, the Bagenbaggage, 3-year-olds and up, one mile and 70 yards—Start good, won driving; place same. Went to post 4:35 p. m.; at post two minutes. Winner, ch. h. 5, by Pluvious-Risponde. Trainer, T. O. Webber. Time, :24 2-5, :48 3-5, 1:14, 1:40 3-5, 1:45 2-5. Value to winners, $700, $175, $100, $25.

Fine Manners	102	1	1	2^{h}	5^{1}	7^{2}	8	8	C. Watters	17.20

FORCASTER had an advantage at the start but raced restrained until lower turn where he moved into lead and under good handling outstayed Georgia Rose. Latter probably the best would have won but for racing wide at stretch, tired near end. Guest of Honor came steadily in stretch. Red Pennant began tiring in last furlong. Dr. Cardenas broke slowly and was far out of it but closed a big gap. Others tired badly in stretch.

$2 mutuels paid: Forecaster, win $9.60, place $7.00, show $6.40; Georgia Rose, place $3.00, show $2.60; Guest of Honor, show $3.80.

Private Seth	101	4	5	$2^{\frac{1}{2}}$	2^{1}	8	8	8	M. Hurn	5.60

Wave Crest, away well and given a snug ride, came fast in the stretch and just lasted to hold Good Night safe. Latter away fast, went wide at the first turn, but was going gamely at the end. Sir Maurice showed a good effort but was not good enough. Stonage tired at the half. Peggy Bledsoe and Private Seth tired badly.

$2 mutuels paid: Wavecrest, win, $11.00; place, $5.60; show, $4.60. Good Night, place, $6.60; show, $5.40. Sir Maurice, show, $4.80.

BOO IS CLOSE TO TRACK RECORD IN VICTORY IN DERBY

ber of fans viewed the racing from that section.

Speculation was in step with other standards, the mutuel plant being called upon to handle the greatest volume of business recorded during the winter. The success of a majority of the favorites played a vital part in making for the large handle as well as adding flavor to the sport.

Forecaster Gains Victory.

The defeat of Georgia Rose by Forecaster in the fifth race at one mile and 70 yards marked the breaking of the string of consecutive wins for the choices after they had accounted for the first four races. Forecaster won out by a neck after losing the lead to Georgia Rose a furlong from the finish. The latter tired in the last 50 yards. Forecaster and Georgia Rose were in complete command of the race after four furlongs, the latter beating Guest of Honor five lengths for second.

Chief Tierney equalled the track record of 2:06 3-5 in winning over the one mile and a quarter of the third race. He scored in decisive fashion with Try Again outstaying Radio a head for second.

The Greentree Stable colors were seen in victory when Prate, given a brilliant ride by G. Ellis, defeated Quicken, Elevate and five other 2-year-olds in the second race. Prate won by a short half length, standing a hard drive all the way.

Old Slip Wins Another.

The Vintner, a pronounced choice, encountered little difficulty defeating Huon Pine, Marvin May and eight others in the opening dash of six furlongs.

The popular Old Slip added another purse to his score when he defeated Tempest, Sir Peter and three others in the Black Gold handicap at six furlongs. He was up in the last few strides to defeat Tempest a head while Sir Peter lost second by a nose. It was the closest finish in several days. The winner's usual belated rush and his finding an opening on the inside in the stretch proved the deciding factor.

MAN O' WAR'S PROGENY ATTRACT ATTENTION AT METROPOLITAN TRACKS

NEW YORK, March 26. — While every man with a Derby hope expects to hav ehis candidates for the Kentucky classic at the top of their form before May 1, there are several horsemen who are confident of being ready for the Bowie and Havre de Grace meetings.

The Derby horses attracting most attention at the local courses are William Dupont's imported gray colt, The Satrap; A. C. Schwartz's Kentucky II H. W. Sage's Riprap, J. S. Cosden's Recreation, William Woodward's General Lee, File Maker and Bonnie Magin and Ed Heffner's Logan. All of these have wintered exceptionally well and seem to be improving with training.

Their trainers have high hopes for them, but say they won't be able to tell if they are Derby timber for another month or so.

Half a dozen juvenile sons and daughters of Man o' War are galloping daily at Belmont Park. They are a fine looking lot. That doesn't mean that all of them look like their illustrious sire, or that either expert or novice would pick all of them out as real good 2-year-olds. If their breeding was not known it is likely half of them would be considered only ordinary and inferior to any one of 50 other juveniles.

The pair belonging to Gifford A. Cochran are prize "lookers." They are a colt named Genii, out of Fairy Wand, and a filly out of Princess Palatine. They would be selected any place by any horseman as prospective champions. They are red chestnuts and greatly resemble their illustrious daddy.

JACKMANS PLAY LEHMAN AND SCHMIDT IN HANDBALL FINAL

The handball team of Jackman and Jackman will meet Lehman and Schmidt in the final match of the Y. M. C. A. industrial handball tournament at the Downtown Y. M. C. A. court next Wednesday night.

Jackman and Jackman defeated Koenig and Irland in a semifinal match played yesterday, 21-7, 17-21 and 21-15.

Lehman and Schmidt won their semifinal match from Richter and Dicknelte by default.

ENTRIES COMING IN FOR SCHAEFER TOURNEY

Entries are beginning to come in for E. A. Schaefer's second annual bowling tournament which will be held this year at the Schaefer-Zappala alleys. Numerous out-of-town teams have signified their intention of entering the tournament. The entry fee is $2 a man for each event, bowling extra.

All teams entering must show their A. B. C. cards or must pay the dues of $2.

This year medals will be given for each event.

Saturday and Sunday dates are being reserved for out-of-town teams. Teams entering with a team average of 850 or less will be considered booster teams and special prizes will be set aside for them. Teams that have entered to date are Selmeiers, Schaefer-Zappala, Friendly Specials, Schaefer's Recreation, Coca-Colas, Schaefer's No. 2 and quite a few others. Entries close April 5. For further information call O. L. Friendly, secretary, Cabany 1034 and 1028.

Stole 7 Bases.

Back in 1881 George Gore of the Cincinnati Nationals stole seven bases in a game, a record which has never been equaled in the big leagues.

132 Nominated For the $25,000 Latonia Derby

East Has Strong Representation in Classic at Mile and a Half.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., March 26.—Entries for the forty-fifth running of the Latonia Derby, released today by the Kentucky Jockey Club, show that practically all the horses entered in the Kentucky Derby are nominated for the $25,000 feature. The race closed for entries Feb. 15 with 132 nominations. In addition to the rich purse, the winner, if also the winner of the Kentucky Derby, will receive $5000 additional. The race will be run over a distance of a mile and a half at scale weights.

J. E. Widner's crack gelding, Osmand, favorite for this year's Kentucky Derby and Log Cabin Stable's Chance Shot, are not amond the entries. Widener will pin his hopes on the gray colt, Kiev, Royal Play and Laddie, while the Log Cabin Stable is not represented in the race. E. R. Bradley and H. P. Whitney lead the nominators with five each. Bradley has entered Boo, Birley M. C., Bit o'Love, Bewithus, Belgenland and Buddy Beaur and Whitney has named Valorous, Bostonian, Night Mail, Whiskers, Afterglow and Byrd.

As in the Kentucky Derby, the entries of Eastern stables overshadow those from rest of the country. New York has a strong hand in the Latonia Derby judging from the number of top-notchers nominated.

East Has Strong Hand.

The hopes of the East will be carried by such good colts and fillies as Fair Star, The Satrap, General Lee, Rip Rap, Dolan, Adios, Terry, Scapa Flow, War Eagle, Sweepster, Bostonian, Valorous, Kiev, Royal Play and Whiskery. The West has only a few good horses in the derby. The best of which are: Boo, General Haldeman, Rolled Stocking, Justice F, Candy, Blackbird, Fred Jr. and Scotland.

Horses owned by women are prominent. Five sportswomen have named thoroughbreds for the race. Mrs. H. E. Croissant heads the list with five nominations. Mrs. Whitney, who races under the name of the Greentree Stable, is represented by four racers. Other women owners with nominations are: Mrs. H. C. Phipps, Mrs. J. H. Byrd and Mrs. Walter M. Jeffrods.

Nine fillies are entered, five more than were nominated for the Kentucky Derby. Fair Star, leading money winner of 2-year-olds of 1926 is the best of the lot. Ledge, Sweet Corn, Recreation, Mary Jane, Lodina, Bit o' Love and Handy Mandy are the others named.

Six Imported Stars.

England is well represented. No fewer than six imported thoroughbreds are entered. The best are The Satrap and Kiev. Justice F, Enthusiastic Edward, Buchepalus and Kentucky II are the other English horses nominated. The last named is owned by A. C. Swartz, who races a number of jumpers in England. Kentucky II is a son of Royal Canopy.

Swingalong Stable, which entered a colt by King James-Di in the Kentucky Derby has given the races a name and he is entered in this year's renewal of the Latonia Derby. The colt has been named James Stuart.

Started Hit-and-Run.

The famous old Baltimore Orioles are credited with the invention of the hit-and-run play.

Birley M. C. went easily.

DOWN the STRETCH

Futurity at Tijuana.

THE final stake event of the Tijuana race meeting, The Futurity, will be decided at the border track today. The Futurity, at five furlongs, has drawn eleven 2-year-old thoroughbreds of which Alexander Pantages will carry top weight of 123 pounds. The juvenile is the only colt in training at Tijuana that has taken the measure of Allen Bros. crack colt Procter Hug, which won four straight races at Tijuana. The two youngsters will hook up in the Futurity today and will probably run one-two. The rest of the field is made up of medicre horses. Alexander Pantages and Bonfille will run as the Mission Stable entry while Sun Chen and Sun Meddler will race in the colors of Willis Sharpe Kilmer. The rest of the field consists of Peralta, Our Adele, Palo Dot, Henrietta Wildair, Fort Worth and Crispie Seth.

Crispie Seth, an entrant in the Futurity, is a Missouri bred 2-year-old. The colt was bred by Ben A. Jones at his stock farm near Parnell, Mo., and is a son of the good sire Seth.

Turner Saddles Winner.

FORMER Jockey Clarence Turner saddled his third winner of the Jefferson Park meeting when, Fred W. Barlow's 6-year-old gelding, The Vintner galloped home in front in the opening race on the program yesterday. Turner is having great success with Barlow's thoroughbreds. The 3-year-old, Watkinson has won two straight races since Turner took him in hand and shows promise of developing into a better than ordinary handicap horse.

Jockey Eddie Legere who rode Audley Farm's Creek Indian in the $15,000 Louisiana Derby yesterday has returned to the saddle after spending 10 days on the ground through the courtesy of the stewards of Jefferson Park. Legere was suspended for rough riding.

• • •

W. S. Heaton has decided to train his own thoroughbreds for the present and the Jefferson Park stewards licensed him Friday. He saddled his colt Bob Rogers in the Louisiana Derby yesterday.

Ryerson Wins Golf Title.

By the Associated Press.

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla., March 26.—John B. Ryerson, crack golfer from Cooperstown, N. Y., and former Yale star, annexed another Florida title here today when he defeated Tommy Aycock, young Jacksonville player, 2 and 1, in the 36-hole final contest of the amateur tournament for the winter championship of Florida.

Celtic Beats Falkirk.

AVON PARK, Fla., March 26.—e old saying that "Anything can ppen in baseball" still holds good. 's easy enough to win pennants hen you're sitting around the ate fire in the winter time—but 's a long, long road from January o October. And a rocky one, too.

'BABE' RUTH

am Jones, the l Yankee pitcher, who is now ith the Browns, appened into camp recent-. And what a d luck story had to tell. e Melillo, a t little ball ayer, was sick d late in reporting and not all a certain-this season. d Mullen, whom Dan Howley d counted on as a regular third ker, pulled up with a bad knee. w Dan Howley is right up ainst it—and what looked like pretty fair ball club is shot to eces.

These are the breaks of baseball and mighty tough ones, too. Of urse, the Browns didn't figure as rong pennant contenders, but the ry things that have happened to em also happen to other clubs d ruin all their chances. Take ashington for instance. Two eks ago they looked like coming ampions. Then Walter Johnson t a crack on the shins and pulled a broken bone in his leg. He'll out of the game for the first w weeks of the season and ucky" Harris will have a much gher time keeping up there.

Young Players Will Tell.

at's what I mean when I say "anything can happen in ball" and that's why it is fool- to try and pick winners in . It just can't be done. About y club can do is dig in and ball, and hope for the best.

hat I'm most interested in now is the young players. y're the chaps who will tell the y of this pennant race, and a of others in the future. In respect I figure the Yankees pretty lucky. We have the best ing outfit of kid ball players amp this season that I've seen many a moon. Not all of them stick, of course. But they'll back. And some of the kids we send out to the farms this g will be in there slugging old apple a couple of seasons now.

We've got kids like this Wilcey ore, the pitcher, and Elias k, an outfielder, and Jules a, an infielder, who are ready t now. Moore is about the looking pitching prospect I've come up in some years. He's rangy fellow, with long arms plenty of power. And he's one her who can throw a natural r, and who can make a ball . He stood the Reds on their s recently and he'll help plug that Yankee pitching that 're all talking about.

Easy to Be Injured.

t I'm getting off my subject. I started out to talk about the bad breaks that ruin a looking team. Accidents make trouble than anything I . And that's one of the bad s about this Southern train-. Playing exhibition games, the have to work on all sorts of k diamonds and bad playing . Only a short time ago I a muscle in my leg—all be-e the ground around third hadn't been properly worked and was hard as a rock.

's easy for a player to smear elf up in the spring. And a of the injuries that come in the ing trip show up a couple of ths later and put a fellow out e game when the season is on. e little old "if" is a mighty big this time of year. The Yan- will win "if"—. The Athletics to cop "if." And right on the line.

he chap who can haul the "ifs" of the baseball dictionary will wise bird. And until you can that, it's bunk trying to pick er's winners along in March. cularly when there are five or clubs that seem to be about par.

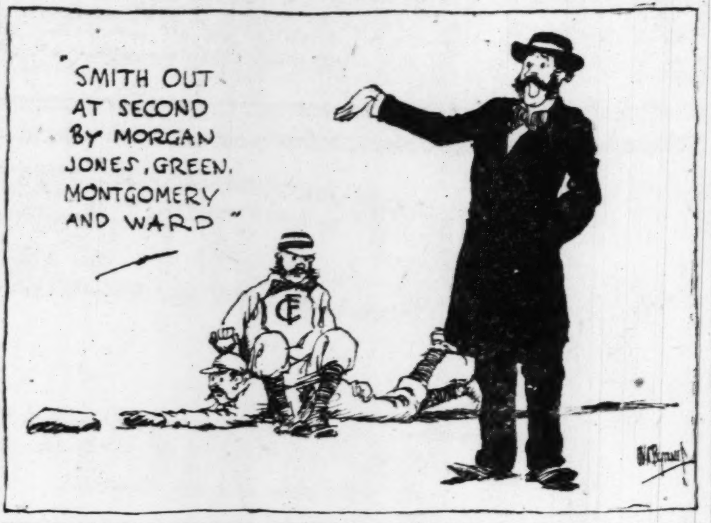
Umpire's Task Was Anything But Easy in Early Days of Baseball

One of His Duties Was to Eject "Professional Players" From "Great Association" Games.

By John B. Foster.

(Copyright, 1927.)



"SMITH OUT AT SECOND BY MORGAN JONES, GREEN, MONTGOMERY AND WARD"

THE last rattle of musketry had hardly died away after the Civil War before the rule makers of baseball began, in 1865, to reconstruct the regulations of the national game, and in the winter of 1866 they brought forth what was then deemed to be an ideal code of rules to govern the sport on the field.

Here are some of them of interest to the enthusiast of today who has little conception of the way they played baseball in the past!

The umpire was told that "balls bounding to the bat, going over the batsman's head, or to the side he does not strike from, are 'unfair balls and must be called before warning.'"

A "jerked ball" was one delivered by touching the side of the body with the arm. A "thrown ball" was one sent with the elbow bent. A "pitched ball" could only be sent in with a straight arm, swinging perpendicular.

Could Not Strike Out.

A "balked or called ball"—note the word "called" was dead and no player could be put out on it. No strike at such a ball was to be counted, not even a strike made intentionally to strike out. They were wont to play so long then that they sometimes purposely tried to strike out to get home to dinner.

No batsman could be put out on three strikes if the third ball he struck was a balked or called ball.

The batsman was not allowed to take a step either backward or forward when he swung at the ball. Think what would happen to the bunt these days if that rule were in effect.

The rule about a block ball, curiously enough, was much the same as it is now, and yet between 1867 and a later period, the rule was modified, but eventually was changed back to make the block complete. Crowds around the playing fields made the block ball rule absolutely necessary, because partisans would help the home team and hide the ball from the visiting team.

The umpire was compelled not only to call all foul balls, which seems quite essential, but he also called out how and by whom a player was put out. Thus, if a runner were thrown out between bases, the umpire announced, "Smith out at second by Morgan, Jones, Green, Montgomery and Ward." That would jar the modern umpire.

Umpire Had to Work.

ALL persons who played for money were called professional players. As such they could not play any ball game with the "great association clubs." Any umpire who learned that there was such a player in a nine in a game in which the umpire was officiating, was ordered at once to call time and remove the obnoxious professional from the nine, or resign his job as umpire, thereby making the game "null and void."

And what times they had trying to locate those pernicious professionals!

Once when a game was to be played in New Jersey, where baseball was the great Saturday afternoon sport, and the way to the ferries was lined with poolrooms in which gambling on baseball was as common as it is today on horse racing, two teams took the field for their first inning.

Immediately the captain of one team insisted upon the removal of a "professional player" from the other team. The captain of the second team wanted a professional player put out of the first team. The umpire called for evidence. The arguments became warmer and warmer. They lasted long and the crowd got interested. By and by, as the sun was sinking behind the ranges the players, the umpire and the crowd moved enmasse in a running fight toward the ferry returning to New York. It was one thing to order a professional player removed from the game, and another to get him out.

Millers Sure Of Strong Foe In Cup Match

Holley Team of Detroit, Led by Visser, Creates a Sensation.

The Ben Miller club, which opposes the Wellstons in a St. Louis soccer League game at the St. Louis University Field this afternoon, is certain of strong opposition in its next national challenge cup game. The Millers will oppose Sparta (of Chicago) here April 3. The St. Louis team will be facing one of the stronges teams it has ever tackled.

Probably the most interesting phase of the cup competition in the West is the successful march of the Holley team of Detroit to the semifinal. Gerritt Visser, Holland's center forward in the last Olympic Games at Paris in 1924, is leading the Holley club and he has scored 17 out of his club's 25 goals in cup games. That would seem to indicate he is the whole "works" and, in consequence, a team that can stop Visser should be able to beat Holley. That's what the Buda Football Club of Harvey, Ill., thought before last Sunday's game. Buda bottled Visser up pretty well through the first half but he got away for one goal. Buda led at the interval, 2 to 1.

Visser Wins the Match.

Then, at the opening of the second period, Visser crashed through the tying marker. A few minutes later he put his team in the lead with his third goal and when the game was over, Visser had beaten Buda, 3 to 2.

Today's program at Grand and Laclede avenue calls for a first game between the White Banners and Raticans and a second game between those recent cup rivals, the Millers and Wellstons. Several changes will be made in each lineup.

The admission charge today and for subsequent league games will be 50 cents.

Referee Roche Upheld.

The Emergency Cup Committee of the U. S. F. A. upheld Referee C. E. Roche of St. Louis in his action at Chicago last Sunday when he forfeited a second round game to the Sparta Club. The latter team was leading, 2 to 1, when Cuthbert of the Bricklayers refused to leave the field when ordered off by the referee, five minutes before the close.

St. Louis Gets Western Soccer Cup Semifinal

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, March 26.

THE Western semifinal in the United States Football Association between the Ben Millers of St. Louis and the Sparta F. C. of Chicago was tonight ordered played in St. Louis, April 3.

The other Western semifinal goes to Detroit with the Holley team of that city to meet the winner of tomorrow's game between the American Hungarians of Cleveland and the MacKenzies of Akron.

The awards were made tonight at a meeting of the Cup Committee of the U. S. F. A., held in the association's offices.

YOUNG GOLFERS TIE "VETS" IN EXHIBITION

By the Associated Press.

PINEHURST, N. C., March 26.—Although not successful in the recent tournament play of the United North and South Women's golf championship, two youthful feminine players, Virginia Van Wie of Chicago and Maureen Orcutt of Englewood, N. J., metropolitan champion, tied two veterans, Miss Glenna Collett, Providence, R. I., former national champion, and Miss Louise Fordyce of Youngstown, O., today in a four-ball exhibition. Miss Collett won the tournament championship yesterday and Miss Fordyce was the 1926 titlist.

Each pair had a best ball of 75. At the nine-hole mark the youngsters led by one hole, but on the home stretch the champion pair won three holes, Miss Fordyce getting a par four on the 18th to square the match.

MONTREAL, March 26.—Ottawa Senators closed the regular National Hockey League season tonight with a 3-2 victory over the Montreal Maroons. Play was listless, with both sides making frequent substitutions.

Variety in Tennis Helps Game and Brings Victories

Helen Wills Declares Long Rally Is Passing in Favor of Change on Each Stroke — Tilden Play Stands Out as Example.

By Helen Wills.

(Copyright, 1927.)

YEARS ago, before he joined the ranks of star tennis players, William Tilden wrote an article, a challenge really, called "Variety, the Spice of Life." It was just at the time when the game was "turning over a new leaf."

A few players were beginning to realize the handicaps of a one-sided game, and the advantage of variety—one of the most valuable assets to a tennis game. In those days, most players had one particular stroke, and stayed with it, the drive or the hop was usually the keynote of all their play.

Helen Wills

Tilden stuck with his assertion that a tennis game should be made up of a variety of strokes and tactics, and came out, finally, as the greatest master of variety that tennis has ever seen. I think this is the very reason why the onlooker never tires of watching Tilden play. His advice, "never give your adversary the ball that he likes" is always carried out in his own play, only more so—he gives him hundreds of different kinds of balls that he doesn't like.

Thus, the rallies in which Tilden engages are always entertaining, never monotonous.

Changes Attract Watchers.

CONSTANT change of stroke, of pace, of spin makes those in the audience say "This IS tennis!" The names "Tilden" and "Variety" might easily be termed synonymous.

I am forced to admit that women's tennis, on a whole, lacks variety, although in the last few years there has been marked progress in its direction. Until not so very long ago, women's tennis was played entirely in the back court. It was perhaps Mlle. Lenglen who showed to women players the value of net play when she first went to Wimbledon about 10 years ago.

Net play does take a great deal of endurance and strength, and women players have thought that they are not strong enough to carry out a net attack throughout a closely contested match. I think, however, that long rallies from the baseline, with innumerable drives from corner to corner, leave the player even more tired at the end of the match than the rallies to the net.

Day of Rallies Past.

THE day of rallies, of 50 or more baseline balls each, is past, at least, should be past, and is, certainly, out of style in the tennis world.

Among the women players, Miss Elizabeth Ryan and Mrs. Kathleen McKane Godfree stand out as having grasped the full meaning of the term variety in tennis. They can carry on their games either at the net or in the backcourt. They have a variety of strokes and plans of play.

Scrap Between Rickard And Fugazy Headlines New York Fistic Season

Humbert, His Challenge Accepted or Not, Enters Ring of Promotion Against Champion Impresario, Ready to Do Battle to Finish.

By Sparrow McGann.

(Copyright, 1927.)

Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, March 26.—Just about as interesting as the ring battles promised for this year, maybe the feature, is the scrap now starting between New York's two great promoters—Tex Rickard and Humbert Fugazy. Let them be introduced as Joe Humphreys would do it: "Ladies and gemmun, a fight to the finish is now to go on. In this corner Tex Rickard of New York. In this corner Humbert Fugazy of New York."

"Mr. Rickard is accepted throughout the wurruld as America's leading fight promoter. Mr. Rickard, ladies, gemmun, has staged some memorable bouts, bouts that will go sounding down the ages like an iron bowl down a bowling alley.

"He is a cagey and canny man. He is a wise guy and a dollar that stays in a man's pocket when he beckons has to be glued there.

"In the other corner we have Humbert Fugazy, who gives the fans a run for their money straight across the board. This season he secured the Polo Grounds. Then he took a sock on the chin from his great rival when Mr. Rickard sewed up all the heavyweights, past, present and yet to be born.

Fails to Take Count.

"But does Senor Fugazy take the count? You have guessed it, he does not. Up he springs, calls all the writing boys to a nice feed at a nice hotel and produces the welterweight champion of the world, Pete Latzo, who signs for a battle in defense of his title with Joe Dundee of Baltimore, commonly regarded as the leading contender for this crown.

"Mr. Rickard, far from punch drunk, counters with the assertion that he has Dundee tied to a contract for three fights. This he maintains will prevent Dundee from mingling with Latzo under the grand signor's auspices, and declares he is ready to go to court to block the Fugazy lead. He also cites the august New York Boxing Commission as another ace in the hole. Inasmuch as Rickard might be able to satisfy the commission, Dundee is bound to keep a date with Willie Harmon before he does battle with Latzo. If the commissioners ruled thus, the fight would fall in May, and Fugazy's move would be blocked.

Boxers See More Money.

"Fans who appreciate a good show might not like this, because Fugazy has a habit of starting in with his opening four-rounders and supplying bouts that proceed with cumulative interest up to—and including—the final setto.

"So there they both are, gemmun and ladies. Make your bets and take your choice. The battle is on."

Fans are rejoicing to see that Tommy Loughran is to have a chance to shine in the metropolitan spotlight.

Loughran has been trying hard to break into the big picture. Fugazy will give him his chance. He is after Jack Delaney. Jack and his manager, Pete Reilly, play no favorites. The man with the money interests them and either he or Humbert will have to lay the coin on the table.

Fights have frequently not lived up to advance expectations as thrill producers. The lighter boys usually do. Taking this fact into consideration, Fugazy may yet grin triumphantly at Tex, even though the latter seems to have a mortgage on the big fellows.

In the meantime, the wearers of the cauliflower ears are rejoicing. They figure the competition for attractions means more money for them. They add the final touch which ought to go with any Joe Humphrey announcement: "May the best bidder win."

Goldberg Will Meet Lew Terry

Tom Pivac Matched With Gene Lorraine on Wednesday's Boxing Card.

Announcement was made last night by Matchmaker Jack Tippett that he has matched Paul Steadman, local featherweight title claimant, with Jimmy Dale of Decatur, Ill., for a six-round feature of next Wednesday night's professional boxing card at the New Coliseum. Steadman's only defeat during the past two years was sustained in a match with George Butch, who outpointed him in a 10-rounder at the Battery arena last summer. Dale has won his last six bouts on knockouts.

Tippett also announced a heavyweight bout between Tom Pivac of this city and Gene Lorraine of Detroit, Mich., and a return match between Victor Windle and Tommy Smith, local welterweights, as other six-round events of next week's program.

Lew Terry, South Broadway lightweight, and Eddie Goldberg, his former amateur rival, who recently returned from a successful campaign in the East, have been matched for another six rounder.

Tippett plans to schedule four preliminary events of the four-round variety and an exhibition bout of three rounds, to complete his program. Butch Steiner, Norman Travis, Sammy Schnemann, Wop Stonum, Mutt Robbins, Jimmy McCarthy and Ardell Hoffman are among the fighters in line for prelim contests.

ENTRIES FOR CLASS EVENT CLOSE APRIL 3

With but one week left to file entries for the annual class tournament of the St. Louis Ten Pin Bowling Association, Secretary Heidel urges team captains to give the matter of entering their prompt attention. The tournament will be held at the Washington alleys, beginning April 26, and entries close April 3. Blanks have been mailed to all captains and additional blanks may be obtained from Heidel at 813½ Chestnut street.

Girl, 16, Hailed As Tennis Find

CANNES, March 26.—The brilliant careers of Suzanne Lenglen and Helen Wills have stimulated the appetite of Riviera tennis crowds for women players of their caliber and every ambitious manager of tennis tournaments feels the need of personalities.

Betty Nuthall, the 16-year-old English girls' champion, is the hope of the Riviera tennis promoters at present. Her quick rise from the child-wonder class to the position of serious opponent of crack-players at the Cannes tournaments bears out what enthusiastic critics in England have said of her from the first. When she recently defeated Mrs. Anthony Corbiere of Boston 6—0, 6—4, the managers sat up and were hopeful. Mrs. Corbiere's remarkably steady and brainy play make her a dangerous opponent for the best players at Cannes.

Betty's smashing drive, although not backed up as yet by a uniformly steady game, will bring her in among the first eight at Wimbledon this year, critics say, since seeing her Riviera play. Many of them consider her development more remarkable than was Joan Fry's at a relative stage of her career.

ST. LOUIS FIVE GETS TOTAL OF 2886 IN ELECTRIC TOURNEY

The Western Electric National Bowling Tournament was rolled yesterday in eight cities. Teams rolled in Cleveland, Detroit, New York, San Francisco, Denver, Chicago, St. Paul and St. Louis. The teams competed for the General Manager's Trophy one of the finest bowling trophies in the country. St. Louis Division won the event last year and has an excellent chance to repeat, as the local five rolled 2886 on the Schaefer Delmar Alleys yesterday. E. T. Almquist was the star, rolling games of 236, 237 and 179 for 652 total. Following are the scores:

A. H. Gaines	193	189	233	615
E. T. Almquist	236	237	179	652
W. J. Hacking	193	182	180	555
W. S. Turnipseed	180	188	158	526
J. G. Petkus	156	201	181	538
Totals	958	997	931	2886

Kuhnert Wins Match.

Walter Kuhnert, A. Kosiscak, P. Diesel and J. Mindak won their way to the semi-finals of the Fisher industrial elimination tournament on the Schaefer Delmar alleys yesterday. Kuhnert eliminated M. Scharitz, 613 to 586; A. Kociscak defeated F. Simpson, 524 to 469; J. Mindak was winner from H. Lampe, 565 to 494, and P. Diesel trimmed E. Chase, 543 to 457. The semifinals will be bowled a week from next Saturday, as some of the players will be in Peoria for the A. B. C. next Saturday. The pairings for the semifinals are: Kuhnert vs. Kociscak and Diesel vs. Mindak.

Girls' Indoor Card.

The schedule in the Girls' Municipal Indoor Baseball League at Mullanphy Community Center for the week is as follows:

Tuesday—Bachelor I vs. Bachelor II, 7:30; Wagner Electric vs. Riddick, 8:30.

Friday—Sherman Community Center vs. O'Fallon Park Team, 7:30; Sherman Park Team vs. Southern Und., 8:30.

St. Michael's draw a bye.

Leopards Win Cage Title.

The Leopards defeated the Bears by a score of 28 to 27 to gain the Downtown Y. M. C. A. basketball title yesterday afternoon. Eight teams, divided in two divisions made up the league.

THE HUNTING . . CALL . .

By ALEC MERMOD

THE annual puppy trials of the St. Louis Pointer and Setter Club came off as scheduled last Saturday and Sunday at Farmington, Mo., and while there were not as many starters as expected, the meet was fairly successful, and two splendid future prospects were shown.

"Buddy," a setter owned by Graham Wilson of St. Louis, was declared winner of first prize. "Jack M.," another setter, owned by H. E. Mueller of Jackson, Mo., ran a close second. In fact, these two puppies were so evenly matched that it was a hard matter for the judges to make a decision.

"Seiberts Bozo Blutz," owned by George Seibert of St. Louis, received third place.

Several other puppies received honorable mention, i. e., "Burleigh's Frank," a pointer, owned by George P. Burleigh of St. Louis; "Lindenwood Sue," another pointer owned by Dr. W. C. Wilson of St. Louis, and "Sissy," a setter, owned by Graham Wilson.

Of the 21 starters, there were 11 setters and 10 pointers, showing that the members of the club are pretty evenly divided as to choice of breeds.

Every dog man in and around St. Louis knows Graham Wilson, for he has devoted much time and quite a bit of money to the development and training of shooting dogs, leaning decidedly towards the setter.

Mueller, owner of the setter "Jack M.," while not so well known as Wilson, is to be congratulated in the ownership of such a promising youngster.

Birds were not as plentiful as was reported, though the weather conditions were unfavorable, which may account for part of it.

Conquering the Elk.

READING an article in one of the monthly sporting magazines, written by Dall de Weese of Canon City, Colo., wherein he describes his trip into the Jackson's Hole country to count the elk, prompts me to write a few lines about both the author and the elk.

First, De Weese, so well known in the West, is one of the finest sportsmen I have ever met, and I believe he is one of the best big game hunters, if not the best, in America, which accounts for his selection by the Izaak Walton League to make a count of the elk in Jackson's Hole.

Owing to the severe winters during the past 20 years, the elk have suffered very badly and, in consequence, the Government purchased several hundred acres of hay land and established a winter refuge. The Izaak Walton League also established a refuge and the ranchers have helped out, still the elk lacked winter feed, and more hay land is needed.

So many different reports have been coming in from time to time regarding the estimated number of elk in the Hole, varying from 20,000 to as many as 40,000, that the League determined to obtain as close as possible an actual count, and induced Dall de Weese to take the trip.

Space does not permit giving a detailed description of the trip which is interesting, so will only give his total count of elk actually seen, which was 6114. To this De Weese adds 1222 for elk that may have been in the country ridden over but not seen, and another 2000 that may be in the country not ridden over, so his estimate is 9336, instead of 20, 30 or 40 thousand guessed at by others.

Elk were at one time very plentiful in all the Rocky Mountain region, but civilization and the hunters have reduced the vast herds to such an alarming extent that many states have prohibited the shooting of elk for an indefinite period, and various winter refuges have been established.

Nearly everyone knows what an elk looks like, but not many have been fortunate enough to kill one of these splendid animals.

The elk, like other members of the antlered tribe, shed their horns each year, along in January or February, and grow a new pair by the following September. The popular idea is that each year another point is added to the horns or antlers, but this does not always prove to be the case, for a buck or bull may have a six-point antler this year and only a five-point next year, owing to his being sick or living on poor food.

Another fallacy regarding the elk is the supposed value of the hide for shoes. As a matter of fact, while elk skin is tough, it is very porous and entirely useless for shoe leather. About the only article made from tanned elk hide is a moccasin worn in the extreme North when snow-shoes are used, where the weather is extremely cold and the snow is powdery; in wet snow these moccasions absorb moisture like a sponge.

About Game Laws.

I AM often asked certain questions concerning the game laws, and I will answer a few to the best of my ability.

The question of the legality of transporting game from one state to another is one that comes up frequently.

For instance, both the Federal and State laws allow duck shooting in Arkansas during the month of January, while the Federal law allows no duck shooting in Missouri after Dec. 31, while State laws of Missouri permits the shooting of migratory water fowl during January. Consequently the State deputies will not molest anyone with ducks in their possession providing this person has a Missouri hunting license. The Federal Wardens will not make any trouble if the hunter shows that the ducks were legally killed, his having an Arkansas nonresident hunting license will, I think, be all the evidence necessary.

Now comes another question that is not so easily answered satisfactorily. For instance, any hunter from Missouri after purchasing an Illinois nonresident license may, between Nov. 10 and Nov. 15, kill two cock pheasants in any one day and may have six in his possession, which he is allowed to carry openly out of the State, but if any Missouri deputy is so minded he may arrest anyone having pheasants in his possession, even though he has positive proof that the birds were killed legally in Illinois, for our State laws read having game in possession during closed seasons is prima facia evidence of guilt. However, I do not believe that any of our deputies will bother any sportsman whom he knows has an Illinois nonresident license and can prove that the birds were killed in that State.

It is not the aim of our Game Commissioner or his deputies to work a hardship on reputable sportsmen.

Several have asked if I thought it necessary for a St. Louisan to have a Missouri State license who possessed an Illinois nonresident license and did all his shooting in Illinois, to this question the answer is YES.

AMERICAN BOXERS SAIL FOR ENGLAND

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 26. — Four American boxers, including Yale Okun, New York light heavyweight, sailed for England today to engage in a series of bouts on April 21 at the Olympic Club in London. Okun will meet Phil Scott, British heavyweight champion, in a 20-round battle.

Accompanying Okun on the trip were Archie Walker, welterweight, and Milton Cohen and Pancho Dencio, featherweights.

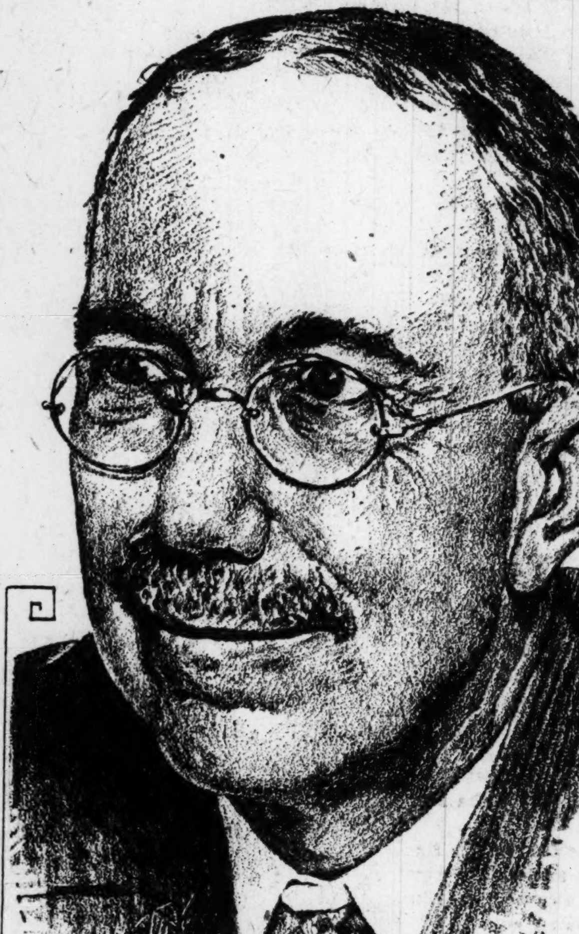
THE INSIDE STORY OF THE ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE

$63,000,000 SPENT TO PUT OVER PROHIBITION—ANNUAL EXPENSES $2,000,000

Vast Political Power Revealed by Minutes Of Governing Board

Raises Huge Funds Through Pulpit, Sways Congress With Ballot

WAYNE B. WHEELER



"A SMALLISH man, with sallow complexion, Wheeler is not an impressive figure to look at. It is only when he speaks that you begin to get a taste of his quality. He is fluent, with a gift for pungent phrases. At his tongue's end he has an array of statistics and arguments with which to meet challenging queries about prohibition. He knows every word in the prohibition laws, every word in the court decisions upon them. More important, he knows the record of every Congressman, and knows the ways by which a waverer in the dry ranks may be brought back into line. Wayne B. Wheeler is a man of parts—make no mistake about that. The results he has got prove his ability."

THIS is the first installment of an article which gives the completest account yet written of the inside workings of the Anti-Saloon League, the organization which more than any other agency was responsible for the writing of prohibition into the Federal Constitution. The article is based upon investigations of the Reed campaign fund committee of the Senate, conducted both at Washington and at Westerville, Ohio, the league's headquarters, and upon independent inquiries by the Washington bureau of the Post-Dispatch. It contains many hitherto unpublished facts bearing upon the league's political and financial methods.

By Charles G. Ross.
Chief Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

Copyright, 1927, by the St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, March 26.

THE Anti-Saloon League has set up at Washington and throughout the United States a super-government without parallel in American history. Disclosures by the Reed Campaign-Fund Investigating Committee of the Senate prove this.

The league came within the scope of the committee's powers because of its admitted—indeed, its boasted—activity in seeking to influence the election of members of Congress.

Wayne B. Wheeler of Washington, the league's general counsel and legislative agent, wielder of the whip which the league holds over "dry" Congressmen, was placed on the stand at the beginning of the investigation and under a searching examination by the committee chairman, Senator Reed of Missouri, threw a flood of light on the league's philosophy and practices. He revealed among other things, that the league is in the habit of paying "honorariums" to Congressmen for making dry speeches outside of Congress. The testimony of Wheeler, added to other facts subsequently written into the record, shows the league to be a political and propagandist agency of vast power.

Beyond a doubt, it was the chief instrument by which prohibition was forced upon the country; it remains the chief instrument of resistance to the demand for modification. It makes and unmakes Representatives and Senators; it hectors Presidents; it has an amazing record of success in its efforts to control legislation and appointments; it carries on a ceaseless and widespread propaganda, reaching even into the chambers of the Federal judiciary; it is able on occasion to bend the enforcement plans of the Government to meet its own desires.

The purpose of the writer is to give, from the record, a collection of facts supporting the foregoing general statement of the league's aims and successes.

Private Organization With Government Functions.

One reads with astonishment the evidence of the league's close partnership with officers of the Government. Here is a private organization, privately financed, without any official standing whatsoever, which yet is able so to entwine itself about the Government as to become almost indistinguishable from it. For verification of this, read the assertion by Wheeler, in the early days of the Harding Administration, that many of those seeking places on the prohibition enforcement staff "take it for granted that they must have the indorsement of this office before they can secure a position." Read his boast at the same time that "we have never had as many friends in these responsible positions as we now have."

The Anti-Saloon League has disposed of a sum of money which even a Pennsylvania politician might envy. When Wheeler appeared before the Reed Committee, he was asked by the chairman whether he had stated in speeches that approximately $35,000,000 had been spent by the dry forces in the fight for the prohibition amendment. He said that this was about the amount spent.

That even this large total may be an underestimate is indicated in the report of a "Plan of Financial Reorganization of the Anti-Saloon League of America for State, National and International Work," which fixed the amount at $50,000,000. This report was adopted by the National Committee on Financial Management of the Anti-Saloon League of America on July 21, 1919, was indorsed at a meeting of the State superintendents of the league and was adopted by the national executive committee of the league. Under the heading of "Foreign Prohibition Work" the report said:

"When it is borne in mind that the United States of America holds only about one-seventeenth of the world's population and that the propaganda during the last 25 years which resulted in securing prohibition in this country has cost in the neighborhood of $50,000,000, and that in America only about 7 per cent is illiterate, some conception of the stupendous world task is possible."

Spends About $2,000,000 In Yearly Work.

Official records show that the national league and its state branches spent from 1920 to 1925, inclusive, a total of $13,065,313; in other words, the league has been spending upward of $2,000,000 a year since the adoption of prohibition.

Adding the total for 1920-25 to the $50,000,000 estimated as the cost of putting over the eighteenth amendment, we reach an aggregate of $63,065,313. If it is estimated that $2,500,000 was spent by the league in 1919, and $2,000,000 in 1926, we come to a grand total of $67,565,313 expenditures for prohibition propaganda. This sum represents the expenditures by all dry organizations up to the adoption of the eighteenth amendment and of the Anti-Saloon League alone thereafter.

The following table shows the receipts and disbursements of the National Anti-Saloon League and its 37 State branches from 1929 to 1925, inclusive:

Where does the league get its money? In large part, as the records show, from meetings addressed by paid speakers. Wheeler testified before the Reed committee on June 16, 1926, that the league was in the habit of paying "honorariums" to Senators and Represenatives for making prohibition speeches. He named Rep. W. D. Upshaw of Georgia (who has since been defeated), Rep. John J. Cooper of Ohio, Rep. (now Senator) A. W. Barkley of Kentucky, Rep. B. G. Lowrey of Mississippi, Senator Wesley L. Jones of Washington and Senators Frank B. Willis and Simeon D. Fess of Ohio as men who had been paid for speaking.

The records indicate that the primary purpose for which members of Congress and other spellbinders are employed is to drum up funds for the league. Reporting to the executive committee of the league February 18, 1925, Dr. Howard H. Russell, founder of the league, said:

"The contribution department did its work both by raising funds at public meetings and by private canvass, and also by the powerful propaganda of the numerous well-attended meetings throughout the whole country. In 1919 Russell accompanied Mr. Bryan (the late William Jennings Bryan) four months, taking subscriptions for the contribution department which totaled over $700,000."

More Than $17,000,000 Collected at Meetings.

The American Issue Publishing Co. of Westerville, owned by the Anti-Saloon League, maintains a lecture bureau to promote the collection of money for the league. Under the publishing company's auspices, according to a report by Dr. Ernest H. Cherrington, its general manager, on Jan. 1, 1925, there were held during the preceding 10 years, "throughout the length and breadth" of the United States, a total of 21,889 mass meetings, at which subscriptions amounting to $17,328,060 were taken. These meetings were exclusive, of course, of the thousands of meetings held by state leagues for money-raising purposes.

An exhibit in the record of testimony before the Reed committee shows that the subscription department of the American Issue paid out $645,934 in speakers' salaries between 1914 and 1926. Richmond P. Hobson, former Congressman, who has been called the "Father of the eighteenth amendment," received $171,249 as salary for speaking for the subscription department between 1914 and 1922. The Pennsylvania State League, as the record shows, sought to get Hobson for a week at $700, during a recent campaign.

Testimony before the Reed committee with respect to Rep. Upshaw of Georgia, one of the dry leaders of the House, shows plainly that he was engaged for his ability to make his audiences sign on the dotted line. Upshaw wrote a letter to a league official, which was made a part of the record, setting out that an outlay to him of $26 ($25 as an honorarium and $1 for taxicab fare) had resulted in subscriptions of $1,168 at a meeting he addressed at a Baptist Church. It was clear from Upshaw's letter that he thought he was not getting enough for his services.

"During the past ten years," reported Dr. Cherrington on Jan. 1, 1925, "a large number of the strongest platform prohibition advocates that could be found have been used through this bureau to preach the gospel of prohibition and our individual, national and world responsibility in connection with the prohibition movement." He said there was no way to estimate the value of the services which had been rendered by such men as (to name a few on his list) William J. Bryan, Richmond P. Hobson, Senator Frank B. Willis, Dr. Sam W. Small, Dr. P. A. Baker, Dr. H. H. Russell, Dr. Wayne B Wheeler, William E. ("Pussyfoot") Johnson, Rep. Upshaw, Gov. Malcom R. Patterson "and many others."

How a Minority Works To Run a Majority.

The success of the Anti-Saloon League is the world's outstanding example of what can be done by an organized minority to fasten its will on the majority. Take Missouri, for example. Missouri rejected state-wide prohibition by a heavy majority. In the last senatorial primary it nominated, over the straight-out dry candidates, two candidates with wet leanings. By all the usual ways of political reckoning it is a wet state; if it is dry, it is dry only by a small majority. Yet, of the 16 Congressmen from Missouri, not more than four, under present conditions, would vote wet.

The Missouri drys, with a scant half of the votes, or less than half, on a popular referendum, have at least three-fourths of the votes of the State's representatives in the House. The explanation of this anomaly is only partly geographical. Partly it lies in the fact that the Anti-Saloon League, well organized, well financed and ably led, is on guard, holding over the heads of faltering dry Congressmen the threat of political extinction if they go counter to the league's decrees.

The league enters the primaries of both parties. Its one test is whether a candidate is wet or dry. How he stands on the tariff, on foreign affairs, on any of the other great issues before the country, is a matter of indifference. It is likewise of no concern to the league if in his personal habits he is wet; so long as his votes on prohibition are "right" the league will support him. He may be among the lustiest drinkers in Congress (and it is a notorious fact that some of the "dryest" of the Congressmen come within that description), and yet, if he votes dry, the league will answer his call for aid with a battery of speakers and a stream of literature.

Political Methods Are of Sound Practicality.

The intensely practical character of the league's political methods was well illustrated in last year's Illinois campaign. After the Reed committee's disclosures that the campaign of Frank L. Smith, the Republican nominee for the Senate, had been financed with a slush fund greater than that which the Senate in the Newberry case had pronounced "dangerous to the perpetuity of a free government," a slush fund, moreover, of which one-half was contributed by Samuel Insull, the public utilities magnate—after these disclosures, a considerable dry element in the State brought about the nomination of Hugh Magill on an independent ticket. The league, however, supported Smith as against Magill, on the sole ground that Smith had the better chance to win.

Throughout the record there are frequent references to the political work of the league. Wayne B. Wheeler testified: "Our organization takes an interest in the nomination and election of candidates for office who have to do with the enforcement of the prohibition laws or the enactment of laws relating to that subject matter." He said that these officers included members of state legislatures, members of Congress, governors of states and Presidents.

Reporting on the elections of 1924, Wheeler told his Executive Committee that Cole Blease of South Carolina, who was opposed by the league for the Senate, would have been defeated "if we had had funds to organize the State, or if we had an organization that was prepared to do the work as it is done in many other states."

What is the league's plan of organization? Curiously, as it must seem to anyone who knows the league only by name, it has no members in the ordinary sense of that term. Subscribers to its funds, however, receive the American Issue, the official organ of the league and also, as has been shown, its chief agency for the raising of money. The league was formed in 1893. As now constituted, it is composed of a national body, the Anti-Saloon League of America, and the state leagues. The national organization controls.

How and Where League's Church Work Is Done.

Each state league has a State Superintendent who is appointed by the national superintendent, subject to confirmation by the State officers and the National Executive Committee. There is a national board of directors composed of the State Superintendents and such other members as they select. This board meets every two years. The active governing body of the league is the Executive Committee. Nearly all the officials of the league, state and national, are ordained Protestant ministers.

The league does its work to a large degree through church organizations. It has called itself "the church in political action." To what extent is it justified in this claim that it represents the churches of the United States in matters pertaining to prohibition?

Some figures throwing light on this question are available from league reports. In one for 1919, it is stated that the league was reaching with "field day services"—services, that is to say, for the collection of money—about 16 per cent of the churches ordinarily accessible to Anti-Saloon League speakers. The churches ordinarily accessible are those of the Baptist, Methodist, Presbyterian and some other numerically smaller denominations. Among the denominations not admitting Anti-Saloon League solicitors are the Catholic, Lutheran, Christian Science and Unitarian.

In 1919, the membership of the denominations co-operating with the league was 20,000,000. Out of this number, it was stated that the league had about 300,000 subscribers, and that 80 per cent or more of the funds received came from subscriptions taken in churches.

From these figures it appears that in 1919, 300,000 persons were subscribing the great bulk of the money for the passage of legislation to regulate the personal habits of the nation. Figures for 1921 indicate that the number of church subscribers to the league had fallen to 225,000.

A note of warning was sounded by Dr. Cherrington in a report to the league's executive committee in 1925. "The subscription department," he said, "has collected in cash on all subscriptions during the last 12 years $4,500,000 and it is estimated that we now have on our books in good subscriptions to be collected during the next several years at least $2,500,000. The very marked decline in recent months in payments of subscriptions in the contribution department is alarming. We are doing everything possible to stimulate collections, but the writer's profound conviction is that nothing short of an adequate program for the Anti-Saloon League will meet the situation we face."

"Immediate Movement For Strengthening"

In the same report Dr. Cherrington made a statement strangely out of tune with the frequent public claims of dry leaders that prohibition is morally a great success. "There are many indications," he said, "in many places throughout the United States that the clutch is slipping, especially as regards the younger generation. There must be an immediate movement for the undergirding and strengthening of the foundations upon which prohibition has been builded."

The records show that the Anti-Saloon League works not only through its own organization but through at least two bodies which it subsidizes—the Scientific Temperance Federation of Boston, of which Prof. Irving Fisher of Yale is the honorary chairman, and the Intercollegiate Prohibition Association.

A report to the executive committee of the Anti-Saloon League December 5, 1921, says that "we have been able to care for the expenses of the federation to the amount of about $400 a month." This organization, on its face, is for the purpose of gathering scientific facts about the effects of alcohol on the human system. It is the author of a great quantity of the literature which has been issued by the American Issue Publishing Company, the official publishing house of the Anti-Saloon League.

The expenses of the Intercollegiate Prohibition Association, which works among students and teachers, are borne, at least in part by the Anti-Saloon League and the World League Against Alcoholism, in which the Anti-Saloon League is the dominant factor. Records of the Anti-Saloon League show appropriations of about $20,000 a year to support this organization. The league also has paid the expenses of a large number of foreign prohibition delegations which have come to this country to get data for dry campaigns abroad.

Reaching Out for More Worlds to Conquer.

A report of the Committee on International Relations of the Anti-Saloon League to the executive committee, in November, 1921, says: "The bringing of representative temperance leaders from different countries to see, first hand, the operation of and results of prohibition in the United States, at once suggests vast possibilities in the effort to assist the world temperance movement."

At Lausanne, Switzerland, is the International Bureau Against Alcoholism, in charge of Dr. Robert Hercod, whose expenses to and from the United States, on at least one occasion of record were paid by the Anti-Saloon League out of funds appropriated by Congress for the promotion of the International Congress Against Alcoholism.

References also are made in the record to the Anti-Saloon League's success, on several occasions, in getting money from Congress to pay the expenses of American delegations to the international meetings. A great deal of excellent publicity material, according to Wheeler's reports, has been provided by these gatherings:

The name of Wayne B. Wheeler is virtually synonymous in Washington with the name of the Anti-Saloon League. He has been with the league ever since it was started in 1893 and he is now its general counsel and legislative agent—its guiding genius—with offices in Washington overlooking the Capitol grounds. He testified before the Reed committee that he is receiving a salary of $8,000 a year. The sum is commensurate neither with his ability nor his power.

29 RESERVATIONS FOR PIN TEAMS AT K. C.

Secretary A. L. Langtry of the American Bowling Congress has granted St. Louis reservations for the 1928 tournament at Kansas City, as follows: Friday, March 10, four teams; Saturday, March 17, five teams; Friday, March 23, 10 teams; Sunday, April 1, 10 teams. These reservations are in the hands of Frank H. Heidel, local secretary, who will be pleased to assign them to teams making requests in the order received.

THE POST-DISPATCH PLATFORM.

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles, that it will always fight for progress or reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight demagogues of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare, never be satisfied with merely printing news; always be drastically independent; never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

Smithers vs. Marcosson.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I HAVE just finished reading Mr. Smithers' attack on Marcosson in your March 13 edition. As I understand it, Mr. Marcosson is writing a series of articles for the Saturday Evening Post giving the facts of the Mexican situation as he sees them. Mr. Smithers' objection was that in his first article, "Calles," Marcosson did not devote the entire article to direct quotations from the Mexican President, but interlarded it with explanations of his own.

Obviously, that was the only practicable way to report the interview. President Calles said, in effect, that he was making a great country of Mexico; that things were running smoothly. Mr. Marcosson saw things that led him to believe the President too optimistic, to say the least. Therefore, it is scarcely conceivable that he should not qualify the President's statement. It was not enough that President Calles should get certain statements into the pages of the Saturday Evening Post: it was Mr. Marcosson's duty to comment on the truth of such statements. Anyone can say, "I have accomplished such and such, and I am doing thus." But unless true, such an assertion should not be published without criticism.

I wonder if you people of the interior realize, as fully as border residents, the full seriousness of the Mexican situation? Why do so many editors, who cannot have a great deal of information on this question, decide against the United States, and attack our foreign policy? Doesn't it seem probable that President Coolidge has sources of information that the average editor hasn't? Why do so many newspapers becloud the issue by discussing Doheny and Sinclair?

Here is an epitome of the situation: Many Americans own oil property in Mexico—some have their last dollar in such investments—and that property has been taken away from them by a law contrary to all international practice. Moreover, they are commanded to relinquish their right to bring matters pertaining to their property and welfare before the American Consul. Can the United States honorably submit to such despotism?

It is not necessary to fight Mexico; we need only to withdraw recognition. If we do, Arnulfo Gomez will be the next President. If not Obregon will carry out Calles' program. And that program is inimical to all Americans.

Proposed Highway Bond Issue.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

THE directors of the Jefferson City Chamber of Commerce wish to express appreciation of the interest given by the Post-Dispatch to the proposed $120,000,000 highway bond issue, and of the editorial comment and news stories published on the subject.

Jefferson City Chamber of Commerce,

Taxation by the Executive.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

THE Court of Customs Appeals finds that the so-called Flexible Tariff gives no discretion to the President as to the policy he pursues in fixing new tariff rates but only as to the means he employs in getting at his so-called finding. That is a distinction without a difference.

President William Howard Taft in an historic letter he once wrote to Congressman William B. McKinley, published in all the newspapers of Aug. 29, 1910, admitted that "discretion" and "judgment" which is the essence of "legislation," must be used in guessing at the difference in cost of production at home and abroad. He said:

> The bias of the manufacturer seeking protection and of the importer opposing it weakens their testimony.
> Moreover, when we understand that the cost of production differs in one country abroad from that in another and that it changes from year to year and from month to month, we must realize that the precise difference in cost of production sought for is not capable of definite ascertainment and that all the most scientific person can do in his investigation is, after consideration of many facts which he learns, to exercise his best judgment in reaching a conclusion.

On President Taft's own statement that is plainly "legislation" by the Executive, which the Constitution forbids. How does it happen that so many of us seem to be content with having the Executive authority fix the customs tax rate? Would we like to have our income taxes and our inheritance taxes fixed by a commission of bureaucrats? Yet if Congress can delegate customs taxation it can delegate also income and inheritance taxation to executive authority.

A CHINESE MORAL.

Gen. Pai Tsung-hsi, who has taken command at Shanghai for the Cantonese army, has issued a manifesto which points a moral. For instance:

> For 80 years the imperialists, under the protection of unequal treaties, have reduced China to a state of vassalage.

That is, they have done to China what we are doing to Nicaragua. Our conduct there is only a repetition of the conduct of the imperialists in China. But let Gen. Pai tell it:

> After the revolution of 1911 the foreign imperialists continually gave Chinese imperialists rifles and guns with which they have waged war for the last 15 years.

In other words, they have been doing even less than we have done in Nicaragua almost constantly since 1908. Less than six months ago our forces seized ammunition sent to Gen. Sacassa and threw it overboard. On Feb. 18 of this year our War Department furnished Diaz with arms and munitions worth $250,000 and took notes for the money. The imperialists have been doing in China what we have been doing all around the Caribbean. But we are not letting Gen. Pai have the floor:

> On the one hand the foreign imperialists have checked the development of Chinese education and industries, and on the other have secured for themselves special privileges.

We hear nothing of what we are doing for the improvement of the people of Nicaragua, or how we are co-operating with Nicaraguan business. We say there isn't any Nicaraguan business, except as we establish and possess it, just as the imperialists have always exploited Chinese business. We hear only of how we have taken over the Nicaraguan railroad, the banks and the timber business. We have made them our own. We take everything and give nothing. Pardon, General:

> But the Chinese now have awakened, and Shanghai, the greatest commercial center in the Far East, will become not only a strong base for Chinese nationalism, but for a world revolution.

So have the Latin Americans awakened. As those who sowed the wind in China are now reaping the whirlwind, we shall reap as we sow in Latin America. Says Carroll Binder in the New Republic:

> American business men whom I encountered in four of the Central American republics were a unit in reporting that the opposition to American activity in Nicaragua was expressed by refusal to buy from or sell to American traders whenever some foreigner could be favored. I have seen the books of one of the largest concerns doing business in Central America. They bore eloquent testimony to this discrimination.

Empire cannot see that the world is not the same since the great war. That cataclysm let loose a force with which privilege has never had to deal. It has taken China to bludgeon this realization into the thick head of empire, just as in some way Latin America will get it into the thick head of the United States.

BEETHOVEN WEEK.

Beethoven Week, as a means of fostering appreciation of Beethoven's music in connection with the centenary of his death, has met with quite a little criticism. It is pointed out that a "week," as we have come to think of such a celebration, is incongruous when associated with Beethoven; that he already enjoys phenomenal popularity, so that any special effort on his behalf is supererogatory; that this popularity has come about naturally, without aid of stimulants, and that official propaganda would be more likely to blight it than to augment it. And it must be admitted that there is something to be said for these arguments, particularly the last. We do not, as a rule, take kindly to things handed down from on high; many of us give Longfellow a wide berth because of the dreadful lessons we had to learn about him in school.

There is one consideration, however, which outweighs all others, and it is in favor of the plan. It is this: that by the time the speeches are done, Beethoven, to some extent at least, will have been transformed from a name into a man. Many concertgoers, one suspects, have very vague notions about him indeed. He wrote nine symphonies, one of them known as the "Fifth"; he got sore at Napoleon for something or other; he was deaf. Beyond that, a blank. But the program that has now begun should change all that. People will begin to discover that this Beethoven was a colorful fellow, one worth looking up in the library. And that should not only beget wider appreciation of Beethoven's music but also better understanding of it.

MR. TARKINGTON'S CURE FOR DIVORCE.

Booth Tarkington is the latest to offer a cure for divorce. In the American Magazine for April, he sets forth what anyone must immediately recognize as a sure cure for the most discussed and cussed social evil of the time.

Mr. Tarkington's remedy is, simply, that each party to a marriage permit the other to practice absolute freedom. Now, there is not, at first thought, anything very radical about this offering, inasmuch as we have for some years now been hearing pleas from commentators on marital relations in favor of a greater degree of freedom for the contracting parties to a marriage. But Mr. Tarkington's ideal of freedom is more radical than any that the conservative critics of the institution have advanced. When he was asked whether he thought a husband ought to permit his wife to be infatuated with another man, Mr. Tarkington advanced this novel notion:

> Yes. That will be his nearest approach to happiness, if freedom is the great element. If he constrains her, she will still care as much as before for the other man. The husband has therefore gained nothing of her heart, and her heart is surely the important thing. By constraining her or tormenting her, he must lose whatever he already has of her heart; and by removing the essential element, freedom, he makes certain of the unhappiness of their marriage, which may have been only doubtful before.

This, we repeat, must look to all like an unquestionable cure for divorce. All it amounts to is that everybody shall put up with everything. No indignity is to be considered too great to be tolerated. It is forbearance raised to the nth degree. The only difficulty about the cure, indeed, will be the reluctance of people to adopt it. It diverges widely from a notion of human conduct which has been held by the human race from the beginning, and Mr. Tarkington, should he decide to try to persuade the world to adopt such a cure, is apt to be too busy ever to pen any more best sellers.

A BILLIONAIRE AND HIS DEBTORS.

Two hundred million dollars a year sounds like a lot of money. Our three richest men, Mr. Rockefeller, Mr. Ford and Mr. Mellon, who presumably know what those figures mean, will doubtless assure us that it is a lot of money. But we can call another witness, an elderly gentleman addicted to gay apparel, compared with whom the Three Musketeers of Money we have cited are persons of ordinary means.

This lively old boy has an annual income of something like ninety billion dollars. That is to say, his monthly salary far exceeds the combined fortunes of Standard Oil, the Motor Wizard and the Prince of Pittsburg. Who, pray, is this super-Croesus? None other than your Uncle Sam.

Does somebody in the audience want to know, "Well, what of it?" A fair enough question. For answer we would refer the heckler to an article in the March Atlantic Monthly, by Frank W. Taussig. It is the most interesting discussion of "The Interallied Debts" which we have seen. Here is an economist who talks the plain, every-day language of the rest of us, with never the slightest lapse into the mystifying, cryptic patter affected by so many of his fellows.

The most impressive point in Prof. Taussig's article is, in our opinion, that the payment of the war debts do not mean very much to the United States. By the settlement terms, those payments amount, say, to $200,000,000 a year. A formidable sum standing by itself, but how does it appear when placed alongside $90,000,000,000? Says Prof. Taussig:

> It is as if, having $100 to receive, we were to get 25 cents in addition—a negligible sum.

Those payments, to be sure, will presently increase. Meantime, our national income will also increase. The proportion, therefore, will continue unchanged—about one-quarter of one per cent of our income. But to the debtor nations those payments will not be inconsiderable, and long before the 62-year period has ended they will have become oppressively burdensome.

There are other aspects of the proposition, such as the unavoidable effects on our foreign trade and, finally, the question of equity, of justice, of plain right. They are frankly faced, in a spirit of refreshing and luminous fairness.

What is the conclusion? "I have no proposal to submit," says Prof. Taussig. "The time is not ripe for conferences, negotiations or revisions." But the article is stimulating and instructive. It ought to be read by everybody, especially by our elder statesmen at Washington.

DOHENY.

During the last four years his name has often been on the lips of the public and in every style and size of headline.

Yet he is probably the least understood public figure of the time. It has never been made plain why he was able to do what he did in the case of the Elk Hills naval oil reserve. He remains an enigma.

While he is commonly considered to be first of all an oil man, he is obviously one in only a conventional sense. Certainly, he did not learn his business ethics in that business. All the lease jumping which has occurred in the oil fields has been done by the aid of clever lawyers in a courtroom, rather than by the sort of acts Doheny and his subordinates perpetrated in regard to Elk Hills.

Well, if his conduct is not to be explained by the customs of his present occupation, how is it to be accounted for? Our own view is that only Bret Harte can tell us how Doheny was able to do what he did in the case of Elk Hills. In many of Harte's stories of the gold fields, we see in practice the sort of business ethics displayed by Doheny in this case. We observe claims jumped by all varieties of corrupt, fraudulent and strong-arm methods. We see, that is, just the sort of conduct by which the name of Doheny has become notorious.

After recollecting what Harte told us about the conventional ethics of the gold prospector, Doheny's conduct does not appear so mystifying. The sort of thing he has done in the case of Elk Hills was considered quite conventional in the days when he was hunting gold in the mountains of New Mexico. He is just an old prospector, with such a person's peculiar code of business ethics.

THE OUTSTANDING WORLD FIGURE.

Mussolini was pronounced the outstanding world figure by the seniors of Yale University and Sheffield Scientific at their annual preferential convention. In this judgment any canvass of American public opinion, special or general, would probably concur. But as to the Italian dictator's ultimate place in history, this straw-vote choice gives no assurance. Posterity has a genius for reversing previous decisions.

Mussolini is today the executioner of democracy. But he offers no new formula. He has no vision of a finer, happier status to be achieved by the magic of experiment. His statesmanship is old stuff. He looks backward. He is much nearer of kin to Louis XIV than to Napoleon. He is blood-brother to Caesar. With him the State is everything, the individual nothing.

If Mussolini is right as to the intrinsic impotency of democracy then the world is in for a shattering political and social upheaval which will finally subside in an order of things which cannot now be foreseen. It will be contrary, however, to the logic as well as to the facts of history for the Mussolini ideal to prevail. Humanity does not retreat. From ism to ism it stumbles along, awkwardly, blunderingly, but, somehow, contriving to push forward. It has, in its time rendered unto Caesar the things that are Caesar's and under the spell of a masterful personality and the extremity of circumstances it may for a little while espouse again that repudiated faith. But such conversion is narrowly regional and ephemeral.

The fatal weakness of a dictatorship like Mussolini's, from a coldly practical viewpoint, is its impermanence. The seed of continuity is not in it. The superman can have no heir. The succession of the dynasty was Napoleon's nightmare. It haunted him from Marengo to Helena. How ludicrous it all seems now—those frantic, ceremonial efforts to establish a royal family. How tragic that bankrupt adventurer's cry from the bleak rock! "My son. My son," to whom were bequeathed the power and the glory, was to die at 21 as he had lived, a colorless Austrian princelet.

So with Mussolini. When he passes out there will be no one to carry on. Once a figurehead would have sufficed. That day is gone. Democracy may surrender momentarily to strength. It will not tolerate the tyranny of the weakling.

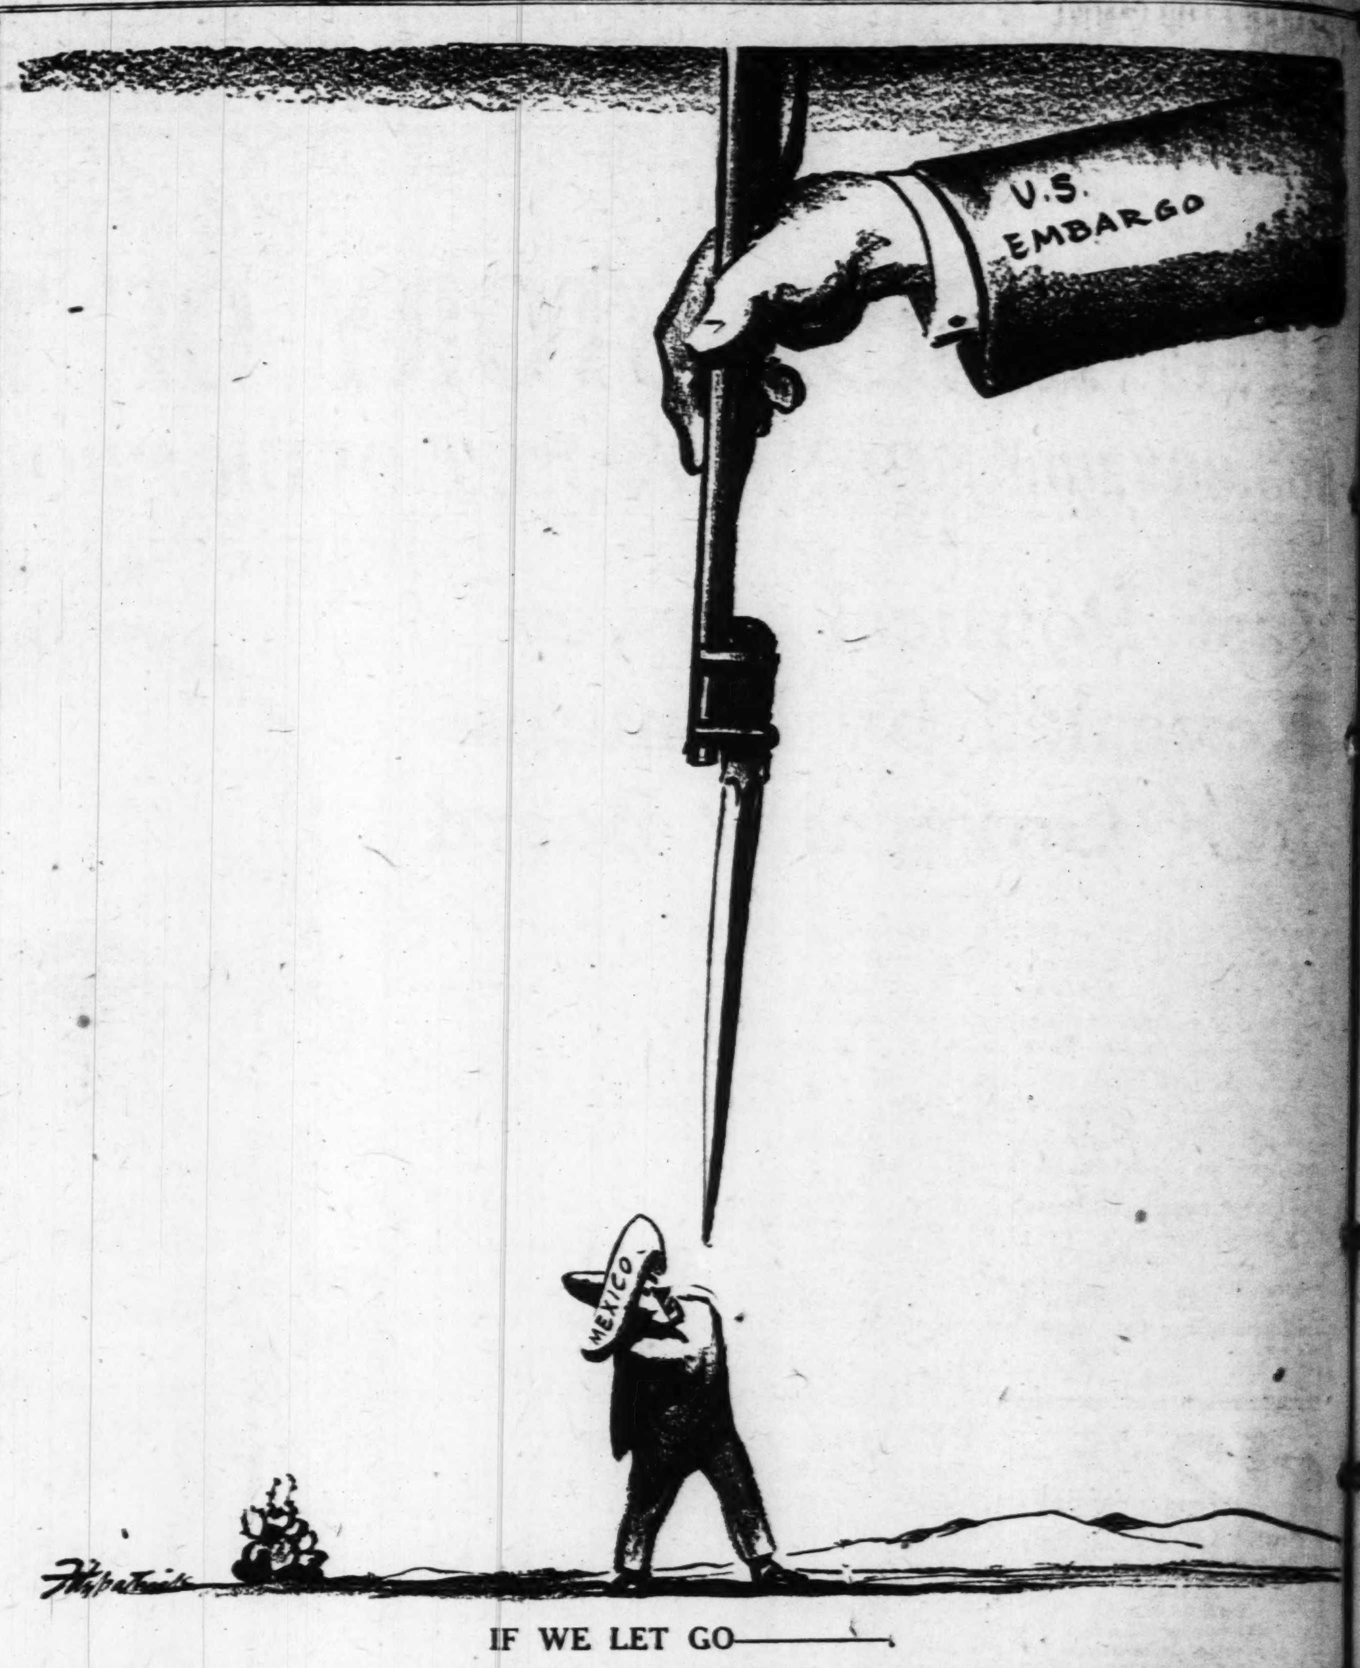
Coolidge economy must make the White House feel like a tight house.



IF WE LET GO——

The MIRROR of PUBLIC OPINION

OUTPOSTS OF WORLD COMMERCE.

From the Seattle Times.

ON the walls of the Library of Congress is the following motto: "We taste the spice of Araby, but feel not the burning sun which brought it forth."

That quotation well expresses the spirit of modern commerce. The spices of the East Indies, which tempted the merchantmen of five centuries ago, the sweets of the West Indies, the fruits of the tropics, the silks of the Orient and the furs of the Arctic regions are available whenever we desire them. Our argosies deposit on our doorstep the products of the distant places of the earth. So commonplace have the products of other countries become that we seldom give thought to the people that produce them. It is interesting, therefore, when a report of the joys and sorrows, the loves and hates and the culture and progress of a distant people is brought back by one of our ships. Press dispatches report that for the first time in 12 months a ship has called at the Island of Tristan da Cunha, tiny outpost in the middle of the South Atlantic. The ship loaded a large raft with blankets, groceries, confections, toys, a phonograph and many other useful and ornamental things. Passengers showered the islanders with gifts of all sorts. Also the year's accumulation of mail was delivered. . . . We have only to wish for something and transportation, the flying carpet of modern times, lays it at our door. But we so seldom think what our manufactured goods mean to those in the far away places.

GENEROSITY OF THE RICH.

From Forbes Magazine.

OUR rich men are becoming more generous. The total donated to "foundations," etc. — mostly by business men — is computed at $3,500,000,000. Modern generosity takes many forms. It is particularly gratifying to note a growing tendency to do kindly things for workers. Many wills of employers now make liberal bequests to employes, especially those of long service. Living employers, also, are devoting more of their means than formerly for the benefit of those who have helped them to make their fortunes. One cannot but note, however, that very rarely is anything done for those who toil in factories, foundries, mines and such like places. Far more is done for collar-and-cuff workers than for those who expend body and brawn. Perhaps one reason for this is that those paid by the hour or by the piece or by the day, usually insist upon extra pay for extra work, whereas office workers and the like make no such demands. Even so, it is extremely desirable that generosity be extended to all classes of wage earners.

DIDN'T ASK ROSE ANOTHER.

From the Pittsburg Chronicle.

A SUNDAY school teacher had been enlightening her class upon what constituted wickedness, and at the close of the lesson she addressed one of the scholars: "Rose, do you know what wickedness is?"

"Yes, teacher," replied Rosie, "though I didn't until I came to Sunday school!"

MONEY ALWAYS TALKS.

From the Nashville Banner.

IF a coin bore the likeness of President Coolidge, the question is as to whether it would talk or not.

TOBACCO REFORMERS GET A JOLT.

From the Chattanooga Times.

THE Antitobacco League, an association composed of men and women obsessed with the idea that it is up to them to save the world from the degrading practice and what they call "the filthy habit" of using tobacco, have been preening themselves to follow up the tactics of the Antisaloon League with the view of securing the passage of a Volstead act suppressing tobacco. They got a bad jolt the other day, however, when Dr. Knight Dunlap, professor of experimental psychology at Johns Hopkins University, came out with the positive statement, based on experimentation, to the effect that the use of tobacco makes men more dependable and more efficient workers. . . . The antitobacconists, it seems, therefore, have gotten in the field a trifle late. People are beginning to "wake up" to the fact that there will be no end to sumptuary regulations, once the "wild-eyed" reformers get a foothold. The old notion that the use of tobacco created a taste for strong drink has been exploded, while the theory that it shortens life, etc., doesn't work well in the light of the fact that about as many—if not more—of the abstemious and truly good die young as of the tobacco-soaked veterans. It is the old question of "temperance" up again as against prohibition.

IT MIGHT HAVE BEEN WORSE.

From Sporting and Dramatic Yarns.

THE club bore meandered through the smoking room looking for a victim. In a deep armchair, studying the Spectator, sat a quiet, dignified old gentleman.

"Hello, Sir William," said the bore, seizing a chance. "I passed your house yesterday."

Sir William looked up from his paper. "Thank you very much," he said gently.

"LAFAYETTE, WE ARE HERE."

BANQUET FOR SMOKE ABATEMENT WORKERS

Men and Women in Campaign for $250,000 to Dine at Hotel Chase.

A banquet of the 500 men and women workers in the campaign to raise the balance of a $250,000 fund for the next three years' work of the Citizens' Smoke Abatement League will be held at Hotel Chase at 6:15 p. m. tomorrow. On Tuesday general solicitation for the money will begin, with the women's division employed west of Grand boulevard and the men's to the east.

The Advance Gifts Committee, headed by Harold M. Bixby, has obtained pledges for $100,000 of the fund and is hopeful of obtaining $50,000 more, leaving the remainder to be sought from the public at large. League officers think the fund will be completed in the 10 days allotted.

Announcement was made yesterday of a $2000 subscription by Mrs. Charles Wiggins of 17 Portland place, who telegraphed it from Pasadena, Cal. The remainder of the advance gifts will be announced at the banquet, at which E. B. Langenberg, general chairman of the campaign, will be toastmaster. Other speakers will be Mayor Miller, Luther Ely Smith, Erle Ormsby, Bixby, Mrs. James McCluney and possibly W. Frank Carter. Three-minute talks will be made by eight "colonels" officering the campaign—O. J. McCawley, J. Will Finley, J. F. O. Reller, G. C. Hall, James Larr, Mrs. Eugene T. Senseney, Mrs. A. Wessel Shapleigh, Miss Louise Simpkins and Mrs. Willard Bartlett.

Final instructions will be given to the campaign workers at this meeting. Reports of progress will be made at luncheons at Hotel Jefferson Wednesday and Friday of this week and Tuesday and Thursday of next week.

How the Anti-Saloon League Works

Wheeler was born in Brookfield, O., 57 years ago, and went to school at Ohio colleges. He has a law degree from Western Reserve University and is Dr. Wheeler by virtue of the LL. D. degree from Muskingum College and Oberlin College. "Who's Who" reports that he "has successfully prosecuted over 2000 saloon cases, some of them in the Supreme Court of the United States."

Not Impressive Appearing, but a Man of Parts.

A smallish man, with sallow complexion, Wheeler is not an impressive figure to look at. It is only when he speaks that you begin to get a taste of his quality. He is fluent, with a gift for pungent phrases. At his tongue's end he has an array of statistics and arguments with which to meet challenging queries about prohibition. He knows every word in the prohibition laws, every word in the court decisions upon them. More important, he knows the record of every Congressman, and knows the ways by which a waverer in the dry ranks may be brought back into line. Wayne B. Wheeler is a man of parts—make no mistake about that. The results he has got prove his ability.

Whenever some wet Congressman or the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment issues a blast against the league or claims a wet victory, Wheeler is prompt with a "hand-out," or "press release," in reply. This is likely to be succinct and quotable, and likely therefore to be quoted. By staying everlastingly on the job, with an eye always on the maneuvers of his opponents, Wheeler frequently is able to get his replies printed in the same issues of the newspapers with the attack.

He loses no opportunity to break into print with the dry side of the case. As the record shows, he obtains free distribution for a vast amount of Antisaloon League propaganda by having it inserted in the Congressional Record by dry Congressmen. Thus he reported to the Executive Committee of the league in January, 1925: "We are securing additional matter in the Congressional Record and having it printed in public documents. Congressmen Summers of Washington, Hudson of Michigan, Cramton of Michigan and others have co-operated in putting valuable information into the Congressional Record."

More Influence Than an Average President.

Wheeler's own abilities, combined with the forces back of him, make him the most effective lobbyist in Washington. It is no exaggeration to say that as the practical head of a super-government that has invaded the personal liberties of 115,000,000 people, his influence on the American social structure is comparable to that of the President of the United States. Perhaps, in the long view, it is a greater influence than that of the average President.

Wheeler's is a familiar figure about the Capitol. Now he is seen flitting about the lobbies with his brief case; now he is in the Senate or House gallery while a prohibition measure is under debate; now he is sitting in at a private session of some committee framing legislation. He is indefatigable and ubiquitous.

Merely to catalogue some of his activities is to indicate the scope of his powers. He assists, as the record shows, in the preparation of dry legislation. He maintains a press bureau. He seeks through questionnaires to put both Congressmen and those who aspire to be Congressmen on record. He directs a political machine that operates throughout the United States. He cracks the whip or spreads the salve.

He brings influence to bear upon officials, from Presidents down, to procure the appointment of men satisfactory to the Antisaloon League. He appears in court to argue cases affecting the interpretation or validity of the dry laws. He propagandizes the Federal judiciary with magazine articles for which he has supplied the material. He interferes with law-enforcement plans that he disapproves.

What the League Did to Decentralization.

Under the last-named head may be given an instance which illustrates as well as anything else the character of his duties in Washington and the influence that he enjoys. He did not like some features of the decentralization plan that Gen. Lincoln C. Andrews, soon after he became director of prohibition enforcement, purposed to put into effect. Vigorous protest was made to the President, Secretary of the Treasury Mellon and Gen. Andrews.

The result is told in Wheeler's report to the Executive Committee on Sept. 30, 1925: "We prevented the original plan from going through for complete decentralization, namely, to abolish the mobile force that was the connecting link between the Washington office and the various district . . . Gen. Andrews assures me that he will keep enough of a mobile force to handle conspiracy cases and to do the work that is necessary from the Washington office."

In the same report, Wheeler said that Andrews had told him that he (Andrews) was "going to depend more on civic organizations and reform organizations like ours to give accurate information about the situation in the various units of government. He will not expect our organization to gather the evidence nor to bring prosecutions, but he takes the position that organizations which stand for prohibition . . . can co-operate most effectively by making a report once a month or once a quarter from every state, giving a fair review of the situation, especially where law enforcement is breaking down."

Instances in the multifarious activities of Dr. Wheeler crop out on many pages of the record. We find him in 1923 putting through the League's Executive Committee a resolution praising Harry M. Daugherty, then the Attorney-General of the United States, for his enforcement of the prohibition law.

In a report for 1925, he appears as the financial "angel" for the Alcoholic Liquor Traffic Committee of the House of Representatives. This official committee of the Government, headed by Rep. Grant M. Hudson of Michigan (formerly the Superintendent of the League in that State), compiled an extensive report on the results of prohibition. Wheeler, as the minutes show, supplied much of the material for the report and raised the money to pay part of the expenses of the committee. This was a first-class investment in propaganda, for, as Wheeler told his Executive Committee, the report "will carry a Government sanction that will make it valuable not only at home but abroad."

Under Cover Work Within the League.

Again, Wheeler is seen reporting to the Executive Committee on a controversy the League had had with District Attorney Buckner of New York. The minutes of this meeting, in December, 1925, show the Antisaloon League engaged in some under-cover work of its own. A resolution was presented to the effect that "our organization set to work to check up the activities of the Federal enforcement department, to ascertain what the situation is with regard to appointees and enforcement work in each of the States." The resolution was adopted, with an amendment that the information obtained should be "turned over to the Legislative Committee and the Legislative Superintendent (Dr. Wheeler) for appropriate action."

One of the main functions of Wayne B. Wheeler is to work for the appointment of United States Judges, District Attorneys and Marshals satisfactory to the Antisaloon League. A resolution adopted by the Executive Committee of the league on Sept. 18, 1919, specifically designated him as the league's agent in all matters "relating to law enforcement, legal work and recommendations to departments of the Government concerning appointments having to do with law enforcement and related matters."

In this role, Wheeler reported to the Executive Committee, at a meeting in Washington on July 14, 1921, near the beginning of the Harding administration, that "we have been carefully watching the appointments for United States District Attorneys, United States District Judges, United States Marshals and some other special Federal officials who have to do with law enforcement."

"We have a good-working understanding," he added, "with both of these departments (meaning of the Department of Justice of the prohibition unit), and wherever our statesmen present their protests in tangible form with specific charges that could be backed up, in almost every instance unworthy candidates have been rejected. In several instances we have succeeded where all the political forces in the State were united upon a single objectionable applicant for one of these offices."

President Coolidge "Very Helpful."

Again on June 4, 1925, Wheeler went before the committee to report upon his efforts for and against various aspirants to office. He said that the President (Coolidge) and the Department of Justice had 'manifested a very helpful spirit in recent appointments." With apparent satisfaction, he quoted a newspaper paragraph which said that Judge William Clark of New Jersey, who was opposed by Senator Edge of that State, had been appointed to the Federal bench by President Coolidge "by and with the advice and consent of Wayne B. Wheeler."

"We are watching carefully the various candidates for appointments in Alaska," said Wheeler in the same report. "The situation there is very bad.

"In Porto Rico we made a determined fight against Judge Odlin. President Coolidge refused to reappoint Judge Odlin and put in his place Judge Ira Wells, who is an outstanding friend of prohibition enforcement.

"In other districts similar appointments have been made, indicating that the President is doing his best to put into these Federal positions men who are in sympathy with his program for law enforcement."

Reporting to the Executive Committee at a meeting in Columbus, Ohio, Sept. 30, 1925, Wheeler told how he had got dry propaganda into the hands of Federal attorneys and Judges. A series of 11 articles on prohibition, for which the Antisaloon League furnished the material, had been published in the North American Review. They had received, Wheeler said, more attention than "any other magazine articles we have brought before the public.

"We knew," he continued, "that the limited circulation of the magazine would require an effort to get it into the hands of those who ought to read it. Most of the State leagues co-operated with us, and a few individuals sent in donations, so that we were able to sent out about 4000 copies.

"College presidents, college libraries, members of Congress, United States Judges and District Attorneys and leaders in various parts of the country received copies of the magazine. The press gave it good publicity. The New York World gave it a page of space. The present edition has been exhausted and they are making reprints of the 11 articles for 20 cents per copy."

Propaganda Propagated Just in Time.

Wheeler added that it was "fortunate' 'that the League had got this material disseminated prior to publication of the unfavorable report on prohibition by the research department of the Federal Council of Churches.

"The letters I have received from Congressmen concerning the 11 articles and the report of the Federal Council of Churches," he said, "indicated that they needed just the material that we got to them to prevent some of them getting weak knees about the success of prohibition."

Wheeler told of still another device he employed to get his views before Federal Judges.

"This summer (1925)," he reported in this connection, "I summarized the various causes of lawlessness and sent this list to practically all the Federal Judges, District Attorneys, Attorneys-General and other law-enforcement officers. I asked them to give us their opinion as to whether the reasons given were the real causes of lawlessness, and to add such as they thought should be given and to give the remedy. We have gathered a fund of information which will be of inestimable value to us in our fight for law enforcement. Of course, many of the letters are confidential and cannot be used publicly, but we can use the information they contain. I have collaborated with members of the Justice Department, and we are getting at the root of the matter concerning the causes of lawlessness."

Succeeding chapters of this story, to be published tomorrow and Tuesday, will deal, among others matters, with the League's successful fight to "put over" Roy A. Haynes as Prohibition Commissioner, the watch that it keeps on the White House, the part that it played in the 1924 campaign, a narrowly averted scandal of 1919, and a suppressed "press release" attacking President Coolidge.

ST. LOUIS U. FACULTY MEMBER'S FUNERAL

Services Tomorrow at St. Francis Xavier's Church for Father McMenamy.

Members of the faculty of St. Louis University will be honorary pallbearers tomorrow at the funeral of the Rev. Matthew McMenamy, S. J., former regent of the university law school and a member of the Jesuit order for 48 years. He died Friday.

Funeral services for Father McMenamy, who also was widely known as a confessor, are to be held at 9 o'clock at St. Francis Xavier's Church. Father McMenamy was 66 years old and had been in ill health for two years with paralysis.

The honorary pallbearers are:

Paul Bakewell Sr., former Circuit Judges Jesse McDonald and O'Neill Ryan, former deans of the law school, former Circuit Judge Orrick Bishop, former professor of law; the Rev. Linus A. Lilly, S. J., regent of the law school; Alphonse G. Eberle, dean of the law school; the Rev. Aloysisus C. Kemper, S. J., superior of the school of divinity and philosophy; the Rev. Bernard J. Otting, S. J., dean of the school of divinity; the Rev. James I. Shannon, S. J., dean of the school of philosophy; the Rev. Thomas F. Wallace, S. J., professor of ethics; the Rev. Thomas M. Knapp, S. J., dean of the college of arts; the Rev. Theodore J. Schulte, S. J., dean of men; the Rev. George A. Deglman, S. J., dean of the school of education; the Rev. W. D. Commins, professor of education; Joseph L. Davis, S. J., regent of the school of commerce and finance; John J. Lang, professor of accounting; the Rev. William T. Doran, S. J. superior of the high school; the Rev. M. J. O'Connor, S. J., former president of the university; Dr. H. W. Loeb, dean of the medical school; Dr. Don R. Joseph vice dean of the medical school; Dr. James P. Harper, dean of the dental school; Dr. Otto F. Freitag, vice dean of the dental school, and the Rev. Alphonse M. Schwitalla, S. J., dean of the graduate school.

Active pallbearers will be Gerald P. Walsh, S. J.; James F. Butler, S. J.; John I. Grace, S. J.; John J. McInerny, S. J.; Hartford F. Brucker, S. J., and Louis W. Forrey, S. J., students in the school of divinity.

STEP TAKEN FOR SECOND TRIAL OF HEBER NATIONS

Case Certified by Presiding Judge Sanborn, Who Will Name the Trial Judge.

Presiding Judge Sanborn of the Eighth Judicial Circuit will designate a District Judge to retry Heber Nations, former Jefferson City publisher and former Labor Commissioner, on a charge of conspiracy.

Nations was convicted of charges involving official "protection" of the Griesedieck Brewery in the making of real beer, but his sentence of 18 months' imprisonment and $3333 fine was reversed by the Circuit Court of Appeals, which held that Judge Faris should have disqualified himself from hearing the case, as Nations' attorney had asked. Judge Faris yesterday certified the case to Judge Sanborn. The new trial will be set for the November term.

CAMPAIGN AGAINST SMOKING OF CIGARETTES BY YOUTHS

W. C. T. U. Offers Prizes on Essay and Poster on Subject of Its Menace.

The St. Louis Federation of the W. C. T. U. is undertaking a campaign of education about the evil effect of cigarettes on youths. Sunday school children between the ages of 12 and 15 will be invited to participate in an essay and poster contest, during April. The general subject will be "Why is the cigarett a menace to youth?"

A prize of $10 will be given for the best essay, not more than 500 words long. A prize of $5 will be awarded for the best 12x15-inch poster. Mrs. Walter Jarrett of 1308 Temple place, antinarcotics director of the federation, is chairman of the campaign.

WISCONSIN YOUTH WHO RAN AWAY FOUND WITHOUT FUNDS

Frederick G. Peasley, Freshman at State University, Fled When Scolded by Parents.

Frederick C. Peasley, 17 years old, son of a wealthy manufacturer of Sheboygan, Wis., was stopped as he started to walk across the Free Bridge toward East St. Louis. Detectives found he had only 1 cent.

He admitted he had run away from home because his parents scolded him for a poor record as a freshman at the University of Wisconsin.

The detectives gave him $1 for something to eat and telegraphed his father. He had come to St. Louis in an old automobile which was parked in a garage.

Lutheran Noonday Speaker.

The speaker at the Lutheran noonday services at the American Theater next week will be the Rev. H. Kowert of Chicago, Ill. He is pastor of the First St. Paul's Lutheran Church, the oldest Lutheran church in Chicago. His topics for the week will be as follows: "The Distinctive Doctrine of Protestantism," "The Communion of the Holy Ghost," "The Untried Door," "The Thomases of Today," "Why Was Jesus Pierced?" The Rev. Joseph Frenz of Bethlehem Lutheran Church will serve as chaplain.

ROBBERS STEAL AUTO TO HOLD UP 5 STORES

Take Kroger Manager's Machine to Make Raids on Other Kroger Places.

The men used the stolen automobile of a Krover store manager in robbing five Kroger stores yesterday morning and Friday.

The robberies, the first three of which were committed Friday afternoon and the other two yesterday, included the following stores: 3300 Williams place, $35; 4257 Shreve avenue, $54; 4661 Page boulevard, $14; 4985 Thrush avenue, $160; 2842 Nebraska avenue, $35.

After the first robbery detectives traced the license number of the robbers' car to Roy Houchin, manager of the store at 2740 Clara avenue. Houchin told the policeman his car was standing outside, but when they went out to find it, they discovered it had been stolen.

FORMER SLAVE DIES AT ALTON, NEARLY 100 YEARS OLD

Nancy Sims Opened the Gate for Gen. "Stonewall" Jackson.

Nancy (Aunty) Sims, former slave, who in girlhood lived on a plantation adjoining that of Gen. T. J. (Stonewall) Jackson in Tennessee, died at Alton yesterday.

"Aunty," known to persons of many generations for her public demonstrations of the "Old Time" religion, in girlhood opened the gate for Gen. Jackson when he rode to and from his plantation. Her age was between 95 and 100.

Missionary Thank Offering.

The Women's Foreign Missionary Society of the Dr. Fry Methodist Episcopal Church, 2510 Clifton avenue, will hold its annual "thank offering" service at 8 o'clock tonight. Dr. Franklin F. Lewis, superintendent of the St. Louis district of the Methodist Episcopal church, will speak.

FLOOD PREVENTED ON RIVER DES PERES

Completion of Control Work Below Sulphur Avenue Saves Property.

Control work that has been done so far in a five-mile stretch of River des Peres, between Sulphur avenue (south of Manchester avenue) and Gravois avenue, under an $11,000,000 bond issue item, served to avert a serious flood in that district, when the stream went out of its banks elsewhere the night of March 18.

The river in the West End was full on that occasion and there was a flood in Forest Park and to the south, to where the recent improvement below Sulphur avenue begins.

Below Gravois avenue likewise the river overflowed. City engineers estimated flood damage to land, buildings, machinery and materials of property owners at $100,000. They traversed the improved section, where ordinarily the stream is only a trickle, in a rowboat when the water was at its height, and estimated that at least $20,000 damage would have been wrought in these five miles if the control work of the last three years had not been done.

3600 Feet a Second.

A check of the flow during the flood time showed that 3600 cubic feet of water per second was running through the improved section at Knox avenue, a few blocks downstream from Sulphur avenue. This was 12,960,000 cubic feet per hour. East of Sulphur avenue the yards of the Laclede-Christy Clay Products Co. were inundated, while west of Knox avenue the Scullin Steel Co. plant, close to the river, was dry.

At Lindenwood, where the finished storm channel ends at present, and where similar storms in the past have caused bad floods, the stream was well behaved.

Proves Its Value.

From Lindenwood to Gravois avenue the only work has been a straightening and widening of the channel, but this sufficed to protect surrounding land. Thus a municipal improvement, not very noticeable, proved itself of value to the city. The completion of the River des Peres project is expected to eliminate floods as well as provide a sanitary sewer.

"Although this flood was the first to show such marked benefits of the improvements," the city's resident engineer reported, "as each restricted spot in the stream is eliminated and each long loop is straightened, the benefits will increase rapidly."

CITY DECLINES TO COMPROMISE WITH BANKS IN TAX DISPUTE

Collector Ordered to Reject $1,750,622 Settlement Offer on $2,333,278 Claim.

The city has declined to accept the offer of 11 St. Louis national banks to pay 75 per cent or $1,750,622, of a claim for $2,333,278 for ad valorem taxes on their stock, in settlement of a dispute on this taxation.

Comptroller Nolte, under authorization given by the Board of Estimate adn Apportionment Friday, notified Collector Koeln yesterday the city would not compromise. He reached this conclusion after a conference with City Counselor Muench and Charles P. Williams, attorney for the Board of Education, which would share in the proceeds.

A letter from Edward W. Forlstel, attorney for the collector, recommending acceptance of the compromise offer, was read to the Board of Estimate Friday. It disclosed that the banks were proposing a settlement. The banks had objected that the tax amounted to double taxation, since stockholders paid income taxes on their dividends. Following a decision in the matter in the United States Circuit Court of Appeals last January, favoring the city, the banks had announced they would carry their appeal to the Supreme Court of the United States. Similar claims against national banks of Kansas City were settled last December for 49 per cent.

Acceptance of the settlement here would have largely wiped out the anticipated deficit of $800,000 in municipal finances.

FOREST WEEK, APRIL 24-30

Hoo-Hoo Makes Plans for Missouri Observance.

Preliminary plans for the observance in Missouri of American Forest Week, April 24 to 30, were made at a meeting of representatives of the St. Louis and Kansas City chapters of the Order of Hoo-Hoo, the international fraternal order of lumbermen, at the Missouri Athletic Association Friday.

Committees to obtain the co-operation of civic organizations, churches and schools in the observance of the week were appointed. Educational matter concerning the preservation of forests, prepared by the United States Forest Service, will be distributed. Julius Seidel, chairman of the Missouri Chapter, National Forest Week Committee, presided.

Address on Labrador.

Miss Helen Garrett, Vassar graduate and a teacher in the Community School, who spent three summers with Dr. Wilfred Grenfell's expedition in Labrador, will tell of her experiences in an address at the young people's services at the Second Presbyterian Church, Taylor avenue and Westminster place, at 7 p. m. today. The service and address will follow a tea.

Lectures on Social Hygiene.

Dr. Park J. White, instructor in diseases of children at Washington University Medical School, and John A. McGeoch, associate professor of psychology, Washington University, will lecture at 3 o'clock this afternoon on "Adolescence" as part of a course in parents' problems being presented by the Education Committee of the Missouri Social Hygiene Association. The lectures, held at Washington University Medical School, are public.

Special Lenten Service.

The Rev. John Albert Williams of Omaha, Neb., will hold special lenten service, starting at 10 a. m. today and ending at 3 p. m., in the auditorium of All Saints' Church, Garrison avenue and Locust boulevard. He will also deliver an address entitled, "Salt," in the lecture room of the church at 6 p. m.

"Plan—plan—plan, save—save—save, and all that time we could have had our home looking just as good as anybody's. Yes, I know it sounds sort of independent to brag about paying cash for everything. But, after all it was a rather empty kind of boast, wasn't it?"
Jeanette often told Jimmy things, but this was one little item she had no easy time putting over. Friend husband had old-fashioned ideas about buying without spot-cash-planked-down-on-the-counter.
• • •
"You see, we fixed up our home too pretty for words, and we pay as we go along—let a little of our money go out as it comes in—and never miss it. What's the use of waiting, and waiting, and waiting?"
• • •
And Jimmy agreed she was right.
If they had waited until they saved the cash they may have waited forever.
• • •
Don't delay! Come in tomorrow and choose new furniture now! We can arrange the payments on such easy terms that you'll hardly know you are paying at all.

3-ROOM Complete HOME OUTFITS

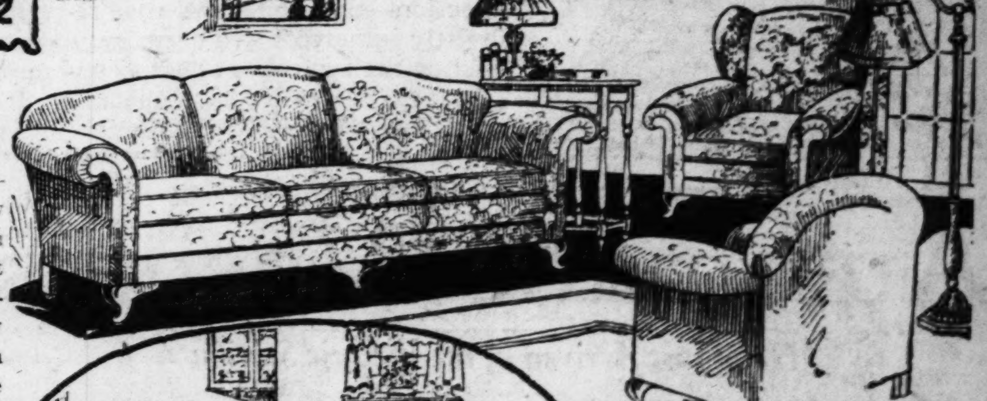
7 PIECES FOR THE BEDROOM
This bedroom consists of a 4-piece Suite that has a vanity, chifforobe, bow-end bed and dresser; finished in walnut and two-tone decorated, fully equipped with a comfortable coil spring and an all-cotton mattress. The large room-size rug is of pretty colors and new patterns.
Exactly as Sketched

THE KITCHEN OUTFIT HAS 8 PIECES
In the kitchen we have tried to include items that will be most pleasing to the average homemaker—a guaranteed gas range, an oak refrigerator that is a side icer and has three doors, a breakfast room suite of five pieces, table and four chairs, all enameled in new colors, and a large genuine Gold Seal Congoleum Rug.



7 PIECES FOR THE LIVING ROOM
In the picture we have endeavored to show you how attractive your living room will be after we furnish it with this outfit. The Living-Room Suite is handsomely overstuffed, covered with brocaded velour. The Suite consists of a well constructed davenport, wing chair and club chair, also a long davenport table finished in mahogany. We have included a beautiful polychrome junior lamp base with a silk shade in pretty colors. The large rug is unusually attractive.

Deferred Payments May Be Arranged.

The Most Remarkable Value We've Ever Seen at

$89.50

⁋ Our electrical experts are confident that housewives will heartily approve of these new Automatic Washers—because there are so many features about them, aside from their moderate pricing, that are instantly appealing. Their washing method—by hydro-disc aeration—is one of them. They have been given the most severe tests.

Machines scientifically designed, with many mechanical refinements. Users say they "clean clothes beautifully."

They have a heavy copper tub tinned on the inside and an unusual top drive that is extremely simple. Come in Monday and see them.

's Daughter Wins Prize.

Associated Press.

LIN, March 26.—Miss Bar- Schurman, daughter of Am- Jacob Gould Schurman, at the annual dinner and dance of the American Benevolent Association, was chairman of the Committee on Arrangements. There was a raffle, for charitable purposes, and Miss Schurman drew one of the principal prizes, a sewing machine. "The family is saved," she remarked. "Even if dad should lose his job, I'll earn enough with this sewing machine to keep the wolf from the door."

125 TO GO ON TRADE TOUR OF OKLAHOMA

Chamber of Commerce "Good Will" Trip to Start May 8 and End May 15.

Oklahoma will be visited this year by members of the Chamber of Commerce on their annual "good will" tour. Approximately 125 sales executives will make the trip, which will be begun Sunday, May 8, at 8 p. m.

The excursionists traveling in a special train will visit more than 40 cities and towns. John B. Edwards, former chairman of the Board of Election Commissioners, and Lawrence McDaniel, former Circuit Attorney, will be on the tour as public speakers and Seymour's band will furnish concerts.

The first stop will be at Bartlesville, on the morning of May 9. A bus trip will be made to Pawhuska, and after quick trips to Hominy, Cushing, Stillwater and Pawnee the tourists will arrive in Tulsa at 5 p. m.

To Parade in Towns.

On the second day Bristow, Sapulpa, Okmulgee, Henryetta and Muskogee will be the principal stops. The third day will include Ada, Holdenville, Wewoka, Seminole, Shawnee and Oklahoma City. Next the tourists will visit El Reno, Kingfisher, Guthrie, Perry, Ponca City, Blackwell and Enid. On the fifth day, Friday, May 13, the tour will touch Hobart, Mangum, Altus, Frederick, Snyder, Lawton and Chickasha.

The tourists on Saturday will visit Lindsay, Paul's Valley, Ardmore, Madill, Durant, McAlester, Eufaula and Choctaw, and will be back in St. Louis at 7:30 a. m. Sunday, May 15.

At each stop the delegates, wearing uniform straw hats and carrying canes, will march from the train, headed by the band, to the central section of the town, where they will break ranks upon the bursting of an aerial bomb. The band will then give a concert while the delegates are making their individual calls.

Plan Alaskan Tour.

At night stops meetings have been arranged and at these McDaniel and Edwards will deliver speeches. Souvenirs of the activities of the various members will be distributed to those who attend.

The Chamber of Commerce is also contemplating a tour to Alaska, from July 28 to Aug. 21. It would include stops in the Canadian Rockies, Vancouver, Seattle, Salt Lake City and other points along the trip.

SURGEONS WATCHING CASE OF PATIENT SHOT THROUGH BRAIN

Negro, Wounded in Quarrel, After Delicate Operation, Tells Hospital Attendants He "Feels All Right."

Surgeons are watching with interest the case of Buddy Smith, 26 years old, a Negro, who is conscious and rational at City Hospital No. 2, although shot through the brain by another Negro in a quarrel last Wednesday night.

The bullet struck Smith in the back of the head on the right side and split in three pieces. Two of the lead fragments and pieces of bone were removed from the brain near the entrance wound in an operation performed by Dr. Jacob G. Probstein of the hospital visiting staff. The third fragment, which passed through the brain, was located by X-ray underneath the left eye. Smith recovered consciousness following the operation, and physicians are hopeful of recovery, providing infection does not set in.

Physicians explain the fact that the wound did not prove immediately fatal on the theory that the bullet fragment passing through the brain failed to strike a "dead center," or control convolution. Smith, who lives at 218 South Eighth street, was shot by Jerry L. Boswell, in a fight over a 40-cent debt. "I feel all right," he tells physicians.

Norma Christian, 3 years old, who was accidentally shot through the brain on July 20, last, by her 5-year-old sister, Ruth, lived for nearly four months with an open drain through her brain before succumbing to a cerebral abscess. Physicians held hope for the child's recovery until complications resulting in the abscess developed.

COLORED DINNER JACKETS BEING ADVOCATED IN PARIS

Eugene Marsan, Contender for Title of Fashion Dictator, Bars Black.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, March 26.—The time has come for men to wear violet, blue, or plum colored dinner jackets—frequently—in the view of Eugene Marsan, contender for Andre de Fouquiere's "title" of masculine fashion dictator of Paris.

The dress suit has had its day, in Marsan's opinion, and should be replaced by the dinner jacket, which he describes as a handsome and comfortable thing if worn in "proper" colors. Black is not among them. He considers it too somber. And "never wear light shades in dinner jackets," he says in a new book, "How to Live and Dress in France."

He urges men to wear colored dinner jackets often, at home and when invited out even if the invitation does not specify dinner coats.

Marsan cautions men against inartistic combinations of colors. "I hope to see the day," he says, "when men will have the same disgust for an unworthy style as for a vile act."

Texas Bank Held Up for $4000.

By the Associated Press.

ABILENE, Tex., March 26.—Two unmasked men today robbed the First State Bank of Ovalo, this county, of $4000 and escaped in a sedan. The men forced I. N. Wilkinson, cashier, and Joe Harrison, bookkeeper, into the bank vault and shut the door. It did not lock, however. The robbers overlooked $12,500 of Government bonds.

Good old-fashioned common sense is one of the most valuable possessions one may have.

The ability to face facts and draw intelligent conclusions without letting prejudice or sympathy influence our opinions is an attribute of a straight-thinking person.

If you have headaches it is a proven fact that in nine cases out of ten some form of eyestrain is the cause.

Common sense dictates an immediate eye test. Guilbault's celebrated method of Testing Eyes and Fitting Glasses has proven eminently successful in over 30,000 cases during the past 25 years.

COLISEUM CHOSEN AS BILLY SUNDAY'S TABERNACLE HERE

Evangelist Will Conduct Eight-Week Revival Next January and February — Arrangements Made.

PLANS MEETINGS IN SOUTHERN ILLINOIS

"Daddy" Can Fill City's Largest Auditorium, Mrs. Sunday Assures Laymen's Association.

An eight-week revival will be conducted here by Billy Sunday, the noted evangelist, next January and February, under auspices of the recently formed St. Louis Laymen's Association for Evangelism. The Coliseum will be his tabernacle.

Mrs. Sunday, who manages many of his business affairs, concluded arrangements with the association Friday. About 40 laymen and ministers attended a luncheon at the City Club with her, expressing the belief that St. Louis and vicinity were in need of a revival and that Billy Sunday was the man "best qualified to turn the people back to God."

The Executive Committee escorted Mrs. Sunday to the Coliseum to determine its availability. She was told Gypsy Smith and Paul Rader had filled it for revivals, and that Presidents Wilson and Harding and William Jennings Bryan had been able to address capacity audiences there with ease.

'Daddy Can Do It."

"I am sure my daddy can do it, too," she replied.

Some of the open spaces of the large structure will be shut off with heavy tarpaulins to improve acoustic properties, and the ceilings likewise, will be draped. Central location of the Coliseum was a consideration leading to its choice.

A resolution was adopted unanimously by the association, calling for support of the plan from all ministers and laymen of Greater St. Louis.

Sunday's reimbusement will be the collection on the last day of the revival. Offerings of the other afternoon and evening services will go to the association, which has agreed to pay all the expenses, including rental of the auditorium and salary of Sunday's assistants and musicians. If there is any surplus, it will be given to charity.

Southern Illinois Revivals.

Although he has held services here in the past, this will be Sunday's first protracted revival in St. Louis. Recently he said he had been anxious to conduct such a meeting here for the last 30 years. He is concluding a revival at Tampa, Fla., now and will hold one soon at Aurora, Ill., after which he will go to Southern Illinois towns which he believes require evangelism because of the recent gang, liquor, klan and labor troubles.

The St. Louis Laymen's Association for Evangelism, recently incorporated, desires to obtain 1000 members this year and build up an advance fund as its guarantee for the revival. Its officers are Thomas Mellow, president of Liberty Foundry, chairman; William P. Carmichael, president of Carmichael-Cryder Co., vice chairman; George W. McFadden, an insurance agent, treasurer, and Charles A. Bull, secretary. Carmichael is president of the Winona Lake Association which conducts the summer assembly place at Winona Lake, Ind., Sunday's home.

MASONS TO PAY $175,000 ON $1,000,000 DEBT JUNE 1

Temple Association Announces $3,250,000 Extended on New Structure.

A payment of $175,000 on the $1,000,000 advanced by the St. Louis Union Trust Co. toward financing the new Masonic Temple will be made June 1, officers of the Temple Association announced yesterday.

Of the sum to be paid as an installment on the debt to the St. Louis Union Trust Co., $60,000 is a remainder from the original loan and the balance accrued through per capita receipts and liquidation of subscriptions. The payment will leave an adequate balance in the association treasury for operating expenses, it was said. The association has never had any floating debt other than current monthly expenses, which have been promptly met.

The construction account of the Temple Association shows that $3,250,000 has been expended to date in the erection and furnishing of the Temple. The largest item of expenses was $409,000 for stone, according to the account. Architects' fees amounted to $156,000 including expenses.

FRANCE'S SOCIALIST DEPUTY SERVES LAVISH DINNERS

Flaunts Theory of Poverty With Costly Beverages and Decorations at Feasts.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, March 26.—Champagne and fine pastries are affecting the socialistic reputation of Fernand Bouisson, President of the Chamber of Deptuies. Bouisson is the richest Socialist in French politics.

The popular idea that socialism is synonymous with poverty and that the theory must be visualized by shabbiness is getting quite a shock.

When Bouisson, who is given a palace by the Government, gave his first reception it was a marvel of rich food, costly drink and elaborate decoration. All the Cabinet ministers were present, including Briand, who abhors society's entertainments.

"He's nice, Bouisson," whispered Briand to Andre Tardieu, who isn't a Socialist.

"Yes, indeed," answered Tardieu, "and he's a Socialist who isn't ashamed of being rich."

INFORMA

LEGAL MAXIMUM SPEED IN INDIANA IS NOW 40 M. P. H.

All Traffic Officers in State Must Be Uniformed—Habitual Bad Drivers Under Check.

Three laws, just signed by the Governor of Indiana will greatly aid all motorists in that State.

"No more shall police officers of the volunteer sort stop or molest motorists," says the Cincinnati Enquirer. "Every man who attempts to control the roads and motorists must now be uniformed.

"This will cut out the often unfair speed traps to a great extent. It will save the motorists from fear of being stopped by apparent officers who turn out to be something else. It has been claimed by motor clubs officials of Indiana that some amateur police officials, acting under the old horse thief detective laws made a mess of attempted road control.

"It has been said that overeager men tried to control motoring and the bone-dry law enforcement and unlawfully interfered with motorists. Indiana State officials and motor club officials now believe that the new law will do away with all the illegal action that made some out-State motorists afraid of Indiana roads.

40-Mile Speed Limit.

"Indiana now follows the way pointed out by Wisconsin some years ago, and sets the legal maximum speed limit on rural highways at 40 miles per hour. This is in line with development of traffic. The man who prefers to drive at 25 may still do so. On the other hand it is now illegal to poke along main roads of Indiana at so slow a rate as to hamper traffic that is going at the faster rate. This phase of the law will enable police to speed up traffic when there is congestion. It will make it possible for roads to handle more cars in safety.

"Officials must keep records of motorists who habitually are in accidents. These must be reported to the Indiana Secretary of State, who has the right to prohibit them from driving their own or other cars.

"This is an attempt to obtain the benefits of 'driver license' w..hout setting up that form of traffic control. Indiana, for some reason, does not yet believe in the driver license laws. There is some doubt that this part fo the new law will be quite so beneficial as expected. Doubtless it will help, if the police officials make proper reports, and if the State official has the nerve to enforce the law as rigorously as some states enforce driver license laws and revocation of licenses of the unfit."

$1,000,000 Detour Upkeep.

A new law makes it necessary for the Indiana State Highway Department to maintain suitably all detours of State highway sections under construction. In the past when the State built a section of the new State highway system, traffic was generally detoured over county or township roads. These units, knowing the roads would be subjected to heavy traffic for a time, often gave little attention to the care of the detour roads.

"This new law means that a detour made necessary by construction of Indiana State highways will be in good shape during the life of this law; two years, at least," says the Enquirer. Unfortunately this work will cost the State Highway Department $750,000 to $1,000,000 per year, it is estimated.

"This means that Indiana will be forced to spend that sum on maintenance of roads not in its system, and that new pavement and construction equal to that sum cannot be done. In other words, no extra appropriation was made for this work. The $750,000 per year must be taken from funds that otherwise would have been used for new pavement.

Building Program Curtailed.

"This means that for another two years Indiana will not be able to speed up its new pavement campaign for State highways. Instead of 400 miles per year which the Highway Department desired

"This means that for another two years Indiana will not be able to speed up its new pavement campaign for State highways. Instead of 400 miles per year which the Highway Department desired to pave, this law and another cutting into highway funds will make it possible to build only 200 and some odd miles per year. In time such a condition may make Indiana a less desirable State through which to tour."

On the other hand, the year of 1927 will see the third cross-State road paved practically clear across Indiana. The National Trail, now called United States Road No. 40, is paved, and the Lincoln Highway, numbered United States road No. 30, to Fort Wayne, and Indiana road No. 2 and United States road No. 20, and then back to No. 30 again at Valparaiso, is all paved. At the end of the year it is expected that the rest of the short cut across the northern end of the State, United States road No. 30, will be paved all the way.

MAYORS TO HOLD TRAFFIC CONFERENCE IN CHICAGO

Meeting to consider the problems of traffic management from the executive standpoint of a number of Mayors are to hold a city traffic conference at Chicago, April 13 and 14. The event is sponsored by the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce.

"Efficient results in street traffic and adequate protection of the public can only be accomplished when the problem is approached from the executive standpoint with the same study that is given to railroad and other transportation," says Alvan Macauley, vice president of the chamber.

Chicago has been chosen for the meeting because it recently has completed an extensive traffic survey, and modern double-decked highway (Wacker drive).

CITIES FURNISH 88 PER CENT OF TRAFFIC IN OHIO

Survey Reveals 10 Per Cent of Passenger Car Traffic Is Foreign, and 55 Per Cent Business.

Eighty-eight per cent of traffic on Ohio highways originates in the cities, and 12 per cent in the rural districts, according to the report of the transport survey conducted in 1925 by the Ohio Division of Highways and the United States Bureau of Public Roads.

Of the passenger car traffic 10.2 per cent is foreign and 55.4 per cent is of a business nature.

The average trip mileage of Ohio passenger cars, the report reveals, is 31 miles, while the average trip of foreign cars is 134 miles. The average trip mileage of city passenger cars is 51 miles and that of the farm passenger cars 10 miles.

City trucks represent 84.5 per cent of the total daily truck miles and farm trucks 15.5 per cent, while motor bus traffic is found on more than half of the state system, varying from one or two to more than 200 cars a day. The mileage of large numbers of bus lines is relatively small, says the report, on heavy total traffic routes and in the heavy population areas.

Northeastern and Southwestern Ohio highways are traveled the more heavily. The report embraces a table which shows that the relative importance of traffic on state highways is as follows: Northeastern Ohio, 804 vehicles per mile per day; Southwestern, 776; East Central, 506; Northwestern, 434, and Southern, 345.

On country highways the traffic is recorded as follows: Northeast-

Hupmobile Quality Represents a 10 per cent bonus In Extra Value

As the closest-priced six on the market, Hupmobile offers all you expect of the most expensive sixes—in sparkling performance, in beauty of line and color, in high-grade accessory equipment.

But Hupmobile Six quality goes far deeper. Into the engine and chassis, the body structure and the costly refinements are incorporated a full 10% higher quality —quality that represents an actual bonus in spirited action, long life and low operating cost.

With the extra cost of this extra quality manufacture absorbed in its selling margin —instead of being passed on to the purchaser—the new Hupmobile Six is obviously the closest-priced Six in America.

Finer materials and finer workmanship throughout explain why Hupmobile Six owners enjoy marked freedom from high maintenance; why a Hupmobile Six retains its original smooth running qualities for as long as you care to drive it.

See the latest series Six at our showrooms. Test its thrilling performance and riding ease. You will soon know why motorists everywhere call it today's greatest value in the six-cylinder field.

89 PER CENT OF AUTOS STOLEN IN 1926 RECOVERED

Despite Great Increase in Thefts, Ratio of "Getaways" Is Cut in Half in 10 Years,

Automobile thieves are just half as successful in getting away with stolen automobiles now as they were in 1918, according to C. A. Vane, general manager of the National Automobile Dealers Association, who gave figures covering 28 indexed cities of the United States on which the association has complete nine-year report. In these 28 cities in 1918 there were 27,445 automobiles stolen and 21,673 recovered. In 1926 there were 95,225 cars stolen and 85,115 recovered. In 1926, 5772 of the automobiles stolen in these cities were not recovered, which was 21 per cent; in 1926, 10,111 unrecovered cars were but 11 per cent of the total stolen.

New York lost its pre-eminence in cars stolen in 1926 to Detroit. Detroit in 1926 showed 14,820 cars stolen and 13,009 recovered. New York had 12,099 cars stolen and 9726 recovered. Chicago moved into second place, with 12,525 cars stolen and 9616 recovered. Recoveries in Detroit averaged 88 per cent of cars stolen, while in New York and Chicago less than 75 per cent of the stolen cars were regained by their owners.

Criticize Prosecutors.

Disposition of law officers to treat automobile thieves as minor rebels against social customs, rather than vicious violators of the criminal code, is largely responsible, in Vane's opinion, for the steadily rising toll of automobile thefts.

"Prosecuting attorneys and trial judges are putting too much of a handicap upon police officers by their misguided lenity toward automobile thieves," Vane declares. "The thief no longer fears to steal an automobile," says the dealer association general manager, "because he feels certain that the majority of prosecutors and judges regard automobile thievery as just a conventional crime. Laxity of enforcement of automobile penalties, however, is fraught with the gravest consequences, because it is the stolen automobile that the greater majority of bank burglaries, store and residence holdups, and in many cases fatal knockdowns of pedestrians on the highway are consummated.

"Borrowed" Automobiles.

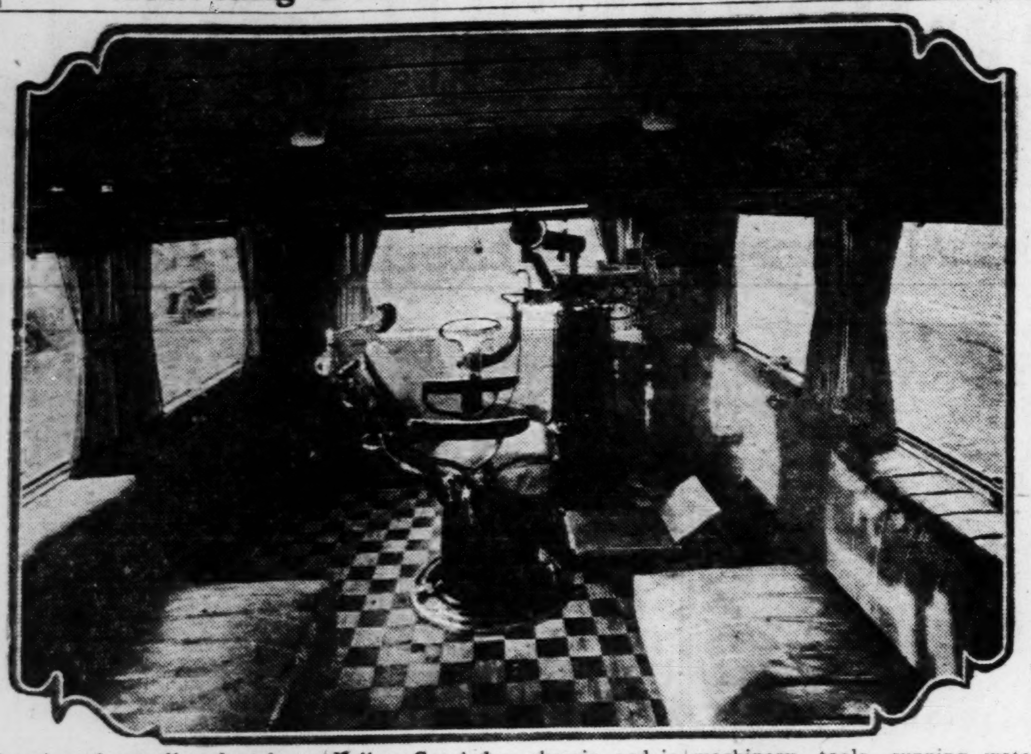
"Many a gang of criminals that today is operating as a highly organized and effective robber band is a collection of young men who started their criminal careers in a 'temporarily borrowed automobile.' It was so easy that the borrowed property was never returned. The thief then found himself in an environment where money to support his desires was far beyond his capacity to obtain honorably and he turned to burglary and robbery as the easiest way of keeping himself in funds.

Little Incentive for Officers.

"There is little inspiration for a peace officer to put in the arduous effort required and court the danger present in breaking up an automobile theft ring, when previous experience has taught him that within a month after arrest the criminals will be at liberty again after paying a misdemeanor fine or be on parole obtained through political influence.

"Certificate of title laws and the general exchange of information between the 48 State commissioners of motor vehicles has made the disposal of stolen cars less lucrative as an occupation than it formerly was, but law enforcement by the courts is needed to reduce the thefts, particularly where the stealing is done with the intention of keeping the car for the thief's own personal use."

Traveling Dental Exhibit on Bus Chassis



Interior of traveling dental exhibit, housed in a parlor coach body on a buss chassis, which has been in St. Louis the past week. It is said to be the first of its kind.

It is installed on a 6-cylinder Yellow Coach bus chassis, and is sent out by the Electric Dental Mfg. Co. of Philadelphia, to display to dentists and dental students the latest dental devices and methods of dentistry.

It is completely equipped, with dental chair, laboratory, electrical machinery, tools, running water and fans. A man of average height can stand upright in it easily. Bed couches for driver and dental lecturer fold into the sides of the body.

The coach came from Philadelphia to St. Louis via Memphis.

Lower Prices feature the New PAIGE Sedans!

Sharp price reductions now prevail on many of the 20 charming body types and color combinations of the new Paige cars. So decided have been some of these reductions that it is now possible for you to purchase a Paige enclosed car for only $1095 f. o. b. factory.

These reductions are particularly evident on the closed cars on the 6-45 and 6-65 chassis. It is now simply impossible to find the equal of these sturdy, dependable and extraordinarily beautiful cars unless you are prepared to pay many hundreds of dollars more.

These Paigecars, you know, are the identical Paige cars that have won recognition as the style leaders of the industry. Their graceful body lines, beautifully finished in two and three tone color combinations, their exquisite interiors, lavishly yet tastefully appointed — make them now, more than ever before, "The Most Beautiful Cars in America".

With larger, speedier, more quickly accelerated motors, sixes and eights—with air cleaners, rubber-cushioned clutches, silent chain timing, and bronze-backed bearings—with the matchless safety of Paige-Hydraulic 4-wheel brakes—Paige cars are certainly not only the year's style leaders but its leaders in value as well.

Come in—soon—and drive the model of your choice. There's no obligation whatever.

SAFETY CONGRESS AT KANSAS CITY APRIL 13

Robert E. Lee, Head of St. Louis Organization, Is on the Program.

By the Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., March 26.—Automobiles are "deadly weapons" in the hands of inexperienced drivers, says Walter G. King, president of the National Safety Council, who advocates a uniform drivers' license law for Middle Western states.

"A Practical Drivers' License Law for the Middle West," is the subject of an address and discussion at the first annual Central States Safety Congress here April 13-15. The proposed drivers' license was recommended by the conference on street and highway safety in Washington last year. Missouri, Illinois, Arkansas, Oklahoma, Texas, Colorado, Kansas and Iowa will be represented.

General sessions will start Wednesday morning, April 13, and in the afternoon industrial safety will engage business executives, safety engineers and others interested in prevention of factory and shop accidents. There will be a public session at which speakers will tell of the importance of getting the facts about accidents, and advocate the uniform traffic laws and their fearless enforcement. Grade crossing accidents and prevention will be discussed Wednesday evening.

School safety sessions will be held at Junior College Thursday, and in the evening there will be addresses by traffic and safety authorities.

"Safety as a Community Problem," and "Why Traffic Problems Cannot Be Solved by Guesswork," by Miller McClintock, who has directed traffic surveys in Los Angeles and Chicago, will be presented on the last day. Other speakers and their subjects are: Robert E. Lee, president of the St. Louis Safety Council, "Organizing the Community for Safety," and Maj. Thomas H. Allen, Commissioner of Police and Fire, Memphis, Tenn., "The Police and Safety."

CITIES FURNISH 88 PER CENT OF TRAFFIC IN OHIO

ern, 191 vehicles per mile per day; Southwestern, 197; East Central, 120; Northwestern, 108, and Southern, 83.

The most important heavy traffic routes are the Buffalo-Chicago Highway, the National Highway, the Dixie Highway, the Lincoln Highway, the Scioto Trail, the Cincinnati-Columbus-Cleveland Route, and the Cleveland-Marietta Highway. Seasonal traffic reaches its peak in August when the tourist is abroad in the land and the heaviest daily traffic is on Sunday.

Fuel Loss Told in Percentages.

It has been figured that 7 per cent of the fuel consumed by the average automobile engine is wasted in the transmission. Letting the gears go dry results in another 5 per cent loss. It is estimated that the loss when the transmission lubricant is congested is greater than if the gears were dry.

The Super-Six Principle freed to the limit

and performance so smooth that only a stop watch shows how swift

The smoothness with which the Super-Six glides from standing start to high speed is totally different from the violent lunge with which high powered cars usually get under way.

And so in all it does there is such effortless ease that driver and passengers hardly realize how great is their performance supremacy.

The smooth, silent and elastic flow of power from the released Super-Six principle has set a new standard of unusual performance. At any speed and for any distance you demand you will never feel the slightest effort is exerted by motor or chassis.

You may never require such speed or power. But it is important that this ability results from absolute smoothness and freedom from vibration. The over-capacity means reserve ability for any task. It means minimum wear and repair need. It means easy riding without fatigue.

Until you ride in the Hudson Super-Six there is a motoring thrill you never can know.

RECALLS FAMOUS RACE OF ORIGINAL "FLYING CLOUD"

How the American clipper ship, Flying Cloud, with a 22-year-old lad as first mate, won a purse of $10,000 in a 16,000 mile race that thrilled a continent, back in 1853, is told by Mrs. William Robinson, Long Island, N. Y.

The first mate of the Flying Cloud in the race was Nathan Peter Dickerson, Mrs. Robinson's grandfather. Mrs. Robinson sent the old sea tale to the Reo Motor Car Co., when the new Flying Cloud passenger cars made their appearance.

"One of the Flying Cloud's most celebrated trips was in 1853, when she raced the clipper, Constitution, from New York to San Francisco, around Cape Horn, for a wager of $10,000," Mrs. Robinson relates.

"The Constitution had a 10-day start, but even with this handicap, Capt. Josiah Perkins Cressy and my grandfather, Nathan Peter Dickerson, brought the Flying Cloud to anchor in San Francisco harbor a few minutes ahead of her rival.

"At the time of the race, my grandfather was 22 years old, having gone to sea at 13. The outcome of the contest so delighted the Governor of California that he gave a reception in honor of the event and presented the Flying Cloud with a silver service."

Mrs. Robinson says it is her desire to become first mate of a Reo Flying Cloud.

The Oakland six stock car, which ran 100,000 miles on a treadmill in Detroit. It is to be exhibited today in the showroom of the Mississippi Valley Motor Car Co., Oakland and Pontiac distributer in St. Louis.

The car is on a 20,000-mile tour of the United States.

It was scheduled to arrive from Springfield, Ill., yesterday and to depart tomorrow for Jefferson City on its way to the Pacific Coast.

In its 100,000 run on the treadmill, the Oakland was kept going day and night, the engine never being allowed to cool.

Inspection of the car at the conclusion of the treadmill run showed that no parts other than tires, spark plugs, lamps and piston rings required replacement. So Oakland officials decided to send the car across country to impress the prospective automobile purchaser that the car made today is capable of 10 years of normal driving.

The Oakland left Detroit on Feb. 1 and has visited 15 States, stopping in more than 150 of the largest cities of the East and East Central section. The tour will not be completed until the first week in June.

REO SPEED WAGON MAKE STRENUOUS WESTERN TRIP

In order to make observations as to the minimum length of time required to truck supplies to the Fish Lake district, an emergency aviation field between Los Angeles and Salt Lake City, a Reo speed wagon was used.

After an all night's run from Los Angeles to Bishop, the speed wagon proceeded a few hours later to make the difficult trip from Bishop to Fish Lake. The Montgomery pass, whose last steep pitch is 1500 feet high, was climbed in 12 minutes. Water barrels were loaded for the return trip which greatly icnreased the load. In spite of the weight, the speed wagon made record time.

The driver, who had been at the wheel continuously since the start from Los Angeles, was kept awake by a powerful flash light being turned into a mirror which reflected the light back into the driver's face and prevented him from dozing. The entire trip was made without mechanical trouble.

MODERNIZE your Hydraulic Brakes

No More Pumping
No More "Bleeding"
No Dragging Brakes
No Lost Motion in Pedal

PRICE $20 Gives Brake Satisfaction for life of car.

Now you can enjoy the many advantages of hydraulic brakes without the drawbacks so long accepted as inevitable. With the Safeco Compensator installed on your car in place of the master cylinder in your present hydraulic brake system, you can dismiss all thought of brake trouble from your mind.

No longer will it be necessary for you to get out of your car at inconvenient times to pump up your brake system. You will never again feel a sickening free play in your brake pedal, indicating loss of fluid and consequent dangerous lack of braking power. There will be no more need of a tedious, messy and expensive draining job to bleed out accumulated air; no more dragging brakes in hot weather; no more brake worry at all—now you can ALWAYS stop!

BETTER BRAKE PERFORMANCE

The Safeco Compensator automatically and continuously replenishes the fluid in your brake system and bleeds out the air while you drive, without any attention on your part. It by-passes the excess fluid, caused by expansion in hot weather, thus preventing dragging brakes. It keeps your hydraulic brakes working at maximum efficiency as long as there is a drop of fluid left in the supply tank.

GUARANTEE

Tested by more than two years' actual service on different automobiles, the Safeco Compensator is now offered to the public as a perfected device, absolutely guaranteed to operate as represented in this advertisment. Any Compensator failing to do this will be replaced, or your money refunded, if returned within thirty days from date of purchase.

Do not deprive yourself of the benefits of the Safeco Compensator any longer. This remarkable device will modernize your hydraulic brakes according to the latest engineering practice, and give you brake satisfaction for the life of your car. It will repay its small cost many times over in the saving of your time, worry and money. With a few exceptions, the Safeco Compensator can be installed on any model of any car now equipped with hydraulic brakes.

How fast do clouds fly?

CLOUDS fly as fast as 150 miles per hour. Of course the Reo Flying Cloud won't fly that fast—nor will all clouds.

But as an editor of Motor says, in the January issue:

"There is enough gravel on these roads (in Michigan) to give them a sort of 'ball-bearing surface' and the writer being somewhat conservative believes that forty miles per hour is about right for such roads.

"But to the writer's surprise it was really an effort to hold this car below fifty miles per hour, so smoothly and quietly did it run. Several times he slowed it down to forty, but invariably he was soon back up to fifty or sixty. Certainly there could be no more convincing commentary on the sweetness with which this car runs.

"There was no convenient opportunity to test its maximum speed, but considering the ease with which it reaches sixty or sixty-five its top speed must be all that could be desired."

We know what Reo Flying Clouds have done in many hands. But what its top speed will be in your hands on your roads, only you can prove by trying one out. Then the honest speedometer of the Flying Cloud will translate into miles per hour the speed at which you are traveling. And you'll be surprised, not only at how very fast you are going, but how very comfortably you are riding at that great speed.

Be sure to try one out

HUDSON-ESSEX SERVICE STATION IS ENLARGED

Frampton Firm Now Has One of Largest One-Floor Plants in U. S.

Formal opening of the large addition to the Hudson Motor Car company's service station on Delmar boulevard, just west of Taylor avenue, is scheduled for tomorrow. Preparations have been made for showing car owners through the enlarged plant from 8 a. m. to 6 p. m. daily this week.

With the placing in active operation of a large new building on the Enright avenue side of the alley in rear of Delmar boulevard, the Hudson-Frampton Co. now has one of the largest service stations all on one floor in this country, if not the largest in the Middle West. Altogether, the firm, which is Hudson and Essex distributer in the St. Louis territory, has nearly 2½ acres under roof devoted to maintenance.

Large Investment.

Figuring the cost of the new building and its site at $120,000, the Hudson-Frampton service plant represents an investment of approximately $600,000 in land, buildings and equipment for automobile repair and maintenance work.

The firm is now enabled to do everything in service under its own roof, from rebuilding an engine or painting a used car to building a complete new body and finishing it in duco in any color or color combination.

Having the plant entirely on the ground floor enables many worthwhile savings of time, and makes for more efficient routing of jobs from department to department.

Ample Space for Service.

The site fronts 286 feet on Delmar and runs through to Enright avenue, on which it fronts 227 feet. It is divided by an alley. The Delmar boulevard part runs back 247 feet to the alley, along which it fronts for 348 feet. The Enright avenue part is 227 by 140 feet.

The Delmar part consists of a surfaced service yard 104 by 247 feet, which is walled in, and a building which houses showroom, 50 by 22 feet, for the display of new Hudson and Essex cars by the West End sales branch of the Hudson-Frampton Co.; quarters for the parts department and the Frampton Co., which wholesales accessories and tires; service offices; battery department; emergency service department; general overhaul shop, machine shop and warehousing space.

The service offices, which open directly from the service yard, are equipped with up-to-the-minute time savers.

The emergency service room measures 75 by 75 feet, and is supplemented in warm weather by a large roofed-over quick service gallery in the yard.

The battery room is 17 by 20 feet. Here the firm does all its own battery charging and repair work.

Elaborate Equipment.

The main shop, for general overhauling and heavy repair work, occupies a space 172 by 76 feet. It has gas and air lines running to every section. 100 pounds pressure being carried continually on the air system for cleaning parts, carburetors, gasoline lines, etc. Every other mechanic's bench has an air line. A ventilating system keeps the air free from carbon monoxide gas. Machinery is so disposed that a frame, for instance, can be straightened in any part of this shop.

Formerly, when brake drums became worn it was necessary to charge $15 for a replacement job. Today, a special drum refacing machine makes it possible to reface the brake drums for $2. An automatic brake liner is one of the machines which make the flat rate system used in 92 per cent of Hudson-Frampton work possible and practicable.

Adjoining the main shop are a blacksmith shop and a machine shop, the latter fitted with complete tools for Hudson and Essex work, from special valve grinders to bearing reamers, lathes and drill presses.

A large room is devoted to a car laundry. Cars enter it and are sent around a horse-shoe concrete track, raised high enough so that the chassis and under part of a car body can be thoroughly cleaned as well as the upper part. A car on the track undergoes successive washing, cleaning and polishing operations.

The New Building.

The area between the alley and Enright avenue is the site of the new building, a brick and concrete structure, unusually well lighted. This building is divided into four large bays.

One bay, 28 by 44 feet, is devoted to tuning, checking and preparing cars for delivery. The next bay, 75 by 56 feet, is the new car delivery department.

Next to the east is the body and seat cover department, measuring 75 by 56 feet. Here the firm builds its own shades, makes its own seat covers, cuts, grinds and installs its own glass in windows and doors, and does its own body and dent work.

The fourth bay is given over to a lacquer department, the Hudson-Frampton Co. being an authorized duco station.

Handling of service customers is completely systematized from the minute a man drives his car into the service yard to be met by one of the four service salesmen until he returns at the specified time to find his car ready and his bill made out. An "inside inspector" watches the progress of repair or adjustment jobs clear through, as does the

HUDSON-ESSEX SERVICE STATION IS ENLARGED

Frampton Firm Now Has One of Largest One-Floor Plants in U. S.

Formal opening of the large addition to the Hudson Motor Car company's service station on Delmar boulevard, just west of Taylor avenue, is scheduled for tomorrow. Preparations have been made for showing car owners through the enlarged plant from 8 a. m. to 6 p. m. daily this week.

With the placing in active operation of a large new building on the Enright avenue side of the alley in rear of Delmar boulevard, the Hudson-Frampton Co. now has one of the largest service stations all on one floor in this country, if not the largest in the Middle West. Altogether, the firm, which is Hudson and Essex distributer in the St. Louis territory, has nearly 2½ acres under roof devoted to maintenance.

Large Investment.

Figuring the cost of the new building and its site at $120,000, the Hudson-Frampton service plant represents an investment of approximately $600,000 in land, buildings and equipment for automobile repair and maintenance work.

The firm is now enabled to do everything in service under its own roof; from rebuilding an engine or painting a used car to building a complete new body and finishing it in duco in any color or color combination.

Having the plant entirely on the ground floor enables many worthwhile savings of time, and makes for more efficient routing of jobs from department to department.

Ample Space for Service.

The site fronts 286 feet on Delmar and runs through to Enright avenue, on which it fronts 237 feet. It is divided by an alley. The Delmar boulevard part runs back 247 feet to the alley, along which it fronts for 348 feet. The Enright avenue part is 237 by 140 feet.

The Delmar part consists of a surfaced service yard 104 by 247 feet, which is walled in, and a building which houses showroom, 50 by 22 feet, for the display of new Hudson and Essex cars by the West End sales branch of the Hudson-Frampton Co.; quarters for the parts department and the Frampton Co., which wholesales accessories and tires; service offices; battery department; emergency service department; general overhaul shop, machine shop and warehousing space.

The service offices, which open directly from the service yard, are equipped with up-to-the-minute time savers.

The emergency service room measures 75 by 75 feet, and is supplemented in warm weather by a large roofed-over quick service gallery in the yard.

The battery room is 17 by 20 feet. Here the firm does all its own battery charging and repair work.

Elaborate Equipment.

The main shop, for general overhauling and heavy repair work, occupies a space 172 by 76 feet. It has gas and air lines running to every section, 100 pounds pressure being carried continually on the air system for cleaning parts, carburetors, gasoline lines, etc. Every other mechanic's bench has an air line. A ventilating system keeps the air free from carbon monoxide gas. Machinery is so disposed that a frame, for instance, can be straightened in any part of this shop.

Formerly, when brake drums became worn it was necessary to charge $15 for a replacement job. Today, a special drum refacing machine makes it possible to reface the brake drums for $2. An automatic brake liner is one of the machines which make the flat rate system used in 92 per cent of Hudson-Frampton work possible and practicable.

Adjoining the main shop are a blacksmith shop and a machine shop, the latter fitted with complete tools for Hudson and Essex work, from special valve grinders to bearing reamers, lathes and drill presses.

A large room is devoted to a car laundry. Cars enter it and are sent around a horse-shoe concrete track, raised high enough so that the chassis and under part of a car body can be thoroughly cleaned as well as the upper part. A car on the track undergoes successive washing, cleaning and polishing operations.

The New Building.

The area between the alley and Enright avenue is the site of the new building, a brick and concrete structure, unusually well lighted. This building is divided into four large bays.

One bay, 28 by 44 feet, is devoted to tuning, checking and preparing cars for delivery. The next bay, 75 by 56 feet, is the new car delivery department.

Next to the east is the body and seat cover department, measuring 75 by 56 feet. Here the firm builds its own shades, makes its own seat covers, cuts, grinds and installs its own glass in windows and doors, and does its own body and dent work.

The fourth bay is given over to a lacquer department, the Hudson-Frampton Co. being an authorized duco station.

Handling of service customers is completely systematized from the minute a man drives his car into the service yard to be met by one the four service salesmen until he returns at the specified time to find his car ready and his bill made out. An "inside inspector" watches the progress of repair or adjustment jobs clear through, as does the shop superintendent, and sees that it is road tested and that it is turned over finished to the service salesman who took the order for work. The latter also gives the car a driving test. The same system obtains in the office, where jobs are listed on the blackboard with time of completion, name of service salesman responsible, and other details, while an automatic biller and three service men at the desk make sure that there are no annoying waits.

Among advantages of the flat rate system used, according to Shop Superintendent William B. Denhard, is that it makes it possible to tell a customer in advance exactly what a job will cost him, and also that the mechanic or mechanics who do the work loaf, if they loaf, on their own time, not at the expense of the customer.

The Hudson-Frampton Co. has its own fire company, which drills regularly, and its buildings are protected by a sprinkler system.

DRIVES WILLYS-KNIGHT SIX FROM ENGLAND TO INDIA

L. L. Drader, British Sportsman, Makes 8000-Mile Trip in 80 Days.

From Manchester, England, to Calcutta, India, in a "70" Willys-Knight six, was recently driven by L. L. Drader, an English sportsman. Drader traveled more than 8000 miles through 11 countries, on the 80-day trip.

The car was transported across the channel to Bologne and thence driven to Paris and on to Coblenz, Strasbourg and Munich to Vienna. From Vienna to Belgrade the car met its first real test over bad roads which were hardly more than wagon tracks. The going from Belgrade through Dragoman Pass, Sofia and Phillippolis to Adrianopol was fairly decent, but onward toward Constantinople came steep grades and difficult passes in the Balkan Mountains.

Crossing the Bosporus at Constantinople, he continued to Eskischir, Mudani and thence to Adana, through the Taurus Mountains. The car sank in volcanic sand at times so that a network of wires, placed under the wheels, was used to extricate it. Next was encountered a series of narrow passes where the roadbed was covered by loose, sharp rocks and dangerous turns were numerous. At Adana, Drader was delayed five days by Turkish authorities, then struck out directly across the desert toward Bagdad, ignoring the safer, smoother route through Beirut. In Arak, much of the land and roadways were inundated. Mail coaches had sunk in mud above their axles and the airmail planes that were sent to their aid were unable to find landing places.

Telegraphing from Ramadi, about 60 miles from Bagdad, Drader said: "Became lost in the desert after leaving Aleppo. Half way across became stuck in a pond, but came out of it under own power. Drained gallon of water out of lower crankcase."

After leaving Bagdad, Drader drove through Teheran, Kerman and Duzdap, thence over the northwest border of India to Quetta. Drader reported almost impassable roads infested by bandits.

LIVE STEAM PROCESS FOR CLEANING CAR TRANSMISSION

Live steam under pressure is the newest means of cleaning old grease and dirt from transmission housings. The heat breaks down encrusted oily debris, and the force of the steam carries it away. The transmission is then thoroughly dried.

L. C. Wildermann, inventor and exclusive St. Louis user of the system, says live steam cleaning leaves the transmission as clean a though it had been dismantled and scrubbed with kerosene, and does the work in a fraction of the time.

At his big, new lubricating station, North Kingshighway and Lotus, Wilderman explained that some new means of cleaning was made necessary by the fact that many inferior lubricating greases have a soap base, which in time fouls the transmission. The difficulty of cleaning transmissions by ordinary methods brought about his steam system.

Motorists who use the Wilderman station are able for the first time to inspect the "mysterious" process known as lubrication. The Wilderman pits are kept perfectly clean, and owners who desire to watch the work are provided with clean, white coverall coats and escorted to the pits, where each process is explained.

Along Auto Row

NEW CHEVROLET DEALERSHIP

Ollie A. Reller has organized the Reller-Chevrolet Co. to handle a Chevrolet dealership in Maplewood. The firm has taken over the Nangle-Gillis Chevrolet Co., 7239-53 Manchester avenue, and is enlarging the showroom and otherwise remodeling the building. Used cars are handled in another building, at Manchester and Oakview terrace.

Reller is a son of August H. Reller, president of the Bremen Bank, and is well known on Auto Row He formerly headed the Wielandy-Reller Motor Co., Webster Groves.

Reller's brother-in-law, P. Frank Smith Jr., is vice president of the Reller-Chevrolet Co., and I. L. Marting is secretary-treasurer.

TRUCK TIRE DISTRIBUTER

The Henry Maginnis Tire Co., 1422-32 North Tenth street, has been appointed exclusive distributer of Goodyear solid and cushion truck tires for St. Louis and vicinity. The firm has been in the tire business for years, and is especially well equipped for handling truck tire business and repair work.

TO OPEN USED CAR STORE

The Berry Motor Car Co. is to open a used car store at 3205 Locust boulevard April 1. R. T. Walsh, who has been with the local Packard distributer for years is to be manager.

CHEVROLET PLANT MANAGER

George B. Low has been promoted from assistant to factory manager for the big plant of the Chevrolet Motor Co. in St. Louis, succeeding J. F. Wildgen.

Low has been with the St. Louis Chevrolet plant of General Motors for several years, having served here as plant manager and later as assistant manager.

His appointment is significant of recognition of exceptional ability by the Detroit officials of the company. It is said he is one of the youngest men holding a position of such responsibility in the Chevrolet organization. The St. Louis plant is regarded as one of the most important units of General Motors.

Low is a Virginian and graduated from a well-known Eastern technical institution. He resides at 5823 Cabanne avenue. He recently was elected a member of the Board of Directors of the Manufacturers and Merchants' Association of St. Louis.

NEW STUDEBAKER DEALER

The Sutton Motor Co. has been appointed a dealer in Studebaker and Erskine cars in St. Louis. The appointment was made by the Weber Motor Car Co., codistributer for Studebaker.

The Sutton Co. was formed by J. D. Gillis and C. C. Nangle, who recently sold the Nangle-Gillis Chevrolet Co., and Edward Bryant and Edward Doerr are associated with them. The new firm has showrooms at 310 Sutton avenue.

FIRESTONE TIRE DEALER

The Glenn Tire Co. has been appointed a Firestone tire dealer. John Glenn, head of the firm, is recognized as having been the first tire dealer in St. Louis. His place of business is at Grand boulevard and Pine street.

ADDS BRAKE LINING SERVICE

H. C. Merry of the Gabriel Snubber Sales and Service Co., 3920 Lindell boulevard, has installed a brake lining service, using the new Grey-lock lining. M. F. Shannon is in charge of this service. The firm has three special service pits.

SAFETY LAWS IN BOOKLET

"Safety Sense" is the title of a booklet issued by the St. Louis Safety Council, which plainly gives a synopsis of all the state laws and city ordinances governing automobile traffic. The book is illustrated, showing signals and the proper practice at crossings. This booklet has been adopted by the St. Louis Automobile Dealers' Association, members of which are presenting one to each new owner of an automobile.

Robert E. Lee, manager of the association, has received orders from dealers for more than 8000 of the pamphlets one dealer taking 500.

Water Stops Gas Flow.

Water can get into the gasoline tank even if it does not go in with the fuel. Moisture in the air condenses inside the gasoline tank and, being heavier than the gasoline, it at once sinks to the lowest level. This point is the trap which always is placed low down just to allow for this contingency. In the winter, if one forgets to drain off the water, it may freeze in the gasoline line and stop the flow of fuel.

CHEVROLET "SNOWMOBILE" BESTS MICHIGAN DRIFTS

Faced with the necessity of making long trips through a territory frequently covered with snow drifts 20 feet deep and where temperatures often hover around 38 degrees below zero, Charles Surrell, of a firm of Chevrolet dealers at Newberry, Mich., has constructed a "snowmobile," utilizing a Chevrolet motor and chassis.

The front end of the vehicle is fitted with wooden skis, attached to a Chevrolet axle and steering knuckles. The car is easily handled despite drifts and the average depth of 30 inches of snow encountered in his daily travels, Surrell says. The rear end of the car is fitted with two sets of Chevrolet wheels, set tandem style, over which an endless tractor belt equipped with flanges operates. So powerful is the special tractor equipment when powered with the standard Chevrolet motor that Surrell often has been called on to tow heavy cars out of snow drifts where they have become stalled.

The Chevrolet motor already has put in four years of active service on a Chevrolet touring car before it was utilized for special winter service.

Attention Motorists!

Two Improved, Finer Sixes
More Luxurious—even Greater Power

Engineering Leadership enthusiastically endorsed

NEVER was the trend toward the Willys-Knight Six more pronounced than it is today. At every Automobile Show—at all leading metropolitan centers throughout the country—these two finer Sixes have won enthusiastic praise wherever they were shown.

Already sales have climbed to new high peaks—and behind this record of success lie strong substantial reasons.

Experienced motorists have learned that in flexibility—acceleration—climbing power—economy—long life—and low depreciation—this type of car is without a rival.

They have learned that the Knight sleeve-valve engine means no valves to grind—no carbon-cleaning—no springs to weaken.

And finally they have found in these two fine cars a superiority of coachwork and luxury of interior finish that are unsurpassed in the fine car field.

Judged solely from the standpoint of performance, beauty and long life no other type of car compares to the Willys-Knight. But in addition you must also consider this combination of Willys-Knight advantages that means so much to the comfort, pleasure and security of present-day motoring:

Oil rectifier prevents crankcase dilution • Thermostatic temperature control • Exceptionally effective four-wheel brakes • Belflex Shackles to reduce noise, improve riding qualities and silence chassis Shock absorbers • Narrow front corner posts • Clear vision • Automatic windshield wiper • Light controls at your finger tips, while holding the steering wheel.

NEW PEERLESS LINE ARRIVES IN ST. LOUIS

Six-60 Models Will Be Companions to Larger Sixes and the Peerless Eight.

The new Peerless 6-60 car, which has just been brought out as a companion to the Peerless eight and the two other larger Peerless sixes, is being shown in St. Louis by the De Luxe Automobile Co.

Featured at this time is a coupe with rumble seat on this chassis, which is powered by a six-cylinder engine of 3¼-inch bore and 4-inch stroke that develops 62 brake horse power at 3000 r. p. m.

This model is very attractive with its clean-cut lines and its torpedo rear which is a style characteristic of some Peerless body types. It is really a three-tone car, for its lower body is done in gray, its belt in blue gray with double bead, and its top, fenders and running gear in black. The rear quarter side windows are of the stylishly slim "D" shape. Coupe interior is in a very handsome gray plush mohair, while the rumble is done in tan leather effect. A distinctly smart car—priced at $1345 list.

This new 6-60 line is the lowest priced yet brought out by Peerless, but is fetchingly designed and well built and appointed throughout.

Its engine has a 7-bearing crankshaft and 4-bearing camshaft.

The frame is seven inches deep.

Four-wheel brakes are of the hydraulic type.

J. F. SCHAEFER TO MANAGE COOPER TIRE ORGANIZATION

John F. Schaefer has been appointed general manager of the Cooper Corporation and its subsidiaries, including the tire manufacturing division of Findlay, O., the battery manufacturing division of Cincinnati, O., and the 13 branch stores in as many cities, operated under the name of the I. J. Cooper Rubber Co. and the Cooper Tire and Battery Co.

Schaefer has been in the rubber business since 1909 and has been vice president of the Cooper corporation since its inception.

ROUTE 66 TO PASS THROUGH OUTSKIRTS OF SPRINGFIELD

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., March 26.—H. P. Mobberly, division highway engineer, has been notified that the State Highway Commission has decided on Kearney street as the route through Springfield for Federal No. 66. Kearney street is in the extreme north section of the city and its choice was opposed by "south side" business men, who wanted a route nearer the business district chosen.

Right-of-way for widening the thoroughfare is being obtained and a contract for part of the grading has been let.

AUTOMOBILE WORKERS IN FAVOR OF DAYLIGHT SAVING

Daylight saving is popular in automobile circles if the replies to a questionnaire sent from the office of the St. Louis Automobile Dealers' Association by its manager, Robert E. Lee, are to be depended upon.

The questionnaire, mailed March 11, asked the automobile dealers to take a census of their employes to find out their attitude toward setting the clock back an hour in the summer.

Replies were received from 43 dealers, and all but one of these showed an overwhelming majority of employes for daylight saving. One establishment showed 28 for and 2 against. Another showed 67 for and 8 against. One, a truck factory, had an almost even vote for and against, but the others were almost unanimously for daylight saving.

PLAY INSTRUCTS ACCESSORY DEALERS IN SALESMANSHIP

"Making the Grade" Contrasts Slothful and Up-to-Date Methods.

Men in the automobile industry in St. Louis and vicinity were given an unusual sales and merchandising lesson in the playlet "Making the Grade," presented under the auspices of the Automotive Accessory Association of St. Louis at the Missouri Hotel Tuesday evening.

The playlet was presented by Missouri lamp division of the National Lamp Works and was in two acts. The first act showed a dirty and badly arranged accessory store. The efforts of a smart salesman for the lamp company changed the attitude of the proprietor so that in the second act he was running an up-to-date and money-making establishment.

George H. Niekamp, president of the Automotive Accessary Association, was introduced by Robert E. Lee, manager of the association, who presided. Niekamp talked about the work of the association in the past 19 years and its achievements.

Between the acts of the play Walter E. Strong of the Duncan Electric Manufacturing Co., Lafayette, Ind., entertained the meeting humorously. Two hundred and fifty attended.

Work Begun on Connecting Road.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

PALMYRA, Mo., March 26.—W. D. Cooper, County Highway Engineer, has started work on the highway which will connect the West Ely gravel road and U. S. Highway No. 61, passing through Palmyra. The project will be rushed and when completed will make an all-year connection between the highways.

AUTHOR IS MAKING WORLD TOUR IN BUICK BROUGHAM

Lieutenant-Colonel E. Alexander Powell, American author and traveler, with his wife and daughter, is making a world tour in a 1927 Buick brougham.

The Powells spent the winter visiting the islands in the Eastern Mediterranean. His trip, on which he is gathering material for a book, will take him through Finland, Poland, Czecho-Slovakia, Latvia, Lithuania and Esthonia. Col. Powell's car is equipped with a typewriter and table.

The itinerary includes Constantinople, Damascus or Jerusalem, Bagdad, Persia and India. They intend to drive across China and there sail for California.

W. E. JOHNSTON OF PEORIA HEADS ILLINOIS AUTO DEALERS

The annual meeting of the Illinois Automotive Trade Association, the State organization of automobile dealers, held at Danville, March 15 and 16, was attended by about 300 dealers, including many from the St. Louis district.

William E. Johnston, Reo dealer at Peoria, was elected president and W. W. Yates, Buick dealer at Bloomington, treasurer. Herman G. Wangelin, Ford and Lincoln dealer at Belleville, is one of the directors, as is E. J. Kilborn, Nash dealer at Decatur.

Capt. Robert E. Lee, manager of the St. Louis Automobile Dealers' Association, was one of the speakers.

W. H. OWEN COMPANY
EXCLUSIVE LINCOLN DEALERS

Announce a special One Week's Sale of Used Fine Motor Cars — of popular makes — mostly closed body types. All have been re-conditioned and refinished to look as nearly new as possible.

Rebuilt Lincolns

We are able to offer to the most discriminating buyer Rebuilt Lincolns in various body types . . . Each car has been renewed and carries the same guarantee as we give to the purchaser of a new Lincoln, viz: Four months' free service, free inspection, free oiling and greasing.

"A Lincoln Is a Lincoln—The World Over"

The man who drives a Lincoln never feels called upon to explain that his car is of any particular series or model.

Regardless of body type, there is but a single Lincoln standard.

And when an improvement is made, it is with the thought of having it adaptable to cars already in service. Thus every Lincoln car, regardless of the date purchased, can be kept strictly up to the minute through this policy of interchangeability. Truly, a Lincoln is a Lincoln—the world over.

"pioneer of the industry's most widely accepted advancements, Oakland is pioneering again today"

Adhering to its purpose to produce a low-priced six, rivaling in beauty and mechanical quality the finest cars of the world—

—Oakland has introduced many of the foremost automotive improvements in use today.

Oakland developed the widely imitated Harmonic Balancer and led the industry in the adoption of Duco finishes. Oakland led its field in offering Fisher bodies, 4-wheel brakes, air cleaner, oil filter and foot-controlled tilting-beam headlights.

And just as in the past it has been pioneer of the industry's most widely accepted advancements, Oakland is pioneering again today— —by employing practices and processes of such extraordinary exactness that their use has previously been restricted to the manufacturers of extremely costly cars!

Go through the great Oakland factory and you will find instance after instance where super-precision, rigorous standards and extra measures are being employed to insure an extra measure of owner satisfaction. You will see piston pin bushings being diamond bored to limits of three ten-thousandths of an inch—connecting rods being matched both for weight and center of gravity—and many other operations, equally unusual in Oakland's price class.

And when you drive the Greater Oakland Six and thrill to its almost unbelieveably smooth and spirited performance, you will understand why this rigorously controlled quality is paying such lavish dividends—to Oakland in the form of ever growing good will—to owners, in the form of everlasting satisfaction!

ATES TO BUILD 6,841 MILES OF GHWAYS IN 1927

penditures Expected to Total $645,483,000, With $126,000,000 for Maintenance.

e construction of 26,841 miles oad and the maintenance of 847 miles are included in the State highway programs of tates, according to reports re- by the Bureau of Public ds, United States Department griculture. The programs also de the construction of a num- of large bridges and the recon- tion of roads previously im- ed.

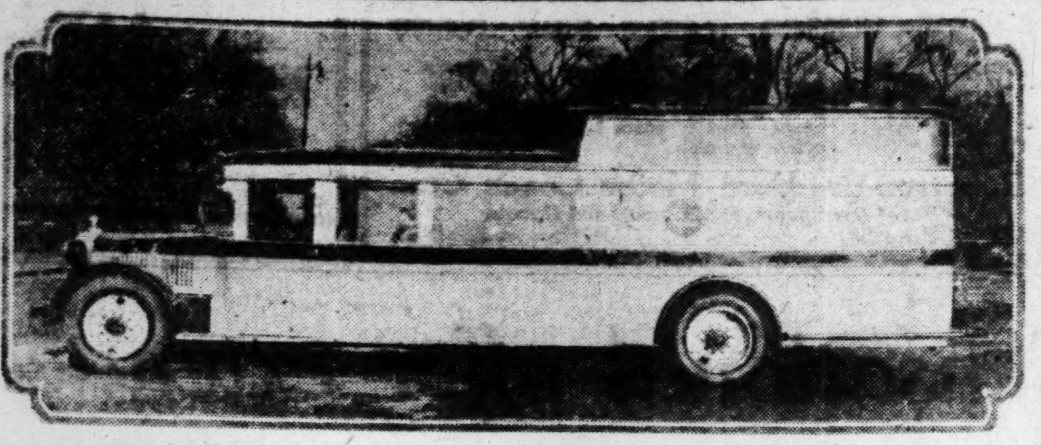
ecause of uncertainty of sup- ng legislation, no estimate is ble as yet in Connecticut. is expected there will be ex- d under the supervision of state highway departments in 7 states $648,483,000. In ad- to the State expenditures ap- imate estimates indicate that ties and other lesser subdi- s of Government will expend g the year $475,000,000.

the expenditures by the State way departments approximate- 421,000,000 is the estimated unt for road construction and, rding to present plans, more $56,000,000 additional will be t for new bridges. For recon- tion of existing roads it is esti- ed that the expenditure will be ly $27,000,000, and for main- nce approximately $126,000,000. he mileage of new state high- construction contemplated ing the year, subdivided by es of surface, follows: Im- ed dirt, 6957 miles; sand-clay, vel and macadam, 12,395 miles; halt, concrete and brick, 7489 es.

Paying for Highways.

Highways are being paid for to large extent today by levies on e motor vehicle rather than by roperty taxation, according to the nited States Department of Agri- ulture. In 1920 the percentage of ghway expenditure derived from operty taxation was 11.2 per ent and in 1925 the percentage was 3.3.

First Observation Bus Seen in St. Louis



Touring "A. F. C." bus, with observation deck, which was an object of interest on St. Louis streets the past week.

BUS BODY BUILDING AT ST. CHARLES POSSIBLE

American Car and Foundry Co. Said to Be Considering This Step.

Building of bus bodies in its plant at St. Charles, Mo., is said to be under consideration by the American Car and Foundry Co., as a result of plans for marketing bus chassis produced by the Fageol division of a subsidiary.

It is reported that tentative plans contemplate building bodies at St. Charles to be fitted on Fageol bus chassis driven here from Detroit for distribution in the St. Louis territory.

Through the American Car and Foundry Motors Co., the company is producing a line of busses known as the "A. C. F.," which use the Fageol chassis.

One of these new busses, which is particularly well-fitted for long distance motor coach runs, was brought to St. Louis the past week by W. B. McCormick, sales representative of the Fageol division of the American Car and Foundry Motors Co. It attracted a deal of attention here and on a run to Alton and Jerseyville Monday.

This bus is of the parlor coach type, but has a roomy cabin, with large observation windows, that occupies the rear half of the top deck. It is a handsome, luxuriously upholstered and fitted vehicle, and handles, despite its 360-inch length, like a huge touring car instead of like a mere bus.

Its chassis is a brute for strength, yet the total weight of this 29-passenger motor coach is only 14,000 pounds.

The engine—a Hall-Scott six-cylinder motor with 4¼-inch bore and 5½-inch stroke—develops a real 90 brake horse power, which is sufficient to whirl the bus along at high speed all day, if desired, and gives the torque for swift climbing of the grades under load.

The springing is exceptionally easy. The air brakes, with their metal to metal contact, take hold on the rear wheels with a smooth certainty that means quick but easy stopping. The front wheel brakes are of the Bendix type.

Another feature is that the engine develops 90 horsepower at only 1800 revolutions per minute, which means relatively slow engine speed, exceptionally smooth operation and freedom from vibration, and long motor life.

The "A. F. C." busses are being produced in all the usual types at a wide price range.

Equalize Your Chains.

Chain equalizers are inexpensive devices that are a worthwhile addition to any automobile. By taking up the slack in the chains they tend to make the traction force constant and keep the slack from piling up under a wheel or from pounding against the mud guards. They will be found particularly helpful on cars equipped with balloon tires and serve a most useful purpose on others. As an adjunct to winter motoring, equalizers are worth their expense.

Rock-a-Bye Clutch.

Use of the clutch to "rock" the car out of mud or snow can be resorted to occasionally without serious damage. Often where a continuous application of power will not pull the car out of a bad spot in the road a rocking motion caused by letting the clutch in and out with a rythmic measure will give the necessary traction. Don't do it except as an experiment and if it does not work, abandon the trick at once. Too much of this will harm the clutch.

BUS TRANSPORTS AUTO OWNERS FROM GARAGE TO STORES

A storage garage company in Philadelphia has placed in service a Reo bus to carry patrons, who left their cars in one of the company's garages, to the heart of the city. The idea has done much to solve two problems. There is a convenient place to park the car without getting into a traffic jam, and there are fewer cars in the congested districts.

The firm's garages are located at points just before the heavy traffic is reached on entering the central section of the city. Private automobiles may be placed in the garage, and free transportation is provided by the bus to theaters, hotels, department stores, or other destinations.

Tickets are given at stores, hotels, or theaters, which are accepted as payment for car storage when the bus returns to the garage. The company collects monthly from the business houses.

The Reo bus is one of the first that the company has placed in service. More busses will be added.

The Car of Lowest Cost Transportation!

What a wonderful car for the price -The Six-80

THAT'S why the Six-80 has created such enthusiasm among men and women who know car values.

There's a big, burly 7-bearing crankshaft that means a refreshing absence of vibration. And just as an added precaution the Six-80 is equipped with the famous Lanchester balancer. So when you step on the gas you get power in abundance—noiseless, velvet-smooth. Pick-up from 5 to 25 miles in 7 seconds. Speed up to 70 miles an hour if you want to travel fast.

Gears shift easily, silently. You steer through traffic or turn in a narrow street with the gentle pressure of your hand on the wheel.

Drive this remarkable Six-80 before you buy. Its greater value is instantly apparent.

GIRLS GAIN WEIGHT FASTER THAN BOYS

Tuberculosis Society Survey Also Shows More Youths Are in Open Air Schools.

Girls gain weight faster than boys at the open air day schools in St. Louis, the research department of the Tuberculosis and Health Society of St. Louis learned in making a survey of these schools for 1925-26. For this reason girls are discharged as physically fit two or three months earlier than boys.

At the Taussig Open Air School an average of 11 months is required for a girl to recuperate and for boys the average is 12 months. At the Porter School, it is nine months for the girl and 12 months for the boy. There are a great many more boys than girls at the two open air schools for white children, the report adds. At the Porter School last year there were 35 boys and only 14 girls. At the Taussig School, 98 boys were enrolled at the beginning of the term and 70 girls. At the recently established Turner School for Negro children, however, there are 65 girls and only 53 boys.

The three open air day schools in St. Louis are maintained by the Board of Education and the Tuberculosis and Health Society of St. Louis to rebuild malnourished children by means of fresh air, sunshine, nourishing food, sleep, exercise and supervised play. The daily routine at these schools begins at 8:30 a. m. and includes class room work the same as the regular schools. The schools are in session the year around with the exception of the last two weeks of August. The Society pays for the meals of children whose parents cannot afford to pay for them.

DENTAL SOCIETY TO GIVE TESTIMONIAL DINNER

Dr. Milton C. Marshall, Former College Dean and Known in Other States, to Be Honored.

A testimonial dinner will be given in honor of Dr. Milton C. Marshall with offices in the Chemical Building, at 7 p. m. Tuesday, at the Gatesworth Hotel, by the St. Louis Dental Society.

Dr. Marshall has been practicing dentistry here since 1894. He is a former dean of St. Louis Dental College and was at one time president of the Faculty Association of American Dental Colleges. He was responsible for the State law in Mississippi regulating the dental profession and was president of the Board of Dental Examiners there. He also sponsored a similar law in Arkansas, serving as secretary of the State board there.

ROTARIANS TO GIVE REVUE TO AID FUND FOR CHILDREN

Theatrical Program and Dance Wednesday Evening Will Further Welfare Work Program.

The annual benefit of the Rotary Club of St. Louis to raise a fund for the club's child-welfare work among crippled children and orphans will be held Wednesday evening at Moolah Temple, followed by a dance, when "The Rotary 1927 Revue" will be presented.

Dances and ensemble acts, mystery playlets, new songs and prominent business men as chorus girls will be features of the production, which is in charge of Charels Sinclair, director of the Municipal Opera Company; William C. Parson, musical director of the Garden Theater, and Roy F. Turnbull of the Rotary Club.

New acts have been written and costumes especially designed, some of which will be used in Municipal Opera shows performances during the coming summer. "500 Pounds of Melody," in one act, will feature John Rohan and Larry Mullen, Rotarian singers, each of whom weighs 250 pounds.

The proceeds will further the work of the Rotarians for children of the city. Every summer a picnic is given for 2500 orphans, crippled children are entertained at theaters and aid is given them during the year, with braces and other equipment supplied.

W. C. T. U. Institute Tuesday.

The Clifton Heights W. C. T. U. will hold an institute Tuesday at Clifton Heights Presbyterian Church, Clifton and Columbia avenues.

PINK POPULAR TINT IN FRANCE

Shades From Rich Rose to Palest Received with Favor.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, March 26.—Rose and all its varied shades is the popular color on the Riviera, France's proving ground for fashions.

Paris takes the favor with which all pink shades are received in the south as indicating that pink will be one of the best, if not the best, color this spring. Lanvin pink is one of the best-liked tints in France. It is a rich rose with a very slight beige cast, though clearer and more delicate than the rose-beige or bois de rose shade so popular last season.

International 5-ton Dump Truck

A Great Truck for Work and great to work with

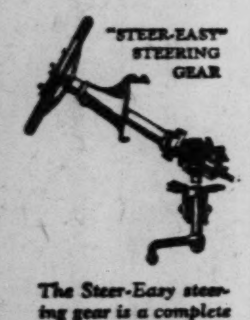
You can't blame your driver for wanting a truck with improvements up to the minute and with trouble reduced to the minimum.

Just because it's a truck for hard jobs doesn't mean it should make the job hard for the driver.

You'll find that your driver appreciates the Steer-Easy steering gear of the International. It enables him to sit as comfortably as in a passenger car and handle his truck as easily, and does it all without losing an inch of loading space. He likes the cab that's not a box—that doesn't roast him in summer or freeze him in winter. He likes the auxiliary springs that make the International ride easy, and the accessibility of the power plant that makes his minor adjustments and oiling an easy job.

The driver will tell you the International is a great truck for work and a great truck to work with. It is—come in and see for yourself.

The International line includes the new Special Delivery; a Speed Truck for 1-ton and 1½-ton loads; Heavy-Duty Trucks ranging from 1½ tons to 5 tons maximum capacities; and Motor Coaches for all requirements. Also the McCormick-Deering Industrial Tractor.



"STEER-EASY" STEERING GEAR

The Steer-Easy steering gear is a complete departure from present day truck steering design.

Rear Auxiliary Springs are inoperative under light loads and come into action when needed.

Sensational offer extended

Drive The Commander

We will lend you this new Big Six Brougham to test for yourself. Prove it will out-speed, out-climb and out-live any car within a thousand dollars of its new reduced price

Reduced $200 to $1585 f. o. b. factory. Including bumpers, front and rear, snubbers, and equipment for which others charge extra

LAST week scores of motorists accepted our invitation to take command of a Commander. We are advertising to the pubic through its hands and feet—hands on the wheel—feet on the throttle, clutch and brakes.

There are no strings to this simple test-it-yourself plan. You take a Commander. You drive it—choose your own time, your own route. You judge this Big Six Brougham by the way it performs in your own hands. No obligation except to tell your friends. You can't help talking about your experience, for The Commander does all that we claim.

It's a "Ball of Fire"

Slip behind the wheel of The Commander. Prove for yourself, as we have time and again on Studebaker's 800-acre Proving Ground, the astonishing margin of Big Six superiority. Idle along smoothly in high at 3 miles an hour. Feel it take the gas as smooth as silk—from 5 to 40 miles in 18.4 seconds. Spirited speed on the straightaway—The Commander will do 70 actual miles per hour with ease!

Most power at its price

Such performance is startling until you remember that only seven American cars equal The Commander in rated horsepower—and they cost from $4,000 to $10,000.

That's the thrill of commanding this Big Six motor—first to beat the fastest schedules of the crack Limiteds from New York to San Francisco.

Steel-built for safety

The Commander's clear vision all-steel body is swung close to the road. Positive mechanical four-wheel brakes give you instant control. Special Studebaker steering mechanism insures effortless mastery at the wheel. No wonder women find new pleasure in driving this high-spirited motor car.

Operate the exclusive Studebaker windshield, which ventilates without drafts or drenching during the hardest rainstorms.

Pullman comfort at any speed

Drive The Commander over rough roads or railroad crossings. Feel how balloon tires, snubbers, extra length springs and deep cushions give Pullman comfort. Go as fast or as far as you like—across town or across the Continent with comfort and confidence.

Greater One-Profit value

Come in today—your Commander is waiting for you! Note its distinctive custom beauty, its $100 worth of extra equipment without extra cost, and ask yourself what other car can offer so much for so little. Only Studebaker One-Profit manufacture and new records of production make possible such fine-car value at $1585!

The Commander is waiting for you. Try it out—no obligation!

second meeting of the West
Court of Honor was held
21 at Ben Blewett Junior School. Because of the ab-from the city of Col. Cur-airman of the court, Robert on, chairman of the Comon Education and member
City Court of Honor, presid-mann Schwarz and Chester
B. Curtis, of the City Court of Honor, and H. C. Fink, a member of the North District Court of Honor made the presentations. Special music was supplied by the orchestra of Troop 59, under the direction of William Rueweler, advisory member of the Troop Committee.

A total of 180 badges were awarded to 80 scouts. Troop 180 obtained the largest number, 36, while Troop 5 had the most scouts, 14, from one troop. As a rewad for having the biggest number of scouts to receive badges, Troop 5 was given the American Flag to carry in a parade before the court.

SOUTH DISTRICT.

Forty parents, 38 scouts and five troop committeemen attended a Parents' night held by Troop 180 at Rose Fanning School March 11. Seven new scouts were admitted in an investiture ceremony. A pantomime, "A Miller Drummer," given by the scouts, selections by the troop orchestra, demonstrations of signaling and first aid and a handicraft exhibit, including a model camp erected by one of the patrols, made up the program. Ice cream and cake were served afterwards, and Field Executive Shippey spoke.

James Stubbs, William Knaesel, Leroy Johnson and Woodrow Emery have joined Troop 160 in the last two weeks. William Hargate completed his second-class requirements, and Herman Pfeifer his first-class during this period. The troop reregistered with 31 scouts, 30 of whom are active. Twenty boys went through the Pevely Dairy plant a week ago Saturday, to learn how milk is handled for city consumption. Each boy was given a bottle of milk.

Scouts Noltsley and Podolsky were formally admitted to Troop 155 at an investiture ceremony conducted by the troop last Friday evening. Instead of lighting a candle for each scout law and point of the scout oath, as usual, the laws and oath were represented by miniature steps, up which the candidates were conducted.

Troop 143 was awarded both the Indian camp stake and President Howard's award at the Scout Circus last week for making their required first quarter objectives. The troop participated in the firemanship event at the circus, Scouts William Wollman and William Hillgaertner took part in the fire-by-friction contest and Scout George Jones entered the rope-spinning event. Four new members were signed during the membership drive preceding the circus, and the troop now has 22 scouts. Deputy Commissioner Carl Lammli inspected the troop last Monday evening.

WEST DISTRICT.

Troop 59 was inspected by headquarters last Friday night and met their objective quota by having 25 scouts in uniform. Scoutmaster Wallner of Troop 59 was in charge of the opening and closing program at the last West District Court of Honor, four drummers of the troop played and the troop orchestra, under the direction of William Rueweler, supplied the entertainment. The horse patrol, which is made up of junior officers only, took part in the firemanship event at the circus.

Troop 30 of the Y. M. H. A. was inspected last Tuesday night by Field Executive S. C. Reaves. Forty-eight boys were present, 43 in uniform. Dr. Charles Rederer and J. B. Kleinhauser of the Troop Committee were also present. Dr. Rederer gave a short talk and presented awards to scouts who had made requirements during the last quarter of 1926.

Scoutmaster L. M. Hall of Troop 46 has recovered from a recent illness and expects to be devoting time to his troop in a short while.

Troop 138, of Tower Grove Baptist Church, reregistered during the week with nine new boys. Their meeting March 18 was held in Forest Park, the boys playing scout games in the open air.

Sixteen scouts of Troop 60 of Union Avenue Christian Church took a 12-mile hike out Manchester road a week ago Saturday. The feature of the hike was a game of "shinny," in which Keeth Whiting's Reds defeated Bill Bauer's Blues.

SUBURBAN DISTRICT.

Because of the showing made by Webster Groves No. 8 and Pattonville No. 1 during inspection, Webster Groves led the column at the circus grand entry Friday night and Pattonville led the grand entry Saturday night. These two troops passed an almost perfect inspection.

Webster Groves No. 1 now has five patrols, of which the following boys have been appointed patrol leaders: F. T. Hall, Leonard Lewis, Herb Rhodes, Clark Honig and Fort Guerin. Bird Thompson has been elected senior patrol leader and Frank Achilles junior assistant scoutmaster. A number of hikes have been taken on Manchester beyond Berry road. On one hike to Sugar Creek the scouts were guests of F. R. McCullough, who turned his farm over to them for the afternoon. Many tests have been passed on these hikes.

The last meeting of Webster Groves nine was given over to inspection. All the committeemen were present, and a good percentage of the boys were in full uniform. This troop is attempting to win the Suburban District cup for the fourth consecutive time. Scoutmaster Pray and some of his Scouts from Kirkwood 4 visited the troop Friday.

Ed Schroeder of Pattonville completed his first-class tests, and received his pin last week. Joe Tibbles, Rob Schutte, Jessie Hammar and Bill McDowell also passed a number of tests. The troop was inspected last Friday by Deputy Commissioner Walsh. Since the inspection every member of the troop has obtained a full uniform.

Brentwood 1 was inspected a week ago Friday. The boys are working with their tests. Life Scout Marion Denny has been elected senior patrol leader.

Webster Groves 8 had 56 Scouts in uniform when the troop was inspected by Deputy Commissioners Kelly and McCormack a week ago Friday evening. The troop reregistered after the inspection, with a membership of 61. The troop has adopted a distinctive neckerchief, employing the Suburban District insignia "Bar None," and the troop number. The neckerchief was worn for the first time at the circus.

Notes of the Girl Scouts

Patrol 3 entertained Forget-Me-Not Troop 5 with a treasure hunt at its regular meeting this week. The treasure was found by Edith Burtram. There also was a guessing contest and a fortune-telling game. "Hot dogs," cocoa and marshmallows were served, after which the troop was dismissed with the Spreading Chestnut-tree Song and taps. After the meeting there was a Court of Honor to discuss future business. This troop meets at Mount Auburn Church Friday evenings.

Miss Baldwin taught Troop 1 of Overland many new songs at its last meeting, March 15. Taps sung in the Indian fashion concluded this meeting. In the last half year two patrols have been added.

The majority of the girls of Troop 56 have been working on their baskets this week in order to get their Craftsman's Badge. Dorothy Gahn, Marcella Sexauer and Mildred Kraus passed Fire Prevention; Lorraine Rocbe passed tests in seaming, darning, knitting and hemming.

Twenty-four registered scouts of Troop 15 received their registration cards from Miss Hollingsworth, their captain, last week. Three girls have not finished their tenderfoot test but are registered. Six new girls are expected in the troop.

In an interpatrol thrift contest Patrol 1 of the Star Troop is leading, with 76 points. A chart has been prepared on which a record is kept of each patrol's points by means of the star system. By this method the gold star represents 20 points, the silver 10, the red five and the green one.

Troop 20 was visited by the Lone Star Troop and the Carondelet Presbyterian Church Troop March 15. These three groups practiced for the Community Council demonstration which was held March 22 at the Carondelet Y. M. C. A. The rehearsal was under the leadership of the captains, Miss Wethersly, Miss Struebig and Miss Golterman.

Troop 55 appointed Leontine Meyer scribe at the last meeting. Helen Pekas, a new member, learned to tie knots and several scouts tried for various badges, particularly the health winner and musician's badge. Tests for these awards were discussed. games were played and songs sun.

At the meeting of Arrowhead Troop 7 on March 11 the following girls received their tenderfoot pins: Alice Jane Webb, Dorothy Fetsch, Thelma Scheybal and Dorothy Woracek.

Troop 44 enrolled six new members at its last meeting, bringing the troop membership again to 25. The Sacajawa Patrol solicited subscriptions for the song book. Miss Lauris Baldwin was a visitor. The meeting was closed by singing "Now Run Along Home" and "Taps."

Kirkwood Troop 2 presented a play, "The Sleeping Easter Rabbit," under the direction of Alden Jordan and Mary Ruth Grant Wednesday. Monday the Nature Club met with Mrs. Fitzgerald to study rocks and minerals. Mary Belle Wickersham, Kathryn Brockman, Harriet Jarrett and Mary Jane McVey passed their second-class cooking and table setting tests with Mrs. J. J. Lewis. The observation test was passed by Jean Bay Thompson, Kathryn Brockman, Charlotte Bell and Eleanor Laidly.

Miss Louris Baldwin visited Troop 39 at the last two meetings and is helping the girls with signaling. Several girls are ready to pass their signaling and some of the girls who recently joined are almost Tenderfoot Scouts. Signaling will be continued at the next meeting of this troop.

The Lily of the Valley patrol and Silver Fox patrol of Arrowhead Troop 7 are in close competition for a prize given to the first patrol to obtain 600 points. So far the former has received 570 points, and the other 555. At the meeting of this troop March 18 the Silver Foxes gave a play. The scouts are progressing rapidly with the Morse Code through playing games.

Elsie Gollub of Troop 17, was elected leader of patrol 3 at the last meeting. Games were played in which the object was to guess the names of flags of the different countries, and names of birds.

Each patrol of Troop 31 dramatized two of the Girl Scout laws of a meeting this week. Capt. Weigand and the Junior Scout leaders also dramatized one of the laws. A bakery sale and a hike are two events planned this week.

The girls of Lindenwood Troop 1 gave their mothers a banquet last week at which Miss Piper and Miss Baldwin were also present. The menu was planned and prepared by the girls on the Luncheon Comittee. They had meat loaf with gravy, baked potatoes, green beans, pineapple cheese salad and green jello with whipped cream. A program given afterwards, follows:

Junior Patrol ....Jolly Clowns
Nancy Richards, Marian Hyman, Lorraine Wiber, Marian Westcott, Frances Bowser, Margaret Wallace, Dorothy Parker, Marguerite Schildg and Margaret McDonald.

After the finale the mothers played a game and the girls made dishwashing less irksome by singing songs. The meeting ended with the singing of "Taps."

History Club Meeting.

The United States History Club met Tuesday at the Art Museum after a noonday luncheon. The purchase of Louisiana was discussed by Miss Mary Powell. The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. F. Christman, 3525 Taylor avenue, at which there will be an election of officers.

TRAIN NEGRO SCOUTMASTERS

One of First Schools of kind to Be Conducted Here.

An eight weeks' training course for Negro scoutmasters, one of the first ever given in the United States, will be conducted by the St. Louis Boy Scout Council at Sumner High School, starting April 11. The classes, which will be held in the gymnasium of the school, will be under the tuition of Field Executive Jack Wright of the North District, who originated the idea. The course will be similar to those being given at the present time in each of the four districts, and will teach the prospective leader the proper handling, not only of a boy scout troop but of any group of boys.

Sixteen men have enrolled for the course so far, but it is planned to obtain a membership of about 25. There are eight Negro troops in St. Louis at present, six in the North District and one each in the South and West districts.

Italian Pastor to Speak.

Guido Comba, pastor of the Waldensian Church of Pomaretto, Italy, will be the speaker at the vesper services of the Y. W. C. A., Fourteenth and Locust streets, at 4:50 p. m. today. Light refreshments will be served at the social hour at 6:30. Both men and women are invited.

Women's Retreat Begins Today.

A five-day spiritual retreat for married women of the Church of St. Mary Magdalen, 4931 Sutherland avenue, will start today. The Rev. Anthony J. Schuermann of Laddonia, Mo., will be retreat master.

BARON CAUSES FAMILY FEUD BY OPPOSING MONARCHISTS

Former German Imperial Counsel of Legation Is Democratic in the Reichstag.

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, March 26.—A family feud has broken out in one of the most aristocratic and blue-blooded families of Germany—the Von Richthofens. Baron Hartmann von Richthofen, former imperial counsel of legation, has turned Republican and now is a democratic member of the Reichstag. As such he opposed the millions given to the Hohenzollerns under the settlement bill.

From time to time Baron Richthofen attacks the nobility, especially the land junkers. This has so enraged other members of the Von Richthofen family that they are urging him to renounce his title of Baron, which, however, he declines to do, believing he can make himself more effective by retaining it.

Recently the Baron was attacked in an open letter in the Kreuzzeitung, the monarchist organ of the Conservatives, by Baron E. von Richthofen, who adjures Baron Hartmann by his father's memory not to bring such disgrace upon an ancient and honored family as to denounce the royal family, through whose favors the Richthofen house rose to fame and power.

Vesper Song Service Today.

The March vesper service of song will be held at 4 p. m. today at Sidney Presbyterian Church, Sidney street and Minnesota avenue. The program has been arranged by Miss Addie Hetlage, director of music of the church.

Writer to Address Traffic Club.

Carlyle Emery, writer and president of the Shelby Syndicate, will speak at the luncheon meeting tomorrow of the Traffic Club of St. Louis in the Chamber of Commerce dining room.

To literally scores of thousands, Chrysler "60" is proving that its public preference is based upon the soundest of buying reasons—unmistakable money-value.

There's more than a thrill in the "60's" pick-up and in its speed ability of sixty miles and more an hour with exceptional ease. There's speed without the least effort, combined with most unusual riding comfort and handling facility.

Mechanically, the "60" has many of the very same features to be found in the Chrysler "70" or Imperial "80": seven-bearing crankshaft, invar-strut pistons, impulse neutralizer, manifold heat control, air cleaner, oil filter, full pressure lubrication, hydraulic four-wheel brakes and shock absorbers.

Come, see the Chrysler "60"—and note the essential fineness of its Standardized Quality manufacture. You'll recognize, especially after driving it, there isn't another six of its price that even begins to compare with it in quality and value.

CITY'S FIRST SCHOOL BUILT 89 YEARS AGO

Building Was at Fourth and Spruce Streets and Cost $3170.

Eighty-nine years ago next Saturady, on April 2, 1838, the first public school in St. Louis was opened. Known as School No. 1, it was established at Fourth and Spruce streets, and after several years its name was changed to Pierre Laclede School, in honor of the founder of the city. The present Laclede School is at Goodfellow and Kennerly avenues, a modern structure, about six miles northwest of the first location.

The first school house cost $3170, and received its initial support from a number of lots received from the Federal Government. Property of the city's public schools now is valued at more than $29,000,000, and there are 143 schools.

Overcame Obstacles.

An announcement of the anniversary from the Board of Education says:

"That early attempts to start a public school system in St. Louis met with anything but easy sailing is indicated by a perusal of early records of the Board of Education. In fact, were it not for such outstanding fighters for free schools as William Clark, Governor of Missouri Territory; Auguste Chouteau, Alex McNair, William C. Carr, Thomas H. Benton and several others, it is doubtful if free schools would have been established in this city for many years afterward.

"While the history of education in St. Louis dates back to June 13, 1812, at which time Congress awarded to the town trustees for school purposes, all lots, outlots or common field lots not rightfully owned or claimed by private individuals, it was not until 26 years later that public schools were inaugurated in St. Louis. Previous to this time, education was considered more a duty of the family than of the State. Free public schools were looked upon more as charitable institutions and something which should not be given at public expense.

"According to early records of the board, the territorial Legislature on Jan. 30, 1817, created a board of trustees for supervising schools in the town of St. Louis. As this was a close corporation and a self-perpetuating body, it was not entirely satisfactory to the citizens.

175 Pupils in School.

"On Sept. 13, 1833, in conformity with newer ideas of local government a new charter was granted by the Legislature, constituting the whole white population of the city a corporate body styled the 'Board of President and Directors of the St. Louis Public Schools,' and prescribing that the powers of this corporation should be fixed in a board of directors composed of two members from each ward to hold office for three years.

"The election of the first board of directors under this charter took place the first Monday in April, 1833. It was not until the following year, however, that any returns were received from the property awarded by Congress in 1812. In 1835 a census was taken to ascertain the number of children in the city of suitable school age. In 1836 sites were selected for two school houses and in 1837 two, two-story brick buildings were erected on these lots at a contract price of $3170 each, with an accommodation of about 175 pupils each."

The second school was occupied later.

DRIVING LESSONS FOR WOMEN

Safety Council School to Open Wednesday at 2:30.

The Seventh Annual Women's Driving School, held under the auspices of the St. Louis Safety Council, will open Wednesday at 2:30 p. m. on the eighth floor of the Chamber of Commerce Building, and will continue for five consecutive Wednesday afternoons.

Instruction in the care and driving of an automobile will be given by experts, who will dwell particularly on safety in driving. At the conclusoin of the course a contest will be held in Forest Park to determine which member of the class can best practically apply that which she has learned. The course of instruction is free.

"LA FAVORITA" WEEKLY OPERA THROUGH KSD

Will Be Presented From New York Studio Tomorrow Evening at 9 O'Clock.

"La Favorita" will be broadcast in tabloid form by the National Grand Opera Company through KSD at 9 o'clock tomorrow night.

This opera, which was adapted from the drama "Le Comte de Comminges," was produced for the first time at the Grand Opera in Paris, Dec. 2, 1840. Its first New York presentation took place at the Park Theater, Oct. 4, 1888. In 1905 it was given by the Metropolitan Opera Company, New York City. The opera contains some of Donizetti's finest solo and ensemble music and the title part is written for the mezzo soprano or contralto voice contrary to the then existing tradition. It opens quiety with chorus and orchestra.

The cast will be as follows: Devora Nadworney, contralto, Leonora; Frances Sebel, soprano, Inez; Giuseppi di Benedetto, tenor, Ferdinand; Nino Ruisi, basso, Balthazar.

Ferdinand, a young novice at the Monastery of St. James, has fallen in love with Leonora, of whom he knows nothing. She is the mistress of Alfonso, King of Castile. In the first act he describes this love to his superior, Balthazar, in the aria "Und vergine un Angel di Dio" (A Virgin, an Angel of God) and asks for a release from his novitiate. Balthazar releases him with regret.

Ferdinand Enters Army.

The scene changes to the island of St. Leon where Leonora lives in splendor. She falls in love with Ferdinand, but is convinced that he will despise her when he discovers her relationship with the King. With the graceful chorus "Bel raggi luncenti" (Bright Sunbeams Lightly Dancing) Ferdinand arrives by boat and is charmed with the surroundings. Leonora enters and tells him that their love can lead only to sorrow and that they must part. He protests vehemently in the duet "A mio bene" (O My Beloved). She determines to save him from being sacrificed to her love. The King is announced and Leonora bids Ferdinand a hasty farewell.

This leads her lover to believe that she is of too high rank to consider him. This fear is confirmed when a scroll she has given him announces his commission in the army of the King. He regards his path to glory as now clear.

The second act takes place in the garden of the palace of Alcazar. A passage between Alfonso and Don Gasper, his Minister, announces that the young Spanish officer has led his army successfully against the Moors. Here the King sings of his love for Leonora in the wonderful aria, "Vien Leonori a' piedi tuoi" (Come, Leonora, Before Thee Kneeling).

Leonora is distressed between her love for the young officer and her amour with the King. An intercepted love letter and some angry questioning by the King follow. At Alfonso's court, a strong party is appealing to the Pope for the banishment of Leonora and the restoration of the real wife. Balthazar faces the King bearing a scroll with the Papal seal and denounces his love in the vigorous aria, "Ah pavente il furor d'un Dio vendicatore" (Do Not Call Down the Wrath of God, the Avenger, on Thee). This leads to the quartet by Leonora, Don Caspar, King Alfonso and Balthazar with ochestra and choral finale.

Forgiven Too Late.

The third act takes place in the palace of Alcazar. The King has decided to obey the mandate of the Church. Ferdinand appears at the court and, invited to name the reward for his services in saving the kingdom, seeks the hand of Leonora in marriage. The King assents and retires with Ferdinand. Leonora sings the great aria, "Ah, Mio Fernando" (O, My Ferdinand), torn between her love for him and regret at her past life. By Inez, she sends him a letter containing the truth, but the arrest of Inez with this letter upsets her plan. Before the assembled nobles, the King decorates Ferdinand and creates him a count. Leonora enters in bridal attire believing that Ferdinand has received her letter and is ready to wed her. Ferdinand is received coldly and when he returns to Balthazar is embraced by him until he hears of his wedding to the King's favorite.

Ferdinand, feeling betrayed, throws his chain of office and broken sword at the King's feet and departs with his monastic superior.

The fourth act depicts the cloister of the Monastery of St. James with Ferdinand re-entering the holy order. Left alone, Ferdinand sings of his sorrow in "Spirito Gentil" (Spirit of Life), one of the most beautiful arias in the tenor repertoire. Leonora disguised as a novice comes upon the scene, but he bids her to go from the sacred cloisters. She explains the content of the missing latter and asks his forgiveness. Ferdinand's love returns while he sings "Viena A' Viene" (Joy Once More Fills My Breast). However, he is too late for Leonora, upon being pardoned dies in his arms.

The cast will be as follows: Devora Nadworney, contralto, Leonora; Frances Sebel, soprano, Inez; Giuseppi di Benedetto, tenor, Ferdinand; Nino Ruisi, basso, Balthazar.

Ferdinand, a young novice at the Monastery of St. James, has fallen in love with Leonora, of whom he knows nothing. She is the mistress of Alfonso, King of Castile. In the first act he describes this love to his superior, Balthazar, in the aria "Und vergine un Angel di Dio" (A Virgin, an Angel of God) and asks for a release from his novitiate. Balthazar releases him with regret.

Ferdinand Enters Army.

The scene changes to the island of St. Leon where Leonora lives in splendor. She falls in love with Ferdinand, but is convinced that he will despise her when he discovers her relationship with the King. With the graceful chorus "Bel raggi luncenti" (Bright Sunbeams Lightly Dancing) Ferdinand arrives by boat and is charmed with the surroundings. Leonora enters and tells him that their love can lead only to sorrow and that they must part. He protests vehemently in the duet "A mio bene" (O My Beloved). She determines to save him from being sacrificed to her love. The King is announced and Leonora bids Ferdinand a hasty farewell.

This leads her lover to believe that she is of too high rank to consider him. This fear is confirmed when a scroll she has given him announces his commission in the army of the King. He regards his path to glory as now clear.

The second act takes place in the garden of the palace of Alcazar. A passage between Alfonso and Don Gasper, his Minister, announces that the young Spanish officer has led his army successfully against the Moors. Here the King sings of his love for Leonora in the wonderful aria, "Vien Leonori a' piedi tuoi" (Come, Leonora, Before Thee Kneeling).

Leonora is distressed between her love for the young officer and her amour with the King. An intercepted love letter and some angry questioning by the King follow. At Alfonso's court, a strong party is appealing to the Pope for the banishment of Leonora and the restoration of the real wife. Balthazar faces the King bearing a scroll with the Papal seal and denounces his love in the vigorous aria, "Ah pavente il furor d'un Dio vendicatore" (Do Not Call Down the Wrath of God, the Avenger, on Thee). This leads to the quartet by Leonora, Don Caspar, King Alfonso and Balthazar with ochestra and choral finale.

Forgiven Too Late.

The third act takes place in the palace of Alcazar. The King has decided to obey the mandate of the Church. Ferdinand appears at the court and, invited to name the reward for his services in saving the kingdom, seeks the hand of Leonora in marriage. The King assents and retires with Ferdinand. Leonora sings the great aria, "Ah, Mio Fernando" (O, My Ferdinand), torn between her love for him and regret at her past life. By Inez, she sends him a letter containing the truth, but the arrest of Inez with this letter upsets her plan. Before the assembled nobles, the King decorates Ferdinand and creates him a count. Leonora enters in bridal attire believing that Ferdinand has received her letter and is ready to wed her. Ferdinand is received coldly and when he returns to Balthazar is embraced by him until he hears of his wedding to the King's favorite.

Ferdinand, feeling betrayed, throws his chain of office and broken sword at the King's feet and departs with his monastic superior.

The fourth act depicts the cloister of the Monastery of St. James with Ferdinand re-entering the holy order. Left alone, Ferdinand sings of his sorrow in "Spirito Gentil" (Spirit of Life), one of the most beautiful arias in the tenor repertoire. Leonora disguised as a novice comes upon the scene, but he bids her to go from the sacred cloisters. She explains the content of the missing letter and asks his forgiveness. Ferdinand's love returns while he sings "Viena A' Viene" (Joy Once More Fills My Breast). However, he is too late for Leonora, upon being pardoned [illegible] in his arms.

St. Louis Operatic Singer on KSD

Edith Mason, Chicago Opera Prima Donna, Will Sing Tonight in Atwater Kent Hour.

Edith Mason, prima donna soprano of the Chicago Civic Opera, and John Corigliano, violinist, will be soloists in the Atwater Kent hour tonight from KSD. When she was a student at Boston came the opportunity for her operatic debut. She was only 21 years old. The singer cast for the role of Nedda, in "Pagliacci," at the Boston Opera, became ill and Miss Mason was asked a few hours before the performance to assume the role, which she sang without rehearsal.

At that time artists from the Boston Opera were being sent from time to time to Montreal for grand opera presentations. On such a visit, Miss Mason was asked to take her first leading role, "Marguerite" for the performance of Faust having become ill. The following year the Boston Opera disbanded and Miss Mason went to Europe, where she sang in opera at Monte Carlo, in the municipal operas at Marseilles and Nice, and the Opera Comique in Paris, and later in Mexico, Havan and Venezuela.

Born in St. Louis.

She made her debut at the Metropolitan Opera in Der Rosenkavalier, and remained with the New York organization for two seasons, later going to Paris to perfect her roles. There she sang at the Theater Lyrique, Opera Comique and the Grand Opera, for a period of three years.

In 1921, Mary Garden, then director of the Chicago Civic Opera, offered a contract to the now famous singer who made her debut there in Madame Butterfly. She has been with the Chicago Opera ever since, and has sung four summer seasons at Ravina Park.

Born in St. Louis, the daughter of Baron Steuben Barnes, the singor was educated at Bryn Mawr and Cincinnati, and studied voice at New York, Paris, Boston and Milan. In 1919 she married Giorgio Polacco, whom she had met when he was a conductor with the Metropolitan Opera. He became the first conductor of the Chicago Civic Opera, and later musical director.

The program follows:

I.

a. Romance .... (Debussy)
b. Fantoches .... (Debussy)

NEW YORK MEN PLAY IN WEEKLY KSD BRIDGE GAME

Four New York experts have arranged the hands and the detail of play for the radio auction bridge game to be sent out on the air through KSD at 9 Tuesday night. The advance hands are announced as follows:

Sidney S. Lenz, dealer, "South," hold: Spades, 9, 7, 4; Hearts, J, 8-spot, 6; Diamonds, 6, 4; Clubs, Q, J, 10, 5, 4.

Milton C. Work "West," holds: Spades, 8-spot, 5, 2; Hearts, 7, 5, 3; Diamonds, A, K, Q, 3; Clubs, 8-spot, 6, 2.

John H. Smith, "North," holds: Spades, K, J, 3; Hearts, A, 10, 9, 4; Diamonds, 8-spot, 7, 5; Clubs, 9, 7, 3.

Wilbur C. Whitehead, "East," holds: Spades, A, Q, 10, 6; Hearts, K, Q, 2; Diamonds, J, 10, 9, 2; Clubs, A, K.

VIKING SYMPHONY TO PLAY 'FINLANDIA' THROUGH KSD

The tone poem, "Finlandia," is probably the "high spot" of the Viking half hour to be broadcast from KSD at 7 o'clock Tuesday night by the Viking Symphony Orchestra. Sigurd Nilssen, Scandinavian baritone will be soloist.

"Finlandia", by the Finnish composer, Sibelius, in principal theme is rather like a great hymn. Sibelius made a special study of Finnish folk songs. Sibelius composed an opera of his native country, "Tornissa Oliga Impi."

The program of the Viking half hour follows: "Rhapsody No. 1, (Svendsen); "Hunting Song," (Grieg); "Midsummer Wake" (Alven); "Valse Triste" (Sibelius); "Serenade" (Kjerulf); "Finlandia" (Sibelius).

HARVESTERS IN NEW ENGLAND, VIA KSD, TOMORROW NIGHT

The Hires Harvesters will go "down east" tomorrow evening to New England.

The third number will be reminiscent of Maine for the "Mellie Dunham Tunes" will serve to revive the picture of Mellie Dunham and his old fiddle.

The program which will be broadcast through KSD at 7:30 follows: "Harvesters March" (Shilkret); "Snappy Weather" (Shilkret); Mellie Dunham Tunes" (Traditional melodies); "Sass" (Shilkret); "Summer Evening" (Palmgren); "Dream On" (Herbert); "Long, Long Ago" (Bayly); "Gleaming Shadows (MacDowell); "Dizzy Fingers" (Confrey).

If there is more than one wire in the aerial, they should be connected together.

ANOTHER CADILLAC HOUR THROUGH KSD ON APRIL 7

A special program sponsored by the Cadillac Motor Car Co. is to be broadcast through KSD from 7 to 8 p. m. Thursday of next week, April 7.

It is to be given by the La Salle Symphony Orchestra. As will be recalled, a former Cadillac broadcast from KSD was the cause of much pleased comment from listeners.

HANS BARTH ON KSD THURSDAY

Hans Barth, pianist, will present the "Half Hour With Great Composers' through KSD Thursday evening at 7:30. The half hour will be devoted to Brahms.

Barth will play with orchestral accompaniment, the last movement of "Concerto No. 2 in b Flat" and Three Waltzes Opus 37. His solo selections will include Hungarian Dance No. 7 and Gavotte, the latter being Brahms' transcriptions of Gluck's Gavotte.

ERNA KORN BACK AT WJZ

Erna Korn has returned from a concert tour of the South and will give a song recital Wednesday from 7:30 to 8 from WJZ.

Miss Korn will sing with orchestral accompaniment, "Danny Boy" and "Homing."

CLASSICAL PROGRAM IN KSD EVEREADY HOUR

Staff Orchestra, Revelers and Soloists Will Be Heard Tuesday.

Classical music by staff singers and musicians will comprise the Eveready Hour's program Tuesday evening, through station KSD.

In similar programs this season, the Eveready Hour has employed such artists as Pablo Casals, Igna Friedman, Ernest Hutcheson and the Flonzaley Quartet. In this program, however, it will make use only of the talent of its own artists, all of whom have had experience in operatic, oratorio and recital fields. In addition to the Eveready Orchestra, the voices of Barbara Maurel, Virginia Rea, and the Eveready Revellers, comprising Charles Harrison, Lewis James, Elliott Shaw and Wilfred Glenn, will be heard in compositions by Wagner, Saint-Saens, Mendelssohn, Gounod and others.

The feature will be Tschaikowsky's "1812" overture, with its description in music of Napoleon's advance on Moscow, the burning of the city by its inhabitants, and the subsequent defeat of the French. It will be played by the Eveready Orchestra, under the direction of Nathaniel Shilkret.

The program follows:

"1812" Overture—Tschaikowsky—Orchestra
"My Heart at Thy Sweet Voice," from Saint-Saens' "Samson and Delilah"—Barbara Maurel, Lewis James and Orchestra.
"Rondo Capriccioso," Saint-Saens—Orchestra
"Dreams," Wagner—Ensemble and Orchestra
"Spring Song," Mendelssohn....Orchestra
"Blue Danube," Strauss—Eveready Revellers
"Bumble Bee," Rimsky Korsakoff—Orchestra
"Barcarolle," from Offenbach' "Tales of Hoffman"—Barbara Maurel and Virginia Rea.
"Walk Together, Chillun"—arrangement by Johnson ....Ensemble
"Second Hungarian Rhapsody," Liszt—Orchestra

CLASSICAL PROGRAM IN KSD EVEREADY HOUR

Staff Orchestra, Revelers and Soloists Will Be Heard Tuesday.

Classical music by staff singers and musicians will comprise the Eveready Hour's program Tuesday evening, through station KSD.

In similar programs this season, the Eveready Hour has employed such artists as Pablo Casals, Ignaz Friedman, Ernest Hutcheson and the Flonzaley Quartet. In this program, however, it will make use only of the talent of its own artists, all of whom have had experience in operatic, oratorio and recital fields. In addition to the Eveready Orchestra, the voices of Barbara Maurel, Virginia Rea, and the Eveready Revellers, comprising Charles Harrison, Lewis James, Elliott Shaw and Wilfred Glenn, will be heard in compositions by Wagner, Saint-Saens, Mendelssohn, Gounod and others.

The feature will be Tschaikowsky's "1812" overture, with its description in music of Napoleon's advance on Moscow, the burning of the city by its inhabitants, and the subsequent defeat of the French. It will be played by the Eveready Orchestra, under the direction of Nathaniel Shilkret.

The program follows:

"1812" Overture—Tschaikowsky—Orchestra
"My Heart at Thy Sweet Voice," from Saint-Saens' "Samson and Delilah"—Barbara Maurel, Lewis James and Orchestra.
"Rondo Capriccioso," Saint-Saens—Orchestra
"Dreams," Wagner—Ensemble and Orchestra
"Spring Song," Mendelssohn....Orchestra
"Blue Danube," Strauss—Eveready Revellers
"Bumble Bee," Rimsky Korsakoff—Orchestra
"Barcarolle," from Offenbach' "Tales of Hoffman"—Barbara Maurel and Virginia Rea.
"Walk Together, Chillun"—arrangement by Johnson ....Ensemble
"Second Hungarian Rhapsody," Liszt—Orchestra

STROMBERG-CARLSON HOUR FROM WJZ TO BEGIN TUESDAY

A new feature—George Olsen and his Stromberg-Carlson Orchestra—will be heard Tuesday evening, in the first weekly series through WJZ, KDKA and KYW. It will establish a new precedent in broadcasting, in that it will present for the first time a nationally known dance orchestra under an exclusive sponsorship.

Under the sponsorship of the Stromberg-Carlson Telephone Manufacturing Co. of Rochester, N. Y., the orchestra, which has been augmented in the string and reed section so that it numbers 18 musicians, will present every Tuesday evening an hour of music ranging from dance music to modern versions of the classics. Novel orchestrations will be used and most of the selections will be played in modern rhythm.

Olsen's trio, consisting of Fran Fry, Bob Rice and Bob Borger, will be heard in vocal numbers and instrumental novelties will be played.

WELSH TENOR IS ENGAGED AS STAFF ARTIST FOR WIL

WIL has engaged as a staff artist George Shone, the Welsh tenor. Shone has a repertoire of some 2000 songs, many of which are out of print today and unknown except to a few artists. To be able to sing a G above high C is another thing to which Shone can lay claim. He will appear Fridays and on Sunday afternoons.

Paul Atwood, basso of the Golden State male quartet, was on the Orpheum circuit for some 12 years. This quartet appears on WIL each Wednesday evening.

Miss Ruth Schuetta, soprano, a newcomer to St. Louis, has been added as a staff artist at WIL. Miss Schuetta has appeared in concert and radio stations in numerous large cities. She sings Friday evenings from WIL.

Benny Washington and his Six Aces—jazz band—will be heard each Monday evening from 8 to 9 from WIL.

NEWCOMB-HAWLEY SPEAKER HAS EXCELLENT TONE QUALITY

A loud speaker that is attracting attention is the Newcomb-Hawley, which was tested in St. Louis the past week with excellent results. This speaker has a large and very long horn, which is coiled inside of an attractive console made in two models. The larger model has room for radio batteries, while a receiver may be placed on top of either model. In one of the tests a Shamrock receiver, which has a very clear, pure tone, and Zetka tubes were used.

The tone of the Newcomb-Hawley speaker is full, round and clear—truly mellow and sweet. The speaker, last Wednesday night, handled without any distortion the swelling volume from KSD broadcasting the Ipana Troubadours, although the set used was a very powerful nine-tube superheterodyne.

There is no sharpness in the tone of this speaker. Soprano voices or the high-thin top notes of a violin are reproduced as truly and with as mellow a sound as the deeper bass notes.

GOLDMAN BAND PROGRAM

The Goldman band will play another hour's concert Friday evening.

The program follows: March, "Tannhauser" (Wagner); overture, "Sakuntala," "Humoreske" (Dvorak); excerpts from "Valkyrie" (Wagner); overture, "Orpheus" (Offenbach); Anvil Chorus, from "Il Trovatore" (Verdi); Miserere, from "Il Trovatore" (Verdi); "Fantasie" (Baetens).

This program will be broadcast by WEAF, WTAM, WWJ, WSAI, WOC, WCCO, WGY, KVOO, WFAA, WDAF and WLIB.

The two outstanding sets in their respective fields today

GET the National Broadcasting Company's programs on either of these two sets and you'll understand why your neighbors are always praising these programs. Every Radiola is the joint product of the radio engineers of RCA, Westinghouse and General Electric. The same men who have built the leading broadcasting stations match the Radiola to the latest principles of broadcasting. And there are different types of Radiolas to suit the requirements of different homes.

RADIOLA 28
and RCA Loudspeaker 104
—the supreme electrical and musical achievement of today

The combination of Radiola 28 with RCA Loudspeaker 104 is based on new electrical and acoustical principles, using power drawn from the house current, to achieve a remarkable new quality of musical reproduction.

You hear much about "electrified" radio sets. This finest modern radio is something more. It does not merely do away with batteries. It is built to use power that batteries could not supply.

RCA Loudspeaker 104 was so revolutionary in performance that it has been adopted by the leading phonograph companies. It has an automatic regulator to take care of the fluctuations of the line current from your power house.

Radiola 28 needs no antenna—no installation. Use it anywhere. It is so selective that in the most crowded broadcast areas it gets only the station you want. Thus it meets two big problems of the city apartment. While an inexpensive antenna coupler adapts Radiola 28 for an outdoor antenna, if you prefer it.

The "catacomb" construction of this Radiola assures you permanent value, with years of fine performance, because the most delicate parts are permanently sealed in against dust and moisture.

The Radio Corporation of America offers this combination of eight tube super-heterodyne and power-speaker as the finest 1927 radio—far in advance of anything else on the radio market.

RADIOLA 20
—the greatest value in radio today

Radiola 20 is many time as selective as the average antenna set. This has been proved in laboratory tests again and again. It is proved every day in tens of thousands of homes. This set is specially built for high selectivity, not only in view of the many stations of today but also in view of the many more that may exist tomorrow.

• • •

For average home reception Radiola 20 has one dial tuning. For far-off stations there are two minor controls for finer tuning. It can be equipped to operate with batteries or with light socket devices, as you prefer.

• • •

By means of a special circuit [exclusive with Radiola 20] it does the work of seven tubes, increasing the distance range. Radiola 20 is famous for its ability to reproduce music faithfully, and with undistorted volume. Specially treated audio frequency transformers make possible the highest known degree of tone fidelity. It is the greatest value radio can offer today in quality of reproduction.

HOW TO DARKEN GRAY HAIR

Makes One Look Younger

Men and women who used to be called Grandpa and Grandma are now setting the styles by darkening their gray hair at home.

For instance, J. A. McCrea, a well-known Californian, recently made the following statement:

"Anyone can prepare a simple mixture in five minutes that will darken gray hair and make it soft and glossy. Merely take a half-pint of water, add 1 ounce of bay rum, a small box of Barbo Compound, and ¼ ounce of glycerine.

These ingredients can be bought at any drug store at trifling cost. Apply to the hair twice weekly with a comb. It does not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy and will not rub off."

The Easiest Way To End Dandruff

There is one sure way that never fails to remove dandruff completely, and that is to dissolve it. This destroys it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and two or three more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

You can get liquid arvon at any drug store, and four ounces is all you will need. This simple remedy never fails.

I SLEEP BETTER

Says Illinois Man. Bladder Action At Night is One of Nature's Danger Signals.

C. E. Hodges, Unity, Ill., says: "Lithiated Buchu relieved me of a bad case of bladder irritation. I sleep nights and am better in day time. It has also helped my wife. I will tell or write my experience to any one. Lithiated Buchu acts on bladder as epsom salts do on the bowels. Drives out abnormal deposits and neutralizes excessive acids, thereby relieving irritation which causes 'disturbed nights'." The tablets cost 2 cents at leading drug stores. Cured His Rupture

I was badly ruptured while lifting a trunk several years ago. Doctors said my only hope of cure was an operation. Trusses did me no good. Finally I got hold of something that quickly and completely cured me. Years have passed and the rupture has never returned, although I am doing hard work as a carpenter. There was no operation, no lost time, no trouble. I have nothing to sell, but will give full information about how you may find a complete cure without operation if you write to me, Eugene M. Pullen, Carpenter, 279 N. Marcellus Avenue, Manasquan, N. J. Better cut out this notice and show it to any others who are ruptured—you may save a life or at least stop the misery of rupture and the worry and danger of an operation.

LOUISVILLE PASTOR TO SPEAK IN ST. LOUIS THIS MORNING

The Rev. Charles W. Welch Has Been Invited to Accept First Presbyterian Call.

The Rev. Charles W. Welch, pastor of the Fourth Avenue Presbyterian Church of Louisville, Ky. who is considering a call as pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of St. Louis, will preach to the local congregation at 10:45 a. m., today at the Tivoli Theater, 6350 Delmar boulevard, where services are being held pending construction of a new church at 7200 Delmar.

Dr. Welch was notified last Sunday the St. Louis congregation had called him as pastor, but indicated he would be reluctant to leave Louisville even though the offer is more remunerative than his present pastorate. He has been pastor of the Louisville church for 10 years.

The First Presbyterian Church, which has an uninterrupted history of 110 years and is the oldest Protestant church west of the Mississippi river, formerly held services at Washington boulevard and Sarah street. Breaking of ground for the new structure in University City will begin soon.

HOSMER HALL SENIORS IN ORATORICAL CONTEST

Students to Compete Wednesday at First Congregational Church for Annual Award.

The annual senior oratorical contest of Hosmer Hall will be held Wednesday evening in the First Congregational Church, Wydown boulevard and University lane, and according to the custom of the school the names of the winners will be engraved on the Hosmer Hall silver basket, presented some years ago by David L. Grey. Individual gifts of books will also be given the winners.

The essays, written by students, will be as follows: "David Livingstone," Miss Helen Figge; "The New China," Miss Mary Morse; "The Vision of Jane Addams," Miss Grace Monie; "A Plea for Freedom of Speech," Miss Cleo Reighard; "The Necessity of Stricter Immigration Laws," Miss Ruth Lane; "Justice in Mexico," Miss Adrienne Martin, senior class president; "Music as a Need in Our National Life," Miss Artemis Pasmezoglu; "A Plea for Abolishing Capital Punishment," Miss Mary Hallett.

MENTAL HYGENE SPEECHES TO BE 'NON-TECHNICAL'

Conference to Be Held April 4-5 Will Have Three Sessions Each Day.

Dr. Charles P. Emerson, president of the National Association of Mental Hygiene and Dr. Philip Jacobs of New York, assistant secretary of the National Tuberculosis Society, will be among the speakers at the Missouri Mental Hygiene Conference to be held April 4 and 5 at the St. Louis Medical Society Building, 3831 Lindell boulevard.

There will be three daily sessions at which experts are to discuss various phases of mental hygiene. It it planned to make the speeches non-technical in character so as to be readily understood by the general public.

SOCIALIST AT TORY RECEPTION

German Nationalist Envoy Embarrassed After Indiscreet Remark.

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, March 26. — Paul Loebe, Social Democrat and president of the Reichstag, tells an amusing story of the new lineup resulting from the entry of the German Nationalists into the Cabinet.

Oscar Hergt, the new Nationalist Vice Chancellor Minister of Justice, gave a reception. As Loebe holds an office equivalent to that of Speaker of the House of Representatives in America, Hergt could not do otherwise than invite the Socialist leader to his conservative home. As luck would have it, Loebe happened to be behind Hergt when the doors opened and Herr von Rosenberg, envoy to Sweden, entered. Looking about the room and seeing only familiar junker faces, he sighed and said fervently to Hergt, "I thank goodness, we are among ourselves." His embarrassment was visible when Loebe, who had been completely obscured, smilingly emerged from behind Hergt's broad back.

FRENCH AUTHOR WINS PRIZE

Antoine Sorrel's "Blue Bodice" Chosen by Writers' Guild.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 26. — A Frenchman wrote last year's best work of fiction based upon actual events in American history, says the Writer's Guild in awarding its 1927 prize to Antoine Sorrel of Versailles, France, for "The Blue Bodice," now being published by the guild. Scores of Americans competed unsuccessfully for the prize, as did many natives of other lands.

Sorrel's romance novel deals with the American revolutionary period, and uses the experiences of an actual Frenchman who attached himself to Lafayette's expedition to "unknown America" and Gen. George Washington. In the course of his research the author discovered many hitherto unknown phases of international diplomacy which preceded and followed the American Revolution.

Jackets With Sport Costumes.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, March 23.—Separate jackets to be worn with sport costumes are of many varieties in Paris, where each dressmaker has his own ideas for small sport coats. Premet has revived batik for the bright little jackets of kid which this house shows. Worn with two-piece sport costumes in pale colors, or with white pleated skirt, the jacket—little Jacob coats—make simple costumes brilliant.

BRIGHT STAR BATTERY, USED BY NAVY, CAN BE GOT HERE

A radio B battery which is just being introduced in St. Louis is built on unusual lines. It is the Bright Star battery, and has been in growing use in the East. It is said to be widely used on warships of the United States Navy. Exceptionally long, useful life and steady output of current are claimed for it.

The Bright Star batteries are of the bag type. The active elements in them are wrapped in cloth after precision moulding. This is said to prevent disintegration and destructive corrosion, as well as to prevent internal short circuiting and consequent liability to rapid dissipation of power.

Bright Star B batteries are made in all the standard types and sizes, and there are also Bright Star C batteries and combination 22½-volt B and C batteries.

Al Jolson to Celebrate 20 Years of Black Face: Orpheum Has Birthday

By NIE

THIS is a sort of week of celebrations in two St. Louis theaters. Twenty-nine years ago today saw the start of Orpheum Circuit vaudeville here and 20 years ago Al Jolson, who comes to the Shubert-Rialto tonight with his musical show, "Big Boy," broke away from the variety stage and plunged into the black face sort of entertainment which has made him famous. So far as is known "The Poor Nut," which comes to the American Theater tomorrow night, is celebrating nothing at all but is registering satisfaction with the success which has attended its road tour since its long run in New York.

It was at the opening of the Columbia Theater at Sixth and St. Charles streets that the Orpheum organization got a foothold here. The Post-Dispatch of that day spoke of the theater as "The new fireproof Columbia Theater, America's handsomest playhouse." But then that was before the time of the modern cinema palaces with their gilt paint—one is almost tempted to spell it "guilt"—and their ushers in 40 colored uniforms. When the Columbia opened its doors an usher in patent leather shoes, which he furnished himself, was considered a pretty nifty dresser.

THE opening bill at the Columbia was advertised as "The brightest, cleanest, most refined and best vaudeville program ever presented in St. Louis including Kaiser Franz Joseph's Magyar-Husaren, Knaben-Kapelle (Hungarian Boys Band—35 Juvenile Artists); the Famous Biograph, new and novel views, including pictures of the Battleship Maine; the charming comedienne, Lizzie Derious Daly, introducing for the first time in St. Louis 'The Animated Song Sheet'; the refined sketch artists, Gardner and Ely; first time here of the European wonders, Fillis' Dogs; Welby, Peare, Keys and Wallis, Carter De Haven and others."

Carter De Haven was not as prominent then as he was in later years, as his name was in small type. The prices ranged to a $1 top, whereas the top price at the Orpheum at present is 90 cents. The advertisement stated that every lady attending the opening day would receive "A Columbia Rose with Souvenir Ribbon."

The highest priced act on that first Columbia bill was the Boys' Band of 35, which was paid something less than $1000 a week. Next week at the Orpheum Irene Bordoni is contracted for—and she actually gets it—at $3250. Miss Bordoni will be assisted by one performer, a piano player.

IT was in 1907 that Al Jolson forsook vaudeville and joined Lew Dockstader's Minstrels. This called for burnt cork, and he has been using it ever since. With Dockstader he learned, the art of putting over jokes and crooning Southern songs. He also did a whistling solo, as a specialty.

Jolson was discovered in this minstrel troupe a few years later by J. J. Shubert, the producer, who was scouting about for talent for the Winter Garden, which was just on the eve of opening as a revue playhouse in New York. That was in 1910, and Al has been working under the Shubert banner ever since.

At the Winter Garden he was featured with the late Gaby Deslys during the days of her fame and it was then that he glorified the "mammy" song.

A Player Finds Mystery in the Audience

By GEORGE ARLISS

This is the second article on the Theater by Mr. Arliss, who was recently seen in St. Louis in "Old English."

WHEN I was very young and ambitious, I wanted to be an omnibus conductor. Looking back upon that lofty aspiration, it seems to be the desire must have been born in me because the busman had an audience from whom he endeavored to draw response.

A large part of the old London bus conductor's energy was spent in an effort to entertain both the public and his fellow busmen.

No doubt in more unfrequented stretches of his route he occupied his time thinking out his jokes and took the response he got from his audience as a reward!

But he laughed more easily at the bus conductor than we should have done if he had been a paid cracker of wheezes in the bill in the Coliseum, because he was on the street—a difference of environment. The attitude of mind of the audience varies.

My first work was at the Elephant and Castle Theater in London in the '80s, when "melodrama" was strong and plays were artificial. Of course, plays are very artificial today; if they were not they wouldn't be plays. But in the '80s they were more stereotyped. The authors nearly always wrote them with rounds of applause in their minds and built their situations out of lines and phrases that brought an automatic response. These plays trained the audience to respond automatically and the fact that they did what was expected of them kept the authors doing this artificial thing.

OBVIOUSLY the audience that had trained itself to respond automatically to certain sentiments was a thinking audience. So, when, about 20 years ago, the "pictures" arrived, that particular audience drifted to the pictures because the new entertainment gave them the same invitation to respond automatically.

Then the authors had to write for what we term a more intelligent audience—and so, by degrees, there has come into being the play of today, which can still be a great success without being helped by any applause whatever.

Having played for ten years in the English province, then in London for several years, then in the United States and Canada—altogether a very large English-speaking territory—I can testify that audiences, for all fundamental humor and fundamental emotions, are the same. They respond in exactly the same way. The difference in humor is a local one—a difference of expression, of words. If it is real humor it can be phrased differently and "get there" just the same.

IN "The Green Goddess" I had an opportunity of comparing audiences. This was an English play. I think Mr. Archer wrote it for H. B. Irving. I played it first in America, and played it as it was written. It was not Americanized in any way.

Well, New York took every point just as St. Louis did, and all through the tour in America every point was taken. When I took it to the St. James's Theater in London in 1923 not a point was missed there, and all the laughs came in the same places and in the same way. I think this is a fairly good test.

In my experience of audiences I have come to note a curious thing, namely, a difference in the quality of the silence that obtains in the theater during the performance of a play. There is the respectful silence and there is the silence of intense interest. Both silences may be absolute; in each case there is no outward evidence of response. But the actor knows if he has "got" his audience, or he knows if his audience is merely sitting back and saying—to use an American idiom—"show us!"

No sound comes to indicate to the actor the quality of the silence. It is a feeling he gets—the operation of a magnet between actor and audience that only an actor can appreciate. We speak commonly of the "magnetism" of the actor, but seldom of the magnetism of an audience. Yet the effect is just the same.

JUST as an actor may give out something that seizes and holds you, so he may receive from the audience a feeling that they are with him—all experiencing his

The Little Theater Movement

FOLLOWING the successful presentation of "Hedda Gabler" by The Players last week and the increased activities of the amateur actors in St. Louis, there is already talk of some sort of a movement to build an intimate Little Theater here, where the nonprofessionals might make more elaborate productions than are possible at the Actors' Guild playhouse.

New Orleans is just now making what old mammies down South call "a miration" over the birth of a new play at Le Petit Theater du Vieux Carre; in other words, Little Theater of that French quarter, which was the original Old Square, founded by Bienville in 1718.

The play, "A La Creole," by Flo Field, which opened March 4, is said to be the first up to date study of picturesque New Orleans life to be put into comedy, and the first New Orleans play by a local author to be presented in the big season of Le Petit Theater.

The New Orleans Petit Theater is considered one of the most beautiful little playhouses in the country. The workshop quarters are in the house, which was occupied by Spanish Governor, and was also the home of Gov. Claiborn after the Louisiana Transfer. The house is 200 years old, and is linked to the new theater by a picturesque courtyard.

The Petit Theater was organized 10 years ago by Mrs. Oscar Nixon, Mrs. Helen Pitkin Schertz and others, with a capital of $29. Today the membership numbers over 3000 persons, and there is a seating capacity of 500. Bennett Kilpack of the Brooklyn Institute and director of the Little Theater in Ogonquit, is the new director of Le Petit Theater.

WHAT IS GOING ON BEHIND THE SCREENS OUT IN HOLLYWOOD

HOLLYWOOD, March 26.

THE largest array of directors ever developed within one film organization will be gathered in force at the Paramount studio in Hollywood, when the complete east and west coast production forces are assembled here. Within a few weeks, 23 megaphone wielders will be together at the west coast plant, in accordance with the announcement by Jesse L. Lasky that all its future production will be carried out in Hollywood.

Of this galaxy, no fewer than nine were handed their megaphones by Paramount, while several of the others were taken on the Famous Players-Lasky staff when they were new at directing. Those who were serving in other capacities and were promoted to full directorial status by Paramount are James Cruze, Edward Sutherland, John Waters, Frank Tuttle, Dorothy Arzner, Luther Reed, Monte Brice, Richard Rosson of H. d'Abbadie d'Arrast.

Cruze was an actor for Paramount when he turned to direction with "The Covered Wagon" and "Old Ironsides" as his outstanding successes. Edward Sutherland was also an actor, playing leading roles, before Paramount gave him his chance to direct, which led to such successes as "Behind the Front" and "We're In the Navy Now." Dorothy Arzner worked up from script girl and film cutter to director, the first woman to be handed a megaphone in more than 10 years. Luther Reed, Frank Tuttle and Monte Brice were scenarists before they were made directors. Richard Rosson was first an actor and then an assistant director until he was given his opportunity a few months ago. John Waters was an assistant director before he took up the megaphone and became director of Western features. D'Arrast was an assistant director.

John Erskine's famous novel, "The Private Life of Helen of Troy," one of the most talked of best sellers of recent years, is to be transferred to the screen on a pretentious scale. The title role, which may be regarded as one of the real opportunities of the season, will be assigned to Maria Corda, a European star. Mme. Corda is the wife of Alexander Korda, former U. F. A. director, now under contract with First National. The cast will include Lewis Stone and Mollie O'Day. Miss O'Day is appearing opposite Richard Barthelmass in "The Patent Leather Kid," now in production.

Sometimes directions go wrong in a motion picture studio and as a result of one of these unusual occurrences a Hollywood milkman found himself in the movies recently.

It all happened when mixed directions left Director E. Mason Hopper and his company from the Metropolitan Studio without a milk wagon and driver for an important scene he was about to film in the hills of Hollywood for Marie Prevost's latest feature, "The Night Bride."

Just when darkest gloom had descended, a milk wagon ambled by. "Whoa!" Hopper shouted. "Do you want to work in the movies?"

"Can't do it boss," came the reply. "Have to report at the office in an hour."

Immediately one of Hopper's assistants got on the telephone and the creamery, like many other organizations in the film colony, was glad to be of assistance.

So today in a certain creamery in Hollywood there's a brand new hero, a hero who loves to tell of how he drove Marie Prevost in his milk wagon and got a crisp new $10 bill for doing it!

Rudolph Schildkraut, who plays a feature role in "Turkish Delight" at the DeMille studio, was born in the Ottoman Empire where this Irvin S. Cobb story is laid.

A week ago, Goldie Flynn was a chorus girl in Fred Stone's show, "Criss Cross;" today, Elinor King, formerly Goldie Flynn, is the lucky owner of a five-year contract, and leaves for Hollywood the end of this month to play leads in feature productions. Joseph P. Kennedy, president of F. B. O., went to a performance of "Criss Cross," saw Goldie and thought she was a fine screen bet. The next day a screen test was taken, and Goldie passed her examination 100 per cent. She is 16 and Irish, with blue eyes, auburn hair.

'Fatty' Arbuckle Gets Fat Contract From Berlin to Be German Film Star

MOTION picture fans have not heard anything about "Fatty" Arbuckle in a long time. As Arbuckle he has gradually dropped out of sight, and out of mind, since the scandal which drove him from the screen but now comes the word that he is to again cavort before the camera. The rotund fun-maker last week signed a contract to produce a series of comedies for Abe Carlos, independent German producer, over a period of five years, which, Arbuckle said would net him about $2,500,000.

Arbuckle was banished from the screen in 1922, following his acquittal on a manslaughter charge. Will Hays, head of the Motion Picture Producers' and Distributors' Association, later lifted the ban on Arbuckle's pictures. The producers, however, maintained an unofficial ban on his productions.

But if Arbuckle has been forgotten by the picture fans he has never severed his connection with the films. He has been working as a director for Famous Players-Lasky for several years under the name of William Goodrich and has had a finger in making many of their late feature comedies. Just at present he is producing Eddie Cantor's new film, "Special Delivery" and it will be billed as "Directed by William Goodrich."

The first production with Arbuckle as the star will start in Berlin on Oct. 1. Arbuckle's wife, the former Doris Deane, will appear in the pictures.

All of the pictures will be made abroad. They will be distributed in England, France, Germany and other foreign countries. Carlos plans later to bring them to the United States.

The former comedian has also signed a contract for a vaudeville appearance over the Pantages Circuit, starting in San Francisco on April 9.

FORMATION of an Author's Council, characterized as the most ambitious plan yet devised for the development of original stories for the screen, has just been announced by Jesse L. Lasky of the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation. The council, which will begin functioning next month with offices in New York, will have for its purpose the development of original picture stories and the encouragement of authors to write their stories directly for the screen.

The council also will provide a clearing house for information as to the story needs of stars and directors, and is expected to be of great help to authors in marketing their ideas by providing them with specific information on the requirements of production.

This new departure in the treatment of authors will be organized and directed by William LeBaron. Working with him as associate director will be Owen Davis, the dramatist, and president of the Authors' League of America. In addition to Mr. Davis, who will represent American dramatists, the council will also embrace Frederick Lonsdale, representing British dramatists, and Alfred Savoir, representing the French Contributors to the council are expected shortly to comprise the leading novelists and dramatists on both sides of the Atlantic.

"In the past writers have been sent to the studios, where they have been obliged to develop their ideas with studio executive whose day was crowded with other details of production," says Mr. Lasky. "The result has been that the author, plunged into a strange technique and strange atmosphere, was forced to write stories under conditions that were discouraging, to say the least. Nobody in particu-

ture films, what has become of the minstrel troupes?" asks Jolson. "Those blackface vagabonds of mirth and melody with their catch line, "40—count 'em—40," which originated with the Haverly show and started Charles Frohman up the ladder to success.

"Where are those dusky buffoons in brilliant satin suits, with their banjos and tambourines, and their program of song and dance and comedy? Except for a few scattered troupes, the minstrel man seems to be passing out of the picture.

"I did my bit with Lew Dockstader's Minstrels and my training in this field proved the foundation of my stage popularity today. Minstrelsy, crude as it might seem to present-day playgoers, contained all the elements of entertainment.

"When I sing my 'mammy' songs, I am using the same voice, the same gestures, and the same force which I used when I was getting $40 a week with Dockstader, and playing Keokuk, Natchez and Pocatello. And when I tell jokes, I use the same mannerisms and inflections that I used as an end man.

"In 'Big Boy' a feature is the group of Negro spirituals that I sing with an octette of colored jubilee singers. Just another excerpt from the minstrel program of the old days."

"THE POOR NUT" is very much of a family affair. The comedy was written by Elliott Nugent, who stars in it, and his father, J. C. Nugent and deals with the fraternity and relay race sides of Ohio State University life which young Mr. Nugent knows so well. Ohio State runs against Wisconsin, with the studious, timid and over-ambitious boy played by young Nugent, finding himself suddenly given his huge chance to run before the flapper goddess whom he secretly adores. The consequence of misplaced ambition are unrolled when through a twist of fate, he finds himself about to run against Wisconsin's "toughest" man.

Elliott Nugent is a real "child of the theater," as he was born of theatrical parents and began his own career, as a boy monologist in the variety theaters, at the tender age of four. This was at the Orpheum Theater, Los Angeles. And when a little later his young sister, Ruth, attained what was considered a ripe age for a stage debut, she also joined the family combination, making the team of The Four Nugents.

WHEN Elliott was 13, his mother retired from the stage, to their old home — Elliott's birthplace—Dover, O., that her two growing children might live at home and go to school. J. C. Nugent, thus divorced from his family, as a "workable" theatrical team, found glory as a headliner in sketches and monologues. At the High School at Dover, Elliott played football, baseball, and with the local track teams; and later, when he entered Ohio State University he was made president of the school dramatic club. On graduating he returned to his old life of make-believe with the firm idea in the back of his head that later on he would also write plays. And that idea has brought fruit, not only in the case of his persent comedy "The Poor Nut," which he wrote in collaboration with his father, but in the several plays which have come from these same two Nugent pens.

One of the plays of their joint authorship, "Kempy," ran for over two years, and was also a family affair, having not only the father, J. C., and Elliott, in the cast, but young Ruth Nugent, also. Other plays which Elliott and his father have written together, and which have been properly glorified through Broadway production, include "A Clean Town," "Dumbbell," "The Rising Son," "The Trouper," and "Gunpowder."

The two junior members of the Four Nugents have married in the last two years, Elliott marrying Norma Lee, who plays a prominent part opposite her husband, in "The Poor Nut," and Ruth marrying an actor named Alan Bunce. Young Mr. Bunce is now playing a leading part in a Broadway hit called "Tommy," while his wife, Ruth Nugent, is acting in "The Constant Nymph," also in New York. The senior Nugent, J. C., who has added laurels to his acting, along with the years, is at this moment appearing in a new comedy for Broadway, and bearing the somewhat exuberant title, "Honeymooning on High."

MARION CRAWFORD'S play "The White Sister," will be produced by the National Players at the Empress during this week. The theme concerns the going to a convent of a Roman Patrician girl after her lover, a Captain in the Italian army, had been captured by African natives in one of the desultory wars France has pursued around the outlines of the desert. The news of his unhappy capture and death is followed by her renunciation of the world. His unexpected return after five years finds her about to go as a devotee to nurse lepers in Ragoon.

The Captain tries to persuade her to request a cancellation of her vows, and when her tenacious refusal prevents this, he swears to her he will kill himself with his own revolver in her presence unless she will sign a petition along the lines of his demand. She signs the paper, but so holds him up to his own contempt in the mirror of her exalted soul that he tears it to pieces and shoots himself. The abbot of the Dominican convent informs the girl that he has made application for the abrogation by the church of her vows, and that the Cardinal has approved it. She begs to be taken to the cot of her wounded lover and finds him dead.

Samuel Goldwyn has completed the cast of "King Harlequin," the new Ronald Colman-Vilma Banky picture. Goldwyn this week signed Augustine Borgato, a former player in the repertory company of the late Eleanora Duse, and also William Bakewell, an 18-year-old Los Angeles high school boy.

Kane Will Come Back to Garden

WHITFORD KANE, who was at the Garden Theater last season, will be with the alfresco theater the entire season this summer. Kane is now on the staff of the Chicago Art Institute and is one of the leading artists of the Goodman Players group. Last season he assisted Thomas Wood Stevens in some of the productions at the Garden Theater.

Kane was a member of the famous Abbey Theater in London and also of the Duke of York Theater under Charles Frohman. He first appeared in America with the Manchester Company. In addition to being a player he is also a dramatist and his play "Dark Rosaleen" was produced successfully by David Belasco.

While here, Kane will be associated with Stevens in the production of some of the comedies, particularly those he produced in England. The Garden Theater will open June 7, for eight weeks of drama. Upon the close of its own season the theater will be given over again to the Fashion Show.

Guild Players This Week Give Van Dyke's "Other Wise Man"

FOLLOWING the fine performance by The Players of "Hedda Gabler" during the past week, another organization, The Artists' Guild Players, will present Henry Van Dyke's "The Other Wise Man," as a Lenten theater attraction, in the Little Theater of the Artists' Guild for seven performances, beginning next Wednesday at 8:15 p. m.

The idea of a Lenten theater presenting a play characterized by deep religious emotion is no more than a return to the very beginnings of the drama, for not only in Greece, where the drama grew from a celebration of the mysteries of Dionysius, but in Egypt, China, Peru and Polynesia religious rites were celebrated in immemorial time by dramatic mysteries. And the theater as we know it in the Christian era similarly had its birth in commemoration of religious miracles or mysteries in the churches, whence the medieval guilds carried them to the streets and thence into the Tudor Theater, which gave us Shakspeare and his modern descendants.

Joseph Solari, known for his beautiful stage productions in the Fashion Show and at the Garden Theater, first picked upon Van Dyke's story for production in a spectacular sense because of its opportunities for play of light and color. The integral drama of the tale, however, became more vivid as he studied it and, as the result, he rearranged it in dramatic form, picking upon scenes of dramatic interest which lead from the appearance of the Star at Bethlehem, through the Massacre of the Innocents, the Flight into Egypt, and thence after many years of wandering by the Other Wise Man, to Calvary, where the drama ends. It is treated with utmost reverence, and Mr. Solari has retained Van Dyke's words in presenting the story in play-form.

The Oriental costumes and settings have given an opportunity for beautiful scenes by Solari, and costuming by Marguerite Breen. Paul Fries has provided a musical setting which re-enforces the mood of the drama.

The brief dramatic scenes are bound together by Van Dyke's tale as read by a Prologizer, Gustavus Tuckerman. Others who assist in the performances for which there will be alternate casts, are Percy E. Ramsay, Gordon B. Sommers, Roy Harrison James, Arthur Oberbeck, Earle G. Deane, Upton S. Coudy, William Henry Gruen, Hazel Ewald, Leila Deane and June Nagel. A vocal interlude is to be sung by Fred Weiss and Helen League Walsh is organist.

HOLLYWOOD, March 26.

Gloria Swanson arrived in Hollywood last Monday afternoon, her private car and a special freight car and baggage car being attached to the California Limited. Miss Swanson came here from New York to make her second United Artists Picture, based on a Ouida Bergere story of the desert. The Swanson party left New York St. Patrick's day and stopped in Chicago. Second Thoughts on First Nights

By ALEXANDER WOOLLCOTT.

NEW YORK, March 26.

ALL the haute noblesse of Broadway donned their best bibs and tuckers on Monday night, drove in state to the Empire Theater to see "Her Cardboard Lover," forewent at last the dubious pleasure of looking at one another in the foyer, and, in their behavior at the ensuing exercises were very naughty indeed.

The play was the first new one to be attempted by Jeanne Eagels since she came so magnificently into her own in the sardonic tragedy called "Rain" five years ago this fall. Now, as the lovesick Simone Lagoree in "Her Cardboard Lover," she played with great zest and comic spirit, only to experience, when she responded to the booming curtain calls at the end of the penultimate act, the pang of hearing that unruly audience yell, "Howard, Howard!"

It may well be that there were cloistered souls out front as puzzled as Miss Eagels herself by this demonstration, gathering only after a careful inspection of the program that these uncouth cries must be for a young English actor named Leslie Howard, who was playing the role of the cardboard lover, and whom the printer of the program, if variations in type mean anything, had evidently considered less important than the audience did.

THE goings-on of that audience were animated, I fancy, just by a mutinous notion to step in and upset these nice distinctions of the star system. Each time that Miss Eagels led Mr. Howard fondly on to take his bow, the applause would increase from the mannerly patter of routine approval to the cannonade of genuine enthusiasm. Each time she tucked him away somewhere in the wings and came prancing forth alone, all pink and gold pleasure in this touching testimonial from her public, that public would turn and bite her severely, monotonously reiterating "Howard, Howard, Howard."

In her pretty flutter and confusion it may never have occurred to her to send him forth alone and so give these dressy hyenas a chance to get him out of their system. I assume it would have taken some such nimble intervention on her part to assuage the audience, for, without it, Miss Eagels as star would be expected (according to contract or custom) to take the final calls alone. If, as I have since been informed by trusty spies, it was the stage manager's ruling that Mr. Howard could not go forth alone on Monday night to take a call, one can hardly blame him, knowing, as well he knew, that he was dealing with a star whose contract stipulated that no other player should share with her the distinction of capital letters in the billing.

I CONFESS that I took a certain urchin pleasure in this episode. It was the first time I had ever seen a first-night audience in America really take matters into their own hands. When Lionel Atwill started in "The Outsider" a few years ago and a frustrated audience beat their palms together in the hope of its eventually dawning on somebody backstage that their applause was intended rather for the ascendant Katherine Cornell, the rising curtain disclosed each time the flushed, triumphant figure of Mr. Atwill, bowing low, with hand on heart, but always firmly alone.

After a time that audience gave up and dispersed quietly. Such meek acquiescence in the stage's own ritual of precedence is quite the rule. Indeed, the bold goings-on of last Monday's audience at the Empire was the first instance of its kind that I had witnessed in a dozen years of first nights.

THERE is a popular notion that a small band of incorrigible playgoers move in what is unpleasantly described as "a body" from theater to theater for these occasions, that each new play, therefore, is tried out before the same people. This is not true, for the first-night audiences vary as night from day. Recently, I have been embedded in several where the first-nighters could have reached their seats only by crawling out from back of the molding. It was, however, a festive, let's-all-go-to-the-party gathering which assembled to welcome "The Cardboard Lover," packing the Empire at curtain time with the sense of something about to happen.

In personnel it ranged all the way from Elizabeth Marbury and Fannie Hurst sitting side by side in the front row to the blonde sorcery of Justine Johnstone in the middle distance and the austere gloom of Ring Lardner, who had somehow got into a box. I do not wish to suggest that it was any of these who so boorishly intruded on Miss Eagel's ovations by yelling for her leading man. The whole audience's response to his airy and adroit performance was audibly unanimous, but the mischievous shouting for him by name may have come from a mere handful. Why, if only the actors who had been ousted from the cast during rehearsals because Miss Eagels did not approve of them had managed to get seats, they could have worked the entire demonstration unaided.

IT WAS probably with something more than the usual ration of dread that Jeanne Eagels approached her ordeal on Monday night. She had worn the blowsy finery and spouted the squalid idiom of Sadie Thompson for more than four long seasons. All the little essayists of the land have commented learnedly on that long imprisonment, writing of Miss Eagels as one chafing to escape the tyrannous clutch of her great success, yearning to be up and away at other roles in other plays. I suspect that instead she was visited ever and anon by a nightmare fear that she would better never play another role at all, fear that in the magnificence of "Rain" there had been some alloy as incalculable as the unknown impurity in Dr. Jekyll's potion, fear that if ever she stepped out of Sadie Thompson's pathetically gaudy shoes, she—and the rest of the world—would find out she was not such a fine actress after all.

In the funny half-exasperating, half-disarming way of our players, she was chiefly concerned that her next role, if any, should be what I suppose she would call "a lady." Certainly, in the series of explosions which ended in her withdrawal from the rehearsals of "Chicago," it was among her objections to the role of the rowdy little trull who holds the center of the stage in that brilliant comedy that, in playing it, she would be obliged to say "ain't" and even "damn."

"HER CARDBOARD LOVER" has had its troubles from the first. A suave adaptation from a frou-frou French success called "Dane sa CAndeur Naice," it went into rehearsal last August, with Laurette Taylor in the role now played by Miss Eagels. During those rehearsals and the early engagements in such outlying points as Great Neck, Atlantic City, Washington and the like, the management grew resolute in a determination to bring the play to New York only if they could oust Miss Taylor from the leading feminine role. Her hold on the part was a matter of contract, and from the ensuing arbitration, she emerged minus the part, but appeased with a good round sum—not so good, I'll wager, as she must have been in certain scenes of the play, but not so round, the management swears, as was Miss Taylor herself when she showed up at rehearsals.

Chorus of 250 Voices to Sing In Symphony-School Concert

WITH a chorus of 250 voices from the Webster Groves High School singing as a feature of the program, the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra will brings its Schools-Symphony Community Music Festival to a close in the Webster Groves High School Auditorium next Friday evening at 8:15. It is the "County Concert" of the series and Kirkwood and other neighboring towns are quite as much interested as Webster Groves, where the Board of Education is co-operating to make the concert possible.

John F. Kiburz, solo flutist with the orchestra, is soloist of the concert and will play the Chaminade Concertino, Op. 105, a work in which he was heard by St. Louis this season. It is in Mme. Chaminade's happiest melodic vein, and is a piece which offers the soloist a splendid opportunity to exhibit his mastery of the instrument, while the charm of melody makes it a great favorite among audiences that hear the work. Kiburz ranks high among the flutists of the country and has been a soloist with some of the leading concert bands in other days and a member of the New York Philharmonic Orchestra.

The program will be as follows:

Overture to "The Barber of Seville" .... Rossini
"Nell Gwynn" Suite .... German
Concertino for Flute and Orchestra, Op. 107 .... Chaminade
Mr. Kiburz.
Selections from "Faust" .... Gounod
"Gypsy Baron" Waltzes .... Strauss
Choris: "Blue Danube" .... Strauss
Webster Groves High School Chorus of 250 Voices—Lorraine Brunson, Director.
"Scenes Neapolitan" .... Massenet

In addition to the Webster Groves concert there will be four school concerts this week in St. Louis with the following as the program:

March of the Caucasian Chief— Ippolitoff-Ivanoff
Fingal's Cave Overture ..... Mendelssohn
"Large" From the Symphony, "From the New World" .... Dvorak
"Carmen" Suite No. 1 .... Bizet
Andante Contabile for Strings— Tschaikowsky
High School.
Polonaise in E .... Liszt

It will be presented Monday evening at Beaumont High School, Tuesday evening at Roosevelt High School, Wednesday evening at Cleveland High School and Thursday evening at Soldan High School, each concert at 8:15 p. m.

Facing the Music

THE Liederkranz Club will celebrate the 100th anniversary of Beethoven's death with an all-Beethoven program sung tonight at the American Theater. The club chorus of 110 voices will sing Beethoven's little known cantata, "Calm Sea and Prosperous Voyage," under the direction of Hugo Anschuetz. Rudolph Reuter, the American pianist, will assist. Other Beethoven numbers on the program will also be heard for the first time in St. Louis.

"Pep" would seem a rather undignified word to apply to chamber music, but it characterizes the keynote of the playing of the New York String Quartet to be heard here Tuesday evening, at the Sheldon Auditorium, under the auspices of the St. Louis Chamber Music Society. The personnel consists of Ottokar Cadek, first violin; Jaroslav Siskovsky, second violin; Bedrich Vaska, 'cello, and Ludvik Schwab, viola. The four are Czecho-Slovakian nationality, the first two having been born and reared in this country; all four have had their education among celebrated masters abroad and each had made a distinct place for himself in the musical world before the organization of the New York String Quartet in 1919. Tuesday evening's concert is the second and last of the Chamber Music Society's series for this season.

Elly Ney.

The program follows:

Haydn .... Quartet in G M
Allegro
Largo assai
Menuetto Allegretto
Finale: Allegro con brio
Beethoven ...... Quartet in F Minor, Op.
Allegro con brio
Allegro ma non troppo
Allegro assai vivace, ma serioso
Larghetto espressivo—Allegretto agitato
Dvorak ... "American" Quartet in F Major
Allegro ma non troppo
Lento vivace ma non troppo

The St. Louis University Orchestra and Glee Club, with David A. Pohlman as violin soloist and John P. Farrara, vocal soloist, will give their annual concert tonight under the direction of George T. Devereux at the university auditorium, 3648 Lindell boulevard.

The orchestra will be heard in the following numbers:

Marche et Cortege from La Reine de Saba .... Gounod
Suite Ancienne by Hadley.
III—Air Plaintif.
IV—Gigue.
Overture—Orpheus in der Underwelt .... Offenbach
Valse des Fleurs .... Tschaikowsky

The Glee Club will sing:

Son of the Marching Men .... Protheroe
Lass o' Mine .... Turner-Maley
Friends of Yesterday .... Simpson
Be the Best of Whatever You Are .... Wells
A Moorish Serenade .... Protheroe
The Sweetest Story Ever Told .... Stults
Sailor's Song .... Mosenthal

Elly Ney, internationally known pianiste, will appear in recital Friday night at the Sheldon Auditorium. Miss Ney's concert is being sponsored by the Piano Teachers' Educational Association.

She will play the following program:

Variations in F major, Op. 34 ..... Beethoven
Sonata, B flat major, Op. 106 ..... Beethoven
Allegro.
Scherzo (Assai vivace).
Adagio sostenuto (Appassionata e molto sentimento).
Largo, Allegro, Allegro risoluto (Fuga)
Marche .... Prokofieff
Danse d'Olaf .... Pick-Mangiagalli
Danse .... Debussy
Etude, E major, Op. 10, No. 3 .... Chopin
Ballade A flat major.
Valse A flat major.
Polonaise A flat major.

In commemoration of the hundredth anniversary of the death of Ludwig von Beethoven, there will be a special program of his compositions at the Church of the Messiah this morning, under the direction of William John Hall, organist and choir director.

The Missouri Chapter, American Guild of Organists, will celebrate the Beethoven centennial at the regular meeting, tomorrow night at Grace Episcopal Church, Kirkwood.

Louis Vierne, the French organist and composer, will give a recital at St. Francis Xavier's Church, Grand and Lindell boulevard, Sunday evening, April 3.

FATTY ARBUCKLE WILL BECOME GERMAN STAR

lar was to blame; it was the fault of the system.

FROM window dressing to playing comedy roles upon the stage is a considerable step, but Arthur Stone, who is in "The Sea Tiger" at the Ambassador this week, took it at one stride—and from that to motion pictures was a logical transition.

Stone was born here in St. Louis, but the family moved to Chicago while he was still an infant. There he spent his boyhood and finally entered the window-dressing department of Marshall Field's, following his graduation from the Lake View High School.

He talked back to the "boss" one day and received his walking papers, so he became an usher—that being the open sesame to the world of the stage by which so many now famous actors have gained access to the land of Make-believe.

Finally he went on a vaudeville tour which, as he says, "opened in Winnipeg and closed somewhere near the North Pole." He followed the career of actor in stock and on tour for several years thereafter and in one play, in particular, spent much time. He had the title role and the play was "Jerry the Tramp." He hasn't much to say in favor of that particular drama.

In a sketch called "Green Goods" he did the "big time" playing a "hick" role successfully. He appeared at the New York Winter Garden in this playlet and there attracted the attention of Hal Roach who signed him for comedy roles in pictures.

He went to First National on a long-term contract, making his debut in the cast of "Miss Nobody" and scoring a hit in support of Anna Q. Nilsson. He had another great chance in "The Silent Lovers" with Milton Sills and later played with unction a funny waiter in "An Affair of the Follies."

ANTONIO MORENO, who plays the lead opposite Constance Talmadge at the Missouri in "Venus of Venice," rose from a humble beginning in old Spain to established success in the new world's newest art, and his story is one of the most romantic stories in motion pictures. Ambitious as a boy to become a bull-fighter, Tony instead has come to be one of the most sought after players in pictures.

In "Venus of Venice" Moreno appears as an American artist in Venice, who is plunged into a romance with "Carlotta," a little "water rat" canal thief portrayed by Miss Talmadge.

Tony Moreno was born in Madrid, Spain, his father being in the army. He was christened Antonio Garrido Monteagudo and while still very young, his parents moved to Seville. There, in early life, he cherished an ambition to become a matador, and accordingly obtained employment at the slaughter-place to learn the rudiments of bull-fighting. His chum, named Gallito, who worked beside him, was destined to become one of the greatest matadors of Spain.

When the family moved to Cadiz Tony was placed in a boarding school. At the age of 9, upon the death of his father, he left sch Six months later he moved Campamento, another town Gibraltar. There he studied the priesthood, but his inter lagged and he would run away the polo frields to earn small holding the ponies. While engaged he met two Americ Benjamin Curtis, nephew of Lowe, who then was Mayor New York, and Enrique de Cr Zanetti. These two men, tak an interest in young Moreno, sent for him and brought him America.

Tony attended school at N ampton, Mass., and on finis his schooling obtained emp ment with a light and gas c pany.

By chance he met Maude Ad and obtained a "bit" with her "The Little Minister" and a la part in "Peter Pan." This led more important roles with sev leading stage attractions.

Acting on the advice of W Edwin, he won his first moti picture engagement with the Rex Co., playing atmosphere "The Voice of Millions," a tw reeler. From that introduction joined the David Wark Griff family, with Blanch Sweet, Li Gish, Dorothy Gish, Bobby Harr and Lionel Barrymore. Seve years brought him continually i creasing recognition with F and Vitagraph. Recently he had a variety of roles in productions.

A Bad Man of the Theater

AT the Shubert Theater next Sunday night Charles Frohman will present Otis Skinner in "The Honor of the Family," a romantic comedy in four acts which has its source in the pages of Balzac under the title of "En Menage de Garcon." Later this story was fashioned into a play by Emile Fabre, which he called "La Rabouilleuse." Then Paul Potter put the play into English and called it "The Honor of the Family."

Mr. Skinner has been contributing to Scribner's Magazine articles on actors who have won imperishable fame among their fellow players.

The first of the series dealt with George Frederick Cooke, whose parentage and birthplace have remained in doubt, but who said that his father was Irish.

Cooke gained fame in the London theater long before he came to America. It was at Berwich-on-Tweed, England, when Cooke was 13 years old, that he made his first and totally unpremeditated entrance upon the stage. The play was "Macbeth," and Cooke, who had sneaked into the theater, had secreted himself into the big barrel that held the cannon balls for the thunder in the witch scene.

The property man, on receiving his cue, began rolling his machine, when he was startled by hearing from within not only the reverberations of thunder, but very human shrieks and yells. The effect of the "cauldron scene" was immeasurably heightened by the appearance of an unkempt lad who suddenly shot in among the witches, bruised, bleeding and terrified.

THERE following "Barnstorming," a try at seafaring; a disastrous venture in business; a period of riotous living that an inheritance of some money made possible; and then a substantial footing in the theater, when in 1776, Cooke made his appearance at Brentford, playing Dumont in the tragedy of "Jane Shore."

From thence forward his life led him through vagabond adventures among villages, towns and then to the cities of importance in companies of increasing standing and respectability. He took his responsibilities lightly, riotously, alcoholically.

Cook's appearance in America was the result of something very like abduction by Thomas Abthorpe Cooper, an American tragedian and manager, who encountered Cooke in Liverpool in 1810, who seized him from under the nose of creditors and put him aboard, well dined and wined the ship Columbia for New York.

Cooke repeated his triumph of New York, in Boston and Philadelphia and other cities. Stuart and Sully painted his portrait, "but always his evil genius was at his elbow, luring him to fresh excesses and wild behavior."

LESS than two years after Cooke had set the American dramatic world aflame, his extraordinary vitality worked itself out, and he died "in the presence of friends, who had stood by him in the face of all rebuffs and rebukes, and the forlorn wife he had married in America, but who had held but the smallest place in Cooke's life.

At his best and in his moments of lucidity, there was much to be admired in him as a man. He was generous, manly, witty and a faithful friend. Though he had no foundation of education, he had an admiration and a hunger for knowledge and the literature of his time that led him into hours of companionship with books which he read with great discrimination.

On Sept. 27, 1812, his remains were laid away in the stranger's vault of St. Paul's, in the financial district of New York, at Broadway and Fulton street.

In June, 1821, Edmund, Kean, on his first visit to America, learning that his one-time celebrated predecessor was lying wholly forgotten in an obscure church vault, caused the body to be removed and interred and placed above it a monument on which is inscribed these lines:

"Three kingdoms claim his birth.
Both hemispheres proclaim his worth."

The monument has at various times been restored by Charles Kean, the elder Sothern, Edwin Booth and The Players' Club.

"She Stoops to Conquer."

On Friday and Saturday evenings of this week, Oliver Goldsmith's comedy "She Stoops to Conquer" will be given by the Toy Theater Players at the Toy Theater, 457 North Boyle avenue. This play has not been given in St. Louis since an all star cast presented it at the old Olympic Theater in 1910. The play is under the direction of Harry R. McClain.

In commemoration of the hundredth anniversary of the death of Ludwig von Beethoven, there will be a special program of his compositions at the Church of the Messiah this morning, under the direction of William John Hall, organist and choir director.

The Missouri Chapter, American Guild of Organists, will celebrate the Beethoven centennial at their regular meeting, tomorrow night at Grace Episcopal Church, Kirkwood.

Louis Vierne, the French organist and composer, will give a recital at St. Francis Xavier's Church, Grand and Lindell boulevard, Sunday evening, April 3.

death of his father, he left school. Six months later he moved to Campamento, another town near Gibraltar. There he studied for the priesthood, but his interest lagged and he would run away to the polo frields to earn small sums holding the ponies. While thus engaged he met two Americans, Benjamin Curtis, nephew of Seth Lowe, who then was Mayor of New York, and Enrique de Cruzat Zanetti. These two men, taking an interest in young Moreno, later sent for him and brought him to America.

Tony attended school at Northampton, Mass., and on finishing his schooling obtained employment with a light and gas company.

By chance he met Maude Adams and obtained a "bit" with her in "The Little Minister" and a larger part in "Peter Pan." This led to more important roles with several leading stage attractions.

Acting on the advice of Walter Edwin, he won his first motion picture engagement with the old Rex Co., playing atmosphere in "The Voice of Millions," a two-reeler. From that introduction he joined the David Wark Griffith family, with Blanch Sweet, Lillian Gish, Dorothy Gish, Bobby Harron and Lionel Barrymore. Ensuing years brought him continually increasing recognition with Pathe and Vitagraph. Recently he has had a variety of roles in elaborate productions.

Sport Dresses Worn All Day Now.

PARIS, March 26.—Sport dresses have become the day-time uniform at fashionable European resorts, where women don dresses of kasha, jersey or crepe de chine the first thing in the morning, and only change them when it is time to dress for dinner. The afternoon dress has almost ceased to be seen at the play places, a trend which greatly simplifies the business of choosing a wardrobe for resorts. Many sport costumes and a few well-chosen evening dresses and a wrap or so are all a Riviera sojourn necessitates these days.

Dr. Caldwell's
SYRUP PEPSIN

Mothers! Apply Common Sense

THIS is the era of the prevention of disease and sensible people do not wait until sickness has actually come before remedying the trouble. The crowded hospitals everywhere are sad examples of the results of neglect. Be especially watchful of children. Restlessness, lack of normal appetite and feverishness usually indicate constipation. Give a spoonful of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin at once and you will help to prevent real sickness.

A Great Family Laxative

It may be difficult to decide just what medicine to use out of the many that are offered, but it would not be if you knew the facts. There are laxatives, cathartics, purgatives and physics, and they vary in their reaction on the system. Naturally, the stronger the medicine, the more it shocks the system, so wise parents never give anything but a laxative to children. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a mild laxative, a vegetable compound of Egyptian Senna with pepsin and desirable aromatics, and so appreciated that it is now the largest selling preparation of its kind in the world, over 10 million bottles being used annually. The formula is on every package.

Three Rules of Health

Always keep a bottle of Syrup Pepsin in the family medicine chest. Give it to any one from infant to grandparent, for it is safe, and the cost is less than a cent a dose. Give it for constipation, torpid liver, indigestion, biliousness, headaches, colds and other evidence of bowel obstruction. Dr. Caldwell, who was a practicing physician for 47 years and who originated this formula, had three rules of health that he found very effective among his patients, which you can follow with great benefit: Keep the head cool, the feet warm and the bowels open.

ACTORS' FUND DINNER NEXT THURSDAY NIGHT

Theaters Will Provide Entertainment to Help Raise $15,000 St. Louis Quota.

Artists from all St. Louis theaters will provide entertainment for the dinner at Hotel Chase next Thursday night to raise the St. Louis quota of $15,000 for the Actors' Fund of America.

Virtually every artist appearing in St. Louis this week has offered to serve. The program will be a melange of singers, dancers, comedians, swimmers and other artists.

Through the dinner the local committee hopes to raise the total requested of St. Louis in one evening.

Behind the Screens

the late John Fairbanks and niece of Douglas Fairbanks, has been signed for the ingenue role in "The Climbers," which will be Irene Rich's next starring vehicle for Warner Bros. Miss Fairbanks has played in several pictures and attracted favorable attention. This is the best part she has had to date, and it will give her an opportunity to show what she can do, as the role is practically an ingenue lead.

After three months' preparation, during which directors, scenarists and staffs were changed, Vivian and Rosetta Duncan have launched their famous "Topsy and Eva" as a screen vehicle. Accompanied by a large supporting cast and technical staff, the sisters are on location at Lake Tahoe, filming scenes for their picture. Among those on location are Del Lord, director, and a number of players, including Gibson Gowland, Nils Aster, Imogene Robertson and Noble Johnston.

The cream of the child-acting talent at Hollywood has been taken for Emil Jannings' first American starring picture, "The Man Who Forgot God."

Six young players have been given parts. They are: Philippe de Lacey, Micky McBann, Betsy Ann Hisle, Carmencita Johnson, Gordon Thorpe and Jackie Coombs. From young De Lacey and Micky McBann, two of the talented youthful trio in the opening sequences of "Beau Geste," to little Jackie, less than 2 years of age, these children are all called upon for difficult characterizations in the Jannings picture.

Richard Dix's next picture will be written in a transcontinental Pullman compartment. Its author will be Ray S. Harris, who adapted Dix's football picture, "The Quarterback," and Sam Mintz, who gagged it. The title and theme of the new story is unannounced. Harris and Mintz will leave New York for Hollywood following the closing of the Paramount Long Island studio. Dix will follow in about two weeks, during which time he will assist Julian Johnson and John W. Conway at the Long Island studio with the cutting, editing and previewing of his recently completed "Knockout Reilly."

With so much talk this season among picture producers about the need of new faces for the screen, it is interesting to note that Robert Kane, First National producer, has turned to the stage for half a dozen of the supporting cast in his "Broadway Nights," now in production at the Cosmopolitan Studio with Lois Wilson and Sam Hardy starred. Louis John Bartels, who created the role of "The Show Off" in the stage play; Barbara Stanwick, discovered in Greenwich Village by Willard Mack, who featured her in his melodrama "The Noose" this season; Sylvia Sidney, the leading woman in A. H. Woods' new Broadway success "Crime," and Henry Sherwood, from the cast of "Broadway," are making their screen debuts in this film of Manhattan theater and night club life. None has ever appeared in front of a camera before Kane offered them a screen test but all are proving adept in picking up the distinctly different technique of moving picture acting. George Duval, former ballet dancer in the Metropolitan Opera Company; Lee Armstrong, for several years a vaudeville partner of Harry Watson Jr., and "Bunny" Weldon of musical comedy fame, complete the list of stage folk who are making their initial screen appearance in "Broadway Nights."

This week will see very little studying done at the University of Arizona, located at Tucson, for every one of the students will be too much interested in motion pictures to devote time to Greek roots and the like. The reason for the lack of interest in studies is that Jack Mulhall and the other players in the company of the screen version of "The Poor Nut" are now at the university. The picture is laid in and around a college, and the University of Arizona has the honor of being said college. The track, athletic fields and fraternity houses will all figure in the picture and, needless to say, the students are thinking but little of school work right now, especially as many of them are working as extras in the picture.

With its entire schedule for 1926-27 completed and with $5,000,000 worth of motion picture plays for next September in its vaults Fox Films, according to vice president Winfield R. Sheehan, ushers in the beginning of a 12-month production program at Fox Films West Coast Studios that calls for an expenditure of $15,000,000. New pictures for the coming year include eight specials representing an actual cost of $5,000,000. Among these are "Sunrise," directed by F. W. Murnau; "Seventh Heaven," directed by Frank Borzage, and "Carmen," directed by Raoul Walsh.

Wallace Beery, comedian, returned to Hollywood from New York recently to begin preparations for his next production, "Fireman Save My Child." While in New York he says he relaxed from the strenuous working life of California, attending shows and visiting friends. "Most people come to California for a rest," Beery explained, "but I have to go to New York where life is peaceful and quiet in comparison to studio life."

To observe a custom of several years standing, Eddie Cantor traveled 6444 miles—from Hollywood to New York and return—to appear at a benefit for a boys' camp at Spring Lake, New York. The former Broadway star, who now is appearing in films, returned to California immediately after his benefit appearance.

FIERY, ITCHY SKIN QUICKLY SOOTHED WITH SULPHUR

Mentho-Sulphur, a pleasant cream, will soothe and heal skin that is irritated or broken out with eczema; that is covered with ugly rash or pimples, or is rough and dry. Nothing subdues fiery skin eruptions so quickly, says a noted skin specialist.

The moment this sulphur preparation is applied the itching stops and after two or three applications the eczema is gone and the skin is delightfully clear and smooth. Sulphur is so precious as a skin remedy because it destroys the parasites that cause the burning, itching or disfigurement. Mentho-Sulphur always heals eczema right up.

A small jar of Rowles Mentho-Sulphur may be had at any good drug store.

USE CANTHROX Shampoo

WHEN LIGHT HAIR TURNS DARKER

—it is largely the fault of the shampoo. It is a well-known fact that among the millions of women who will use only canthrox shampoo the blonde type find it especially good to keep the hair lustrous and bright and to bring out all its natural beauty. This simple but efficient preparation rids every strand of that excess oil and dirt which darkens it. After rinsing the hair, its bright luster returns—it is fluffy and looks more luxuriant than it really is. The hair dries rapidly, with uniform color, never streaked or faded-looking.

The scalp, too, is stimulated to healthful action, and hair-growth encouraged. You can get a package at any good drug store, and it is economical and easy to use. Just dissolve a teaspoonful of canthrox in a cup of hot water and your shampoo is ready. This makes enough liquid to apply to all the hair instead of just the top of the head.

For many years I lived constantly in the dread of constipation, exerting the greatest care over my selection of food and worrying considerably about my condition. Some time ago Pluto was recommended to me, and I found it the best corrective I had ever used. Upon the advice of my doctor, I now take a small quantity of Pluto each morning in hot water and find it an unequalled preventative. I am looking and feeling 100% better since following this treatment.

Mrs U. M. Robinson

Miami, Fla., July 16, 1926

I used to think of Pluto Water only as a laxative to be used in times of emergency. Following the advice of my doctor, however, I commenced some time ago to take a small quantity each morning in a glass of hot water. Previously I had tried different so-called preventatives of constipation, but none of them gave the continued good results that Pluto Water has given. I cannot recommend it too highly.

WASH away constipation

Doctors proclaim the value of this better method

THIS fact will surely interest you. It relates to a certain widely-used laxative. That laxative is Pluto Water.

Millions of people recognize the value of Pluto's reliable, quick action. Yet few realize just why Pluto performs so efficiently. Doctors, knowing the reason, have prescribed Pluto Water for almost a generation. Here is what they know:

Pluto, being a water laxative, washes the intestines. It does not drug the system. It loosens, cleans and flushes the waste accumulations. Its action is natural and harmless.

"But," you may ask, "if that is true, why will not ordinary drinking water have the same effect?" The answer is clearly understood by medical science. Ordinary water is quickly absorbed, and excreted by the kidneys.

Pluto Water, on the other hand, has a mineral content that exceeds the mineral content of the blood. Hence, Pluto is practically "absorption-proof". It passes intact through the stomach and intestines.

Gently, yet surely and quickly, Pluto Water flushes away the poisonous waste. Stubborn constipation is relieved in 30 minutes to two hours after drinking Pluto. Health is safeguarded. There is not the slightest griping, and no habit-forming tendency. The action is pleasant, prompt and complete.

A small quantity of Pluto Water daily will keep you regular and in tip-top condition. And for emergency use, nothing else is so effective. Sold at all drug counters and at fountains. Bottled at the springs, French Lick, Ind.

CASCARETS

All the trick laxatives in the world can't tempt people who understand the properties of cascara.

A hundred different drugs will purge the bowels, but a little natural cascara purifies the system clear through. Cleanses even the pores of your skin. Renders perspiration as inoffensive as so much dew!

Your grandparents took "salts," and slowly washed away the mucous membrane with the waste! Mineral oils are better, but they leave the coating that your blood must then carry off through the pores. But when you cascarize the system, you get rid of all the poisons by normal muscular action of the bowels.

Don't get in the habit of taking medicine for constipation—or even for auto-intoxication. If you have the habit, stop it. A candy cascaret is a delightful form in which to take cascara; children love them and the taste tempts most grownups to take "more." And what a comfort to know you are in that clean, wholesome condition that does away with any need of deodorants, even in warmest weather! Try a cascaret tonight! All druggists, 10c & 25c.

FIND FRIEZES OF RACE OLDEST IN SOUTHWEST

Hieroglyphics Carved and Sketched on New Mexico's Mountains Depict Warrior.

By the Associated Press.

CARLSBAD, N. M., March 26.—Pictographs of an aboriginal race that antedates all known Southwestern tribes are mingled in the Guadalupe Mountains near here with the more recent sketches and paintings of the Apache warriors who hid with the wily Geronimo, and with the initials of the pursuing soldiers under Gen. Nelson A. Miles.

The Guadalupe range is perhaps as little known as any in the United States, much of it never having been explored by white men. But the little that has been examined promises a field of archeological investigation for many years.

The hieroglyphics of the ancient tribe are carved and scratched on the bluffs and in the caves they inhabited in the mountains, and no attempt has been made to decipher their meaning. Unlike most Indian carvings and paintings the pictographs bear no resemblance to animal forms, but are in almost every case arrangements of geometric figures in friezes or panels, reaching in places to a height of eight feet. The friezes stretch to lengths of 100 feet on more horizontally until marred or broken up by the decay of rock strata into which they were cut.

In contrast to the maze of markings etched by the stone tools of the ancient race are the huge, gaudy drawings fashioned by the Indians during the last 150 years. One particularly briliant painting is above a ledge high in the bills where tradition has it one of Geronimo's warriors fortified himself for a lone stand against the white troopers in the early eighties. The painting depicts a warrior pointing up the canyon. The faint outline of a horse is close beside him. The picture is translated as a warning to his tribesmen that mounted enemies are approaching through the canyon.

Indications of the passage of white soldiers through the mountains are plentiful. In many places initials and names of soldiers serving under Gen. Miles are carved in the rock.

In a cave in a remote section is carved the name of W. M. Bonney, better known as "Billy the Kid."

SCENE OF DICKENS' STORY IN LONDON TO BE RAZED

Hickman's Folly, Where Bill Sikes Met His Death, One of City's Oldest Slums.

By the Associated Press.

BERMONDSEY, England, March 26.—Hickman's Folly, the scene of one of Dickens grimmest stories, that of the death of Bill Sikes in "Oliver Twist," is to be cleared by the London County Council.

Hickmans' folly is an area close to Shad Thames at Dockhead. It is near an unsavory center of misdeeds known as Folly Ditch; one of the "super slums" of the last century, according to historians, and both Charles Dickens and Kingsley described it in all its horrors.

In one of the houses in this area Dickens made Bill Sikes take shelter from a howling mob, rush to the roof and, in attempting to let himself down by a rope, hang himself.

It is thought that Fagin, the Jew, and Sikes were real people who met their kind in a house in Hickman's Folly.

VON KEUDELL IS A SOCIAL LION

Grandson of Bismarck's Friend in German Cabinet.

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, March 26.—Walther von Keudell, the new Nationalist Minister of the Interior, grandson of the former ruling Duke Ernst of the House of Wuerttemberg, is the most distinguished social acquisition of the new Marx Cabinet. He is the son of the late Robert von Keudell, intimate friend of Prince Bismarck and Ambassador to Rome, who only recently was recalled by King Victor Emmanuel as "one of the most imposing Germany diplomats ever sent to the Italian capital."

Parents and grandparents of the Minister of the Interior were gifted musicians. His father was frequently invited to play before the late Empress Margherita of Italy. His mother, Alexandra, the daughter of Natalie Eschborn, famous concert singer of the fifties, is a remarkable pianist. Rubenstein and Josef Joachim frequently played to select audiences in the Von Keudell Berlin mansion. The younger Von Keudell's wife is a member of one of the oldest aristocratic families of Saxony. He is 43 years old, the youngest member of the Cabinet.

HISTORY LECTURE TUESDAY

"Missouri and Illinois Along the Mississippi River" will be the subject of an address by Nick J. Perrin, Illinois author and historian, before the Missouri Historical Society at Jefferson Memorial in Forest Park at 8:15 p. m. Tuesday.

The speaker will discuss from the point of view of history, scenery, agriculture, industry and archeology the territory from Hannibal to Iron Mountain on the Missouri side and from Quincy to Murphysboro on the Illinois side. Perrin has been president of the St. Clair County (Illinois) Historical Association for more than 20 years, and last year erected at his own expense monument to the "discoverers of the Illinois" on the Illinois River 40 miles above its mouth.

MEMORIAL OF DANCE TEMPLE

Isadora Duncan's Former Home May Be Bought by Public.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, March 26.—Isadora Duncan's old "Temple of the Dance," sold for debt, is likely to be bought by public subscription and made a memorial school. Friends of the dancer, aided by Comoedia, a theatrical paper, have raised a good part of the third of a million francs needed to buy back the property.

This "temple" once was a fine, old, high-ceilinged villa in Neuilly, but when Isadora Duncan's life became complicated by her Russian poet-husband and her interest in the ways of the Moscow bolsheviki, it became a small manufacturing plant and recently was sold under a mortgage foreclosure. Isadora Duncan is to operate the school, but it will be given to the Government.

DYSPEPTIC FOR YEARS AND SUFFERED MUCH

"I HAVE used Black-Draught for 25 years and keep taking it once in a while when I need medicine," says Mr. A. C. Whittle, proprietor of the Whittle Hotel, De-Kalb, Texas. Mr. Whittle has been a well-known citizen of Bowie county for a great many years, although coming originally from Dalton, Ga.

"I began taking Black-Draught for indigestion," continues Mr. Whittle, "spitting up of my food, and a tight, close feeling in my chest. I had this trouble about two years. I finally read of Black-Draught and began taking it and soon I was rid of the trouble.

"No one knows what I suffered. Even water would come back. I could eat such a little. Black-Draught helped me, so I could eat most anything.

"I took it a year or so and then left it off and after a while I had a return of this dyspepsia, spitting up sour. I went back to Black-Draught and was relieved again and have never entirely left it off since."

Mr. Whittle would not have continued to take Black-Draught consistently for 25 years, if it had not benefited him. Other people in great numbers have told how Black-Draught has been used in their families over long periods of years—in many cases for several generations.

Thedford's Black-Draught is no new-fangled "cure-all." It has been used by the public for over 85 years in the treatment of indigestion and constipation. It is made from pure, medicinal roots and herbs, finely powdered and carefully and scientifically mixed in modern sanitary laboratories. Black-Draught contains no harmful mineral drugs.

The Contemporary Club will have a dinner Friday evening, April 8, at the Hotel Coronado. The speaker will be the Rev. Dr. William L. Sullivan, whose subject will be: Religious and Political Movements in the Mohammedan World."

Social Chronicles Of the Week

INVITATIONS were received yesterday from Mr. and Mrs. James Clark Streett for the marriage of their daughter, Miss Maud Miller, and Lindell Gordon Jr., Friday afternoon, April 22, at 5 o'clock, at the Westminster Presbyterian Church.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew W. Johnson of 16 Portland place, will be hosts at a theater party tomorrow night for their guest, Mr. Berriem Hughes of Denver, Colo.

Mrs. J. J. Fisher of 5549 Cates avenue, is entertaining her daughter, Mrs. Guy Scott Warren of Evanston, Ill., who will be here until next week. Mr. and Mrs. Warren are former St. Louisans of social prominence, and several parties have been given for the visitor by Mrs. William C. Sipple, Mrs. Douglas W. Robert and Mrs. Samuel P. McChesney and others. Mr. and Mrs. Warren's daughter, Miss Katherine, will become the bride in June of Thomas Bracken Tate.

Miss Martha Schuyler, daughter of Mrs. Ralph L. Thompson of 4311 McPherson avenue, a junior at Smith College, is spending the spring vacation in the East visiting classmates. Miss Schuyler has been elected to membership in the Clef Club, an exclusive organization of nine members, only two of whom are admitted each year. One of the requirements for membership is the playing by the candidate of two of her own composition on the piano. Miss Schuyler is majoring in music at Smith.

Miss Claudia Levering Matthews will spend her spring vacation in Baltimore and New York with her father, Claude L. Matthews. She is a student at Margaret Hall, Versailles, Ky.

Mr. Matthews and Miss Claudia will sail June 25 from Montreal for England, where they will be joined by another daughter, Miss Jane, and will spend a month traveling in Europe. Miss Jane is a student at Woodclyffe, Chislehurst, Kent, England. She will spend the spring vacation with friends at Eastbourne, England.

in the afternoon. Miss Carter's sister, Mrs. John Eaton Monins of Ringwould, Kent County, England, will come to St. Louis for the event.

Miss Carter and her parents will sail about the middle of July for England, to remain until the early autumn. The prospective bride will pass the early summer with Mr. and Mrs. Walker and her fiance at the Walker summer home at Kennebunkport, Me.

Miss Marie Nugent, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin T. Nugent of 5228 Westminster place, who will become the bride of Thomas M. Conroy of Cincinnati, Wednesday, April 27, has announced her wedding party. She will have as her maid of honor her young sister, Miss Edwine Clinton Nugent, and Mr. Conroy's sister, Mrs. Harold Le Blonde of Cincinnati, will be matron of honor. The bridesmaids will be Miss Jane Parsons, Miss Marie Carr Taylor, Miss Janet Wallace, Mrs. David Randolph Calhoun of Chicago, Mrs. Samuel Fitzhugh Gordon, Miss Estelle Manville of New York and Miss Janet Enger of Cincinnati.

The ceremony will take place at 5:30 o'clock in the afternoon at St. Peter's Episcopal Church, with a reception at the St. Louis Country Club. Mr. Conroy's list of attendants will be announced later.

An engagement of interest announced in Hillsboro, Ill., is that of Miss Pauline Potter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Marrett Potter of Hillsboro, and Arthur Barret Clark, son of Mrs. Henry Clark of 3740 Lindell boulevard. The wedding will take place in June at Hillsboro. Miss Potter is a graduate of the University of Illinois and has attended Washington University the past year. She is a member of the Alpha Delta Pi sorority. Mr. Clark, who spends much of his time in New York, will bring his bride to St. Louis to make their home. He is related to a number of prominent St. Louis families. His sisters are Mrs. P. Taylor Bryan Sr., Mrs. George S. Drake, Mrs. Lee Hagerman and Miss Mary Sunie and Miss Martha Clark.

Miss Helen Taylor Topping daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Perry Topping of Fort Smith, Ark., whose engagement to Walton William Loevy, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Loevy of 5032 Waterman avenue, was announced at a tea given Jan. 28 by her aunt, Mrs. Herbert Maury Edmunds of 7246 Westmoreland drive, has chosen April 2 as the date for her wedding. The ceremony will take place at the Edmunds home at 8 o'clock in the evening, the Rev. Dr. Edmund Duckworth, rector of the Church of the Redeemer, officiating.

Miss Topping will be attended by her cousin, Miss Eleanor Isabelle Holt, as maid of honor, and Mary Alice Topping, young sister of the bride, will be the flower girl. Mr. Loevy will have as his best man Jack Crittenden of Quincy, Ill. A reception will be held after the ceremony.

Miss Topping, who has made her home with her and for the past two years, attended Washington University. Mr. Loevy is an alumnus of Washington University and the University of Missouri and is a member of the University Club.

The wedding of Miss Susan Lewis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Silas S. Lewis, of 4322 Washington boulevard, and Walter H. Petring, of 4548 West Pine boulevard, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. George H. Petring, will take place Thursday, April 28. The marriage services will be read by the Rev. Dr. Ivan Lee Holt at St. John's Methodist Church, at 8:30 o'clock in the evening An informal reception for the members of the families will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis.

Miss Lewis will have her sister, Mrs. Mansur Tebbetts, as matron of honor. The bridesmaids will be Miss Emma Petring, sister of the prospective bridegroom; Miss Claudine Fay, Miss Virginia Becker and Miss Alice Strauch. Dr. Barrett Brown will be best man for Mr. Petring and John Miller, Harold Hungerford, Weston Lieders and Mr. Tebbetts will serve as groomsmen.

Miss Lewis is a graduate of Mary Institute and Washington University. She passed last summer traveling in Europe with Miss Petring and her aunt, Mrs. Hugh Murray French. Mr. Petring is also an alumnus of Washington University.

Announcement was made yesterday of the engagement of Miss Katherine J. Johnston of 4957 Forest Park boulevard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Burton Johnston of Minneapolis, Minn., to L. Scott Powell of 4917 West Pine boulevard, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sid Powell of Granbury, Tex.

The news was told at an attractive bridge luncheon given for 21 guests by the bride-to-be at the Castlereagh apartments, 6820 Delmar boulevard. The luncheon tables were adorned with pink and lavendar, sweet peas and pink roses. At the places were tiny flower pots holding pink blossoms in which were concealed small cards bearing the names of Miss Johnston and her fiance.

The prospective bride, affectionately known to her friends as "K," is a graduate of the University of Minnesota and a member of Alpha Xi Delta sorority. She is a member of the faculty of Mary Institute. Mr. Powell is an alumnus of Vanderbilt University, Nashville, Tenn. No date has been set for the wedding.

Dr. James McCullough of Toronto, Canada, announces the marriage of his daughter, Mrs. Florence McCullough of 4943 Buckingham court, and Dr. Leland B. Alford of Hotel Chase, which took place at noon yesterday at the Union Avenue Christian Church, the Rev. Dr. George Campbell officiating. The bride, who was unattended, wore her traveling gown of blue crepe romaine with a beige hat and taffeta coat, and a corsage of flowers. Dr. Howard H. Bell was Dr. Alford's best man.

After the ceremony there was breakfast at Hotel Chase, and the couple departed for New Orleans and Biloxi for their wedding trip. They will reside in St. Louis. Mrs. Alford is an alumna of the University of Toronto, and was chief social worker at the psychiatric clinic at Washington University. Dr. Alford is a graduate of the University of Missouri and completed his studies in Boston.

Lindenwood Queen To Visit Augusta, Mo.

Because this is centennial year at Lindenwood College, the May Queen and all the anticipatory social events in her honor are regarded by the students as of special importance. Miss Marguerite McNee, the queen, had numerous invitations for the spring recess, which begins Wednesday, but has accepted that of Miss Verna Meyer of Augusta, Mo., where the members of Miss Meyer's house party will be guests at several country club dances and at smaller parties and teas.

Miss Harriet Collins, Lindenwood junior, who is first maid of honor, will visit Kansas University campus for several days. While there she will attend an S. A. E. formal. She will spend the rest of the recess at her home in Oxford [illegible], together with Miss Audrey Richert, who lives near Oxford.

Miss Elizabeth Tracy of St. Charles, one of the queen's maids, will visit friends in Washington, D. C. Miss Tracy already had been elected to a leading role in the Centennial Pageant, to represent the department of modern languages, but she has been obliged to withdraw because of her place in the queen's court.

L'ECHO de PARIS

A Fashion Show of Paris Styles Created by

Jenny Worth Lanvin Vionnet Agnes
Lelong Premet Berthe Goupy
Regny Lebouvier Chantal Miler Souers
Drecoll Anna Martial et Armand

At 2 o'Clock Monday to Friday in the Educational Department on the Tenth Floor

Miss Fosmer, of the McCall Company, New York, will talk on the fashion points of these models, and will show how successfully they can be reproduced with McCall Printed Patterns, and the lustrous silks and fine woolens you will find in our Piece Goods Department. The accuracy, simplicity and ease of use of McCall Patterns will be featured with suggestions of materials favored for this season.

All Paris costumes shown in this Fashion Show are available in McCall Printed Patterns; and smart new materials are available in our Piece Goods Departments on the Second Floor. Another boon to the home dressmaker is our Cutting and Pinning Service—where your frock is cut and pinned, ready to sew—a helpful service, moderately priced at $2.

Missourians in Social Events At Washington

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 26.—John C. Coolidge, son of the President and Mrs. Coolidge, arrived Thursday for his spring vacation from Amherst College and joined President and Mrs. Coolidge at the Patterson House on Dupont circle, which is now the temporary White House.

He will remain only eight days, for part of his vacation he will spend with his grandmother, Mrs. Andrew Goodhue at Northampton, Mass. On Friday Mrs. Coolidge and Mr. Coolidge Jr. attended the concert of the Amherst Musical Clubs at the Memorial Continental Hall, when the Amherst alumni were present in force, including former Secretary of State Robert Lansing, Rev. Jason Noble Pierce, the President's pastor, and Associate Justice of the United States Supreme Court Harlan Fiske Stone.

The President received the officers and registered students of the School of Politics of the District League of Republican Women in the garden of the White House Wednesday. The school will be in session at the New Willard Hotel for a week and among its students and sponsors are Mrs. Robert Nelson Stanfield, Mrs. Herbert Hoover, wife of the Secretary of Commerce, and Mrs. Clyde B. Aitchison, wife of the Interstate Commerce Commissioner.

Gen. John J. Pershing left Washington this week for New York and will sail for France as an official of the American Battle Monuments' Commission.

Princess Cantacuzene entertained at dinner Wednesday night at Hotel Mayflower.

Mr. and Mrs. Breckenridge Long were among the guests at the dinner given Monday night by the Argentine Ambassador and Mme. De Pueyrredon in honor of the Belgian Ambassador and Baroness De Cartier.

Mrs. Frederick Dent Grant will entertain at dinner followed by a box party at the performance of the eMtropolitan Opera Company, April 22.

Mrs. Dwight F. Davis, wife of the Secretary of War, has returned from New York. Mrs. Davis and her children will go to Hot Springs, Va., this week to remain until after Easter.

Mrs. James A. Reed, wife of Senator Reed, was one of the subscribers to the lecture given Wednesday for the benefit of the George Washington Memorial Association by John Cowper Powys.

The last meeting of the Missouri State Society for the season was held Friday at the Washington Hotel. M. E. Rhodes, assistant Comptroller-General of the United States, and vice president of the society, presided in the absence of President Joseph I. Manlove. Hostesses for the evening were Mrs. M. E. Rhodes, Mrs. James Hagerman Jr., and Mrs. E. D. Hays. George R. Wales, Civil Service Commissioner, was the speaker of the evening.

Mrs. Thomas Coleman Brown of Kansas City, Mo., who has been in Washington for the last month, left for New York, where she will sail Tuesday for Europe. Mrs. Brown, who is a close friend of Mrs. Champ Clark, widow of the late Speaker of the House of Representatives, will be joined in London in July by Mrs. Clark, who will visit a number of literary persons while in England.

Former Secretary of the Navy Josephus Daniels was the speaker of the day at the program luncheon of the Woman's National Democratic Club, Tuesday, at which Mrs. Emily Newell Blair of Missouri, chairman of the Woman's National Democratic Committee, presided.

Fat Lost

Joy Gained

There are countless people who can tell you an easy, pleasant way to reduce. Perhaps your own friends are among them. There are now so many that excess fat is not nearly so common as it was.

That way is Marmola Prescription Tablets. It is based on many years of scientific research. People have used it for 19 years, and every circle shows the fine results.

Users have shown others, told others the effects. And the use has grown in this way to very large proportions.

Marmola requires no abnormal exercise or diet. One simply takes four tablets daily, to correct the cause of excess fat, until weight comes down to normal. And users find other benefits galore.

You should try Marmola. Any help which has done, for 19 years, what Marmola has done, must be efficient and helpful. That is the way to easy, scientific reduction. Try it, for your own sake—now.

Marmola prescription tablets are sold by all druggists at $1 per box. If your druggist is out, he will get them at once from his jobber.

Are People Stopped By Your Beauty?

Do they remark when turning to look after you, "What a lovely complexion she has?" Or have you a pimply, flaky, freckled skin, which is repugnant to yourself as well as to all who meet you? Do not try to conceal skin defects by using creams and harmful powders. Instead, remove the cause of nearly all complexion imperfections by absorption. This can be accomplished by the application of pure, mercolized wax, which will remove with the lifeless, faded, aged, stained outside skin, such ugly marks, surely, quickly, and harmlessly in just a few days.

Get an ounce from your druggist today, apply like cold cream at night and wash off in the morning. It works like magic, gently removing the dead outer skin (in an unseen manner) and bringing forth the young skin with its full blooded complexion so healthful, radiant and natural. Mercolized wax brings out the hidden beauty.

Beauty at its best

By Edna Wallace Hopper

When a girl writes me that she is in love I always send her a present.

My office makes up a package of my beauty helps in full-size cartons to help her look her best. In this way I am aiding countless girls in their romances. And I love it.

But any girl or woman who simply mails the coupon gets a sample tube of my Youth Cream, some powder tabs and my Beauty Book. And these are showing millions the way to multiplied beauty and to perennial youth.

Remember that I have spent 40 years in searching for the utmost in beauty helps. I have made 35 trips to France. My famous beauty and my continued youth are due largely to these aids. Now I have fixed things so that all women can get them. All toilet counters now supply Edna Wallace Hopper's products exactly as I use them.

My Youth Cream is more than cream. It combines a dozen of the best helps science has discovered for the skin. These include products of both lemon and strawberry, and other of the best helps men have found.

Youth Cream comes in two types—cold cream and vanishing. One is for day, one for night. Never should any woman's face-skin be without them.

Let me send enough to prove this. Watch the new complexion beauties it develops. You will always thank me for placing such a super-cream at your constant call. Clip coupon now. It will bring a revelation.

A Child Doesn't Laugh and Play if Constipated

Look, Mother! Is tongue coated, breath feverish, stomach sour?

"California Fig Syrup" can't harm tender stomach, bowe

A laxative today saves a sick child tomorrow. Children simply will not take the time from play to empty their bowels, which become clogged up with waste, liver gets sluggish, stomach sour.

Look at the tongue, mother! If coated, or your child is listless, cross, feverish, breath bad, restless, doesn't eat heartily, full of cold or has sore throat or any other children's ailment, give a teaspoonful of "California Fig Syrup," then don't worry, because it is perfectly harmless, and in a few hours all this constipation poison, sour bile and ferm ing waste will gently move o the bowels, and you have a w playful child again. A thorough "in side cleansing" is ofttimes all t is necessary. It should be the fi treatment given in any sickness.

Beware of counterfeit fig syr Ask your druggist for a bottle "California Fig Syrup," which h full directions for babies, children all ages and for grown-ups pla printed on the bottle. Look c fully and see that it is made by t "California Fig Syrup Company."

mont avenue entertained Monday afternoon, March 21, with a bridge luncheon in honor of her mother, Mrs. Henry Sturgess of New York City. Mrs. Sturgess expects to return home the latter part of this coming week.

Miss Ruth Frampton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Frampton of Baker avenue, arrived home Friday, March 25, from Bradford Academy, Bradford, Mass., to spend the Spring vacation at home.

Mrs. P. A. Conrath, of Marshall place, entertained Saturday afternoon, March 19, with a bridge luncheon. The guests were members of the Alumnae Chapter, Sigma, Sigma, Sigma.

Mr. and Mrs. T. M. Young of 123 Plant avenue departed Wednesday for a motor trip through Missouri. Mr. and Mrs. Young were accompanied by Mrs. Henry Wellington of Spring Lake, N. J., who has been their house guest for several weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter F. Koken of Jefferson road, gave the third of an informal series of Sunday afternoon teas Sunday, March 20.

Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Orchard, of Baker avenue, were hosts at a bridge party Saturday evening, March 26.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Warren of Elm avenue were hosts at a dinner Saturday evening, March 19, preceding the regular Saturday evening dance at the Algonquin Golf Club.

Mrs. Emile R. Cramer of 527 Greeley avenue has gone to Detroit, Mich., where she will spend several weeks with her daughter, Mrs. John Fagg Reynolds, who before her marriage about a year ago will be remembered as Miss Dorothy Cramer.

Dr. and Mrs. Charles V. Mosby of the Senate Apartments were the hosts at an eight-table bridge party Saturday evening, March 19. Dr. and Mrs. Mosby and their family were residents of Webster Groves until a short time ago.

Mrs. Henry Clay Creveling of Elm avenue returned the first of the week from a short stay in Chicago.

Mrs. George S. Robins of 235 Elm avenue expects to leave the latter part of this week for New York, later going on to Richmond, Va., where she will be the guest of relatives.

Mrs. Mary Blackwell Stevenson of 238 South Elm avenue will present her artist student pupils at an evening recital Thursday, March 31. Other pupils of Mrs. Stevenson will be presented in a recital next Saturday afternoon. At all of these recitals the music being featured is that of Beethoven, in commemoration of the 100th anniversary of his death.

Mrs. J. B. Henkle of West Swon avenue has returned from a 10 days' stay in Chicago.

Mrs. Henry Woods of 435 Jackson road entertained Tuesday afternoon, March 21, with a luncheon in honor of Mrs. Guy Warren of Evanston, Ill., who is the guest of her mother, Mrs. John Fisher of St. Louis. Mrs. Warren before her marriage was Miss Nell Fisher of Webster Groves. Mrs. John S. Dowler of St. Louis also entertained for Mrs. Warren with a luncheon at the "Chimney Corner" Friday afternoon, March 25.

Mr. and Mrs. James Howe are expecting their son, James Howe Jr., home from Harvard early in April to spend the Easter vacation. Mr. Howe, who at this time is in the East on a business trip, will go to Cambridge to spend the week end with his son.

Mrs. Clarence Appel of Elm avenue entertained Saturday afternoon with a bridge luncheon. Mrs. Appel also was the hostess at a bridge tea Tuesday afternoon, March 22.

A number of interesting affairs have been scheduled to take place at the First Congregational Church, for the two weeks before Easter Sunday. The first of these is a sermon by Rabbi Louis Witt of St. Louis, Sunday morning, April 3, who will speak on the subject of "What Jesus Means to a Jew." At the vesper service the same afternoon a quartet of Negroes from the Liberty Congregational Church, St. Louis, will sing. The following Sunday, April 10, at the vesper service a concert of sacred music will be given by the Webster Groves High School Glee Club and orchestra. There will be special music at the services on Good Friday, a cantata, Stevenson's "Easter Eve and Morn," which will be sung for the first time in this vicinity. On Easter Sunday, at the vesper service a pageant entitled, "The Other Wise Man," will be presented under the direction of Mr. Joseph Solari.

Neighborhood House Library to Be Aided

The St. Louis College Club will meet Tuesday. The Civics Committee will be in charge and has arranged for an international book party for the benefit of the Neighborhood House Library. At a tea preceding the program refreshments will be typical of the nationalities represented. Children from the Neighborhood House will entertain with foreign songs and dances. Executive Secretary Wyman of the Park and Playground Association of St. Louis will speak on "The Recreational Needs of St. Louis."

The International Relations Group will discuss the subject, "Training in Desirable Habits and Breaking Undesirable Ones," at 2:30 p. m. tomorrow. Mrs. W. McKim Marriott will open the discussion, and Mrs. Marshall C. Crouch will present the topic in detail. The Fiction and Drama Study Group will meet Friday at 3:30 p. m. Mrs. Carver Forder will read from Sir James Barrie's "Alice Sit-by-the-Fire," and Mrs. Raymond Bond will discuss Lord Dunsany's plays.

Benefit Bridge Party.

Mrs. Louis Goodman, Miss Minnie Goldman, Miss Irene Oscherwitz, Miss Alfreda Fischer and Miss Rose Silverman will be hostesses at a bridge party for the benefit of the kindergarten children's lunch fund, Jerusalem, this afternoon from 2 to 5 o'clock, at Shaare Zedek Center, West End avenue and Page boulevard.

MAGNAVOX SINGLE DIAL Radio Completely Equipped

5-Tube Model

$69.75

Terms as Low as $3.00 Weekly No Interest After Small Deposit

Reasons Which Prove This Great Radio Value

This set is guaranteed both by the Magnavox Company and by Nugents.

It has the new feature which makes Radio Engineering in 1927 a finer art than ever before—the single dial. No manipulating of several dials is necessary to find the station. You simply select your station with a turn of one hand.

The Single Dial—A Great Radio Improvement!

A REVELATION awaits you when you first hear the perfectly tuned Magnavox. These sets are tuned at the factory by a tuning meter that is a thousand times more sensitive than the human ear.

Here's What You Get for Only $69.75

Nothing Else to Buy

1 No. 25 Magnavox Single-Dial Set with Built-In Loud Speaker
1 Westinghouse Rubber Case Storage Battery
5 Cunningham CX-301A Tubes
2 45-Volt Beacon B Batteries
1 4½-Volt C Battery
1 Fleetwood Aerial Kit

No Guessing for Wave Lengths

Turn to the radio program in your paper. Note the wave length in meters of the station, within range, you desire to hear. Turn to that wave length on your single dial. This dial calibrated in actual wave length meters from 200 to 550 meters. It is also calibrated from 0 to 100 as other sets are.

Activities of Women's Clubs

The Art Section of the Wednesday Club, Mrs. Frederick B. Hall, chairman, will discuss "Gardens in St. Louis and Its Environs," Wednesday at 1:30 p. m. Frank C. Thompson will illustrate the beauty of his garden in Webster Groves and Mrs. W. John Harris, the charm of her hardy hill top garden near Fenton, Mo., with pictures. Miss Ellen Brooks Johnson will tell what she has accomplished in her city back yard garden. Mrs. Hermann Von Schrenk will show what is being done to conserve wild flowers of Missouri. Miss Ruth Rumsey has arranged the program for this garden study.

Federation day will be observed at 3 p. m. with a special tea in honor of Mrs. Edith McClure Patterson of Dayton, O., chairman of the Home Financing Department of the General Federation, who will deliver an address on "Budget-Making for the Home" and Mrs. H. C. McCahan, president of the Missouri Federation of Women's Clubs who will speak on "The American Woman and the American Home." Mrs. Ida B. Cole, chairman of the Federation Committee of the Wednesday Club will preside.

The last session of Monday Club of Webster Groves was an open meeting. The president, Mrs. James K. Stribling presided. Mrs. William Stine, chairman, submitted the Nominating Committee's report. The Art Section, Mrs. William Kopfstein, chairman, provided a program — piano selections played by Dorothy Gaynor Blake and a one-act playet, "The Weak Spot," given by Mrs. James Milne, Mrs. E. G. McLagen and Mrs. Harold Newcomb. Refreshments were served by the Hospitality Committee, Mrs. N. S. Smith, chairman.

The Junior Group, Mrs. S. W. Nowlin, chairman, had a program on "Drama and Novels," Tuesday. Mrs. Percy Ludlow reviewed "The Soul of Woman" by Gina Lombroso, and Miss Ruth Ramsey sang, accompanied by Mrs. W. H. H. Schaefer at the piano.

The History and Literature Section will meet at 10:00 a. m. Tuesday. At 2:30 p. m. the educational and current topics sections, Mrs. John A. Nolan, chairman, will meet for a program on "The Missouri Tax System," with Mrs. Floyd Bates, as leader.

The Friday Club was entertained recently at the home of Mrs. W. B. McSorley, 6810 Pershing avenue, with Mrs. Lillie Wilcox as assistant hostess. Federated committee reports were given as follow: Music, Mrs. M. C. Younglove; Applied Education, Mrs. Richard B. Waite; Public Welfare, Mrs. Floyd Bennett. "Women of the United States Prior to 1776," a paper, was read by Mrs. Elizabeth Sherzer. A program of songs by American women composers was given by Mrs. Mabel Pearse Meisenbach, with Mrs. M. C. Younglove at the piano.

The club will meet April 1 at the home of Mrs. H. P. Finigan, 6959 Columbia avenue, with Mrs. Donald McFayden as assistant hostess. It will be the annual meeting, and officers will be elected.

The Tuesday Literary Club of Clayton met at the home of Mrs. Fred Jacobsmeyer, 155 Linden avenue. Mrs. A. W. Indermark, Mrs. Carl Burris and Mrs. J. Hall Lynch discussed the most popular writers of the day. A business meeting preceded the program.

The Carondelet Women's Club met Monday at the Carondelet Branch Library. The president, Mrs. Edward A. Michel, presided. The subject for the evening was "Press and Publicity." Miss Hattie Gooding and Clark McAdams spoke. Mrs. Fred Armstrong, chairman of the Press and Publicity Committee of the Eighth District, and D. R. Fitzpatrick, the cartoonist, were guests of the club. Mrs. Lyda D'Oench Turley had charge of the music. Miss A. Hall sang, accompanied by Mrs. Alice Richeson. Mrs. F. Eversull played a piano solo.

The Delphi Delphian Chapter met Monday in the Carpenter Branch of the Public Library. The third year's work was completed and a general outline of the fourth year's work discussed. "European Nations in the Roman Empire" will be the topic for the meeting April 4.

The club is arranging to participate in the annual luncheon of the Delphian Council at Hotel Chase April 27.

Following the meeting of St. Joseph alumnae last Sunday, Miss Clare McDonald, the president, announced that the annual entertainment in honor of the graduating class would take the form of a theater and dinner party at the Garden Theater early in June. The initiation of the class April 24 will follow the annual commuion at Fontbonne college, Big Bend and Wydown boulevards.

Hugh K. Wagner, a member of St. Louis Tercentenary Shakspeare Society, will deliver the second address on the subject of "The Process of Legislation" before the society on Tuesday, at 2:15 p. m., in Vandervoort Music Hall. At 3 p. m., Miss Grace A. Holmes, a member of Tercentenary Round Table, will give the fourth lesson on "A Midsummer Night's Dream." Acts IV and V will be read. Special attention will be drawn to Titania's Dream, the Awakening; Allaying of Confusion; the Play Within the Play.

The study of "A Midsummer Night's Dream" will be concluded by a recapitulation April 5. Shakspeare's birthday anniversary will be celebrated with a luncheon

Don't Squeeze Blackheads —Dissolve Them

Squeezing out blackheads makes large, ugly pores. The safe and sane way to get rid of these blemishes is to dissolve them. Get two ounces of Calonite powder from your drug store, sprinkle a little on a hot, wet cloth, rub over the blackheads, and every one, big or little, will disappear at once.

Once Is Enough!

"Don't cry over spilt milk!" We all make mistakes — that's the human in us—but we shouldn't make the same one twice.

To worry and fret over a mistake is natural though mind-wracking, but there's no way to undo it.

We can, however, show our desire to right the wrong.

A most laudable accomplishment of any indvidual is an honest acknowledgment of his errors. A satisfied conscience is a sure sign of satisfied mind.

There's always room for improvement in each of us!

The Electro-Magnetic Discovery of Gaylord Wilshire Brings Health to Thousands.

GAYLORD WILSHIRE

Discoverer of the I-ON-A-CO and founder of the famous Wilshire Boulevard of Los Angeles.

The recent invention by Gaylord Wilshire of an electric magnet for accelerating the oxidation of the tissues, is revolutionizing the treatment of disease. If clinical results mean anything, if the unsolicited testimonials of thousands of sufferers can be believed, mankind is standing on the very brink of an era that will be free from many diseases which have afflicted it from the beginning of time.

Tuesday's lecture on Wilshire's I-ON-A-CO will be given by Gaylord Wilshire's representative.

luncheon at the Gatesworth Hotel The president, O. S. Ledman, introduced Dr. Isaac Lippincott, professor of economic resources at Washington University who discussed political democracy. The speaker commented on H. G. Wells' recent article on New Experiments in Government. Walter R. Gerak presented two of his pupils in vocal numbers. Frank Kulla, tenor, and Mrs. Raymond de Groote sang. Mr. Gerak was at the piano.

At the business meeting E. E. Rudolph, chairman of by-laws revision read the new by-laws proposed which will be considered at the April meeting.

The St. Louis Story Tellers' League met March 17. Mrs. H. F. Hoch, vice president, opened the meeting and Mrs. Harold Newcome was in charge of the program which was devoted to the stories of some of the favorite hymns. "The Songs Our Children Sing" was given by Mrs. E. F. Baker. Miss Elizabeth Hall told the story of "Blest Be the Tie That Binds." "Tell Me the Old, Old Story" was told by Miss Gertrude Stewart. Miss Madeline Ginn told, "In the Garden."

An outstanding social event for the members of the Temple Club was a bridge luncheon March 18 at Hotel Chase. Mrs. John Sherman, presided. The club voted to maintain a permanent reserve fund of $100 for the Meramec Hills Training School for Girls in conjunction with Bethel No. 1 Job's Daughters, each organization to share equally the money needed. The club will furnish Easter baskets for the children at the "Shrine" Hospital for Crippled Children.

The Forethought Club met Friday March 18, at the home of Mrs J. T. Garrett, 6225 Westminster place. The book, "The Great Republic," by Edwin Markham, was reviewed. Mrs. Percy B. Brey of San Francisco, was a guest. The club will meet with Mrs. C. B. Hodgman, 5736 Clemens avenue, Friday.

The Musical Research Club will meet at the home of its president, Mrs. Hugo Wiemers, 3508 Vista avenue, Tuesday. Mrs. George Schulte and Mrs. T. Loers will be the assistant hostesses. A paper on "Indian Music," by Mrs. Carl Hoffman, will be followed by a musical program.

The Pioneers met Friday at the Temple Israel House Next Door. The meeting was devoted to the study of psychology in religion. Mrs. Albert Loth of Chicago came to St. Louis to give a paper on Gustav Frennsen's "Hilligenlei." Mrs. Maurice Steinfeld told of George Bernard Shaw's "Joan of Arc," which was followed by a discussion led by Mrs. Norman Wolff on "The Place of Psychology in Religion."

The monthly meeting of the Schira Alumni Association will be held this afternoon at the home of Miss Marie Reinhart. The subject will be "English Composers," presented by Josephine Bowles. Piano selections will be played.

The Webster Groves Peace Council met last at the home of Mrs. O. B. Blanke, 24 Algonquin. The assistant hostesses were Mrs. M. P. McArdle, Mrs. R. A. Roessel and Mrs. Samuel Williams. The speaker of the afternoon was Miss Alves Long, State chairman of International Relations for the Missouri Federation of Women's Clubs.

The Kingshighway W. C. T. U. held its March meeting at the home of Mrs. W. H. Van Matre, 4643 Ashland avenue, Monday, at 2 p. m. Mrs. Mary C. Jarrett presided. The first two chapters of the study was conducted by Mrs. U. T. U. Byrum. A community meeting at the Kingshighway Christian Church will be held Monday evening at 8 o'clock, at which Miss Graccio de Leggo Houlder of Australia will give a stereoptican lecture.

The Minerva Literary Club met last Friday with Mrs. W. B. Stephenson as leader. The program was "Missouri" and roll call was answered by biographies of noted Missourians and their achevievements. Mrs. George Richardson and Mrs. B. A. Hickman gave the history of Mark Twain and Eugene Field with selections from their writings.

The next meeting will be held Friday at the Art Museum to which members will invite guests to hear the lecture which will be given by Miss Mary Powell.

The Earnest Endeavor Club, Missouri Federation of Women's Clubs, met Monday at Town Club with Mrs. Gordon Z. Davis, presiding. The club indorsed Miss Elinor Horton for the School Board.

The junior Hadassah study group will meet at 8 p. m. tomorrow at 5593 Waterman avenue. This group is under the leadership of M. J. Slonim, who is presenting a series of lectures on "Jewish History."

The Cultus Club was entertained Thursday at the home of Mrs. Guy Mason, 4107 Magnolia avenue. The club indorsed Miss Eleanor Horton for election to the School Board. Mrs. E. C. Taylor gave a talk on "Hamlet, the Prince." The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. John Maney, 4143 Russell avenue, April 14. Mrs. Albert Kunz will lecture on "Hamlet and the Queen."

The next meeting of the Literary Alumnae will be held April 2 at the Roosevelt Hotel. The hostesses will be Miss Lucille Hall and Miss Clara Siemer. The program will consist of readings from poems.

2 Minutes for a CLEAR SKIN

A new, youthful flush in the cheeks! Think what that means. Sallowness gone, with the imbedded dust, grime, and oil which dull and deaden the complexion!

KANTOL does it! Not a clay-pack, but a plant-and-flower cream—a skin laxative that makes your face alive! Just rub KANTOL in for two minutes with moistened finger tips. Note the new glow of the complexion. A few treatments lighten dark, muddy faces three to five shades. Try a jar at this low price.

Ill Health the Great Obstacle to the Woman Of Middle Age

"I was suffering with my stomach as well as otherwise when I was advised to take Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription," said Mrs. Nora Drake of 13 S. Clark St., Fort Scott, Kans. "I took several bottles at that time and it gave me complete relief. I have taken it several times since when I have felt rundown, and it always benefited me. It certainly was a great help to me during the trying period of middle life." (Picture above.)

Get the Prescription today from your druggist—liquid or tablets; or send 10c to Dr. Pierce's Invalids' Hotel in Buffalo, N. Y., for trial pkg. of tablets.

HAVE DARK HAIR AND LOOK YOUNG

Grandmother kept her hair beautifully darkened, glossy and attractive with a brew of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Whenever her hair took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect. By asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get a large bottle of this old-time recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, all ready for use, for only 75 cents. This simple mixture can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair.

Well-known druggists say everybody uses Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound now because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied—it's so easy to use, too. You simply dampen a comb or soft brush and draw it through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two it is restored to its natural color and looks glossy, soft and beautiful.

CONROY VALUES ARE ACTUAL

Apartment Size Kohler & Campbell Reproducing Grand Piano

THE sum and substance of all successful merchandising is to give the buyer the most for his money, and to maintain harmonious relations with the patron long after the purchase price is forgotten.

Many generations of Conroys have understood this cardinal principle, which, coupled with the vast and abundant experience that time alone bestows, makes it virtually impossible for you to make a musical mistake when purchasing from Conroys.

Approximately 300,000 Kohler & Campbell Pianos have been made and sold.

Having been offered virtually every American Piano, we have chosen the following manufacturers, along with our own trade names, as the best values in their respective class. "Conroys alone give Conroy values."

"What do I have to pay for a really good Bed Spring?"

NOTE the quivering, sensitive, elastic little coils that link spirals at center as well as at top. Only the Simmons Ace has these. What buoyant ease they give! What luxurious comfort!

"ONE that will give real comfort. One that will last. One that I will not have to replace . . ."

The type of the spring that best meets these requirements is the "open-box," built like a box spring but without the box. Being open instead of boxed, you pay far less for it. The Simmons Company, largest makers of beds, mattresses and springs in the world, have perfected this type in their Ace Spring. The best steel goes into its strong, resilient springs. The open construction is easy to keep clean.

Best of all, its absolute springiness is assured you for a lifetime by the tiny sensitive coils that tie the heavy spirals at the centers—a feature exclusive with Simmons—as well as at the top.

A real investment for lifetime wear, luxurious comfort! See it in any store. The name is on each. Our local branch serves your dealer promptly. The Simmons Company.

FOR PERFECT PERMANENT WAVING

Needs Less Heat than a Marcel

ALTHOUGH the Nestle permanent wave machines cost the hairdresser more than any of the seventeen imitations existing, there are more Nestle machines in use than all others combined. More money is yearly spent at the Nestle laboratories for hair research than by all other laboratories combined. That is why every improvement in permanent waving is a Nestle improvement. The Nestle Circuline Process is by far the most gentle process known. The heat used is actually 100 degrees lower than is required for an ordinary marcel wave. Seven minutes of gentle heating and your wave is complete.

It will be kept in a library room at the Y. M. C. A, provided by a bequest of the late George Warren Brown.

PRIESTS WIN RADIO NOTICE

PARIS, March 26.—France is having its first wireless Lent.

Even staid old Notre Dame, the cathedral of Paris, has gotten into line. Lenten sermons go out by radio from it and other important churches to every part of France.

Wireless, thereby, is making quick national reputations for some of the oratorical priests, whose road to fame and promotion heretofore has been slow and hard. Some of the younger men, with good radio voices and emotional tones, are getting public notice that formerly went to the older, more erudite priests.

Junior Chamber to Hear Riley.

Frank Branch Riley, Oregon lecturer, will deliver an illustrated address, "The Lure of the Great Northwest," at a meeting of Junior Chamber of Comm the Missouri Hotel audi 8:30 p. m. tomorrow. The ing is part of the members for the Junior Chamber. Fifty members have been obtained far. The drive closes April 14.

ART EIGHT. ST. LOUIS, SUNDAY MORNING, MARCH 27, 1927. PAGES 1—16B.

YNDICATE TAKES LONG LEASE ON SITE AT CHESTNUT AND TWELFTH

operty Is Opposite New Court House and Rental Presumably Is Based on Anticipated Increase in Values.

A group of operators headed by Arthur J. Fitzsimmons has ac- d through Cornet & Zeibig a 99-year lease on the northeast er of Twelfth boulevard and Chestnut street, regarded as one of best corners in the Memorial Plaza district.

e property, which belongs to Lucas heirs, has a Twelfth ard frontage of 94 feet and hes, with a depth on Chestnut t of 100 feet. A three-story ding with a nominal rental re- , occupies the site.

No figures were available last by which the basis of the could be computed, but it is stood to anticipate enhance- in ground values incident to ed civic improvements in part of the city.

e corner has excited more ordinary speculative interest to the fact that the new court- will occupy the entire block te from Twelfth boulevard Eleventh street and from Chest- to Market streets.

e Twelfth boulevard frontage e new courthouse block, em- ng the southeast corner of fth and Chestnut, is owned by Leo Moser estate, Mercantile Co. executor, and the north- corner of Twelfth boulevard Market street is owned by the er estate, represented by the antile Trust Co. The city not reached an agreement with the owners of these sites, which are subject to condemnation.

A year ago the southeast corner of Twelfth boulevard and Pine street was taken under an option, which, it is understood, has been forfeited. A hotel was planned in this connection. The site has been cleared.

The southeast corner of Eighteenth and Olive streets is attracting hotel promoters, according to realty circles. Many offers have been submitted for this corner, which is sought chiefly for hotel purposes, it is reported by the Hemmelmann-Spackler Real Estate Co., with which the site has recently been listed. This corner is held at $1500 a foot for the Olive street frontage.

The demand for apartments as well as flats gives promise of being resumed on a rather aggressive basis.

Valuations during the last year have undergone a wholesome readjustment in instances in which there was inflation, with the result that prices that now prevail presumably are attractive to speculators and investors.

As regards activity in St. Louis County, agents are optimistic, according to Charles H. Zeibig of Cornet & Zeibig.

FOUR LEASES HANDLED BY CORNET & ZEIBIG

Borroughs Glass Co., Takes Over Two Anheuser-Busch Buildings.

Many new and unique designs have been incorporated in the building of the houses, and construction includes 13-inch walls, hot-water heat, hardwood floors, full tile bath rooms and built-in features. One of the attractive features of Adele Place is its high location. It is 742 feet above the Mississippi River.

TWO CONCERNS LEASE CUPPLES BLOCK SPACE

Manhattan Electric Supply Co. and Scudders-Gale Grocery Co. to Move There.

The Manhattan Electric Supply Co. of New York and the Scudders-Gale Grocery Co. have acquired long leases of seven-story buildings at the southwest corner of Eighth street and Clark avenue, in the Cupples Block. Isaac T. Cook & Co. in connection with Isaac A. Hedges, manager of the Cupples Station block conducted the negotiations.

The Manhattan company, whose St. Louis quarters was destroyed by fire March 15, has leased the entire seven-story fireproof building, 810 to 818 Clark avenue, comprising more than 40,000 square feet of floor space. The building was recently vacated by the Continental Paper & Bag Mills Co., which closed the warehouse and removed its St. Louis offices to the new Paul Brown building.

The Manhattan company which was at 1106 Pine street for 15 years, moved to temporary quarters at 1122 Pine street the morning after the fire. W. A. Ward, local manager, states that the replacement stocks have arrived and the firm will be doing business as usual in the new location Monday.

The Scudders-Gale Grocery Co. at present at 419 South Twelfth boulevard, will move to the seven-story building at the southwest corner of Eighth street and Clark avenue about April 1. The larger quarters have become necessary to provide for the growth of the concern's business.

WOLF-POLLOCK REALTY FIRM OPENS ITS NEW QUARTERS

The enlarged quarters of the Wolf-Pollack Real Estate Co., 101-03 North Eighth street, were formally thrown open yesterday. Floral pieces banked the new offices, which are among the most attractively situated in realty circles. The firm is composed of Sidney Wolf and Edward A. Pollack.

FACTORIES TRACT DRAWS INDUSTRIES TO MANCHESTER

Four Companies Locate Near Macklind Av. After Mo. Pac. Constructs Spur Track to North.

The 72-acre tract at Macklin and Manchester avenues, owned by the Evens & Howard Fire Brick Co., and for years idle, is in process of rapid industrial development, following the construction of new spur trackage across it by the Missouri Pacific. Four concerns have thus far located their plants on the tract, and it is reported a number of out-of-town firms are negotiating for locations.

The tract under development lies about 1000 feet west of Kingshighway and extends northward from Manchester avenue. It was used originally by the Evens & Howard Co. as a source of top soil clay. No clay has been mined on the property since 1906, its idleness since then being attributed to the absence of switching facilities.

Spurs Thread Property.

When the tract was placed on the market about a year ago, the Missouri Pacific purchased rights of way for switch development. Two spurs now thread the property, one approximately 800 feet in length, the other extending more than half a mile, the full length of the tract. The land has been parceled so that each division has a frontage on one of the railroad spurs, which connect with the Missouri Pacific main line.

The Schurk Iron Co., which bought an acreage fronting on Manchester avenue, has already completed its plant and has begun production. The Morland Roofing Co., located next to the Schurk establishment, has also finished its factory. The Wabash Stone Co. is engaged in the construction of a new factory, which will be ready for occupancy within 30 days. The O. B. Avery Co. is also constructing a plant.

The Manchester section is one of the old industrial developments in the city, but the majority of plants have taken locations to the south of Manchester avenue. Up to the opening of the new tract it was considered this section had reached its peak in development. Now, it is estimated, from 20 to 30 new industrial plants will seek location in the district, in addition to the four already operating or under construction. It is known at least a dozen firms are dickering for land on the new tract, which is being sold by the Mercantile Trust Co., under arrangement with the Evens & Howard Fire Brick Co.

Many Plants to the South.

The plants lying to the south of Manchester avenue, and extending westward from Kingshighway are the Hydraulic Press Brick Co., the Press Brick Co., the Evens & Howard Fire Brick Co., the National Lead Co., the Laclede-Christy Clay Products Co., the Missouri Fire Brick Co. and the Scullin Steel Co. To the north of Manchester, in ad-

KITE-FLYING CONTEST AT CARONDELET PARK

Richard Otto of Woodward School First to Attain Required Altitude.

The sky was the limit in the school kite tournament held under auspices of the Carondelet Branch Y. M. C. A. at Carondelet Park yesterday afternoon, but not many of the 75 boys who had kites entered in the meet found occasion to use more than 100 yards of string.

The wind, telephone wires and the crowded aerial traffic conditions brought a good many of the gaudy entries to grief before they got fairly above the tree tops. Nose dives, side slips and tail spins not on the program occurred with spectacular frequency.

Notwithstanding these mishaps, the contest developed some impressive examples of home kite manufacture and some rare displays of kite flying virtuosity. The spectacle of 50 or more brilliantly colored kites, made in the shapes of animals, birds and ships and sailing high in the sunlight, was a pretty one to see.

Seven Schools in Competition.

The schools which took part in the tournament were Carondelet, Blow, Lyon, Des Peres, Scruggs and Woodward grade schools and Cleveland High School. The contestants were judged for workmanship, originality and neatness of design as evidenced by their kites, and for flying ability as demonstrated by the handling in the field. Scores were kept separately under each of these heads, the holder of the highest average winning the tournament.

Only winners under the various classifications were announced yesterday. The tournament winner will be announced at a meeting of the contestants this week.

Richard Otto, of 622 Bates street, a student at the Woodward school, captured first honors under the heading of flying ability. His manipulation of string was so skillful that his kite was the first to reach the full height of 300 feet. Robert Kueckler, of Cleveland High School, produced the most artistic kite in the class for boys of 14 or over. It was a mammoth varicolored triangular affair elaborately trimmed with fringe.

Kite Like Chinese Junk.

In the class for younger boys, Carl Sullins, 13, of 5611 Minnesota avenue, a pupil at the Blow school, had what the judges said was the best example of kite workmanship, made after the design of a Chinese junk.

Several miniature ships and yachts appeared among the entries. It seemed that taste ran toward marine subjects particularly. There was one entry made up like a dirigible and another gaudy specimen fashioned after a Chinese dragon attracted much attention. Half a dozen or more of the dainty craft failed to survive the struggle. One large butterfly kite especially was too delicate for this world and was quickly whipped to pieces by the wind. Another large box kite was too ponderous and no amount of coaxing could induce it to take the air.

BELLIS REALTY CO. REPORTS SEVERAL RECENT SALES

Milton B. Bellis, president of the Bellis Realty Co., reports the following sales:

Vacant property in 3600 block on Market street, 40 by 140 feet, to Archie H. Parks; 1031 Claytonia Terrace, flat, Fred B. Schmidt to Elmer J. Lewis from Clarence Oetzel; vacant property on Stanford and Hanley roads, 44 by 125 feet, to Carl Richardson.

O'LOUGHLIN REALTY CO. LEASES PARKING LOT ON WALNUT

The O'Loughlin Realty Co. reports leasing a parking lot on the west side of Seventh street at Walnut street for a client to be ready for business in about 30 days. The removal of four buildings has caused some delay in having the property ready. The lot has a frontage of 150 by a depth of 127 feet, and is one of the largest open parking lots in the downtown district. A lot on the south side of the 7200 block on Lindell drive was sold to William Schindele and the adjoining lot to James Goggin for Fannie Nolte.

WEISELS CO. SELLS 2-FAMILY APARTMENT AND RESIDENCE

Henry R. Weisels Co. reports the following sales: The Two-family apartment building, 4467-69 Washington avenue to Mrs. M. Marshall for J. J. Wright, and of the nine-room residence, 6134 Waterman avenue to Hazel Green for Adrian W. Frazier.

The firm also reports having closed loans on improved west end real estate aggregating $220,000.

dition to the four new plants there are four others, the More-Jones Brass and Metal Co., the Highlands Fire Clay Co., the Winkle Terra Cotta Co. and the Mitchell Clay Mfg. Co.

The tract has been opened, it was said, to meet the demand of manufacturers for city locations outside the necessarily higher priced congested districts.

JUDGE GOODE'S ESTATE INVENTORIED AT $277,363

Real Estate Holdings Worth $39,290 and Personal Property $238,073.

An inventory of the estate of former Judge Richard L. Goode, who died March 4 last, was filed in Probate Court yesterday by his widow, Mrs. Estelle M. Goode, 4429 West Pine boulevard, as executrix. The inventory shows nine parcels of real estate in Green County, Mo., principally at Springfield, which are appraised at $39,290, and personal property valued at $238,073, making a total of $277,363. Most of the personal property consists of bonds with a face value of $213,123.32.

In his will Judge Goode bequeathed a life interest in the realty to his widow and divided the residue of the estate among her and two daughters, Mrs. Chauncey H. Clarke and Mrs. T. J. Moss. Judge Goode served both on the Supreme Court and St. Louis Court of Appeals benches and later he had been Dean of the Washington University School of Law. He retired from the latter position last September aftern nine years of service.

KEIFFER DRUG CO. LEASES NEW STORE ON BROADWAY

Martin & Breitt report having negotiated a lease to the Kieffer Drug Co., now located at the northwest corner of Broadway and Franklin avenue. This store has been used as a drug store since 1856. The store which the company has leased is on the east side of Broadway, four doors north of Washington avenue.

The company will install a new front and new and modern fixtures, including a large soda fountain. In addition to selling drugs and kindred merchandise, the drug company also will have a large lunch counter. amuel Keiffer is president of the company.

The lease was made for the account of the trustees of the Franklin Trust. They were represented by the St. Louis Union Trust Co. Martin & Breitt represented the Keiffer Drug Co.

HOBART MANUFACTURING CO. LEASES ON WASHINGTON AV.

The Hobart Manufacturing Co. has closed a long term lease on the first floor store room at 1933 Washington avenue, comprising about 4000 square feet of floor space. S. H. Hicks, manager of the Southwestern District, stated that the large increase in sales forced the company to acquire larger quarters than available at their present location, 904 North Broadway.

The company specializes in the manufacture of electric coffee mills, meat choppers, potato peelers and bakery and candy machinery. It will occupy the new location about April 15. Plans will be made to create one of the finest display rooms for the merchandise in the West.

The lease was made for the account of the Wrought Iron Range Co. and both parties were represented by Martin & Breitt.

SAYS HAITIAN RULER IS AMERICAN PUPPET

Senator King Blames State Department for Exclusion From Republic.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 26.—Senator William H. King (Dem.), Utah, back in the United States today after his unsuccessful attempt to enter Haiti, attributed his exclusion to the attitude of the State Department at Washington.

President Borno notified King, when the latter was in Porto Rico and Santo Domingo, that the Senator was regarded as an "undesirable" and would not be granted access to Haitian territory.

"President Borno has no power but what he gets from the State Department and Gen. John H. Russell, American High Commissioner in Haiti," the Senator said upon his arrival on the army transport St. Mihiel. "He is merely a puppet. If the State Department and Gen. Russell had demanded that I be admitted, President Borno's opposition would have been swept away."

The Senator exhibited a copy of President Borno's order to Gen. J. S. Burrill, American officer in charge of the gendarmerie in Haiti, and copies of correspondence showing that the order to exclude him had been referred to Gen. Russell, the High Commissioner, who in turn had instructed the gendarmerie chief to carry out the orders of Borno. King continued:

"The attitude of the State Department regarding the exclusion incident indicates that it was an effort to keep alive the fiction of Haitian independence. It has served to focus the attention of Americans upon the domination by this Government of Haitian affairs.

"As for the State Department's instructions to Gen. Russell to use his good offices with President Borno to persuade him to allow me to enter Haiti, that was a mere subterfuge."

Senator King said he would renew his fight to have American marines withdrawn from Haiti; if the Haitians were permitted to express themselves, he added, 99 per cent would demand the withdrawal of United States forces.

ODD FELLOWS TAKE OVER $30,000 CHURCH PROPERTY

One of the largest real estate deals last week was the closing of the sale by Kent Jarvis of the property on the northwest corner of Hamilton boulevard and Ridge avenue, known as St. Mary's Episcopal Church property, fronting 164 feet on Hamilton boulevard and 184 feet on Ridge avenue. The improvements consist of a two-story slate-roof brick parish house, which was built a few years ago at a cost of more than $30,000, but the building has not been used for some time.

The property was sold to the Wellston Lodge of Odd Fellows, to be used as a hall after making extensive improvements. As part payment for this property, the Odd Fellows gave their present lodge hall at the southwest corner of Hamilton boulevard and Bartmer avenue, which property was bought by the Odd Fellows some years ago from the Eden Evangelical Church. The property fronts 72 feet on Hamilton boulevard and 110 feet on Bartmer avenue.

REMMERT HOME ON POLO DRIVE ATTRACTS ATTENTION

The house placed on exhibition at 415 Polo drive by the Remmert Construction Co. is attracting many visitors. It is furnished completely and representative of the type of residences this company is now building in this locality. The house has nine rooms with a 110-foot lawn, landscaped with shrubbery and shade trees.

Features of the display dwelling are electric refrigeration, oil burner, incinerator, ventilating fan, hot water heater, especially made crystal prism fixtures, two-car garage in basement and servants' quarters and bath on the third floor.

HOSIERY COMPANY LEASES AMBASSADOR BUILDING SPACE

Cook & Co. have closed a lease with the Dollar Hosiery Co., chain store operators, for a store at 713 Locust street in the new Ambassador Building. The space was planned originally as an entrance to the basement of the building, but the parties contemplating leasing the basement for a high-class restaurant will use the Seventh street entrance.

JOHN W. GIBSON CO. REPORTS SALE OF OLIVE STREET SITE

The John W. Gibson Realty Co. reports the sale of 2930-32 Olive street, lot 50 by 91 feet, about 110 feet east of Garrison avenue, for Miss D. McVey to the Guarlford Realty Co., which intends to erect a two-story building.

This is the second piece of property sold in this block by this company recently.

Denny Road Acreage Sold.

Cornet & Zeibig report the purchase by a client of 16 acres on the Denny road between Clayton and Manchester roads. Numerous inquiries for property in this locality, together with the contemplated widening of Denny road, indicate great activity in the near future.

Civic Union Election Thursday.

The Civic Union, which recently incorporated for the protection of the young from immoral allurements, will elect officers at a luncheon Thursday at the City Club. Prof. Isaac Lippincott, president, the Rev. Prof. Schwitalla S. J., and the Rev. Ivan Lee Holt will speak.

Returns from Vacation.

Edward S. Block, secretary of Henry R. Weisels Co., Inc., has returned to St. Louis from a vacation trip to Biloxi, Miss. and New Orleans.

WEBSTER GROVES
A Charming Residential Community
The natural beauty of the spot—unique and delightful in its character, has a distinct appeal to the discriminating home-seeker. To the stranger looking for a home location, Webster Groves offers many advantages. The Eastern family, especially, moving here, will be attracted by the quiet restfulness, beautiful homes and park-like streets.

Webster Groves is a "home-city," free from the possibility of any encroachment, and its future is clearly established. Here is found every convenience of the city, with all the charm and beauty of the country. There are churches of every denomination, excellent schools and transportation facilities.

Let us show you this beautiful community and you, too, will become a Webster enthusiast. We offer many attractive homes and building sites for sale.

THE FINAL ANALYSIS
In summing up the desirable factors which influences the selection of a home, Gannondale is beyond comparison. It has community development, well planned and executed stylish architecture, no two dwellings alike, honest materials and master workmanship, creating values, resulting in 94% of the homes being sold and occupied by people whom you would like to have for neighbors. Helpful financing can be arranged for you, so that you may live in your home while paying for it. Sum all these advantages up and see the furnished display home at 7570 Stanford Avenue.

MOVIE BOXER KILLED AT DRINKING PARTY

Eddie Diggins Fatally Stabbed in Hollywood Cafe—Lloyd Hamilton Witnesses Death.

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, March 26.—Eddie Diggins, 29 years old, lightweight boxer, was stabbed to death in a free-for-all fight in the dark at the Crescent Club in Hollywood early today.

None of the throng of men and women in the club, which is nothing more than a cafe, could tell police who stabbed the boxer. Few could give similar accounts of what happened after someone tore a leg from a table and battered out the lights.

Charles Meehan, 24, described as a motion picture worker, and Joseph Sempello, chef, were held for further police questioning after they and five others had been in custody for a time. Meehan was under guard at the receiving hospital, where he was taken for treatment for a cut in his head. He was found crumpled in a corner, where he apparently had been felled by a heavy blow.

Lloyd Hamilton, film comedian, was at the side of the dying boxer trying to administer first aid when the lights came on again, Hamilton told police he was in the cafe barroom when the fight started and went to see what was happening. He was released, with Meehan's wife, Irene; James Sinclair, director; Jack Waggoner, also a director, and Joe Karagachi, Japanese kitchen boy, after they had given their versions of the affair.

According to the police, Meehan and his wife met Hamilton, Sinclair and "Billy" Jones, a film stunt man, and Diggins at the cafe. Liquor flowed freely, the officers said. Conflicting stories were told of an alleged insult to Meehan's wife and Diggins' part in the fight that followed. Employes of the cafe were said to have grouped together and started menacingly toward Meehan's table.

Then darkness, hardly pierced by the early daylight, obscured events. Women guests screamed and crowded for exit while men fought. Six unidentified men who were seen to speed away together in an automobile were being sought by police.

Diggins died before he could be taken to a hospital. No trace could be found of the knife which caused his death. The wound was directly over his heart. The boxer was prominent about three years ago in San Francisco ring affairs. He recently had been working in motion pictures as a stunt man.

SEEKS U. S. INQUIRY INTO ALLEGED MOVIE TRUST

President of Indiana Theater Owner Says Independents Are Crowded Out.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 26.—An appeal for an antitrust prosecution against the motion picture producers and distributors of America was laid before the Department of Justice today by Frank J. Rembusch of Indianapolis, president of the Motion Picture Theater Owners of Indiana. Assistant District Attorney Donovan promised an investigation.

"The producers and distributors, by contracts which they enforce upon theater owners, are absolutely monopolizing the industry and preventing the operation in it of independents," Rembusch complained. "I explained to Donovan the contract forms, and pointed out to him the extension which these producing organizations are making into the actual field of theater management. He informed me that the department would have to have positive evidence before proceeding, and assured me that an investigation would be immediately undertaking through Department of Justice agencies to obtain the facts.

B'NAI B'RITH TO SEEK $75,000

Jewish Order to Open Campaign For Funds April 4.

A campaign will begin April 4 to raise $75,000 as the St. Louis quota of a $2,000,000 fund which the Independent Order of B'Nai B'rith, a national Jewish fraternal order, plans to use for cultural and relief activities of the order. The money will go to the Hillel Foundation, the Anti-Defamation League, the Aleph Zadik Aleph (a junior B'nai B'rith), and Garden City, a model home colony in Palestine. Aaron Waldheim is honorary chairman of the St. Louis committee.

COOLIDGE MAY REVIEW FLEET

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 26.—President Coolidge is favorably considering a plan to review the United States fleet off Hampton Roads early in June.

The fleet will be in these waters after the joint maneuvers on the North Atlantic during May. Secretary Wilbur has informed the President of the program and there are indications that Mr. Coolidge may make the trip.

Falls 200 Feet to Snowbank.

By the Associated Press.

BINGHAM, Utah, March 26.—Thrown from a swinging aerial tramway bucket, Glen Higley, 38 years old, a miner, fell 200 feet into a snowbank and will live, hospital attaches said. Higley was going from a mine to the reducing plant of the Utah-Delaware mine when the bucket began swaying and he was pitched head foremost.

FORD SAID TO PLAN CHANGE IN LIFE-LONG POLICY IN THREE-SIDED AUTO WAR

Rumors of Surprises by Independents Also as General Motors Concludes a Billion-Dollar Year.

By the Associated Press.

DETROIT, Mich., March 26.—Definite public announcements are expected soon in the automobile war which is said to involve the Ford organization, General Motors Corporation and the independents. William C. Durant is the only one to break through the screen of secrecy surrounding the rumored war. Durant has announced that he will soon reveal plans that will rival anything in his already surprising career in the motor industry. The most persistent rumor is that he will withdraw from Wall Street and again take an active part in manufacturing with a new low priced car, the product of a combination on which he is reported to have been working for more than a year. Whether the reported combination contemplates a merger of the four factories in which Durant is now interested—the Flint, Durant, Star and Locomobile—with other independent companies, is a matter of speculation. One report is that Continental Motors and several other independent companies will be included in the merger.

Of the numerous plans attributed to the Ford company, one is that it will announce a revised price schedule on the light car it now has on the market, to be followed by the introduction of a new low-priced four-cylinder machine, with an air-cooled motor and changed transmission and later a second new car, an eight-cylinder machine of medium price.

Reported Departure by Ford.

According to rumors, Ford plans to take the field against General Motors and independents with three major types of cars, for the first time in his career in the automobile business. Previously he had been content with the light car field. He would have in the lower priced field the Ford and the rumored new four-cylinder machine; his reported new "eight" in the medium priced class and the Lincoln in the higher priced class.

The General Motors Corporation is expected to stand on its present line of cars. General Motors now has seven passenger machines on the market besides trucks and accessories. Its light car, the Chevrolet, is at present the leading seller in its field previously dominated by Ford. General Motors is understood to take the position that the Chevrolet success is due to cutting in on their competitors' business, not to added demand.

Ford is reported to have been quietly retrenching for the last year and a half and to have piled up an enormous cash reserve. No production figures have been issued during that time and this fact has led to the report that the plants were being altered for the installation of a new line of machinery for the production of new types of cars. The plants have been operating on a part time basis during this reported alteration.

A Billion-Dollar Year.

General Motors has just concluded its record year in which sales of more than $1,000,000,000 were announced with a net profit of $187,000,000.

Most of its plants now are reported running at capacity. The Chevrolet plant at Flint, Mich., last month reported production of more than 90,000 machines and this month is turning out cars at the rate of 4500 a day. The March schedule for the plant calls for 106,000 machines. The plant is working in three shifts.

The Cadillac, Buick, Pontiac and other General Motors plants are said to be at the peak of production also. The new Oakland plant, which has just been completed at Pontiac, Mich., is manufacturing approximately 100 cars a day.

24-HOUR ARMISTICE ORDERED IN CHICAGO'S TONG MURDERS

"Mayor" of Chinatown Gets Telegram From New York Telling Him of Peace Negotiations.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, March 26.—A 24-hour armistice in the Chinese tong war, which has resulted in the killing of three Chinese in Chicago and eight others throughout the country, was arranged today, effective until 8 o'clock tomorrow morning. During that time there is supposed to be no shooting, Frank Moy, "mayor," of Chicago's Chinatown and head of the wealthy On Leong Tong, said.

The armistice followed the receipt of a telegram by Moy from the Chinese National Association in New York, asserting that the association's board of arbitration is seeking to negotiate peace between the Hip Sings and On Leongs.

Wong Lee Woo was identified tonight as one of the men who participated in the killing of Sam Sing here. He was the second Chinese identified as a tong slayer, Moy Get having also been identified.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 26.—The Washington police are holding every Chinese resident within the city limits until they can catch the slayer of Lem Chong, who was shot by a fellow countryman in a restaurant here yesterday.

Hundreds of automobiles leaving town were held up by detectives, who searched them in the hope of capturing the young Chinese who stepped out the restaurant and rode away in a taxicab after the killing.

WINS SUIT FOR SHARE OF CONCERN'S PROFIT

Charles A. Jobes Awarded Judgment of $67,000 Against Elder Mfg. Co.

Circuit Judge Ittner yesterday affirmed a finding made by Referee Seneca N. Taylor awarding judgment of $67,670.25 in favor of Charles A. Jobes of Chicago against the Elder Manufacturing Co., 1207 Washington avenue, a clothing concern. The judgment grows out of a five-year contract alleged to have been entered into in 1916 whereby Jobes was to take charge of 12 departments of the clothing company and to be compensated with one-third of the profits of these departments.

In 1921 Jobes sued the Elder company for his share of the profits accruing between April 1, 1916, and April 1, 1917, and because of the long accounting set forth it was necessary to try the case before a referee, Taylor being appointed for that purpose.

Wins $67,000 Verdict.

The referee recently submitted his report, finding that the profits during the period mentioned amounted to $145,000, to which plaintiff was entitled to one-third.

The report allowed the principal sum, totaling $47,869.75 and interest from the date of demand amounting to $19,810.50. The company then filed exceptions, which Judge Ittned has overruled.

Immediately after the judgment was affirmed yesterday Jobes, through Attorney Edward W. Foristel, filed a similar suit against the Elder company for a total of $288,000, based on profits of the 12 departments for the remaining four years of the contract.

Deductions Claimed.

The suit sets forth that these profits totaled $865,125, in which Jobes claims a one-third share. His contract specified he was to have a drawing account of $7500 a year, to be charged against his commission.

In the case just decided the Elder company denied that it had earned the profits as claimed by the plaintiff. The company made a further defense holding it was entitled to certain deductions, such as bonuses to officers and for Federal income taxes, advertising and various other administration expenses before Jobes' commission was to be computed.

Cuba Seeks Lower Tobacco Duty.

By the Associated Press.

HAVANA, March 26.—Secretary of State Martinez y Ortiz announces the postal treaties with France and Germany will be abrogated unless those countries lower their duties on Cuban tobacco. He declares French and German articles are shipped to Cuba by mail at low duties, while Cuban tobacco entering those countries has to pay high duties.

CAHOKIA VOTES, 58 TO 28, TO INCORPORATE AS VILLAGE

The settlement of Cahokia, four miles south of East St. Louis, which was founded in 1699, yesterday voted, 58 to 28 to incorporate as a village.

At Cahokia the first county seat of what is now St. Clair County was established, and the first courthouse was erected there, but the village was never before incorporated. Cahokia is reputed to be the oldest settlement in the Northwest Territory which was acquired in 1778 as part of the United States.

A previous vote to incorporate was held June 27 last but the proposition failed to carry. The governing body will be a Village Board of six trustees and a president of the board to be elected later.

The new boundaries of the village include two square miles with a population of 261 and 107 qualified voters.

SPRING FLOWER SHOW COMES TO END TODAY

Prizes Awarded — Display at Shaw's Garden Open Until 10 P. M.

The St. Louis Spring Flower Show at Shaw's Garden, from a timid beginning, in three days has blossomed out in a magnificance on a par with the last fall show, which in 1924 attracted 45,000 persons in seven days.

The roses find a peer in the carnations, as great in profusion and greater in beautiful variety. As between the two displays—and the aristocrats of the rose world are there—the carnations excel in delicacy of shade. There are, for example, the clear yellow of the "sunshine" and the infinite gradations of light pink. The "spectrum" is a pink, with an unusual deep salmon undertone which makes it darker than most reds.

One of two new varieties developed by St. Louis growers, but not yet named, is also a deep pink, with undertones of creamy old rose. The other St. Louis hybrid is a white of extraordinarily large blossom. With them is exhibited the pink "Winter Beauty," for the stock of which a St. Louis grower paid several thousand dollars. It is beginning this year to be distributed in large numbers.

Of course, the roses are not bereft of subtilty while there are still yellow Ward and "Butterfly" roses. Naturally these favorites were prize winners in corsages, and they ranked high in the competition for luncheon table-pieces.

Ward roses and the usual lilies of the valley took the blue ribbon for a corsage without orchids; darker Wards figured in the second prize winner, and butterfly roses in the third.

Deep mauve with a dusky wine lip and white with a golden lip took first among the orchid corsages; a mostly white but red-flaced orchid took second, and the wine-lipped mauves alone took third. None was of the sort ordinarily obtainable.

Simplicity and blue delphinum set the motif for the winning table decoration. Orchid sweet peas and an orderly variety won second prize, and pink sweet peas with lilies of the valley won third. Ferns for sorsage as well as table, were chiefly maidenhair. Gardenias were the favored place-flower.

Today a $250 cup offered by Shaw's Garden is to be awarded for the best display in the four-day show. Shoulder bouquets, of more interest now than the corsages, are in competition today, as are dinner table decorations for 10, artistic arrangements of 100 carnations, sweet peas and novelty arrangements of any flower.

The Vandeventer car and Lindenwood bus lines pass the garden, which will be open from 10 a. m. until 10 p. m. today.

TRIBUTES PAID BEETHOVEN IN VIENNA, PARIS, BERLIN

All Europe United in Observance of Great Composer's Death.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, March 26.—All Europe today paid tribute to the great composer, Ludwig Van Beethoven, on the centenary of his death.

Probably the most elaborate celebration was held in Vienna, where the composer lived and is buried. Germany observed the anniversary throughout, but particularly in Berlin and Beethoven's native city of Bonn, where a "Beethoven" archive" of manuscripts and other relics of the composer was dedicated.

Special services were held here in the Madeleine Church, Cardinal Dubois officiating. The conservatory orchestra was present and played the "Mass in D," with Philippe Gaubert conducting. For months Beethoven's compositions have been featured in French programs.

Former Premier Herriot was sent to Vienna by the French Government "to salute Beethoven in the name of France" at today's exercises. Pietro Mascagni represented Italy.

ALLIGATOR MAKES HIT AT BOY SCOUT CIRCUS

Awards Made to Troops Before Packed House at the Coliseum.

Six thousand Boy Scouts gave the second performance of their annual circus at the Coliseum before a packed house last night. The show differed from the Friday night performance by one alligator.

It was an alligator about a foot and a half long, and it almost crabbed the act of the trained dog and the elephant that wears two pairs of shoes. It basked in the spotlight and took all the applause. Both the elephant and the trained dog had to make second appearances in order to get their share of approval.

The alligator, named Osceola is the property of Deputy Scout Commissioner D. M. Miller, and was led around the circus ring last night by 13-year-old Robert Collins of Troop 130. Osceola crawled rapidly across the board flooring, stopped suddenly, lifted his head, made a bow, then did more crawling.

The well-trained dog with its fine shaggy white fur, jumped through the hoop held by its master, and the elephant that wears two pairs of leather shoes, did the dangerous kneeling stunt over the prostrate Hindu. But Osceola was the center of attraction until carried off squirming by the delighted, though slightly embarrassed, Robert.

Chief Scout Executive James E. West, of New York City, again reviewed the circus.

The special award for troops meeting the quota of new members was the President Harding streamer for their flag standards. The other award was the coup stick, given to each troop that met its achievement objective.

Coup sticks decked with eagle feathers, were given to the following: North district, Troops 3, 19, 22, 29, 33, 40, 42, 47, 53, 65, 75, 84, 88, 99, 103, 122, 129, 130, 147, 151, 161, 191, 199, 202, 207, 222; West district, Troops 2, 5, 6, 14, 17, 20, 21, 30, 35, 44, 54, 59, 71, 90, 101, 110; South district, Troops 5, 6, 8, 24, 34, 38, 63, 66, 77, 81, 118, 143, 155, 160, 178, 180, 183, 185, 194, 198, 214, 217, 227, 247, 250, 225; Richmond Heights, Troops 1 and 17; Webster Groves, Troops 1, 3, 5, 6, 8, 9, 10 and 13; Overland, Troop 1; St. Charles, Troop 3; Kirkwood, Troop 2.

The majority of troops winning the coup stick also received the President Harding streamer. The awards were made personally by Commissioner H. D. McBride.

INJURED WHEN SCAFFOLD FALLS

Thomas Ownby, 59, City Bridge Painter, Suffers Skull Fracture.

Thomas Ownby, 59 years old, a painter in the City Bridge Department, was seriously hurt at noon yesterday when an overhead scaffold, on which he was working at the Alabama avenue bridge, over River des Peres, was knocked down by a truck.

Arthur J. Reinhold of Kimmswick tried to drive under the scaffolding. The truck was piled high with furniture and a bench on the top caught the scaffold. Ownby fell to the pavement, suffering fractures of the skull and ribs. Reinhold was arrested.

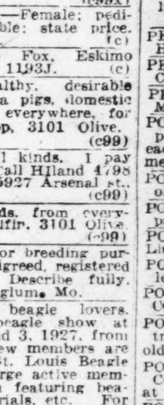
Now! 2 Weeks Old Chicks —100% Live Delivery



Again Missouri's Pioneer Hatchery leads the world in service to the poultry raiser. To relieve you of the biggest losses in poultry raising, I am going to send you two-week-old chicks—guaranteed 100% live delivery. These big, husky, Missouri-bred chicks will mature quickly for you—will cut down your chick losses—will increase your cash profits this year. All these chicks will be from Missouri Accredited flocks—all at least two weeks old. They have the big start—they are past the danger period where 90% of early chick losses occur—and they are fed and cared for by the expressman, enroute to you.

ShinnChicks Are Better ThatsWhat 10,000Chick Buyers Say

Reports like these are absolute proof that our chicks are egg-bred. Mrs. G. A. Switzer writes "My 590 pullets hatched from Shinn Hatched Chicks laid $400.00 worth of eggs from November 15 to December 15." Another says, "Your chicks are as good as those costing 70c each." Another says, "Raised 98 out of 100." another says, "I bought 1000 of your 10-cent chicks and 1000 chicks costing 20 cents from another man, the best breeder in our state, and yours won out on every point. To date they have laid just 24 9-16 per cent better than his." Chicks as low as $8.80 hundred and as many as you want. Catalog Free.

When the American-Trained Sulu Princess Went Native

Tarhata Had Dreams of Restoring the "Freedom" of Her People, So She Married a Rebel Chief and Defied the U. S. Arms.

The Sultan of Sulu.

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine

MANILA, Philippine Islands.

TARHATA is a Sulu Princess. She lives in Jolo, capital of the Sulu Archipelago, down in the southwest corner of the Philippines—out yonder in the romantic South Seas, where Melville, O'Brien and the rest dug up the rough quartz of what they made into brilliant fiction. But Tarhata's story is just a plain, drab tale of truth, though still romantic.

It made little Tarhata a fugitive in the jungle. It broke her young heart. Maybe it even destroyed her faith in big America. Maybe. She is Oriental, and reticent; she will keep her own counsel.

Tarhata is a Princess in her very early twenties, just a slip of a girl. The accurate traditions of Tarhata's people, the Suluanos, go back into India, the home of Sanskrit; and from India into Arabia, to Mecca, home of the Prophet. For though the Suluanos are Mohammedans, when they came into Sulu they were Hindus.

They were, in olden times, pirate kings of the trade routes of the East, with a wide domain acknowledging vassalage and paying them tribute. But the sun has set on that great day.

That day was long, long before Tarhata was born. As it would not come back—anyway, she didn't wish it back—she prepared for the present day by dolling up with an American university education. And then what should happen but a mean trick of fate, to ruin all the hopes from the university education and send Tarhata, with a vengeance, back to the tribe.

THAT'S the drab story. Nevertheless, the tables may turn and Tarhata, not long hence, may be Her Majesty, Sultaness of Sulu, with hundreds of thousands of brave and loyal subjects, her own people. If she snaps her pretty little fingers, as any time she may snap them, these people will die for her. That she knows, even if the United States doesn't.

The truth is that the United States could know more than it really does, could know a great deal more, without the knowledge doing the least harm, about Oriental peoples—and specifically about Tarhata's people, the Suluanos. When a people have traditions thousands of years old, they treasure them. That, in fact, is why they have them. America has, half unwittingly, been trampling upon Sulu's old traditions in her treatment of Tarhata.

That's part of the story.

The beginning of the story goes back only a little way, just to 1881, when a new Sultan was to be put upon the Sulu throne at Jolo. The old Sultan had died. He had been a remarkable ruler. Without army or navy he had held proud Spain at bay and compelled recognition of his sovereignty over Sulu. Her regiments he had cut to pieces, and then her gunboats ruined his coasts, destroying every house, but not conquering one inch of territory except two little fortified ports, Jolo and Siasi. Even in Jolo and Siasi, Sulu law was the law, too; so, altogether, Spain was quite defeated.

Spain made some treaties with the Sultan and quit the game—treaties in 1871 and 1878, before our story begins.

But here the Sultan was, dead. Who should succeed him?

Spain, with protectorate rights, said that a certain chieftain of Palawan should succeed. Two chieftains of Eastern Sulu had a different candidate.

Tarhata's grandmother—who at that time was just a young, willful, royal-blooded girl, like Tarhata now is—said: "No, neither of them shall be Sultan of Sulu. My own son, boy that he is, shall be our Sultan, according to his lawful right. Jamalul shall be Sultan, and I will be the regent."

In Southern Jolo, the ancient royal seat, the people rallied round Tarhata's grandmother. There she swore them on the Koran to yield obedience and allegiance to none but Jamalul.

SO THERE the Spanish regiments came, one day, and the gunboats, too. They shot up the place, then burned it. But they didn't burn Tarhata's grandmother nor Jamalul, who, with their partisans, went away into the jungle; and they didn't burn out the idea which had been lodged in the minds of the people. There it was, and fire couldn't touch it.

Bullets had no effect upon it. When they killed ten Suluanos, while Suluanos killed but one Spaniard, or one Christian Malay, in the Spanish regiments, the idea still eluded them. It grew and grew, and spread among the people more and more, for Sulu law supported the Princess and her son, Jamalul. Not all the Sulu laws are admirable, though many of them are very admirable indeed; and the Suluanos are a law-abiding people.

After 10 years the Spaniards gave it up. Tarhata's grandmother was too much for them—she and Sulu law together. So, the Sultan whom the Spaniards had installed at Jolo had to get off the throne and go back to Palawan. Jamalul became Sultan, and is Sultan today—the same character around whom George Ade wrote the comic opera, "The Sultan of Sulu."

The two chieftains of Eastern Sulu were still fighting for their candidate, but finally they met defeat, as the Spaniards had done. Then the contest of 10 years was over, quite over, and Sulu was united once more.

This was in 1894, and four years later the Americans went to the Philippines, where, in 1899, they reached Sulu. They made a treaty with the Sultan, and upon this agreement and its assurances the Suluanos recognized over their realm the general sovereignty of the people of the United States, for the laws and traditions of Sulu were to be respected, even as to polygamy and a mild form of slavery, for which slavery isn't the word, but only the translation unfortunately used. Americans, of course, had no knowledge of Arabic, and everything had to be translated. The Sultan knew no English.

The agreement didn't last long. The United States couldn't keep it, for the Senate wouldn't approve it. The President only approved it conditionally, and instead of genuine approval the Suluanos had to depend just upon occasional assurances from officials temporarily representing the United States. The intentions of these officials were good, and they all respected the Suluanos; but the United States is a will-o'-the-wisp in state matters unless bound by treaty.

IN 1904 the Suluanos were told that the United States would have nothing more to do with the agreement. A new agreement would be made. Under it the Sultan would have no temporal power, which would be lodged elsewhere, but would have spiritual power, for he would be the formally recognized head of the Mohammedan church in the Philippines. He would also have an annual pension, and a grant of land; he and the chief datus, or principal chiefs. The Senate didn't have anything to do with this, only the Philippine Commission. American officials. This went along until 1915, when an agreement was made, because the Suluanos were perversely remembering the first agreement all the time, and basing their action on it.

The agreement of 1915, made by the Philippine Government, abrogated the agreement of 1899 and made it a scrap of paper. From dealing with the United States, Suluanos had come, in 16 years, to dealing with the Filipino Government in Manila, only through an American agent. The Government in Manila is, of course, an agency of the United States, but it does quite as it pleases, because Congress doesn't pay attention; so in Sulu it is not to be distinguished from a really independent government, and it looked passing strange to Suluanos to be dealing with men whose fathers were vassals of Sulu, and who, themselves, have never triumphed over Sulu.

Years ago, when little Tarhata was a pupil in the school for Princesses in quaint old Zamboanga, she used to think of these things, and ponder on how rapidly her people were being degraded. It was after her grandmother had died, and her weak uncle, the Sultan, could do nothing to stem the bitter tide.

"When I'm a woman grown," she thought, and told her American friends, whose sympathies she had, "I shall work for my people's redemption. The agreement must be kept. It is all right for us to have American sovereignty. We have agreed to that and we like Americans. But it isn't all right for us to be bossed by these people from Manila, judged by them, condemned by them, imprisoned by them, and all in accordance with their laws, not ours."

From the school in Zamboanga she went to an academy in Manila, then to the University of Illinois, where she was a pal of Carmen Aguinaldo, General Emilio Aguinaldo's daughter. Already her charm had made many conquests; even Americans had been among her proud suitors. She returned to the islands, prettier than ever. She was more irresistible. She had the bold manner and audacious banter of a very intelligent co-ed; her dark hair was bobbed in fashion and her short skirts revealed more than the Moorish trousers had of her queenly figure.

HOWEVER, she kept away from alliances. She returned to Jolo and began laying plans for her people's redemption. In Illinois her faith in America had grown stronger. America meant to her the friends she had made, and they were many.

Then fate stepped in. Tarhata's plans were not approved. It got noised about Jolo that she was, after all, persona non grata with officialdom, and the task for her was to teach school! She should just teach school, under a Christian principal, like her sisters—she, the nearest heir to the Sulu throne. The life and the confined ambitions of a schoolma'am for Princess Tarhata: That is what America, through the government at Manila, offered this proud blue-blood of the South Seas upon her return to her people.

She really tried the teaching, just to be agreeable, but it meant just surrender—round-shouldered submission for herself, and death to her people.

So she stopped teaching.

Instead of teaching, she began new plans. She had a hand to give, if not a heart—which would always be her people's. Among her admirers was a chieftain by the name of Tahil. He had been in trouble with Gen. Pershing at Bagsak in 1913, but was free upon good behavior. He was, besides, the son of a powerful chieftain in Eastern Sulu. Tarhata could effect a union of her southern people and Tahil's easterners by a union with him. She did, and bore him a child.

When the Sultan dies, one of these days, who will succeed him? Who should? Princess Tarhata, to be sure! The Princess who loves America, who doesn't turn up her royal Arabic nose at democratic America, and who expects America, some day, somehow, to redeem all pledges to her people. There are rival Princesses, in favor with the old Sultan just now, who don't think so much of America. But how will they count, in the end, when Tarhata commands the east and the south, the two ancient seats of power?

This is how Tarhata went back to the tribe with a vengeance, as is said here in Manila. She went back with a purpose in her wise little head.

But the immediate consequences have been dreadful to her. The consort, Tahil, was removed from office. This made him retire from Jolo and sulk in his stronghold, where his people drew around him. Tarhata went with him, too; it would have been poor statesmanship not to go, and she is not a poor anything.

Then the soldiers surrounded Tahil's stronghold, bringing up Stokes mortars and getting tear-bombs ready. Then, after a while, when the parleying failed to make Tarhata desert, the fighting began. Thirty-five Mohammedans paid the price of loyalty to Tarhata and Tahil with their lives, and six of them were women.

None of the soldiers was even wounded; they fired long before the Mohammedans could reach them with their krises and kampilans, or the story might be different in this detail. Tarhata and Tahil got out of the stronghold and took refuge in the jungle of Mount Maligny, where the soldiers hunted them down remorselessly. Tarhata, the young Princess-mother, was ill. The soldiers found her first, and brought her back to Jolo under guard. Then Tahil was arrested and brought back.

THERE the tale ends, to begin again when Tarhata is better understood and the question of a successor to Sultan Jamalul arises. He is now nearly 60 and has lived a fast life, during which he has burned the candle at both ends and fired it in the middle. Tarhata can wait, but no doubt, with her naturally keen sensibilities, edged by her university education, she dislikes the newspaper remarks about her going back to the tribe, her consort being a coward and unfaithful. She regards it as just idle, misleading propaganda to prejudice her case before the people of the United States and Manila. As for Tahil, she sees in him the chieftain of the Eastern Sulu people, in a position of traditional leadership. As for her affections, they are those of a Princess, with a throne in mind.

As determined as ever is Princess Tarhata, according to a recent interview with her reported by Elizabeth Walker, Chicago newspaper woman. Miss Walker says she asked:

"How could you come back from those nice college boys and marry a no-account chieftain, file your teeth and chew betel nut?" And that the Princess replied:

"If I am to become a power among my own people and justify all that has been done for me, I must adopt their ways. I must be as like them as I can. You see, I want to help them regain some of what they've lost since America took their bolos and barongs away and put our ancient enemies, the Filipinos, over us. And as for Tahil—well, I love him."

Such were the closing words of the interview, according to Miss Walker, who reports that the conversation started with these remarks from Tarhata:

"Oh, you're from America. What is everybody over there doing now? Are they drinking as much as ever? Do the women still smoke? Are Loeb and Leopold out?" Tarhata paused, says Miss Walker, then asked:

"And, tell me, is Red Grange married yet?"

WASN'T it queer, though—the only Princess heir to a throne under the United States' sovereignty, and the only one educated in America, just a young mother, too, with a family tree branching over Mecca's spring, chased as a fugitive through the Jolo jungle by hireling riflemen armed from a United States arsenal and commanded, up topside, by American officers? Surely, even lurid fiction can't beat this. By day, it was necessary to lay hidden. By night, warming fires could not be lighted. Tarhata had this dashing romance for a week, until her fragile strength gave out.

Then she gave up; she had to. "You've got me," she said. "What are you going to do with me?"

That is no doubt what all Sulu would like to know. Some day the question must be answered, and a job at teaching school is hardly the answer.

The Colonel, it is said, won both engagements. According to testimony, then, the lad's record, at least as far as his family is concerned, is three complete victories.

WE NOW turn back the pages to the years before the Colonel was fifty-five, 200 pounds ringside and worth more than a million dollars; to the days when Campbell Carrington was not 52 and worth more than a million dollars; to the days before Mrs. Carrington was around 40 and engaged in legal and physical combat with the Colonel.

The Carringtons are an old Maryland family, which, of course, is nothing unusual, as all Maryland families are old. The Carringtons, however, are supposed to be especially old. Edward Codrington and Campbell Carrington were not far apart in years. They were always great friends, such great friends that it is said only with difficulty did they convince strangers they were brothers. After becoming full-fledged barristers, the Carrington boys started to practice. But it wasn't many years before they drifted into business; they began buying up corporations, refinancing them, resurrecting them, reorganizing them, and in the general rehabilitation adding greatly to their personal coffers. In the meantime, they had got married, but neither marriage was particularly stable. Both were married for some years, both had children, both were divorced. They left Maryland behind and journeyed to New York, there to make their homes.

But through marriage, parenthood, corporate law, the absorption of corporations and the desertion of Maryland for New York, the Carrington boys remained fast to each other. Where one Carrington prospered so did the other; as one Carrington's fortune went over the million mark, so did that of the brother.

They dabbled in politics. In 1911 Edward Codrington obtained the title of Colonel through the beneficence of the then Governor of Maryland, who appointed him to that position on his staff. 2 Brothers Battle Over 1 Wife

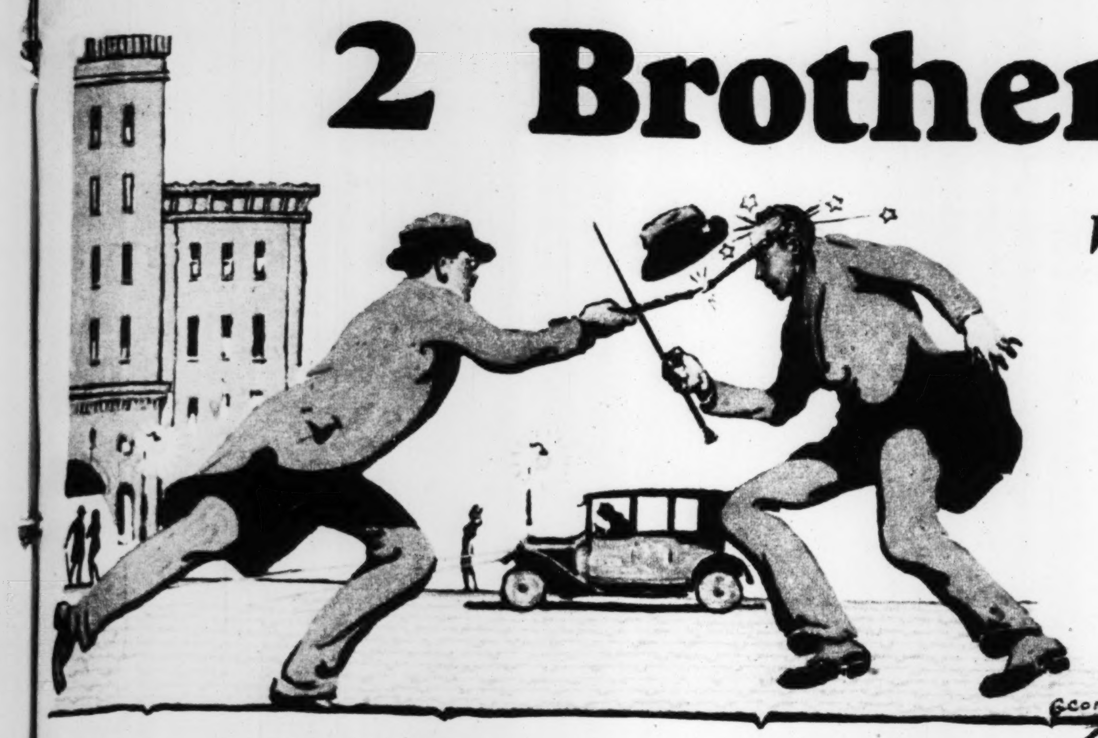
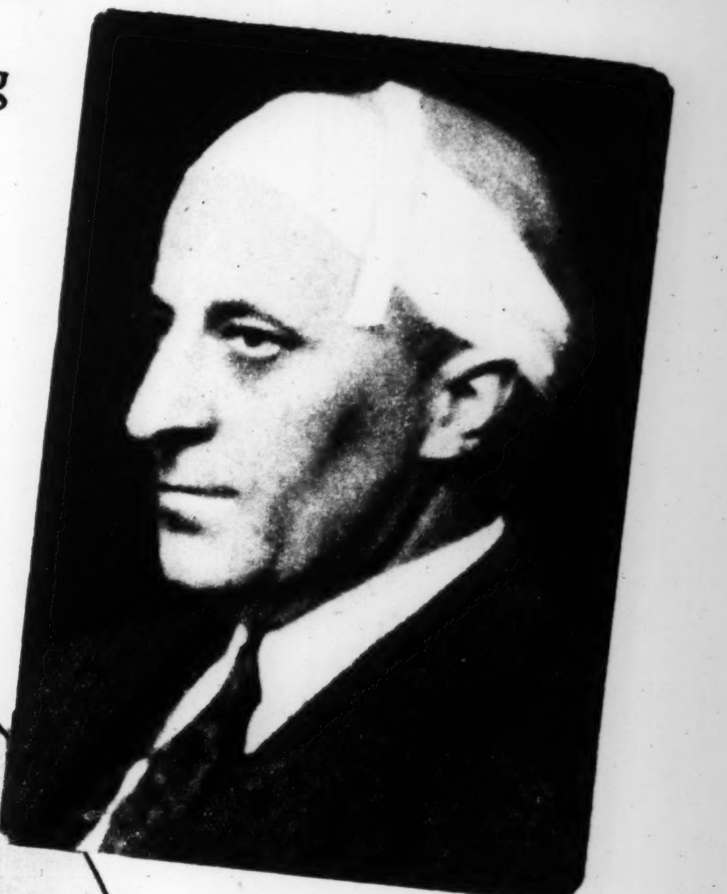
Why the Hot-Blooded Carringtons Staged a Jousting Match on the Sidewalks of New York.



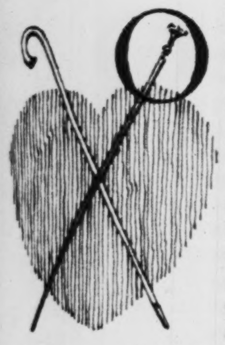


Campbell Carrington, after the battle.

Mrs. Edward C. Carrington, the cause of the row.

By JULIUS KLEIMANN

Of the Post-Dispatch Staff



CHICAGO, Illinois.

ONE would hardly think that a gentleman from Maryland named Colonel Edward Codrington Carrington would biff his brother over the head with a walking stick, but that is what he did. Furthermore, he plied his cane so lustily, with such precision and with such a medieval nicety that they carted the brother off to the hospital, where it was found necessary to take six stitches in the gentleman's scalp and prescribe, in the interest of his wellbeing, quietude and rest.

Let it be stated in justice to Colonel Carrington that he was convinced that he had every right to belabor his relative with the instrument usually used as a social appendage, but, in this instance, coming very neatly into play as a weapon: Colonel Carrington insists that his brother, Campbell, has alienated the affections of the Colonel's wife.

At the same time, in justice to Campbell Carrington, let it be stated that he is convinced that his brother had no right at all to use his head as a target; that Campbell denies he in any way has altered the feelings of the Colonel's lady for her husband, and that it is his opinion the Colonel, his brother, isn't quite as sound mentally as he might be, and it would be advisable to place him in an institution where he would not be allowed to carry a walking stick for any purpose.

The Colonel's unpopularity does not cease with his brother. It extends to the Colonel's wife. It reaches to the Colonel's wife's daughter. And both of these ladies are quite willing to announce that Edward Codrington Carrington did on or about a certain date make for them in a manner which they considered pugnacious and were sure of a moment or so later when the gentleman from Maryland came into contact with them. The Colonel, it is said, won both engagements. According to testimony, then, the lad's record, at least as far as his family is concerned, is three complete victories.

WE NOW turn back the pages to the years before the Colonel was fifty-five, 200 pounds ringside and worth more than a million dollars; to the days when Campbell Carrington was not 52 and worth more than a million dollars; to the days before Mrs. Carrington was around 40 and engaged in legal and physical combat with the Colonel.

Col. Edward Codrington Carrington.

The Carringtons are an old Maryland family, which, of course, is nothing unusual, as all Maryland families are old. The Carringtons, however, are supposed to be especially old. Perhaps something like the families of Vermont, which are so old that the very babies are born old, and having said everything they had to say years before they came to this earth, remain mute the rest of their lives. Only the Carringtons don't remain mute.

Edward Codrington and Campbell Carrington were not far apart in years. They were always great friends, such great friends that it is said only with difficulty did they convince strangers they were brothers. As boys they gamboled upon the greens of the Maryland Free State and undoubtedly, if they were good Marylanders, a little later they gambled about Havre de Grace and Pimlico. They both studied law. Friends of Edward Codrington inform me that he was always the brains of the pair; friends of Campbell inform me that he was always the brains of the pair; the decision is a draw.

After becoming full-fledged barristers, the Carrington boys started to practice. But it wasn't many years before they drifted into business; they began buying up corporations, refinancing them, resurrecting them, reorganizing them, and in the general rehabilitation adding greatly to their personal coffers. In the meantime, they had got married, but neither marriage was particularly stable. Both were married for some years, both had children, both were divorced. They left Maryland behind and journeyed to New York, there to make their homes.

But through marriage, parenthood, corporate law, the absorption of corporations and the desertion of Maryland for New York, the Carrington boys remained fast to each other. Where one Carrington prospered so did the other; as one Carrington's fortune went over the million mark, so did that of the brother.

They dabbled in politics. In 1911 Edward Codrington obtained the title of Colonel through the beneficence of the then Governor of Maryland, who appointed him to that position on his staff. He was Maryland manager for Roosevelt in the Bull Moose campaign of 1912. It will be remembered that campaign resulted in no appointments of Bull Moosers to Cabinet positions. In 1914 the Colonel ran for Senator of Maryland on the regular Republican ticket. His effort was fruitless. He became a director of the J. B. Lyon Company, which manufactures tooth paste, and in that way did his bit to prevent you from becoming one of the four of the quota of five. He became a high officer in other large syndicates and corporations. He, with some others, bought up the Encyclopedia Americana Corporation. It is said the Colonel owns 50 per cent of the stock of the Encyclopedia Americana. The Colonel's interest in becoming a stockholder in this corporation was in no way influenced by his love for the literary; it was purely a business deal as far as the Colonel was concerned.

Nor had Campbell stagnated. Campbell has a lusty list of business degrees following his name. He is a director of the Combusto Devices Corporation, whatever that may be, and considering his recent public relations he should more than feel at home in this corporation's plant. He, too, is in the Encyclopedia Americana Corporation, and a director in the Pennsylvania Globe Street Lighting Company and the Welsbach Street Lighting Company; he is vice president and treasurer of J. B. Lyon, tooth paste concocters, etc., etc. It is related he has much influence with the political gentry of the State of New York.

NOW, in the old city of Philadelphia lived Mrs. Anna Snyder. She had a husband, Clarence Snyder, an artist, and two daughters, Eleanor and Evelyn. But it seems that not a great deal of love was lost between the artist and his wife; life for them was not so smooth; Mrs. Snyder and her husband were divorced.

It was some time in about 1919 that the Brothers Carrington met Mrs. Snyder. Both gentlemen were impressed. Both gentlemen began to court her. It got to be a race, Carrington versus Carrington. Both asked the lady for her hand. At last she decided. Colonel Edward Codrington Carrington was the victor!

In August, 1920, Mrs. Anna Snyder that was became Mrs. Edward Codrington Carrington.

For a time the Colonel and his bride lived, as far as is known, a life devoid of conflict. The Colonel sent his lady's two daughters to finishing schools. He helped support her mother, say his allies. Life with the Colonel Carringtons moved along without the need of a traffic officer to direct it.

Whereupon we arrive at that point in the history of the Maryland Carringtons where the enemy camps do not at all agree upon just what happened and why.

NOW, we do know this. Both sides admit it. In July, 1923, Brother Campbell wrote a letter to his sister-in-law, i. e., Mrs. Edward Codrington Carrington, and the letter fell into the hands of none other than the Colonel. Among information relating to business and other matters, this is what the Colonel read in that letter:

"Darling: I certainly was relieved to get your special delivery letter yesterday, as I get blue and worried when I don't hear from you. . . .

"You see, I think of you and plan for your welfare and happiness. If you do leave me alone to rot for months at a time—but I think you still love me and are true to me, otherwise my plans would be just opposite to what they are. . . .

"I would give anything darling to have you in my arms and hold you real tight. I am terribly hungry for you, and it seems like you have been away from me for years. Are you going to arrange in some way to see me when I get back or are you satisfied to go on without me?

"All my love and a million kisses."

That is the letter the Colonel found, and the Colonel was not pleased.

THE Colonel's board of strategy contends this letter is good evidence that Brother Campbell Carrington had more than an ordinary brother-in-law-like feeling for Brother Edward Codrington's wife. The lieutenants of the Colonel's lady and Brother Campbell insist, however, that the letter means nothing at all. Campbell, they say, was doing nothing more than writing a friendly note to a lady he respected and admired, who was, besides, his sister-in-law.

Anyhow, the Colonel was highly displeased. And, anyhow, life in the Carrington home got more and more unpleasant.

On September 5, 1924, relates Mrs. Carrington, the Colonel's treatment became "cruel and abusive." He did, she says, strike, pinch, kick and otherwise cruelly abuse and mistreat her, in addition to which his langauge was hardly what it should have been, or perhaps it was more so.

Then, continues the lady, on March 16, 1926, the Colonel struck her in the eyes, on the head and on the neck and knocked her unconscious. It is said that Mrs. Carrington once crossed blows with the Colonel, when he is said to have gone after her, and gave him two or three quite lusty wallops before she succumbed to his more accomplished technique.

And on one occasion, Eleanor Snyder contends, she, rushing to the defense of her mother, was in turn exposed to the Colonel's concrete pugnacity. She was defeated, she says. It is told that in one encounter with Mrs. Carrington the Colonel brought his walking stick into play and that he also is supposed to have found it useful in the skirmish he is supposed to have had with Miss Snyder. That stick, the story goes, is the same one he used on Brother Campbell.

Well, whether there was a battle in New York on March 16, 1926, or not, after that time the Colonel and his lady no longer lived under the same roof. I am told the Colonel drifted about the country, here and there and almost everywhere. He went hunting in the South, it is said, and then he journeyed to other places. But finally he landed in Chicago. In Chicago, on October 6 of last year, he filed suit for divorce from the lady he had won once upon a time from Brother Campbell, but whom, according to the Colonel, Brother Campbell had won from him in a return match which the Colonel had not granted.

The Colonel said many things in his divorce petition. That his wife had deserted him two years before, without cause, and had persisted in that desertion. That his average income for the last two years had been $12,349.48 each year, which was getting it pretty exact. That until 1923 his income had been large, but discovering his wife and his brother were entirely too friendly, a large and prosperous business between them was dissolved. That he had always supported his wife and her mother, and had sent his wife's two daughters to expensive, fashionable and exclusive schools. That he had not ceased supporting his wife since her desertion, and that he had asked her to go to Europe, and asked her to come to Chicago, but she had refused unless she could bring her daughters, her mother and her bachelor brother.

Such was the Colonel's divorce petition.

THE Colonel's lady heard of the business, and she and her attorneys cleared for action. But in November the Colonel announced he would withdraw his suit. Whereupon his wife and her barristers blocked him. For they filed a cross-bill, in which they denied the Colonel's charge of desertion and contended he had treated his wife cruelly. And under the laws of Illinois a divorce suit cannot be withdrawn if the other side enters a cross-bill.

In her cross-bill Mrs. Carrington, besides telling about the Colonel and his warfare, said he had not supported her since about March of last year, and that he was affectionate toward another lady.

Then came the filing of new informations and an advance hearing. Colonel Carrington named Campbell Carrington as co-respondent. There was a hearing to determine if Mrs. Carrington should get a temporary allowance, and, if so, how much. And what her lawyers were to get for fees. And for expenses.

Before long the Colonel instructed his legal allies to bring suit against Brother Campbell for $1,000,000 for alienating his lady's affections and a second alienation suit was later filed in New York.

Then it happened.

Edward Codrington Carrington and Campbell Carrington met on the sidewalks of New York and crossed canes.

After the battle the Colonel gave his version of it, and his mustache a vigorous jerk as he did so.

"I'm on my feet," said the Colonel, "my brother is in the hospital. That, gentlemen, may indicate who won the conflict!

"I came here two months ago from Chicago. I came with two detectives, to get evidence." The Colonel flourished his stick. But not the stick which had aided him so valiantly on the field. That weapon of the Colonel's was no more; the Colonel still was whole and hardy, but his trusty weapon had come to its end. It had been broken in twain over the head of Brother Campbell.

"I have had this pair watched," continued the Colonel, chuckling. "Still accompanied by the detectives and my lawyer, I went to my wife's house. It was evening. Before very long my brother emerged. 'Are you looking for me?' he asked. And, gentlemen, his manner was most insulting.

"He rushed at me suddenly and swung his cane. I swung mine. We were almost exchanging sword thrusts. In a moment he was disarmed, but before that my cane had come very smartly in contact with his face—very smartly.

"Suddenly blood flowed from my brother's head. He fled. He went to the Ansonia Hotel. I returned to the City Club."

The other side then appeared with its recital of the battle.

"IN THE evening," it told, "while Mr. Campbell Carrington was walking on West Seventy-fourth street, he heard swift footsteps behind him, and was about to turn when he was hit over the head with a snakewood cane; and then, for the first time, he saw and recognized E. C. Carrington, who visited several more blows upon his head, face and hands.

"Campbell Carrington carried nothing but a light malacca cane, which he had no opportunity to use."

After the engagement in the street, Mrs. Carrington says, the Colonel visited her.

"My husband's brother came to congratulate me upon the birth of a granddaughter," says the lady. "And shortly after my brother-in-law had left the apartment my husband, along with two men, rushed in. He brandished his cane. Then he shouted: 'Now I've got you. I've got the two of you. I have his blood on my hands.' He showed me his bloody hands and his broken cane. I ordered him and his men out."

Whichever report is the right one, the immediate result was that the Colonel was taken to a police station and locked up, later getting released on bail, and Brother Campbell was taken to a hospital.

In the interest of history, the major actions in the War of the Carringtons, which already has attained such high prominence in the annals of the land, may be briefly summed up in this wise: The Colonel is suing his lady for divorce; the Colonel's lady has entered counter claims; Eleanor Snyder, daughter of the Colonel's lady, is suing the Colonel for $25,000, saying the Colonel injured her in battle; the Colonel is suing Campbell in two places for $1,000,000; Campbell threatens to sue the Colonel for $2,000,000, and suggests the Colonel take up his residence in an institution.

A CELESTIAL HOBO TO VISIT THE EARTH

By M. W. CHILDS
Of the Post-Dispatch Staff

Swishing a Train Full of Poisonous Gases, the Comet Pons-Winnecke Will Come Into View in June—Though It May Graze This Planet Nothing More Serious Than a Fireworks Display Is Expected.

THE earth will receive a mild slap from the tail of a comet on June 25. In the course of their travels the earth and the Pons-Winnecke comet will meet.

On the occasion of its last visit this way, Pons-Winnecke, in June of 1921, threatened to behave rudely at the crossroads of the two orbits. For some reason or other, this hobo of the skies relented at the last moment and went trailing off for another 5.9 years—the length of time required to complete its circuit of the planet Jupiter.

In the tail of this visitor there are many poisonous gases, carbonic acid gas, carbon monoxide and cyanogen gas, all deadly substances.

The earth, a hardy soul, has weathered several such celestial rebuffs in the past. Halley's, the largest periodical comet, visiting this planet once every 76 years, brushed the earth with its tail on the occasion of its last visit in 1910, as did the comet of 1861.

Rev. Martin S. Brennan of SS. Mary and Joseph Church, a St. Louis astronomer, is unhesitant in his assurance that superstitious fears about comets are ridiculous. Father Brennan has followed the luminous trails of many comets through the sky with the aid of the telescope which was especially made for him at Kenrick Seminary, in Webster Groves.

"Why, if you pressed all the material comprising the average short-period comet such as Pons-Winnecke into a solid bulk it would weigh an ounce, perhaps two ounces," he said. "The air that surrounds the earth is like a solid wall in comparison, and it is beyond the bounds of possibility that any of the poison gas in the tail of Pons-Winnecke will be able to penetrate this wall of air."

There are astronomers, however, who are inclined to a more pessimistic view. It might be possible for some of this gas, probably carbon monoxide, to penetrate the upper levels of our atmosphere, they say.

Carbon monoxide, one of the gases given off from the exhaust of a gasoline motor, is fatal if inhaled in sufficient concentration. Frequent deaths have occurred from automobile motors, left running in tightly closed garages.

ON ITS last visit Pons-Winnecke narrowly avoided a head-on collision with the earth, and the chances are that it may miss this planet by an even narrower margin this year. Every comet is composed of two main parts, the head, which is thought to consist of meteoric bodies, and the tail, which is composed of luminous gases. If the head of Pons-Winnecke were to collide with the earth there is no telling what might happen, the more pessimistic astronomers say. So far as history goes, this has never happened in the life of our planet.

Even a head-on collision, however, would mean, according to Father Brennan and the more optimistic scientists, probably only a brilliant shower of meteors. The solid bodies composing the head of the comet would fly in a thousand different directions when the comet struck the wall of the atmosphere, and, plunging through air, the tremendous speed of their passing would set them aflame. The sight would be something like a Fourth of July exhibition. But Pons-Winnecke is a fickle creature. It promised a similar display in June of 1921 and disappeared without setting off a single firecracker. Almost all comets shed some meteors in their wake as they whirl about the stars.

Astronomers at the Yerkes Observatory of the University of Chicago, Williams Bay, Wisconsin, have already discerned faint traces of the visiting comet on photographic plates, where it is seen as a dim splotch. It is not yet within range of the most powerful telescopes. Astronomers at the Yerkes Observatory say the chances of seeing Pons-Winnecke with the naked eye are good, as it will come closer to the earth than any other solar performers.

Almost since the beginning of history comets have been an object of terror to man. They are nothing but waste matter whirling in space, but it was impossible to know this without modern astronomical science.

The Chinese and Japanese, who first recorded their appearance, believed that each terrestrial kingdom had a celestial representative and that comets, going like ambassadors from one celestial region to another, might forecast terrestrial events. The first comet of which there is an actual record was seen in 611 B. C., recorded in Chinese documents. Perhaps it was Halley's. From 240 B. C. to the present time, with the doubtful exception of 163 B. C., there are records of Halley's comet.

THE return of Halley's comet in 12 B. C. is connected by many astronomers with the Star of Bethlehem. Its return in A. D. 66 is probably the "sword of fire" mentioned by Josephus as suspended over Jerusalem shortly before its siege. The return in 451 coincided with the defeat of Attila at Chalons. It returned in 1066, five months before the Norman Conquest, and was connected with that occurrence, many believing its appearance to have been prophetic.

"Some day there will arise a man who will demonstrate in what regions of the heavens the comets take their way," Seneca, the Roman philosopher, wrote. "Why they journey so far apart from other planets, what their size is and their nature."

More than 1500 years later the eighteenth century astronomer and mathematician, Edmund Halley, came close to fulfilling this prophecy. He identified from historical records the great comet that bears his name, and predicted almost to the day the date of its return. This was done by Halley for the first time by means of elaborate mathematical computations of the comet's orbit. When it came back in 1759, Halley was dead, but other astronomers named it after him as a tribute to his memory.

In comparison to Halley's comet, Pons-Winnecke is as a minnow to a whale, according to Father Brennan. There is, however, some astronomers believe, a possibility that it may be seen with the naked eye between the dates of April 18, when it will pass into the range of telescopes on the earth, and June 30, when it will pass out of vision. These astronomers do not risk their scientific reputations by making any positive statements, since comets have a way of behaving contrary to all predictions.

The composition of a comet can be positively determined, however. This is done by means of the spectroscope, an instrument which was perfected and brought into use in connection with comets about 1883, by English scientists. Each element known to man gives off its own particular radiation. By means of the spectroscope, which consists chiefly of a glass prism in a box attached to a telescope, it is possible to focus the light of any particular comet through the prism and onto a screen at the rear of the spectroscope. The color, or shade of color, resulting, enables astronomers to tell the exact composition of the gases in the comet's tail and the meteors composing its head. It is also possible, by means of the photographic telescope and the photographic spectroscope to catch the whirling comet on an ordinary dry plate, as a photograph illustrating this page shows.

PONS-WINNECKE was discovered by the astronomer Pons in 1819. It was rediscovered by Winnecke in 1858, since which year it has been seen at most of its returns. It has receded farther and farther from the sun. In 1819 it was 72,000,000 miles away, in 1875, 77,000,000; in 1886, 82,000,000; in 1898, 86,000,000, and in 1921, 96,000,000.

Much less is known about the long-period comets than about the short-period ones. There are perhaps not more than 100 short-period travelers while there are nearly 1,500,000 long-term sky tramps, astronomers agree. The average period of these long-time trippers is about 40,000 years, they estimate. Three hundred of them approach the sun each century, skirting contemptuously past the earth, to return from 30,000 to 40,000 years later, after a journey of billions of miles.

Perhaps the most spectacular comets of modern times were the sun-grazing comets of 1880, 1882 and 1887. The heads of these comets passed within 400,000 miles of the sun, and the tails must have actually brushed the solar surface. These comets weathered a glare 25,600 times fiercer than that of an equatorial sunshine at noonday. In such a sunshine there is no substance we know of which would not run like water, boil and be converted into gas or vapor.

So brilliant were these comets that they could be seen at noon with the naked eye. An enormous sunspot, with intense magnetic disturbance, occurred shortly after the passage of the comet of 1882. One astronomer attributed this to the disturbance of the comet.

THE attraction of a number of forces pulls comets this way and that. The sun, Jupiter, Saturn and other planets bid for their attention. Jupiter has succeeded in capturing by far the largest family of comets, more than 30 in number. They revolve in periods of varying lengths about the vain Jupiter. Of this family Pons-Winnecke is a member.

Once or twice comets have been known to disappear. There was Biela's comet, which broke into two pieces before the telescopes of startled astronomers, the pieces flying off in opposite directions. From time to time, without a regular orbit, these pieces have returned.

The career of a comet may be said to be over when its meteors have been dissipated. Some scientists have advanced the theory that the heat of the sun upon these meteors drives out the gases which form the tail. Every comet leaves in its wake a great mass of meteoric debris, dust and fragments, all of which is invisible from the earth unless it comes into the atmosphere.

Not realizing the interest that is being felt on its near approach to the earth, Pons-Winnecke may or may not put on a good celestial show. Astronomers say that a meteoric shower is probable, but since Pons-Winnecke failed to produce any fireworks in 1921 there can be no assurance that it will occur this time.

There was, of course, Jefferson Poole—but, as his grandfather chanced to have been Isabel's grandfather's overseer, and his grandmother, Isabel's grandmother's English maid, he could scarcely have been said to count in Isabel's ordered existence.

She allowed him—since they happened to live in the same city—to sit by her fire twice a month or so: that was all. And she felt it, at that, a concession. He did not keep his hands as a gentleman should. The long, strong, nervous fingers were stained with nicotine, sometimes even with paint. "When I could be writing 'Love's Awakening?'" inquired Isabel coldly.

"I fancy you flatter yourself, my dear," said Jefferson Poole, "but we'll let that pass. Point is, we each have our Land of Cockayne—our unrequited affection—our thwarted career. I want to paint. You want to write. We're both failures."

Isabel whitened with rage. She held her smooth, brown head high in the air. She tightened her lips. She withdrew an intangible loveliness from her face, as one withdraws a candle from a window. "I make an excellent living," she said.

"So does a cook," said Jefferson Poole. "With a good deal more reason for boasting."

She showed him the door that time—but he came back in a week. He had no pride, the grandson of the overseer and the English maid; he always came back. Offering by way of explanation:

THE PVRPLE SCARF

By
Fanny Heaslip Lea

SHE never knew why she had bought it. It had lain in a drawer for three whole years, and she had never worn it. It did not, as they say in the little shops, look like her. It was not in the least her kind of thing.

Sometimes she touched it, feeling about in the drawer for something else. Sometimes she even said to herself that she would send it to this one or that for Christmas, or birthday—yet she never did send it away. She couldn't quite bring herself to the act.

She never wore it. But she kept it. And she was not one to keep things without reason. It rather annoyed her sometimes—to remember how much she had paid for it—never having worn it.

When she found it she had been looking for a sensible muffler. That alone was enough to show the innate absurdity of her buying such perishable trash. That it hadn't proved perishable was owing entirely to the fact that it had lain three sheltered years under the piles of black and gray silk stockings and fine linen handkerchiefs.

Black and gray and white—those were her proper shadings, like fine wash drawings or a delicately pointed etching. The scarf was purple as tropic skies at midnight. Sheer as cobweb, but brocaded, its entire length, in large, loose-petaled flowers which gave it a velvety roughness ineffably exquisite to feel. Silver and umber and green, violet and orange and rose — those were the strange, blurred flowers which blossomed on the purple scarf.

No wonder Isabel couldn't wear it! No woman named Isabel could. Least of all, an Isabel like Isabel Sheridan, whose fetish it was to be at all times fastidiously inconspicuous.

ISABEL'S ancestors had lived in great, high-ceilinged houses, set in wide gardens, behind tall gates. It altered Isabel's conception of her own obliged nobility not at all that she lived in a small apartment in a brownstone gully of a street, with one maid to look after her, with a fireplace, it is true (in a town where fireplaces are dearer than any pound of flesh), with built-in bookcases and squat, mellow lamps—but still an apartment, not a house.

Isabel earned the apartment by the sweat of her smooth, white brow. She wrote books for girls, which brought her in a rather comfortable income—and delightful, if somewhat anaemic verse. It brought her in nothing much at all. An occasional bit of politeness from an elderly editor, perhaps. Elderly editors, where Isabel was concerned, sufficed, apparently, for masculine contact. By virtue perhaps of the books for girls, she was what is known as "a woman's woman," spending long, solitary, contented hours alone in the apartment of an evening, going to concerts alone, going to theaters with other women.

There was, of course, Jefferson Poole—but, as his grandfather chanced to have been Isabel's grandfather's overseer, and his grandmother, Isabel's grandmother's English maid, he could scarcely have been said to count in Isabel's ordered existence.

He wore unspeakable ties and was apt to go shiny at the elbows. From choice as well as necessity. Of course, occasionally, he achieved a bit of work that even Isabel admitted was out of the ordinary. So far out of the ordinary that nobody wanted it.

"With your knowledge of black and white," she had once reproached him aloofly, "you could get all the work you could handle—if only you would keep at it. Why will you mess about in colors?"

"Because I love 'em," said Jefferson Poole shortly.

HE HAD a rather charming mouth and narrow, skeptical, smiling black eyes. When he looked at Isabel, the mouth tipped down at one corner, and he ran a hand through his dark hair with a gesture which to him spelled exasperation—to her, cheap melodrama.

"Why do you grind out those terrible, untrue sagas of distorted adolescence?"

"When I could be writing 'Love's Awakening?'" inquired Isabel coldly.

"I fancy you flatter yourself, my dear," said Jefferson Poole, "but we'll let that pass. Point is, we each have our Land of Cockayne—our unrequited affection—our thwarted career. I want to paint. You want to write. We're both failures."

Isabel whitened with rage. She held her smooth, brown head high in the air. She tightened her lips. She withdrew an intangible loveliness from her face, as one withdraws a candle from a window. "I make an excellent living," she said.

"So does a cook," said Jefferson Poole. "With a good deal more reason for boasting."

She showed him the door that time—but he came back in a week. He had no pride, the grandson of the overseer and the English maid; he always came back. Offering by way of explanation:

"All the other women in the world are so clever—your simplicity rests me, Isabel!"

She knew, when he talked of other women, he was on familiar ground. He knew his subject. She had, on her rare visits to his studio, which was on a squalid street in a pseudo-artistic part of town, seen incontrovertible evidence of feminine interest. A book of silly poems—marked. Initialed—wavily. Hyacinths in a paper-frilled pot beneath the north light.

Of all the men in an overcrowded world, he was the least appropriate companion for Isabel. He offended her every finger-tip and nerve-end.

So she saw as little as she could of him—thought of him as little as she was able—for the most part drifting along coolly and pleasantly enough, among her etchings and her lamps and her flowers, writing ridiculously amiable, wordy volumes about Dorothy at Boarding School, Dorothy in Summer Camp, Dorothy Goes East, Dorothy Goes West—a family of fatuous chronicles surprisingly well known to the juvenile trade.

ISABEL tried it once across the back of a tall, carved chair—for purely decorative purposes. Even the chair couldn't wear it. The scarf made everything in the room look faded—and chilly—and dim with dust.

She thought—for the hundredth time—"How could I have been such a fool as to buy it? I shall never wear the wretched thing . . . ."

But—she did. She wore it the day she said good-by to Jefferson Poole.

It happened queerly. Not in the least of her own will, but it happened this fashion:

She hadn't seen him in week. They had quarreled—they always quarreled, if they saw enough of each other. Although he had telephoned once or twice, Isabel had somehow missed him. She might have bridged the gap, but she made no effort.

When he telephoned again, one forenoon late in February, and said, "Come and eat lunch with me!" (Just that, at first, no conciliatory preliminaries)—she answered him coolly, with intent to show him his place:

"I'm sorry, Jefferson. I can't. I'm working today."

"Dorothy in the Bath?" inquired Jefferson Poole impertinently.

"Don't be ridiculous!" said Isabel.

He said, with a short laugh: "Haven't got time to fight it. Come down and eat lunch with me."

"I told you it was imposs"——

He interrupted: "You'd better. I'm leaving for Los Angeles this afternoon."

Isabel made startled and incoherent comment.

"No," said Jefferson Poole, kindly, "not Bulawayo, Los Angeles."

Then he left off baiting her.

"No fooling, Isabella. You may not see me for some time. Come down and I'll buy you a farewell feed."

"But where?" said Isabel. "But why?"

"This is a rotten connection," said Jefferson Poole. "Tell all when I see you. Meet me at 1 o'clock. We'll eat at the restaurant in the station. My train goes at 3."

"I'm not sure that I can," began Isabel.

"Meet you at 1," repeated Jefferson Poole.

After that came only a fine cackling across the wire, and irritable buzzing and a frightful valedictory croak.

Isabel hung up the receiver. "This is too utterly absurd," she said to herself. "I shall do nothing of the sort."

She called Mattie, her colored maid, and demanded with crispness the whereabouts of a certain blue fox fur.

"I am going out for luncheon," said Isabel, "and my coat is still at the cleaner's."

"So's the fur, Miss Belle," said Mattie apologetically. "I sent it out two days ago."

"This is exceedingly annoying," said Isabel. "I have an important engagement—it is absolutely necessary for me to go out to luncheon—"

Mattie brightened. "Yo' black coat's clean."

"Do you want me to freeze?" replied Isabel.

SHE sounded as if her freezing would require merely the slightest drop in temperature. Had even perhaps already taken place.

Mattie persisted valiantly. "Some kin' er neckerchief—"

"If you can find me anything at all, I will wear it," said Isabel.

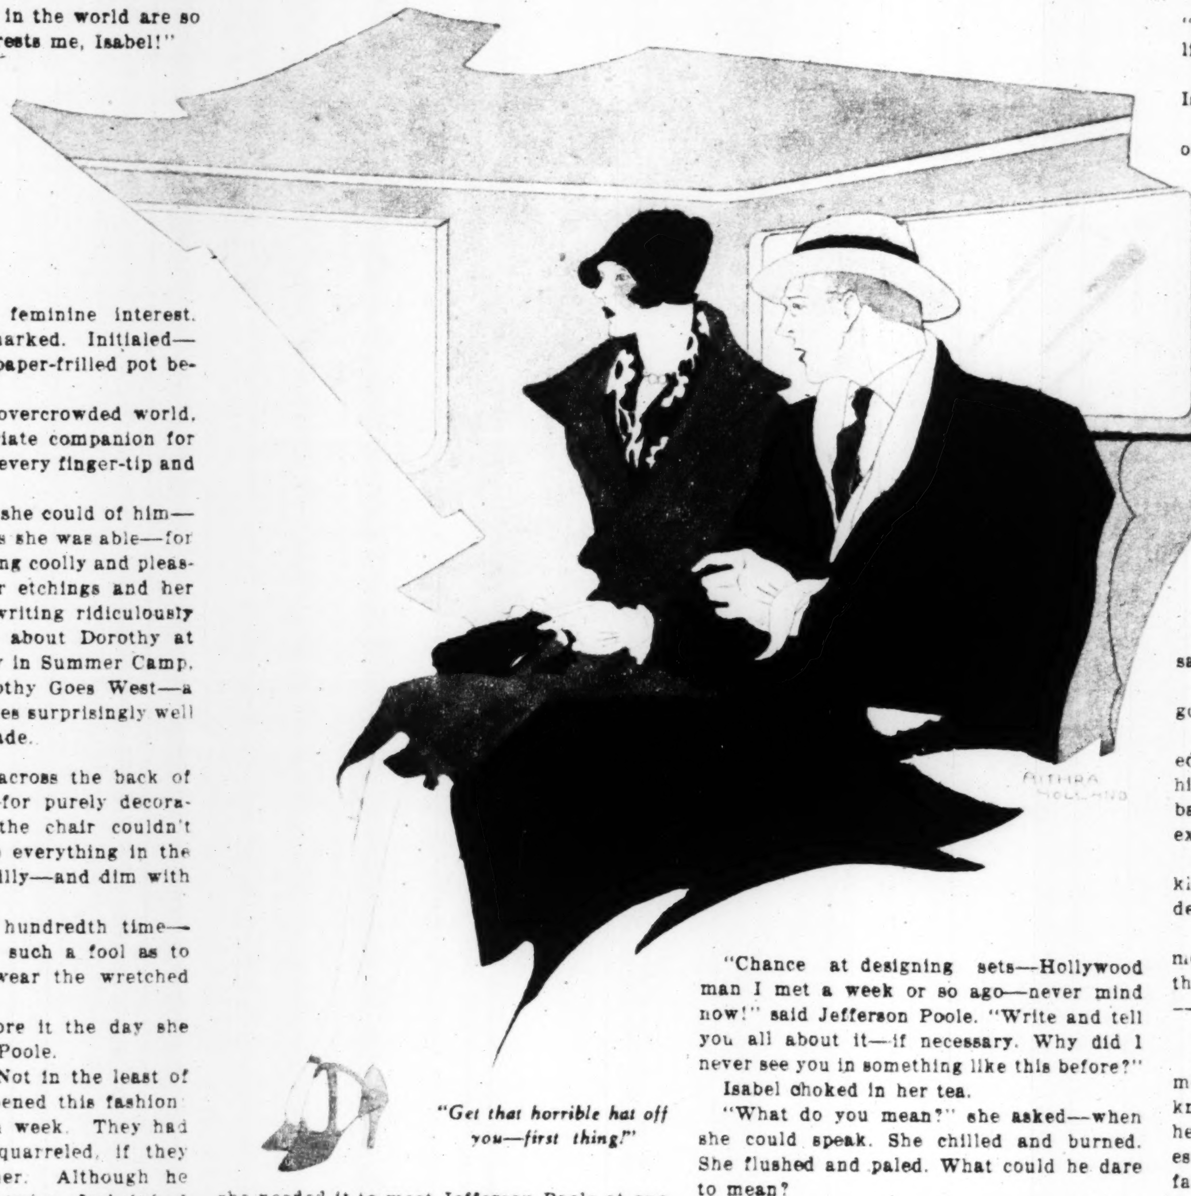
She was being disagreeable merely by way of combating the sense of loss she felt at Jefferson Poole's going away. An antagonism, unexpectedly departing, can leave as big a void as the most unruly passion.

Mattie, sensing psychic disturbance, went into the bedroom. She emerged with the purple scarf. Triumphant.

Said Mattie, "H'yah, Mis' Belle!" and offered the glamorous web. "You kin jus' wrap that 'round yo' neck."

Isabel took the scarf. She turned it across her hand and stared at it—then she tried it around her throat and looked in the mirror.

She didn't like it. She had never actually liked it. Now, needing it, or believing that she needed it to meet Jefferson Poole at one o'clock, she ignored its shameless coloring and considered sternly only its potential warmth. It had warmth — amazingly. The brocaded bloom was heavy.



"Get that horrible hat off you—first thing!"

"I'll wear it," said Isabel.

"Sho' is pretty," said Mattie.

If the scarf had to be worn—if there were nothing else available with which to protect a delicate throat (Isabel was fastidious about colds, as about everything else)—at least, coat and hat and frock should be of the plainest black. And overshoes lend a dernier cri—of respectability.

She left the apartment at half after twelve, black coat buttoned high, black hat drawn low—and the merest wisp of violet, splashed with umber and scarlet and green, showing (in spite of her) beneath one ear.

Jefferson Poole was waiting for her.

"Well—did I flatten you out? Have you recovered?"

"From what?" asked Isabel coolly.

He turned, steering her toward the restaurant.

"You sounded slightly startled, when I told you I was going."

"Naturally," said Isabel.

He continued, quite casual, "Didn't know it myself, a week ago."

"Are you going—to stay?"

"If I can get away with it."

If he could get away with what? Isabel wouldn't ask. She wouldn't humor him.

She said, "There's a waiter."

She had always to prompt Jefferson Poole in the matters of waiters and taxis and such. Isabel liked food to be ordered suavely, with low-voiced authority in things requiring choice.

"How about a steak?" was the commonest inspiration of Jefferson Poole.

He was apt to add hashed brown potatoes, and he always insisted on ice cream. This time proved no exception:

ISABEL said that she would have a chicken sandwich and a pot of Ceylon tea. She kept on her coat till the steak and the sandwich arrived. Then she slipped it off and tried to slip the scarf away with it. She might have known it would snare his eye. Perhaps she did know, and the knowledge made her clumsy. An end of the scarf caught in the buckle of her wrist-watch. Jefferson Poole disentangled a thread and freed her, his dark eyes widening with pleasure.

"Where'd you get that? That's a wonderful thing! Never saw you wear it before."

"I never have worn it before. I'm only wearing it today because my fur was being cleaned and I had to have something."

"Had to have something!" said Jefferson Poole. "You amazing simpleton! What do you want? Haven't you any sense of beauty at all?"

"This is—garish," said Isabel, shrugging. "It's—vulgar."

"A-ah!" said Jefferson Poole. "You make me sick! You've worn black and gray and brown so long—all the stupid stuff—that you wince at the sight of an honest scarlet."

"I don't," said Isabel haughtily, "call this an honest—scarlet—or purple—or anything else. It's absolutely riotous."

"Of course, it is!" he assured her. "Eve might have spun that from the flowers at the foot of the Tree—which makes it all the more incredible that the thing is perfect on you. Utterly perfect!"

"What is it you are going to do in California?" asked Isabel distantly.

"Chance at designing sets—Hollywood man I met a week or so ago—never mind now!" said Jefferson Poole. "Write and tell you all about it—if necessary. Why did I never see you in something like this before?"

Isabel choked in her tea.

"What do you mean?" she asked—when she could speak. She chilled and burned. She flushed and paled. What could he dare to mean?

"Because now I've got to paint you in it," said Jefferson Poole.

"Oh," said Isabel weakly. So that was all.

He swallowed his luncheon in haste. He made her almost gulp her own. He would listen to none of her protest.

"We'll duck back to my studio—there's no one there—and get a sketch of this right now," said Jefferson Poole. "The violet and umber in that stuff—those turquoise greens—they bring out a green in your flesh that's fit to eat."

Isabel fairly writhed. For one thing, the word "flesh" connoted so many unpleasantries.

"You haven't time," she begged.

"I have!" said Jefferson Poole. "If you could see yourself as I see you—with that sinful violet smudge against one cheek—" he squinted at her; "it gives you an ivory tone—a cold, smooth, sensuous ivory."

"Please!" said Isabel shrinking.

"I'll get something out of you that'll be worth going miles to see," Jefferson Poole prophesied darkly.

He caught a passing taxi; he shoved Isabel into it. He gave directions and slammed the door, dropping down beside her with a look of burning absorption.

"Get that horrible hat off you—first thing!"

"Horrible hat." It was new. It was—if dark and very simple—the finest sort of felt. It was—

He silenced her rudely. "Be quiet, Isabella. I'm trying to remember. Have I got ultramarine—or not? There's a blue hollow in your throat. I never noticed before what a luscious, long throat you've got—sweet as satin . . ."

"Jefferson!" said Isabel, outraged.

"DON'T be a little fool!" said Jefferson Poole abstractedly. "You knew you had a throat, didn't you? Funny thing I didn't know it—till I saw that scarf around it. Woman With a Purple Scarf." He rushed her to his studio. His easel stood empty, and he wheeled it hurriedly into place, unlocked a closet, snatched out paints and brushes, tore off his coat and threw it to one side. Isabel stood and waited, purse tightly clutched in her slim, gloved hands, tremulous with annoyance—other emotions less easily indexed.

"Take off your hat, girl!" said Jefferson Poole. "We haven't got all day, you know. Take off that coat and stand over there by the table. Don't look so scared, Isabel, I'm not going to bite."

"I am not scared," said Isabel frostily.

"No?" said Jefferson Poole. "Then why look it?"

He went over to where she stood, folded his arms, and stared down at her scowlingly.

"H'm'm. Too tight." He swept defending hands aside and loosened her hair till it lay on her cheeks in two leaf-brown waves. "Better—but not right yet! Not—entirely—right—too much white silk collar—don't want anything showing but that scarf—makes it too thick—ought to be flesh back of those sheer bits—take out the pin—"

"Wh-what!" stammered Isabel, drawing away from him.

He caught her arm and gave it a shake. "Don't be such an unholy prig! Can't the collar of that blouse open wider?"

It did. Into a V. Only Isabel had never worn it so.

"That's better!" said Jefferson Poole. "Now we're getting somewhere! Haven't a lipstick—have you?"

"I don't use that sort of thing," snapped Isabel.

It disturbed her sharply that the palms of her hands were chilly and damp. Jefferson Poole had never really touched her before. She could not bear him to know it was making her tremble now.

He wasn't noticing. "Then bite your lips and make 'em red, will you. That's a good girl. You've got a lovely mouth—actually lovely—too pale, though. And you want to—look not so—faraway. See what I mean?"

"No, I don't at all see what you mean," said Isabel.

Said Jefferson Poole, "And I haven't got time to explain to you!"

He ran a hand through his hair—looked wildly about the room—snatched out his watch, frowned at it, and shoved it back again. Then he laughed. A brief, excited chuckle.

"Well—" he said — and suddenly he kissed Isabel full upon her mouth. Tenderly—yet a trifle roughly.

"Sorry—" he said, back at his easel a moment later. "Sorry—but—that's just—the look I wanted. See if you can hold it—darling!"

Whatever look it was, Isabel held it.

She was so terribly afraid that if she moved, if she spoke, if she stirred, he would know—he would see—what he had done to her. That she was trembling in good earnest now—that the blood was burning her face—

Absurd—humiliating—inexplicable! As if one had never been kissed before—well—one hadn't to speak of—and never—by Jefferson Poole . . .

"Oh—gorgeous!" said Jefferson Poole. "Hold that—will you?"

HE WORKED like a man possessed. He whistled between his teeth. Over and over he looked up at Isabel—and back to his canvas, his eyes narrowed, his mouth grimly smiling.

"Look at me—don't look at the wall. You've got the sweetest eyes, Isabella Caesar!—hold that—just as you are! Just the shadow of a quiver about your mouth."

Isabel held it. She had felt just then the shadow of a quiver—about her heart.

She had never before seen Jefferson Poole—at his painting. While he drew a brushful of blue recklessly across her painted throat, singing to himself in a deep, caressing whisper, Isabel knew the truth. She had never before seen Jefferson Poole.

And she saw him now. Just as he was going away.

"Can you stand it a minute or so longer?" he asked absently. "Something about your eyes I want to get—darker than I thought—deep—but soft—h'm'm—get it in just a minute more—sort of a hurt—no—sort of a hunger—I've got you!—Steady, Isabelle—won't be long now!"

Isabel stood it a minute longer. She had never heard him before. And now he was going away.

"Want to rest?" said Jefferson Poole kindly.

He stood staring at the thing he had made, while he waved the real Isabel away with a nervous, paint-smudged hand.

"No, you don't! Can't see it yet. Not for a million. Only just started."

"It's very nearly three," said Isabel.

She walked to the window and looked out of that. Even there she saw the derisive question in his eyes. She said, over one shoulder. "You'll miss your train."

"Can't be helped," said Jefferson Poole. "'Nother one goes at six something."

He was frankly restless till he had her back once more against the table.

"I'm in a tricky place—" he explained. "Beautiful problem in values."

Isabel knew a trickier problem—in values. Unanswered.

For half an hour he worked desperately and doggedly.

ISABEL'S heels hurt, and the muscles of her shoulders, and the back of her neck—and her heart. She ached to move, to bend, to turn—to release the cruel strain on her body—and her soul.

When he said abruptly, "I love your mouth!" happiness filled her as the tide fills a pool on the reef.

But he began to whistle, while her lips parted, and the next thing he said was:

"Curse the light—it's beginning to go! Just when I'm right where I need it."

At the end of half an hour he said: "Want to stop? I'm in a bit of a jam. Help a lot if you could hold out a while longer."

"I'll hold it," said Isabel—and did.

She was shaking with fatigue, when he offered later:

"Like to rest now? This is going better."

Then he pushed a chair forward with a groping hand. She sat and watched him in silence, while he tinkered raptly with his canvas.

The heavy, frightened beating of her heart hurt only her own breast. Over and over she said to herself, "Two hours more and he'll be gone." But no one heard her.

When she went back and stood against the table once more, he saw her. As if a mist cleared between them. His eyes caressed her, and his voice. He said the most heavenly things to her. Things about her hair and her throat and her brows.

SHE stood to hear them—that time almost an hour—without flinching. The pain in her heels gnawed like a thing with teeth. It ran up into her ankles and the calves of her legs—made her knees unsteady. And the pain in the back of her neck was torture. Cramped and stiffening.

But she would not ask to rest. She thought, keeping her eyes on his face, letting them speak if they would:

"If I never see him again—he'll have this—of me. I'll have done something for him. I'll have given him something. What is the matter with me? I'd give him my soul — if I could. I am giving him my soul—to make a picture of—and he's painting a scarf—instead!"

"Chin a lit-tle bit up—" said Jefferson Poole, "Tricky little shadow there. Blast the light—it's as good as gone! Never mind." He sang very softly, smiling at his own work: "Oh, how I've waited for you."

Isabel almost cried out, "Please—please don't—" the silly words stabbed her so.

But all at once he put his brushes down, put his palette down, wiped his hands on a rag, and beckoned her.

"Come and have a look — it's only a sketch—but it's good!"

They stood before the easel together. He ran a hand through his hair, the gesture she had always disliked. Seeing him now, hearing him now—now that he was going away—now that in one short hour he would be gone—Isabel knew the restlessness, the strain, in those thrusting fingers, and ached only to quiet them against her breast.

"What do you think of yourself?" he asked her.

Her self—her painted self—was strange. Ivory-fleshed, as he had said, with a swirl of sorcerous color for the scarf. The lips were soft. The throat was satin-sweet. The eyes were — cruelly betrayed. Isabel hid them with her two hands.

"How could you!" she said. "Oh—how could you!"

"Beautiful—" muttered Jefferson Poole. "Beautiful—isn't it?"

He added, catching her up to him—an afterthought of savage tenderness—"you should have seen yourself! I haven't half got you—yet!"

He barely made his six-something train—but he made it. The picture he left with Isabel. In her apartment.

"I'll be back in six months," he said at parting—"or you will come out."

The grandson of the overseer—to Isabel! She held up her face to him.

"Portrait of the Artist's Wife—" said Jefferson Poole. "Like that better than the other? I've a notion, myself, to call it Galatea."

She sobbed, and he kissed her again many times—for good-by.

When he had really gone and she was back home, she picked up the purple scarf from a chair and carried it into her room; stood in the middle of the floor, looking at it. Tears still in her eyes.

THREE whole years it had lain in a drawer. She remembered the day she had bought it—in a moment of impulse, carelessly, foolishly even. Not knowing when she was to wear it, nor to what purpose. If she had known—

She could never go back to being happy alone—now. Never again be satisfied with her stodgy little books, her thin little poems. Perhaps she wouldn't even be able to go on writing them.

In which case—no more comfortable income, no more neat maid, and no cozy apartment.

Portrait of the Artist's Wife. Shiny at the elbows—like the Artist. His eyes came back to her — his husky, half-whispered singing—the rapt, reckless tension of his smile before his easel—relentless eyes, lifted to her, but dropping back to his palette—always —

She could never be happy again, away from him. Not after that day. And she had left just enough of her customary practicality to doubt if she would ever be happy with him. Alien—alien—so deeply—so many ways.

If, when she had bought the purple scarf, those three blind, placid years before the day she was to wear it—if she had known—

Suddenly—with a gesture of incredible violence—see tore it—across and across. Tears slipping down her face. Her mouth distorted.

The threads gave with a small, thin sound. The rasp of a cry. The torn scarf clung between her fingers like something living. Living—and lovely—and warm—

Isabel wiped her eyes with it. She set her unsteady lips to it. She smoothed it out and folded it—a kiss in every finger-tip. She laid it once more away in the drawer against the time when Jefferson Poole should come back to her — or she should go to him.

The GRIM JOKER of PARIS

Master Man Hunters—XII

By JOSEPH GOLLOMB

Louis Benet Was a Timid Mouse of a Man and Fate Used Him Badly—But He Had the Last Laugh!

LOUIS BENET was a slight, gray mouse of a man, timid but hungry for life. He wanted love; but women smiled, not with him but at him. For he was a shrinking figure of a man, too hungry for love to command it, and most women want a man for a lover, not a mouse.

He was an "extra," or sort of chorus man, in a small boulevard theater in Paris; and the slighter his talents the more a man like Benet dreams of great success on the stage of life. But dreams were all that he achieved.

A mouse like Benet will take crumbs gratefully, since he cannot get a loaf. So he made friends with other human mice like himself, failures, never-to-be men, dreamers who could not realize their most modest dreams, chorus men and broken-down human litter such as one finds around a small Paris boulevard theater.

To such people there seems but one way to meet the ruthless reality of life—that is to forget it. And because alcohol and narcotics help such folk to forget the unendurable, they will often trade their doubtful privilege of living for a drink or a pinch of cocaine.

Louis Benet, however, did not resort to these substitutes. Somewhere in him, unknown to him even, but later to be known to the world, there was a hidden strain of resistance. He preferred to go on hungering for a beautiful love to come, for success on the stage, which he would lay at the feet of the woman who might bring him that love.

He did not barter his dreams for drink or drugs. But so sorry was he for his friends, who were only too glad to get these means of forgetting, that he did not blame them for doing what they could to endure life.

AT THAT time the police were carrying on a campaign against the drug traffic and were on the trail of a ring of men who were the center and leaders of the traffic. The activity of the police made it much harder for all drug addicts to get their supply, and among Benet's friends there was much distress. Finally, a group of them came to him and said:

"Louis, none of us dares to move to get the stuff we want. We are being watched so closely that 'they' won't sell us any while this police hunt is on. But we die without it. You don't use the stuff. Everybody knows it. Nobody watches you. Won't you, for God's sake, go to 'them' and get us a supply? We implore you!"

Benet hesitated. He wished they had not asked him. He did not want to be the agent for the abominable traffic. But he looked at their drawn faces and his nerves, tortured by hunger for life, knew what these nerves must suffer in their torturing hunger for the substitutes for life.

So he gave in and went, according to instructions, to the president of a small bank in the heart of Paris. There a big man with a brutal face and glittering eyes took Benet into a corner and said:

"Listen, you! If ever the police get hold of you as a suspect, they will question you. If you don't answer, they will bully you and perhaps beat you. Here is my advice to you: Let them break your leg before you tell them about this place or me.

"Do you hear? Because the police will never kill you for refusing to tell on me. But as sure as there is night, as soon as you inform on us—if you ever do—your neck will be broken by any of 20 men who work for me. Here is your stuff!"

The man led Benet into the inner office. The heavy steel door of the safe was half open, so that the world apparently might see its contents, packages that looked like bundles of mortgages and title deeds. Handing him one of these packages, the man with the brutal face fixed his glittering eyes on Benet.

"Remember!" he growled.

The menace in those eyes, the knowledge he had of the gang of cutthroats working for this drug ring, the terror they struck into his timorous soul, made Louis sure he would never forget.

He delivered the package of "securities" to his friends and said:

"I want nothing more to do with this. I'm very sorry, dear friends, but I must refuse to go there again!"

But the mischief had been done. The police got hold of one of the poor devils with some of the drugs in his possession, which Benet had brought. From this man they forced a confession that it was Louis who had brought the narcotics. One morning, therefore, a detective from headquarters walked into Louis' hallroom and said:

"Come along!"

Louis was terrified. At police headquarters they said to him.

"Take your choice—prison or tell us where you got the stuff!"

LOUIS remembered the man with the piercing eyes and his sincere threat. He knew that even if the police guarded him, there would come a time when the drug ring would get him. The police, stern though they were, did not look as threatening as that man did; and the most they threatened was prison, whereas the other promised death. So between the two terrors Louis chose the lesser; and desperately kept his mouth closed.

The police badgered, bullied, threatened. No use. A greater terror defeated their threats. Finally the subordinates called in their chief, a higher officer in the service de surete, the detective branch of the Paris police. He was a shrewd judge of character. He dismissed the others and sat down to a quiet talk with Louis.

"You don't look like one who would traffic in this thing, especially at the expense of your friends," he said kindly. "Now, why don't you help us break up this terrible traffic?"

Kindness was harder to resist than cruelty and threats. But not enough to overcome the fear of death.

"Because, monsieur, they threaten to kill me, if I tell on them, and I know you will not be able to prevent them from doing it," he said, his teeth chattering.

The detective official, let us call him Monsieur X, since I have been asked not to give his right name, studied Louis. Then he realized that police threats would never make Louis sign his own death warrant. Monsieur rose, his eyes averted.

"Well, it isn't fair to make you do something which you are convinced means your death," he said. "Also, we happen to know that it was your first offense; that you gained nothing by it; that you did it out of sheer pity. In the circumstances, it isn't just for us to prosecute you. Go. But don't do this thing again."

Louis went, somewhat stunned at the unexpected kindness of the police. He did not know, of course, that they were not through with him. But as he was not called upon to get any more drugs for his friends; as the drug ring seemed undisturbed in its traffic; and as no one troubled him for the next week and more, Louis put his recent terrible experience out of his mind and soon actually forgot it.

WHAT helped him to forget was a new and wonderful thing that was happening to him. The owner of the little theater at which he was a pitifully paid "extra" was Mme. Leah Carbutti, an Italian, who had come to Paris with nothing and by dint of her coarse good looks, heartless exploitation and a certain domineering quality, had made herself the owner of this little theater.

She produced whatever would pay—melodrama, farce, tawdry reviews, anything she could cook up on the little capital she had. She employed such men as Louis, not because of their talents, but because she could pay them so little and make them work so hard.

For years Louis obeyed her like a slave. For he was doubly her slave, being dependent on her for bread and butter, and also because he was secretly in love with this highly colored, dominating, black-eyed, red-lipped woman. And for years she had treated him like a despised slave.

Now suddenly there came a change over her. She smiled on him; said kind words about the way he did a small part in the melodrama she was rehearsing; patted his cheek when he stammered his thanks, and asked his advice about the principal role in the melodrama.

"If you think you could do the part, I've half a mind to give you a chance!" she said.

Louis' senses reeled. After so many years of hunger—to have love smile at him, to have success beckon to him!

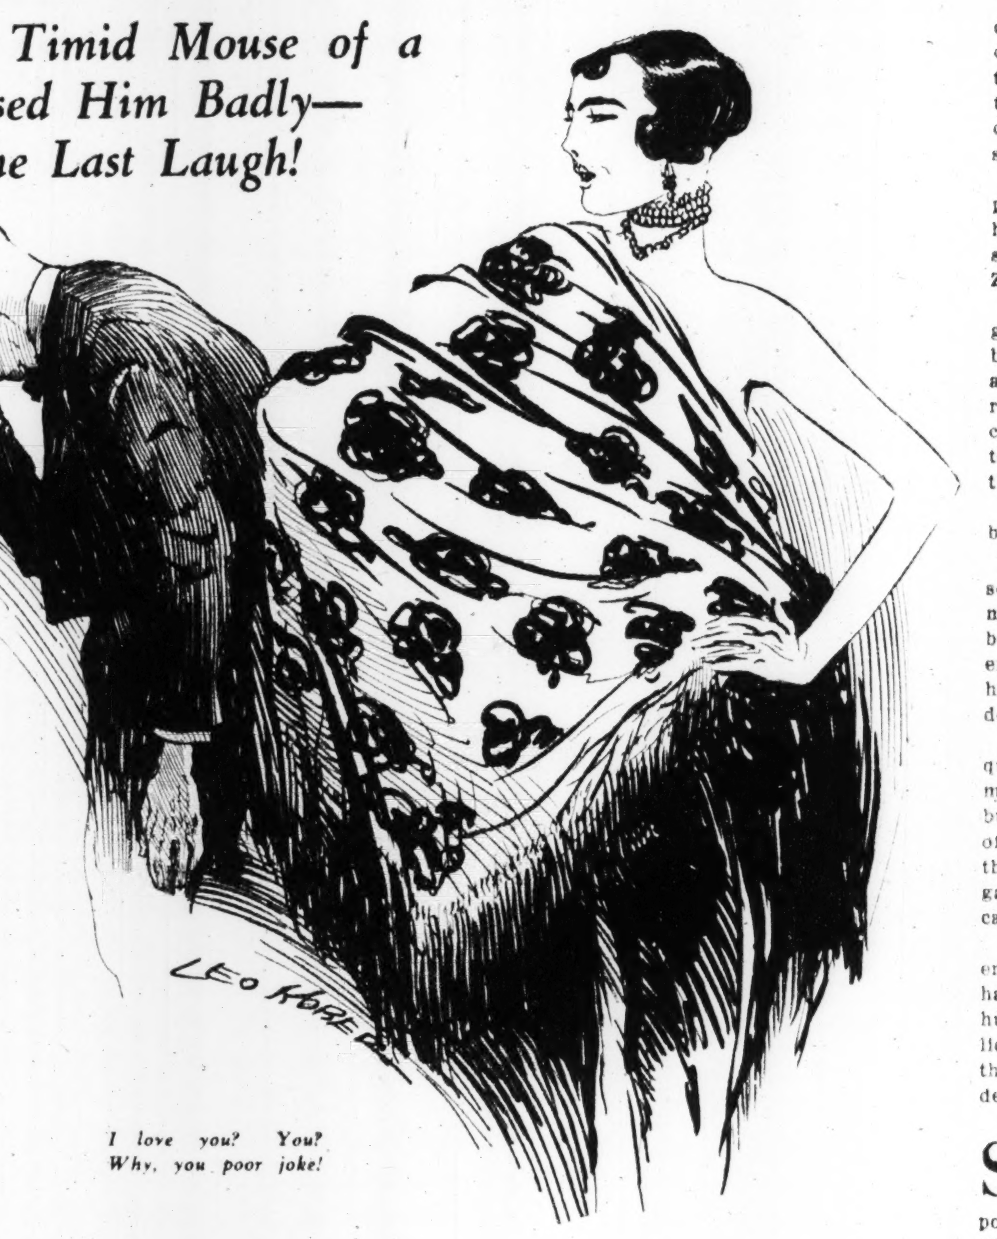
"I would give my life to try the part!" he said.

And for once the phrase meant something, for Louis felt at last that he could be equal to surmounting his terror if by doing so he won Mme. Leah's love and success on the stage.

"Well, anyone who feels that way is bound to win!" she said. "You shall rehearse the part. For I like you, Louis; always did like you. And I like the way you resisted the police and did not tell them what they wanted to know. Come and dine with me tonight after the show."

For the following two weeks Louis did not know whether he was on earth, or in heaven, or in hell. It did not seem possible that he should be rehearsing the leading part in the melodrama, the role of the hero with whom the heroine, played by Mme. Leah herself, was desperately in love. It did not seem possible that Mme. Leah should be tender with him after rehearsals, as she was.

But it was the torment of hell to have Mme. Leah bring her red lips close to his, then suddenly, capriciously snatch them away, bring him groveling to her feet. Then she would almost forgive him, almost say the words he would have died to hear—and again she would snatch lips and promise away!



I love you? You? Why, you poor joke!

At last he could bear it no longer. They were alone in her apartment in back of the theater. He broke down and sobbed:

"I will kill myself, if you keep up this torture! I love you and my life is yours, if you want it. But if you don't want it, for pity's sake tell me so truly and I will go away. But this—this, I cannot endure any longer!"

She looked slyly at the head buried in her lap.

"Do you really love me, Louis?" He did not answer. He need not answer. "Then prove it to me, Louis. If I have not given you the love you want, it is because, perhaps, I, too, have suffered. I have met so many who use their love as instruments for getting something out of me. I must have proof of your love."

He rose haggard. "How can I prove it, if you don't believe me?" he asked.

"You can prove it by telling me what you refused to tell the police!"

He gave her a startled look. "Are you working for the police? Is that why you have led me on?" he demanded, quivering.

"Don't be silly," she said. "I am not as fond of the police as all that. I want to see if your love of me is as strong as your fear of death, that's all. So tell me."

He studied her for some moments. Then he told her of his visit to the headquarters of the drug ring. He withheld nothing. She patted his head and kissed him absently.

"You're a dear kid," she said. "But you must go now. Tomorrow night we open in your play—and you must rest. I, too."

THE hour of Louis Benet's fears and hopes came galloping and frightened him as badly as though a team of runaway horses were coming down upon him. This, together with his lack of talent, worked havoc with the poor actor.

In scenes meant to thrill the audience he roused only gales of derisive laughter. Under the waves of derision went also Mme. Leah. When the final curtain went down, she ran off to her apartment, giving Louis only a savage look and a muttered oath in Italian.

Louis followed her. Actually, he forced himself into her apartment, turned the key in the door, put it in his pocket and with a strange light in his eyes confronted her.

"Sit down, Leah," he said softly. And somehow she had to obey. "Sit down and tell me. Don't you really love me?"

She sat down on a divan, threw her head back and laughed until the tears came to her eyes.

"I love you? You? Why, you poor joke! Only you're too stupid to recognize a joke on yourself.

"I would not have kept up this joke but for Monsieur X of the service de surete, who wanted to worm out of you information about the cocaine ring! It was he who proposed this joke. But now I am tired of it and of you. Get out of here!"

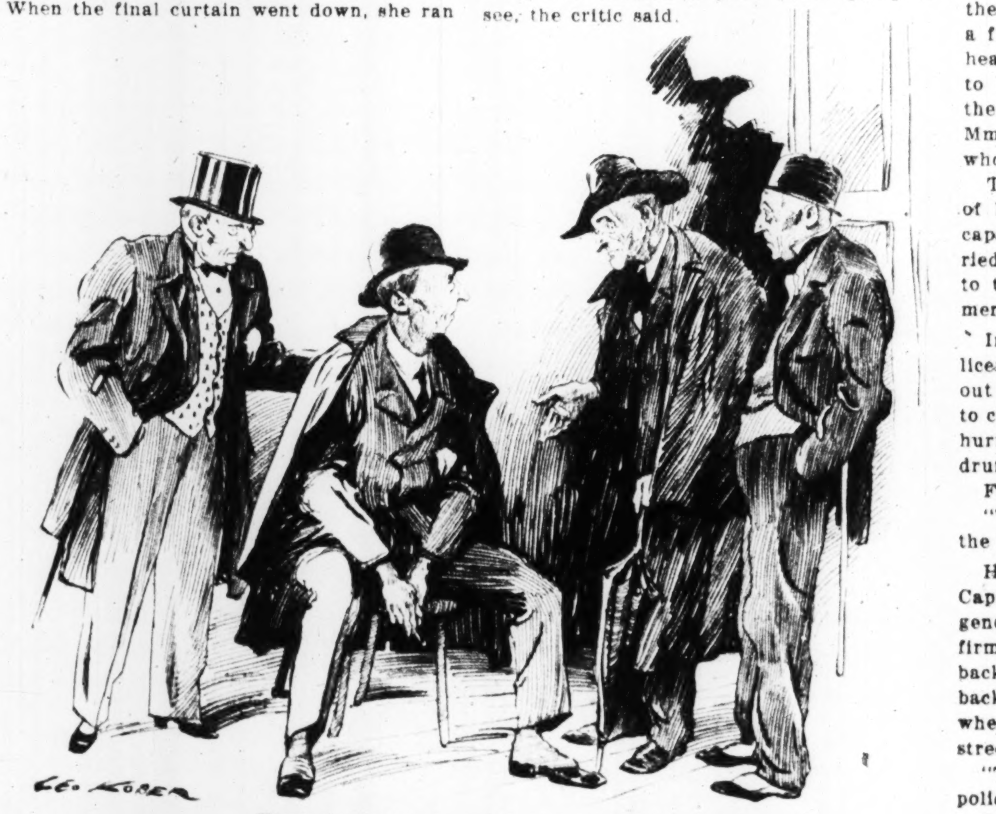
LOUIS had turned red and white by turns. Then he sank to a chair. His head was bowed. His shoulders began to shake. But soon, to Mme. Carbutti's astonishment, she saw that he was shaking with laughter. Soon, too, he began to roar, tears streaming from his eyes, his words coming in gasps.

"A joke! Why, of course, a joke. The best joke I ever heard of; the greatest joke I ever experienced. Help me laugh, Leah, or—or I die!"

For he was laughing at the greatest joke in the world—life to those who no longer care for it.

It took some time before he managed to control himself sufficiently to obey her furious order for him to get out of her sight forever. He went, and she locked the door on him. She saw him still shaking with laughter.

It came out months later that next morning he read two items in a newspaper which interested him tremendously. One was a short but biting review of his "ridiculous" playing of the hero in the new piece at Mme. Carbutti's theater, a joke worth going to see, the critic said.



Won't you go to them and get us a supply?

The other item, a front page affair, told of the sensational arrest and rounding up of the chiefs of the drug ring; of the raid on the office of a hitherto respectable bank; of the fight that took place there, in which one of the drug gang was killed and two gangsters and two policemen wounded.

Three days later another sensation appeared on the front pages. Mme. Carbutti had been murdered. When found she was still clad in the rainbow-hued costume of Zaza.

Her body was found in a posture that suggested a weird thought. Just so would a body be placed if one wanted to represent it as laughing, with head thrown back in merriment. Only her head was thrown back because her throat had been cut. A note pinned to her many-colored bodice carried this thought further.

"A good joke, my dear. But isn't it too bad you can't laugh out loud?"

The murder created a furor. The police seemed to have a theory as to who had committed it, for they hunted down every member of the cocaine ring with redoubled energy. But after weeks of investigation they had to admit that they neither had the murderer nor any clew to him.

Then one day there came into police headquarters a queer looking fellow, who stammeringly confessed to killing Mme. Carbutti. The police, stung by the comments of the press about their failure to run down the murderer, naturally felt jubilant and gave out the news to the press that they had caught the criminal.

But when on investigation it was discovered that the supposed murderer was only a half-witted fellow who had been promised a hundred francs to play this joke on the police, the newspapers waxed more sarcastic than ever. The half-wit was thrown out of detention prison with little gentleness.

SEVERAL days later there was a banquet given at one of the famous restaurants in Paris in honor of a new Chief of Paris police. Government officials, former Police Chiefs, members of the diplomatic corps in glittering uniforms, notables of all kinds were there.

The banquet was guarded by a specially assigned force of police, in honor of the occasion. There walked up to the officer in charge of the guard a thin, brisk, little man, dressed in fashionable dinner garb.

"I am from the Journal. I have instructions to give to our reporter at the banquet. But as I am in a hurry, perhaps you will do it for me. Please tell him to"——

"Monsieur, I'm not your messenger. Tell it to him yourself."

The stranger was thus sent into the banquet hall. Here his briskness changed to a leisurely manner. He was seen strolling from guest to guest, whispering discreetly, asking if the service was satisfactory. Guests nodded, then turned again to listen to the speakers.

In this way the stranger made his way to the speakers' table, which was on a slightly raised platform. Leaning over to the toastmaster, he whispered:

"After this speaker gets through, please let me make an announcement, of great interest to everyone here. It is a pleasant surprise I have been delegated to announce by the syndicate of theatrical workers."

The toastmaster glanced at the confident mien of the little man, hesitated, then nodded. When the speaker was done, he rose and addressed the guests.

"There is an announcement of interest. I will ask the monsieur here to introduce himself, as he desires to spring a pleasant surprise."

Every face turned to the slightly built man who took his place by the toastmaster's side with such self-confidence. But the instant he began to speak it was plain that he had won his confidence from many glasses of strong drink.

"I LOVE the police," he said. "I love them almost enough to forgive them for a little trick they played on me. For, you see, I played one in return on them. For three months I have led them a fruitless chase. But now I have not the heart to keep up the joke. So I am here to retrieve their painful failure to capture the murderer of Mme. Cabrutti—I mean Mme. Cartubbi—no, Carbutti. I am the man who killed her!"

There were gasps of astonishment, ripples of laughter. The little man did not seem capable of killing a mouse. Attendants hurried over and hustled him to the anteroom, to the accompaniment of the buzz of comment and the tittering of the guests.

In the anteroom he was held by three policemen, while three others fought to keep out the score of reporters who were trying to crowd into the room. A Captain of police hurried in and glared at the apparently drunk little man.

Finally he said to a colleague:

"The less fuss we make of this business the less the papers can make of it!"

His colleague agreed with a nod. The Captain whispered instructions to a husky gendarme. The latter took the little man firmly by the shoulder, marched him out the back way and into the street. Then he drew back and his foot caught the little man where it sent him sprawling far out into the street.

"This will teach you to play jokes on the police!" the gendarme growled.

The papers next day made gay comment on the incident, but agreed that the police had done well to make so little of the practical joke on them.

But a day later every newspaper in Paris received a mimeographed copy of the following letter, which had been forwarded to Monsieur X, who was still with the detective service. It read:

"Dear Monsieur X: Do you like a good joke? Here is one. You wanted information on the cocaine ring. I had it. Your police tried to make me give it to you. But I was so terrified of death, which the gang threatened, that I was not afraid of your threats and did not tell. Whereupon you decided to play a little joke on me. You got Mme. Carbutti to pretend that she loved me, to give me a leading part in the theater where I had been only a despised 'extra.'

"Well, your joke worked, and I told her, out of love, what I did not tell you out of fear. Then she cast me out, explaining at the same time your joke, her joke, the joke that life played on me. I agree, it is a good joke. And one good joke deserves another. So on the night of Nov. 7 I stole into Mme. Carbutti's apartment and waited till she came in from her performance of 'Zaza'—it was a joke as a performance.

"When she saw me, I pretended that I came to kill her, but had lost courage. She sat down on the couch and, leaning her head back, roared with laughter at my pleading to be taken back into her love. She, of course, did not know I still kept my knife. When you found her, her head was still in the posture of laughter. But she laughs no longer.

"I had still my joking account to square with you, gentlemen of the police. So I sent the half-wit to confess the murder. You threw him out. Then I felt it was safe to confess to the murder myself. I did it at the banquet of Police Chiefs.

"Was not that a good joke?

"But I am tired of it, as I am tired of life itself. Come and get me at the following address.

"LOUIS AMEON HELIE BENET."

There was a rushing of detectives and reporters in taxis to the address given. A janitress met them.

"Yes, the strange little monsieur waited till half an hour ago. He did not tell me for whom he was waiting. But he said that I was to give this address to anyone who asked for him."

ALL the way across Paris rushed the police and the reporters, too, while their newspapers waited breathlessly for the flash over the wires that would tell of the capture of this remarkable murderer. But when the new address was reached a little boy was found with a note in his hands, "to be given to a lot of people who would come rushing up to the house."

"I apologize," the note read. "But I want to say goodby to a dear friend and I have to hurry off to"—— Still another address on the other side of Paris was given.

It became apparent by now that a practical joker was at work. But there was such circumstantial evidence in the letter of its genuineness that the police dared not risk letting the joker escape without a thorough investigation. So the whole crowd dashed off again to the new address, as the trail was so hot.

This time a note was found pinned on the door of a little apartment near the top of Montmartre.

"Sorry again. Have to find my friend, who seems to be as lively as a flea. But if you think I am still playing a joke, that is your risk. I will wait for you in the middle of Pont Neuf, the bridge on which I have dreamed so many vain dreams as I stood looking over my beloved Seine. If you come you can have me. Life is too huge a joke for me to bear it much longer."

Here half the reporters quit the chase, convinced that the whole thing was a good joke, but getting stale. So these went back to write what they knew of it. The other reporters, together with a squad of police, piled into a taxicab and rode pell-mell for Pont Neuf.

Traffic was not great on the bridge as the taxicab whirled up. So that a lone figure standing in the middle of the span, apparently waiting for someone, was visible for some distance.

"It's the man who announced himself at the police banquet," a reporter cried.

THE slight man with the quizzical smile waited until the foremost of the police was within 10 feet of him. Then, with a terrific effort, he got to the broad stone parapet of the bridge and stood up. And standing there, he shouted:

"Goodby, you joke of a world. It's I who play one on you!"

With that he launched out into space and shot down into the water.

A policeman who had won medals for rescues from drowning vaulted over the parapet and dove after Benet. But he came up without him.

It was not till late that afternoon that the body was found. But when a policeman tried to lift it out of the water he was astonished at its great weight. It was then that Benet's really last joke was discovered. He had weighted his pockets with stones.

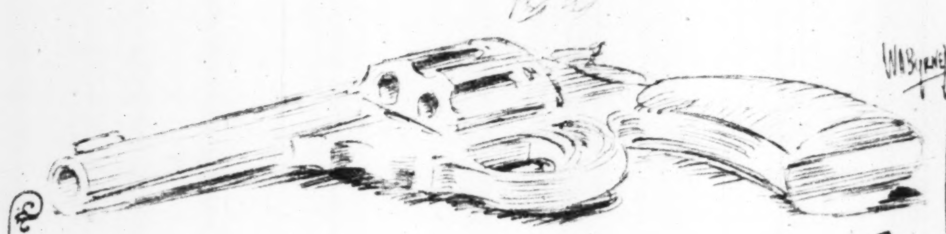
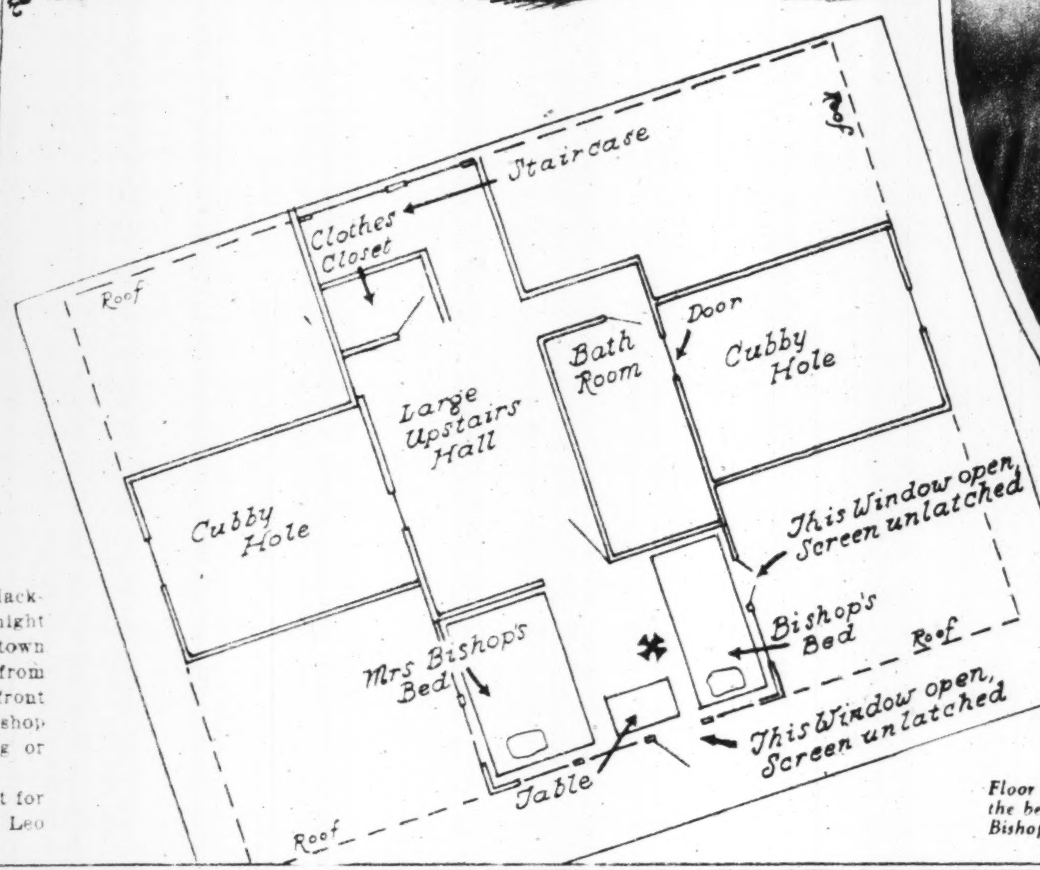
The Shooting of Luther Bishop

Luther Bishop.

"If Ever They Get Me," He Had Said, "It Will Be in My Sleep!" And "They" Did, But "Who?" "How?" and "Why?" Are Still Unanswered Questions.





Floor plan showing the bedroom where Bishop was killed.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Oklahoma.

LUTHER BISHOP was a two-gun detective. There were many who feared him and hated him and coveted his life. So his six-shooters were never out of his reach. He carried them constantly and slept with one under his pillow and the other on the floor near his bed. Awake, he knew no fear. "If they ever get me," he often said, "it will be when I'm asleep."

It came to pass as he had predicted. Death came to him in the darkness as he slept. But they say, now, that it was not those he mistrusted who killed him, but one he trusted. For his two guns, which long had protected him, were turned against him at the last, and these are the chief accusers.

Among Oklahoma's law officers there was not a greater than Luther Bishop, those who knew him say. Starting as a deputy sheriff, he rose to front rank in the State Bureau of Criminal Investigation and Identification. His life work was linked with most of the big cases in the State's criminal history. He worked up the evidence that convicted Charles Patterson, Jim McGraw and Bob Evans, members of a notorious band of bank robbers. He sent Henry Cornett and Walter O'Quinn to prison for 35 years for bank robbery. He did important work in the recent Osage murder cases, in which three prominent men were convicted. He had run to earth scores of dangerous criminals and helped convict crooks of high and low degree. He had been in critical situations many times, but usually managed to get his man without using his two guns, only one killing being on record in the line of his duty.

He well knew that he had bitter enemies and that his life was in danger, but he rarely spoke of it, and, depending upon his pistols, betrayed no fear.

He relied upon these even as he slept. His wariness was such that he wakened at the slightest sound. Those who knew him best doubted whether it would be possible for an assassin to force an entrance and attack him as he slept. His strategy, if such an attack were ever made, had long been planned. He would fling himself to the floor, sweeping with him the pistol under his pillow, snatch up the other one waiting his hand on the floor, and from that vantage point defend himself.

THE night that he was killed he may have slept more soundly than was his wont. He had returned the afternoon before from Sapulpa, where for three days and nights, with little sleep, he had guarded two convicted bank robbers and gangsters, brought from Creek County Jail to testify in another case. Unusual vigilance had been exercised because there were whispers that a daring delivery would be attempted, such as had been accomplished three weeks before in the release of Matthew Kimes, gang leader, at Salisaw. So when he came home he was exhausted from his vigil.

He lived, with his wife and 15-year-old son, Leo, in a bungalow of the "airplane" type, at 1515 West Twenty-eighth street. Mrs. Bishop's aged father, Charles Scoville, lived with them. There was tranquil domesticity in the home that Saturday night, following Bishop's return from Sapuipa. Loren Mackey, Leo's chum, had come to spend the night with him. The boys went downtown to fetch a pair of Bishop's trousers from the presser. They sat a while in front of the fireplace in the living room, Bishop and Scoville talking, the boys listening or joining in, Mrs. Bishop reading.

Bishop was frankly fatigued and unfit for much conversation. Presently he asked Leo to turn on the heater in the bathroom, and, after his bath, passed through the room in his bathrobe and said goodnight and went to the second-floor front room, built like a sleeping porch, which he and his wife occupied. Mrs. Bishop read a while longer and then went up. Scoville and the boys sat around the fireplace talking until 11 o'clock and then went to bed in the first-floor sleeping rooms. Leo remembers that he heard the clock striking 11 as he was getting into bed.

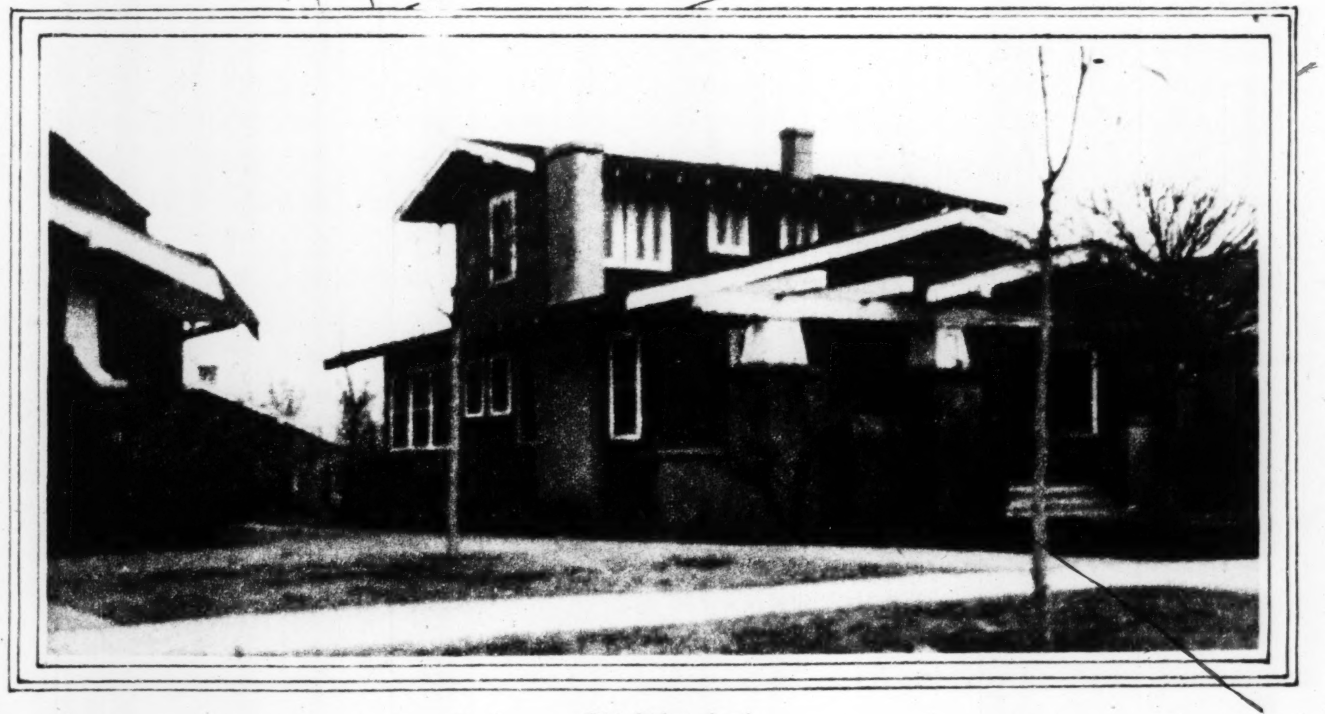
Bishop, as was his custom, had placed his pistols where they would serve him best if there were need during the night, one under his pillow and one under his bed, and it may be supposed that he was sleeping soundly when the others went to bed. It had been Mrs. Bishop's custom to sleep downstairs, but this night, because of the presence of Leo's chum, she shared the upstairs room with her husband, a narrow space separating their beds.

Bishop, however, did not sleep so soundly but that the tinkle of the telephone bell in the silent house, a little later, awakened him. He sprang out of bed and talked to Sheriff Sam Turner of Holdenville, who had called, and returned to bed.

FROM then until 2 o'clock Sunday morning there was silence in the Bishop household. Next door the family of Dr. Charles H. Fields was up late and until almost 2 o'clock the windows were aglow. The Fields house had been dark only a few minutes when, in the upstairs room of Bishop and his wife, there was a shot, quickly followed by several others. Mrs. Bishop screamed, the light flashed on. Then five more shots were heard. Members of the Fields family, from their windows, saw Mrs. Bishop's night-gowned figure silhouetted an instant in the upper hall, outside the sleeping room door.

Leo, awakened by the shots and his mother's scream, heard his father, in tones of anguish calling him. He ran upstairs, punching on the hall light as he passed the stair landing. He found his father lying on the bedroom floor. His mother was kneeling beside his father, begging him to speak to her. He called across from the window at the stair landing for Dr. Fields to come. He assisted his mother downstairs and let Dr. Fields in. They did not accompany the doctor upstairs. He came down presently and said Bishop was dying. Neither Mrs. Bishop nor the boy again went upstairs.

Bishop was dead when the police arrived.



The Bishop home.

Seven bullets had been fired into his body. He had first been shot in the back, apparently, as he lay on his left side, for the two bullet wounds in the back were powder burned. The range of the bullets indicated that the one who fired these shots was kneeling or crouching at Bishop's bedside. The bullets passed through his lungs. Flinging himself out of bed, snatching for his pistols and not finding them, Bishop had tried to reach the light switch, as blood marks on the wall and door frame indicated.

The firing continued, three bullets entering his left arm, one his right arm and one the left breast above the heart. One pistol was emptied and the firing was continued with another. The bullets were such as might have been fired from Bishop's own weapons.

Bishops two guns could not be found.

THE natural conjecture that Bishop had been killed by one of his known enemies was strengthened by the fact that the screens of two of the bedroom windows were found unlatched and one of the windows partly raised. There was further confirmation of the theory in the statement of neighbors that they heard an automobile driven rapidly away from in front of the house immediately after the shooting, though nobody saw it standing there, and they might have been misled by the sound of a passing machine which happened to be gathering speed as it went.

It was believed, at first, that the assassin had gained entrance during the day and concealed himself there, probably in one of the cubbyholes on the second floor, under the eaves, and, since no door was found unlocked, he must have leaped from one of the bedroom windows. But the dust in the cubbyholes had not been disturbed and there were no footprints in the soft soil under the windows.

And where were Bishop's guns?

IT WAS unbelievable that a gunman, while he might have removed them, would have taken the chance of using unfamiliar weapons. The gunnery, too, was not that of a practiced hand. The first shot had been fired through the bed clothing into the sleeping man's lower back, and was not calculated to be immediately fatal. A killer who knew his art would have sent a bullet crashing into his victim's head, where one would have sufficed, eliminating the hazard of resistance and facilitating flight. After the first two shots, fired as the man lay on his bed, the shooting was wild, although the white-clad figure of Bishop was a good target even in the darkness. It looked like the bungling butchery of an eager but unskilled hand.

Mrs. Bishop's statement was that when she was awakened by the shots and, after her first confusion, switched on the lights, she saw nobody except her husband, although neighbors say five shots were fired after the lights were turned on.

"Find Bishop's guns" was the public cry, and "Find Bishop's guns" was the order from superiors to the city, county, State and Federal men and private detectives who were working on the case. It had been noted immediately after the killing that the guns were missing and search was presumed to have been made for them, but they had not been found.

An inquest was begun by Coroner Giddings Monday at noon. The Coroner, in instructing the jury, stressed the importance of Bishop's guns being produced.

Monday afternoon B. O. Brown, a deputy sheriff, and Charles Riggs, a county evidence officer, went to the Bishop home. In a closet about 10 feet from the door of the room in which Bishop was killed they found the weapons. Telling about it later at the inquest, Brown said:

"Finally, I went to the closet, where some clothes were hanging, and examined them. Then I saw a blanket and some stuff on the floor, and a picture frame lying there, and I felt down there into a cereal box and found the pearl-handled gun. I called Riggs and laid it on the floor. Then I reached down and got the other gun. There were some torn rags, looked like pieces of a shirt, stuffed down around them."

Leo Bishop was there. He picked up the pearl-handled pistol, Brown said, and started to throw the cylinder out. Brown took it from him and threw the cylinder out. Two of its shells had been fired. All of the shells of the other weapon had been fired.

With the finding of the weapons, the question then was: "Who hid Luther Bishop's guns?"

If it was an "inside job," as was generally believed after the finding of the weapons, why had they not been removed to a better hiding place during the 36 hours since the killing?

ON THE theory that it was an "inside job," suspicion centered upon Mrs. Bishop. It was strengthened by reports of inharmonious relations with her husband, which had, on one or more occasions, culminated in public scenes, Mrs. Bishop berating her husband, in the presence of others, for derelictions she imputed to him.

City and county officials, seemingly reluctant to act, were constrained by the pressure of public sentiment to take Mrs. Bishop into custody that night. She spent the night in private quarters at the jail, but was permitted the next day to return home without any charge having been made against her. She sat at the inquest Wednesday and heard her son's testimony, in which was foreshadowed the suggestion, now definitely made, that the weapons were "planted."

The Coroner's jury returned an open verdict, naming nobody, and Prosecuting Attorney Wright refused to take any action unless somebody came forward to swear to an information.

Criticism of the authorities was increased by the summary dismissal of J. W. Long, chief of the Bertillon department of the city police force, for "insubordination," after he had stated that he had insisted, without success, upon a search of the Bishop home for the weapons the night of the murder.

Governor Trapp then took a hand, directing Attorney-General Short to "take part' in the investigation, and Dr. J. G. Duncan, head of the State Bureau of Investigation and Identification, was directed to place his entire staff at the disposal of the prosecuting officials.

The following Tuesday an information was issued charging Mrs. Bishop with the murder of her husband. She maintained her customary calm demeanor when she was arrested and locked up. The next day she was arraigned and pleaded not guilty, and her preliminary hearing was set for a week later.

At the hearing it developed that Mrs. Bishop had told Mrs. Fields, immediately after the shooting, that the shots that killed her husband were fired from outside the east window, at the head of her husband's bed. But if they were, how can the use of Bishop's pistols and their concealment be explained? Furthermore, Dr. Duncan testified that it would have been "impossible" for the shots to have been fired from the window.

At the conclusion of the hearing Mrs. Bishop was held without bail, but a habeas corpus proceeding, based upon the circumstantial character of the proof, resulted in her being released on $20,000 bail.

ATTORNEYS Suits and Hall, defending Mrs. Bishop, say it is plain that Bishop was slain by someone concealed in the house, to seal his lips or for revenge, and who escaped in an automobile. They dispose of the accusing weapons by saying that they were "planted" by the murderer or by a confederate where they were found. There was ample opportunity for this, they argue, for dozens of persons entered the house the day after the murder.

Mrs. Bishop finds comfort in going back to the Bible for a parallel instance of a woman before her accusers—

"And they which heard it, being convicted by their own conscience, went out one by one, beginning at the eldest and even to the last. . . ."

Wherein, as may be seen, she refers to the time, just after the inquest, when no man was willing to accuse her. It is her misfortune, she implies, that afterward her accusers conferred together and agreed to combine against her, therein digressing from the Biblical account.

It is on her son's account, more than on her own, that she sorrows over the accusation that rests against her. She has been more devoted to her son than to her husband, she admits. Her husband, for one thing, was away so much. She was thrown back upon her son for companionship. All her hopes are centered in him. It is his ambition to study for the ministry. It is something that his mother has cherished in her heart.

For a long time they did not tell Bishop of this, fearing that he might not approve, but he heard about it some way and asked Leo about it. The boy told him yes, he was going to be a minister.

"Well, son," said Bishop, "whatever work you take up, try to be the best in your line."

The woman's face lights up as she tells this. It is a sweet memory that the husband she is accused of killing approved the life work chosen by the son who has her heart's best devotion.

Is It ART or Just HARDWARE?

Custom Officials Settled the Question in Their Own Way by Taxing the Eccentric Sculpture of Constantin Brancusi— But the Controversy Still Rages.

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine.

NEW YORK—CONSTANTIN BRANCUSI is under the impression that he is an artist and the United States Customs Service is under the impression Mr. Brancusi is a Rumanian exporter of bronze, marble and other hardware. Right now it looks as though the Customs Service is the winner. At least as far as material things go, for they have decided that Mr. Brancusi's bronze work is taxable at the neat rate of 40 per cent. But that should not bother the Rumanian gentleman, for he isn't interested in the materialist viewpoint at all. But, if he has to part with $4000 of the $10,000 worth of what he contends is art which he has just sold, he then may not feel so ethereal. He may feel a bit material himself. He may even feel immaterial.

Brancusi, as you probably have figured out by this time, was born in Rumania. Then he went to Paris to study, and in Paris he still is. Paris has a way of getting some people in that manner. Especially artists. Well, Brancusi felt that the accepted ideas of art were pretty bad. He once said, "I'd rather do these things and be wrong, than do the Venus of Milo over again and be right." Something like he'd rather be wrong than President.

What does Brancusi do? He might be called the artist who glorifies the pattern of the egg. Note reproductions of the gentleman's work on this page.

"It is time we had art of our own," says Brancusi. In other words, it is time we had a new kind of art. So Constantin Brancusi set out to interpret the things of this world in his own peculiar style and succeeded in finding a most peculiar style. He wrought marble and bronze and wood and other materials into curves, pleasing enough in themselves and geometric enough; and out of a tapering piece of bronze he believed he had given an excellent reproduction of a golden bird. He took a piece of marble, formed a few curves, became enough of an academician to indicate what might be eyes, and blissfully called it "The Penguins."

This was one of the works he sent to America for exhibition.

Now, art objects are not taxable. But bronze is—at 40 per cent ad valorem.

Last December, when Brancusi shipped several pieces here for exhibition, customs officials took a look at Mr. Brancusi's output and shook their heads. It didn't look like art to them. So they refused to admit it, classed it as bronze and announced that the tax would be only 40 per cent of the value, gentlemen.

A controversy arose. Finally Brancusi's objects, art or what you will, were set free on bond and admitted into the United States of America.

Now the ancient question of "What is art?" has been raised again just about when a good many persons decided not to bother about it any more but form their own opinions as they saw fit.

When Inspector Dayton, specialist in metals, again raised the old question over a second Brancusi shipment, he was only asking what thousands have asked. But the United States Customs Service cannot wait for the verdict of history—not when a duty of 40 per cent is at stake. When the objects were admitted on bond the Inspector held one of them as an exhibit. He held a polished bronze called "Bird in Flight," or the "Golden Bird."

Paul Morand, the French critic, said, "His birds sing and fly through space." Percival Flanagan said, "His birds look like hell to me."

To get back to Inspector Dayton, after he looked at the Brancusis, he told Federal Appraiser F. J. H. Kracke he was a bit doubtful about them. Customs regulations say that art must represent "objects in their true proportions of length, breadth and thickness, or of length and breadth only."

"Bird in Flight" is a sort of slender egg poised on end.

When Mr. Brancusi's difficulties got about New York, several art critics went to see Kracke in behalf of Mr. Brancusi and Mr. Brancusi's art.

"I asked them," said Mr. Kracke, "if other recognized men would say it was art. They admitted that it was decidedly controversial. So that, of course, made me take the situation all the more seriously."

Feeling rather serious about it, Mr. Kracke proceeded to determine if Mr. Brancusi was or was not guilty of committing art.

"One man high in the world of art told me, 'If that's art, hereafter I'm a bricklayer,'" said Mr. Kracke. "Another said: 'Dots and dashes are as artistic as Brancusi's work.' In general, it was their opinion that Brancusi left too much to the imagination and that his work could not come under the duty-free catagory."

MARCEL DUCHAMPS, one of the French advanced artists, who is looking after Mr. Brancusi's affairs, said he was informed that the Customs Service had decided that if Mr. Brancusi's work was in marble or wood it was art, but that if it was in bronze it was not art—bronze being more valuable.

And on that basis the Customs Service decided that the whole shipment was subject to an ad valorem tax. But rather than pay it Mr. Duchamps took them all back to Paris.

Brancusi, himself, also returned to Paris and announced he would appeal the ruling of the Customs Service.

What have some of the artists of New York got to say about it?

While admitting the difficulty of reducing art to a phrase in a statute, they are agreed that it was a mistake to insist that it have a literally "representational" quality.

"A standard is necessary for purposes of law," said James Earle Fraser, the sculptor, "but the strict application of this customs definition would be unfortunate. Take, for instance, the Acroteria, the glorious imaginative design on top of the Parthenon. It is unquestionably one of the most beautiful things in the world. Yet in the literal sense it doesn't 'represent' anything at all."

"I went to school with Brancusi at the Beaux Arts," said Arthur Lee, "and while I no longer have any sympathy with his 'eggs', you can say for me that he's getting a shabby deal."

"Legislators are butter-and-egg men," said George Luks, painter. "Measure art with a tape-line—that's a great joke. Suppose you wanted to do a picture of 'Babe' Ruth batting. How are you going to get the measurements of that big shape in action, do you suppose? Art is distortion. It isn't truth and it isn't nature."

Said Rockwell Kent, "It's the silliest opinion I ever heard of. No doubt they're right on the law, but why should legislators try to settle a question that philosophers gave up long ago?"

Whatever art is, it is quite apparent that most of Mr. Brancusi's endeavors are not conventional art. But they're certainly not stovepipes, automatic washing machines nor votes for Al Smith. Neither have the persons who pay good money for them any intentions of melting them down, very likely. It looks like the Government's being just a bit dogmatic.

An American Merchant Shipped to Siberia in a Cage

RIGA, Latvia.

A UNITED STATES citizen, Aaron Copman, aged 48, has arrived destitute at the Latvian frontier, escorted by agents of the Ogpu (Cheka), after terrible experiences in Soviet prisons and concentration camps since 1925. A Latvian official lent Mr. Copman money to purchase a ticket for Riga.

Copman arrived in Moscow at the end of 1924 with his passport in proper order to negotiate with the Soviet authorities on behalf of a number of United States firms for the importation of paper, pencils, cutlery and films from the United States. The Soviet representatives discussed matters for months without concluding any business, but in the autumn of 1925 Copman agreed to deliver to the Government of Pskoff stores of paper worth $150,000 on 10 months' credit, an offer which the New York houses confirmed by telegraph.

On November 23, 1925, the agents of the Ogpu arrested Copman and confiscated all his papers and money. There was no trial, but it was eventually announced that Copman stood condemned to three years in a concentration camp "for breach of the State monopoly regulations." He was placed with 137 others, mostly criminals, in "a cage upon wheels such as menageries use for wild beasts, which was coupled to a train and taken towards Siberia as far as the station of Usolskaya, in the Province of Perm. The prisoners were then marched on foot for 100 miles through snow, often knee-deep, in which many collapsed. They were compelled to hew wood and to build their own log cabins for the concentration camp, which was in the middle of the forest on the banks of the Petchera, 30 miles from Cherdyn, among the foothills of the Ural Mountains.

About 10 per cent of the prisoners were of the merchant class and were "political" offenders, and they suffered greatly, both mentally and physically, from inhuman treatment in the midst of a collection of criminals. Copman's particular companion, Ilchenko, a graduate of an agricultural college, aged 28, and a member of the Social Revolutionary party, attempted flight on August 15, 1926, but the Cheka agents shot him with an expanding bullet, which shattered his knee, and dragged him to the camp, where he was left to bleed to death. Not only were his companions not allowed to help him, but his living body was stripped, because clothing was scarce. The starosta, or senior prisoner, a former member of the Cheka, named Muratoff, from Tiflis, took Ilchenko's boots, and during the attempt to draw them off he tore Ilchenko's wounded leg from his body.

Other prisoners were wantonly shot on small provocation, including a certain Koroloff. Copman's statement, if accurate, gives some idea of the horrors of the outlying places of confinement in Soviet Russia. He estimates that the prison camps in the U. S. S. R. contain, although this sounds incredible, more than 10,000,000 prisoners, of whom 150,000 are in Moscow alone. He presumes that his American firms instituted inconvenient inquiries, because he was sent to Moscow on November 19 last, and after stopping at numerous prisons en route was thrust across the frontier yesterday and "banished everlastingly from the U. S. S. R."

THE FIRST PAGE OF THIS MAGAZINE

THE color and picturesqueness of Brittany's coast are vividly caught in "Sardine Boats of Brittany," a painting by Wallace Bassford of St. Louis, reproduced on the cover. In the summer of 1926 Bassford spent some time among the quaint towns of Brittany and with the art colony at Concarneau, where this picture was painted.

Mr. Bassford studied under Edmund H. Wuerpel, Gustav Goetch, Fred Carpenter and others at the St. Louis School of Fine Arts, Washington University, subsequently going to Provincetown, Mass., working there for three seasons with that gathering of American artists, and then to Quebec and the lower St. Lawrence painting and sketching. Prior to going to Brittany he went to historical Scotland and rural England, drawing numerous cathedrals, and to Holland and Belgium.

Soaked Whiter

Why work so hard on washday?

—Try this "no scrub" way

NO hard rubbing this way. No boiling, even, to heat the kitchen and waste fuel. Just soak and rinse for the whitest, brightest wash ever!

The difference is all in the soap. Use Rinso, and clothes soak whiter than you could scrub them. Millions prove it every week. The makers of 30 leading washing machines endorse Rinso for safety, and for a whiter wash.

Rinso gives thick suds even in hard water. Rich, creamy suds — not frothy soap bubbles. So easy on the hands.

Easy on the clothes, too. They aren't scrubbed thin the gentle Rinso way.

You'll say there's nothing like Rinso, once you've tried it. Why not this next washday. Get it today.

CHILDREN CRY FOR

Fletcher's CASTORIA

When Baby Complains.

There are many ways a baby has of expressing any pain or irregularity or digression from its normal condition of health and happiness. A short sharp cry, a prolonged irritated cry. Restlessness, a constant turning of the head or of the whole body, fretful. In these and other ways a baby tells you there is something wrong. Most mothers know that a disordered stomach, or bowels that do not act naturally are the cause of most of baby's sufferings. A call for the doctor is the first thought, but in the event of any delay there should be ready at hand a safe remedy such as Fletcher's Castoria.

Castoria has been used for baby's ailments for over 30 years and has merited the good will of the family physician in a measure not equaled by any other baby's medicine because of its harmlessness and the good results achieved.

And remember this: Castoria is essentially a baby's remedy and not a cure-all for every member of the family. What might help you is too often dangerous when given to a babe.

The Chapeau and the Derby have the same effect ~ Dandruff

We can't discard our hats—but we can dispose of dandruff! For hair that has life and lustre, rid the scalp of dandruff's dead scale. That's all that need be done, and Danderine does it!

A few drops of Danderine will conquer the worst case of dandruff completely. And give any hair a natural sheen that rivals brilliantine! Furthermore, the hair will wave better, and behave better.

Why experiment with "hair tonics" or things not even meant for people's heads? Danderine will put your scalp in perfect condition, and keep it that way. It gives oldest hair a healthy gleam; gives new hair a chance to grow.

Any druggist will tell you how Danderine does its work, and will give you back your thirty-five cents if it doesn't! So, try a little today or tonight—and see what happens!

Look at Me Now!

You Can Grow New Hair Quick

I'm Vreeland. I take my own medicine. I practice what I preach. Look at my pictures above. Both bonafide photographs. No retouching. No changing of any sort. The first one shows me a bald headed man—getting balder every day. I dreaded to comb my hair—so much of it came out on the comb. Every shampoo left me a little more naked. The flies and mosquitoes bit in the summer and it got cold under my hat in the winter. "Gee, Vreeland, you're certainly getting bald," was tossed at me day and night. I looked 10 years older than I should. At the beach I heard one sweet thing refer to me as "Old Baldy"—and I a little over 30. I thought everybody sitting behind me at the theatre was looking at my bald spot. Men, it was no joke to be bald. You who are bald know it. I'm not telling you a thing.

When I was bald I would have given $500 for a head of hair. There isn't one among you who wouldn't do the same thing today.

But I'm bald no longer as my photograph will prove. Neither need you be bald unless you want to be. So keenly did I feel my baldness, made worse by my contact with other men who had full heads of hair, that I went to work on myself. If there was any way to make hair grow I was going to find it out. I set up a laboratory in my bathroom and there I tried out treatments originated by myself based on the soundest physiological facts. It was my hair and I could do what I pleased with it. I had a definite theory—and had not a lot of men like Edison done things which had not been done before? The details are not interesting. Disappointment, of course, at the start—then success.

My hair began to grow! I tried it on other bald-heads whom I knew. Hooray—their hair grew! My friends and their friends were pop-eyed. I was almost mobbed by bald-heads who wanted hair. Whether I'm the first to unearth the great hair-growing secret, I don't know—but listen to this—

Money Refunded

If I don't grow hair on any head under 45 years old if baldness was not caused by scars or burns.

Pay Me Nothing—

Nothing at All If You Don't Grow Hair by Using My Treatment

If you are a bald-headed man or woman or if you are getting bald—if your hair is falling out because of dandruff and you are afraid and think you might be bald some day, write to me and I'll send you all the proof you want—plenty of pictures of other hair-covered heads besides my own—heads which once were as bald or balder than mine. If you are under 45, and if you did not lose your hair from burns or scars, I'll refund every cent of money you pay me if you do not cultivate a growth of hair even in advanced stages of baldness. No apparatus. Just a simple home treatment.

Write Now—Just Send a Postal

You may not see this advertisement again because I don't do much advertising—so write while you have the chance to grow new hair quick. You can't get my treatment in stores yet—I'm too busy actually growing hair on heads that are bald. Write. I'll send you photographs, names and addresses of people who have actually grown hair.

ST. LOUIS POST - DISPATCH

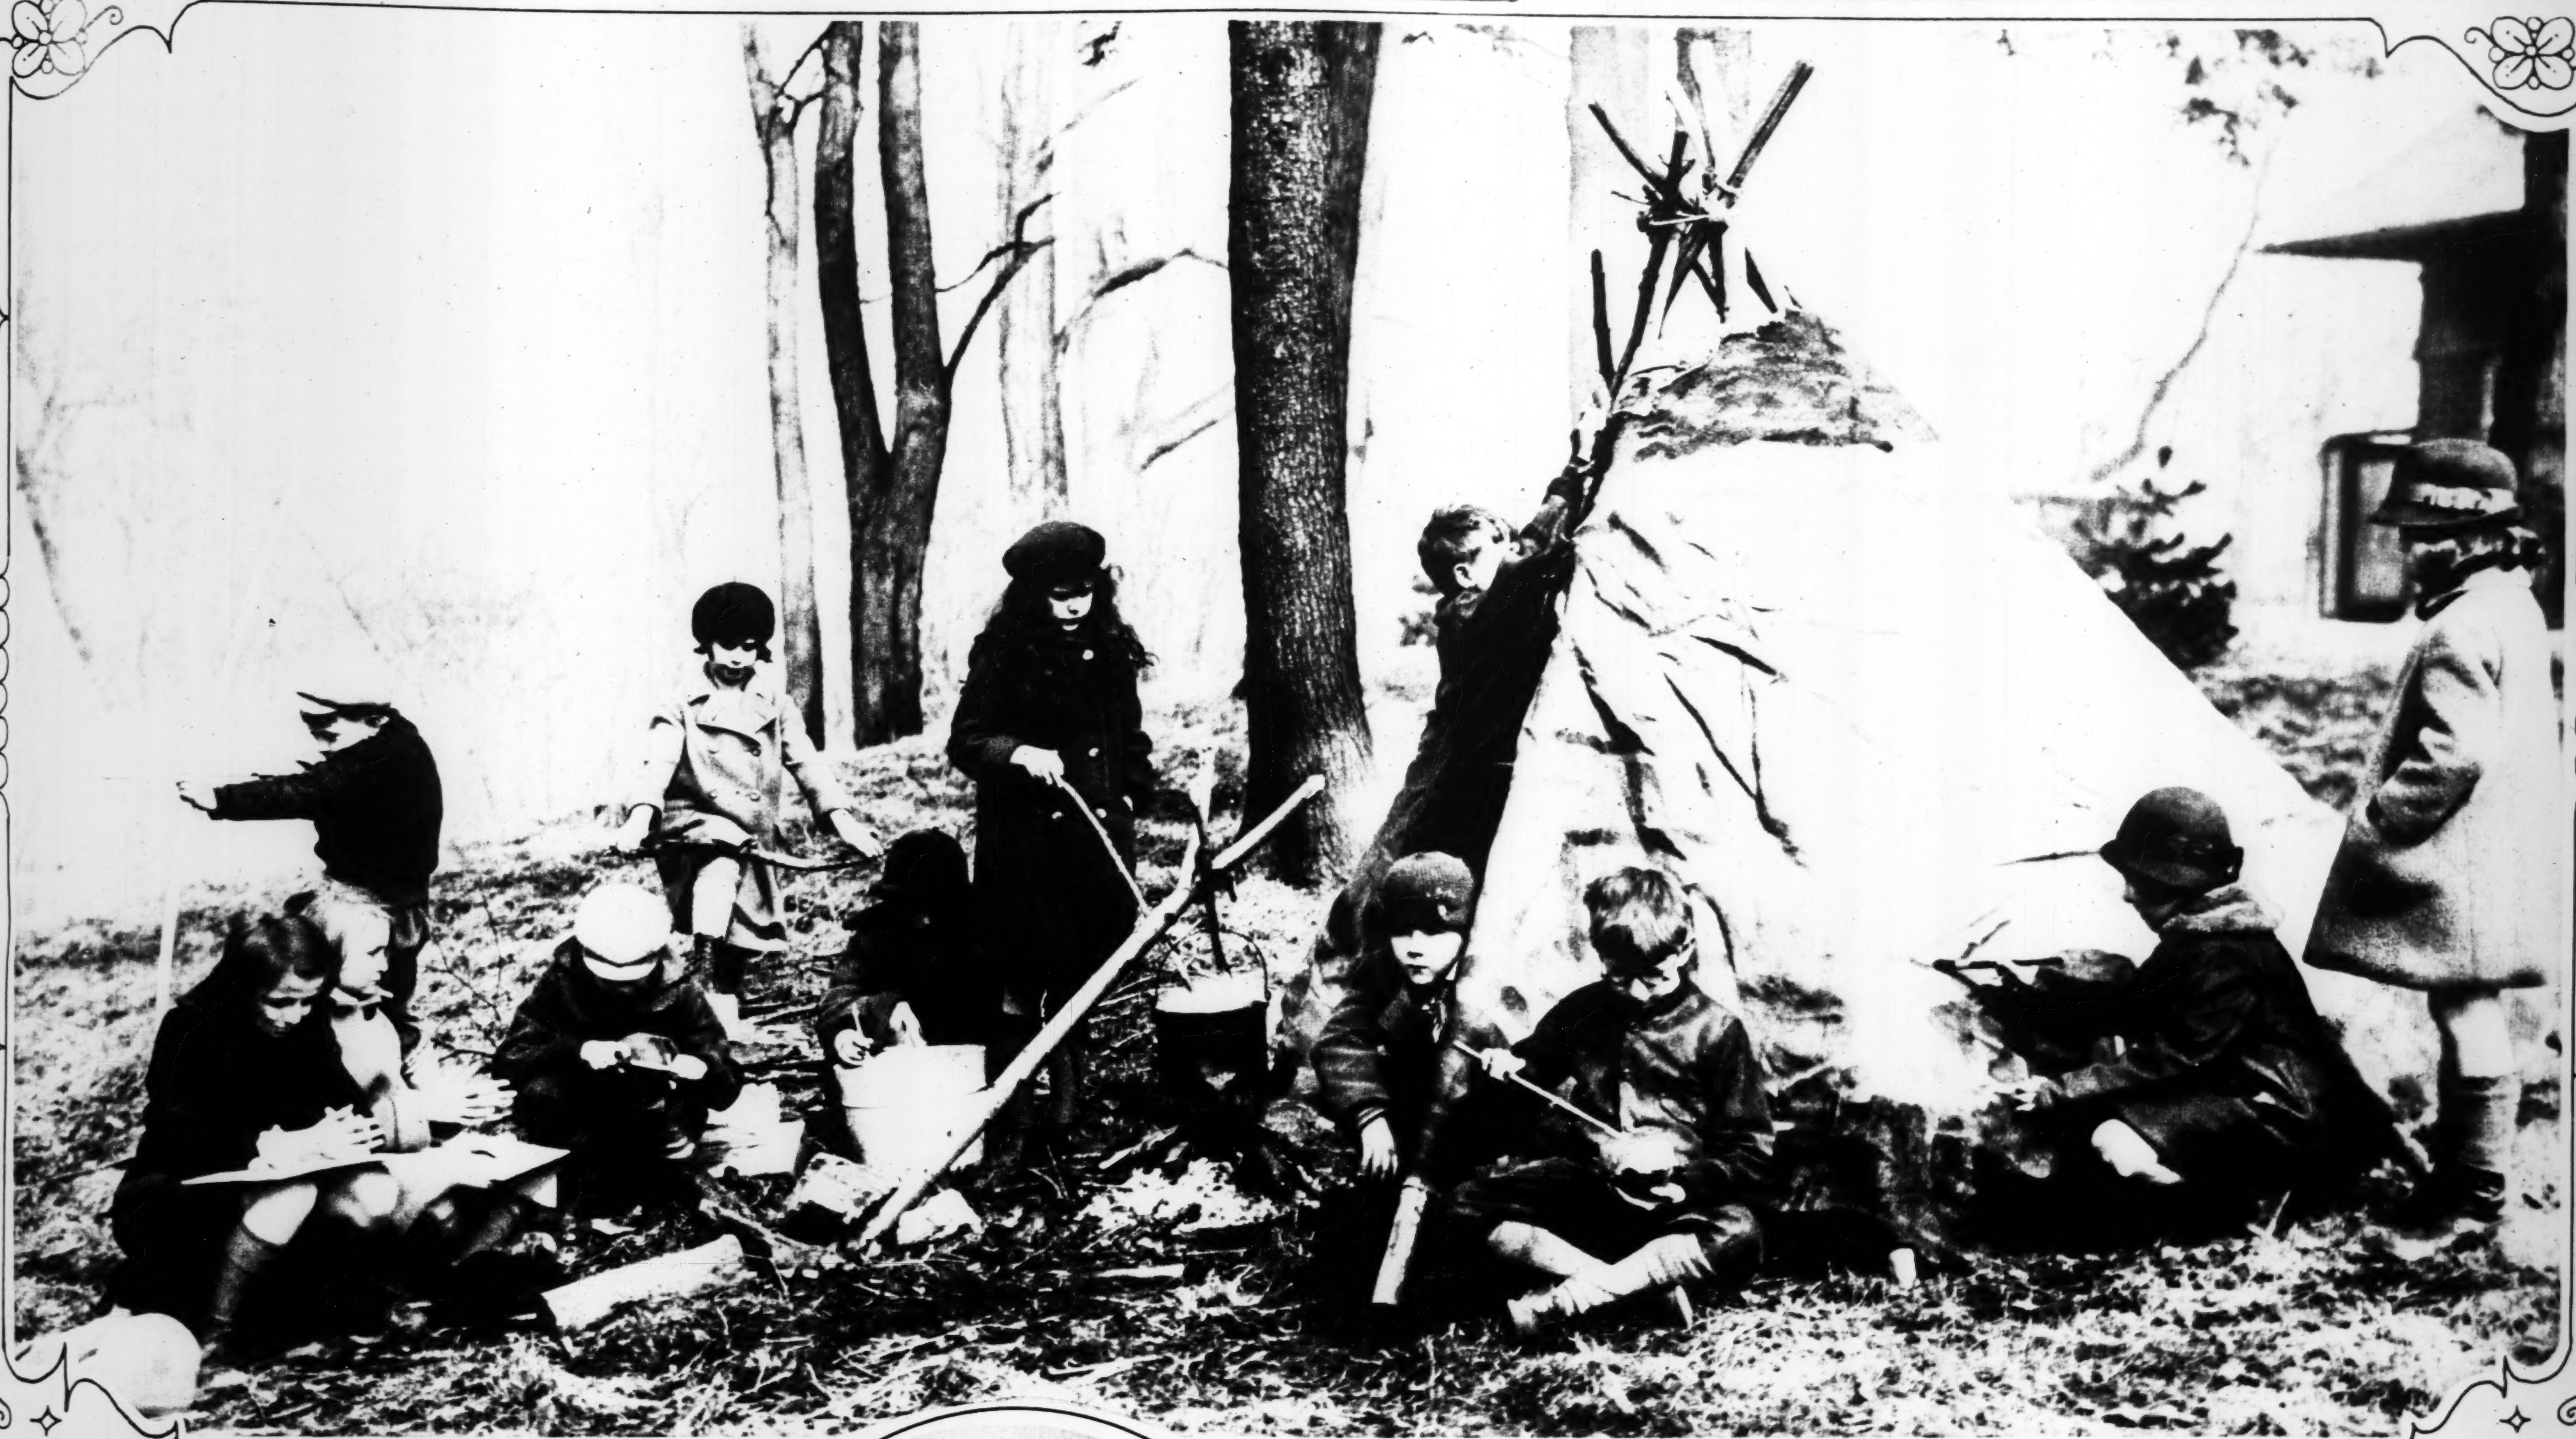
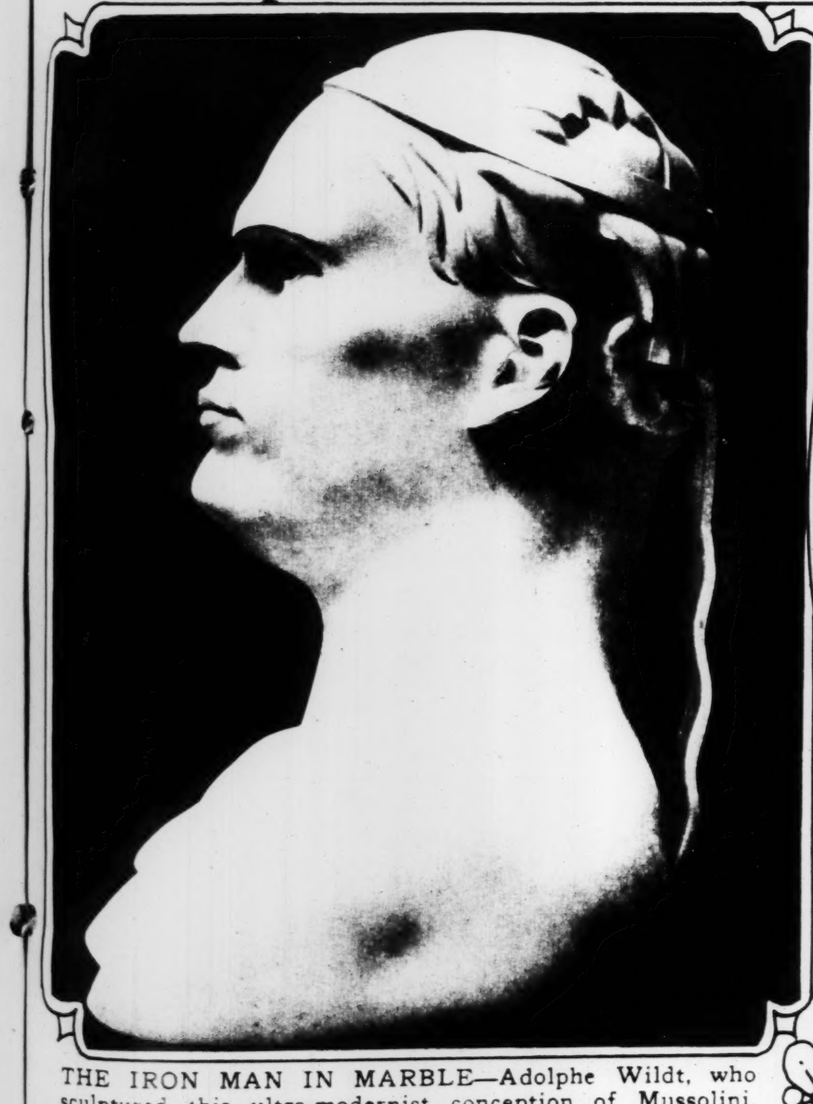
MARCH 27, 1927

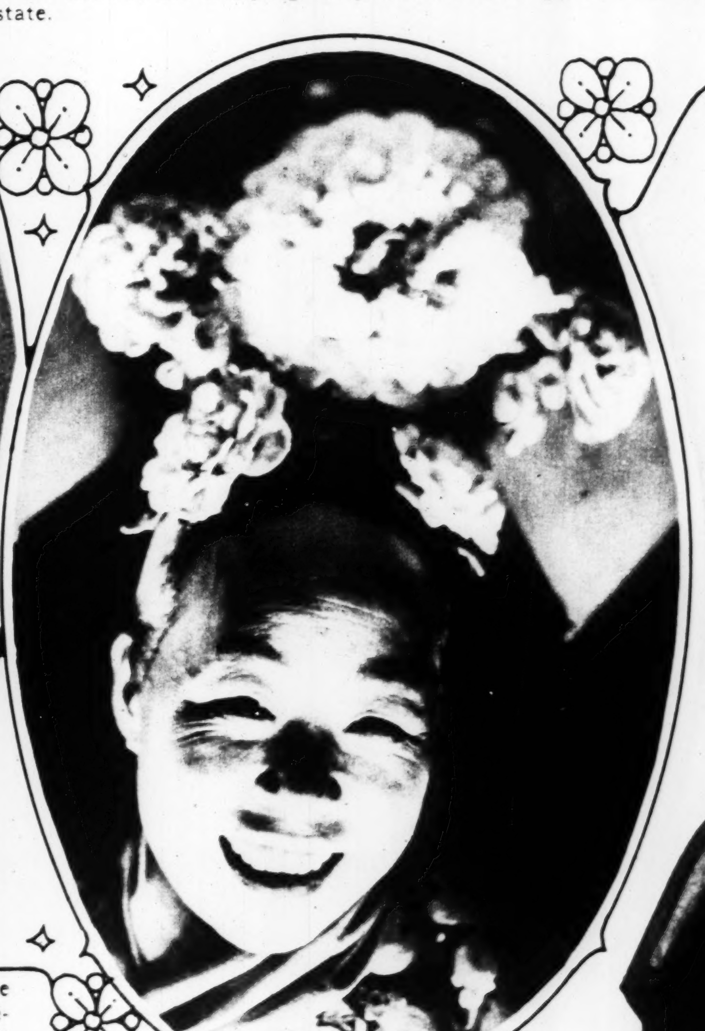


NOW IT'S MAPLE SUGAR TIME IN YORK STATE—Younger children of the exclusive Scarsborough School on the Hudson are studying the process of boiling down the sugar in an old maple grove on the Frank A. Vanderlip estate.
—Underwood & Underwood.

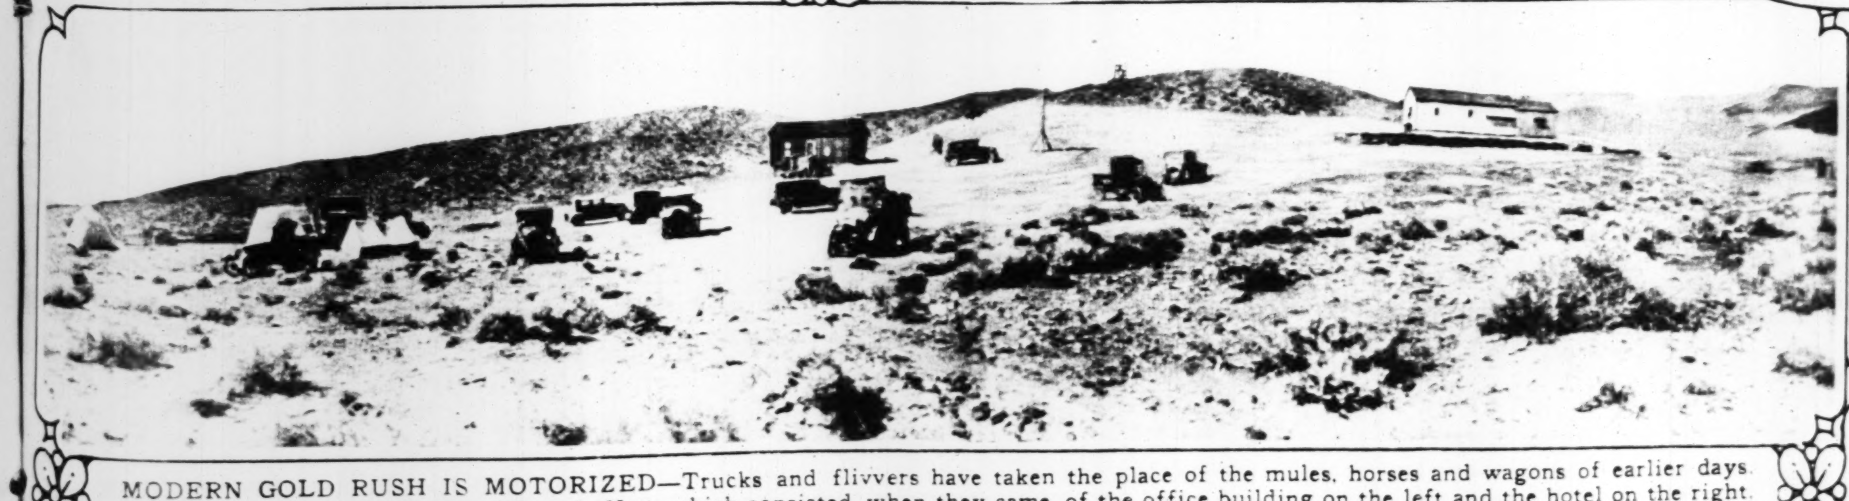


THE IRON MAN IN MARBLE—Adolphe Wildt, who sculptured this ultra-modernist conception of Mussolini, Italy's man of destiny, calls it "The Caesar of Today."
—Underwood & Underwood.

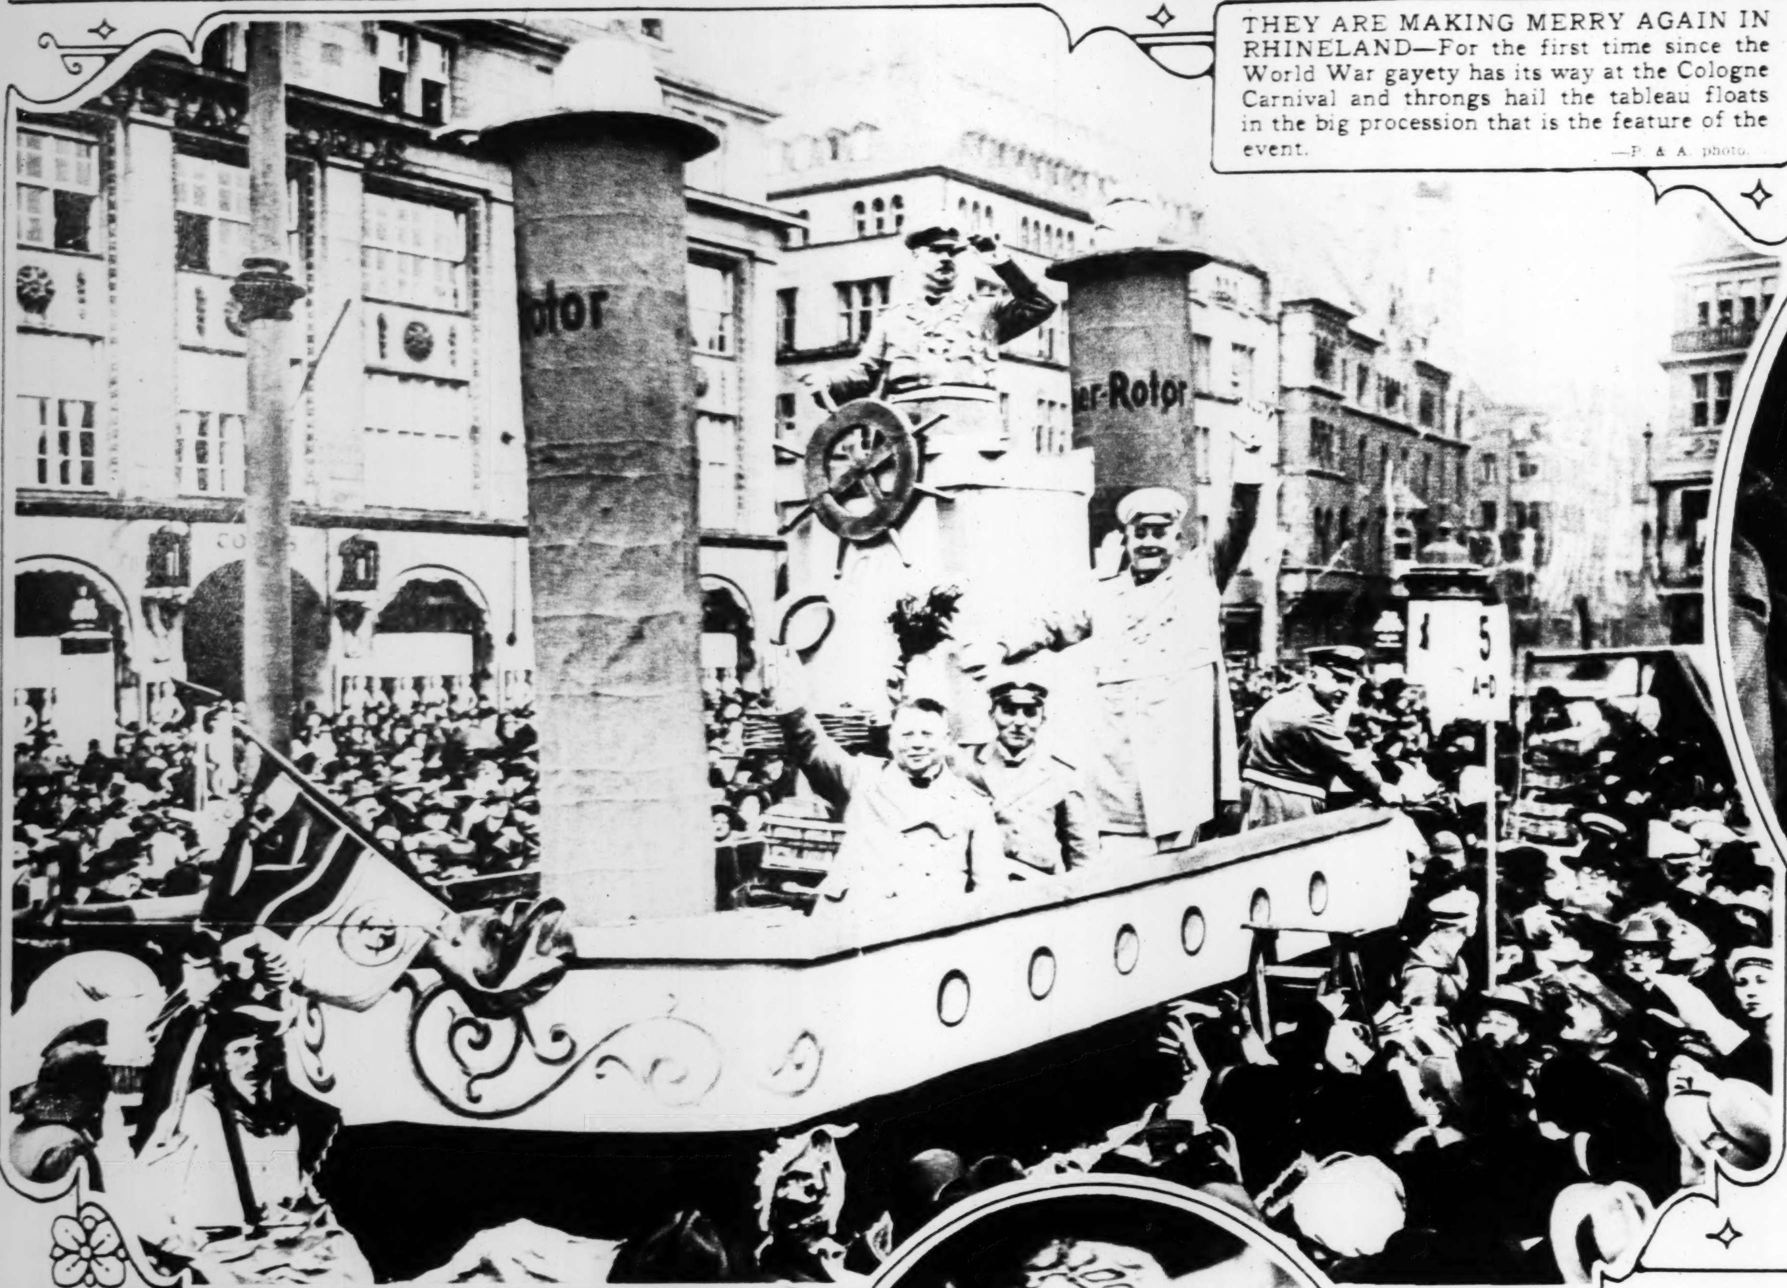
THIS IS MISS NEW HAMPSHIRE—Otherwise Miss Leola Pearl Hamel of Newport, who will represent the Granite State at the national beauty contest at Atlantic City.
Keystone photo.



THE OLD AND THE NEW IN CHINA—It may be doubted whether the elderly person in the quaint headdress knows what all the fighting is about, but Miss Wen Yin Kwong, 24-year-old graduate of Iowa State College, is years ahead of most China girls in style.
—Herbert and International photos.



MODERN GOLD RUSH IS MOTORIZED—Trucks and flivvers have taken the place of the mules, horses and wagons of earlier days. Here are the advance arrivals at Weepah, Nev., which consisted, when they came, of the office building on the left and the hotel on the right.
—P. & A. photo.

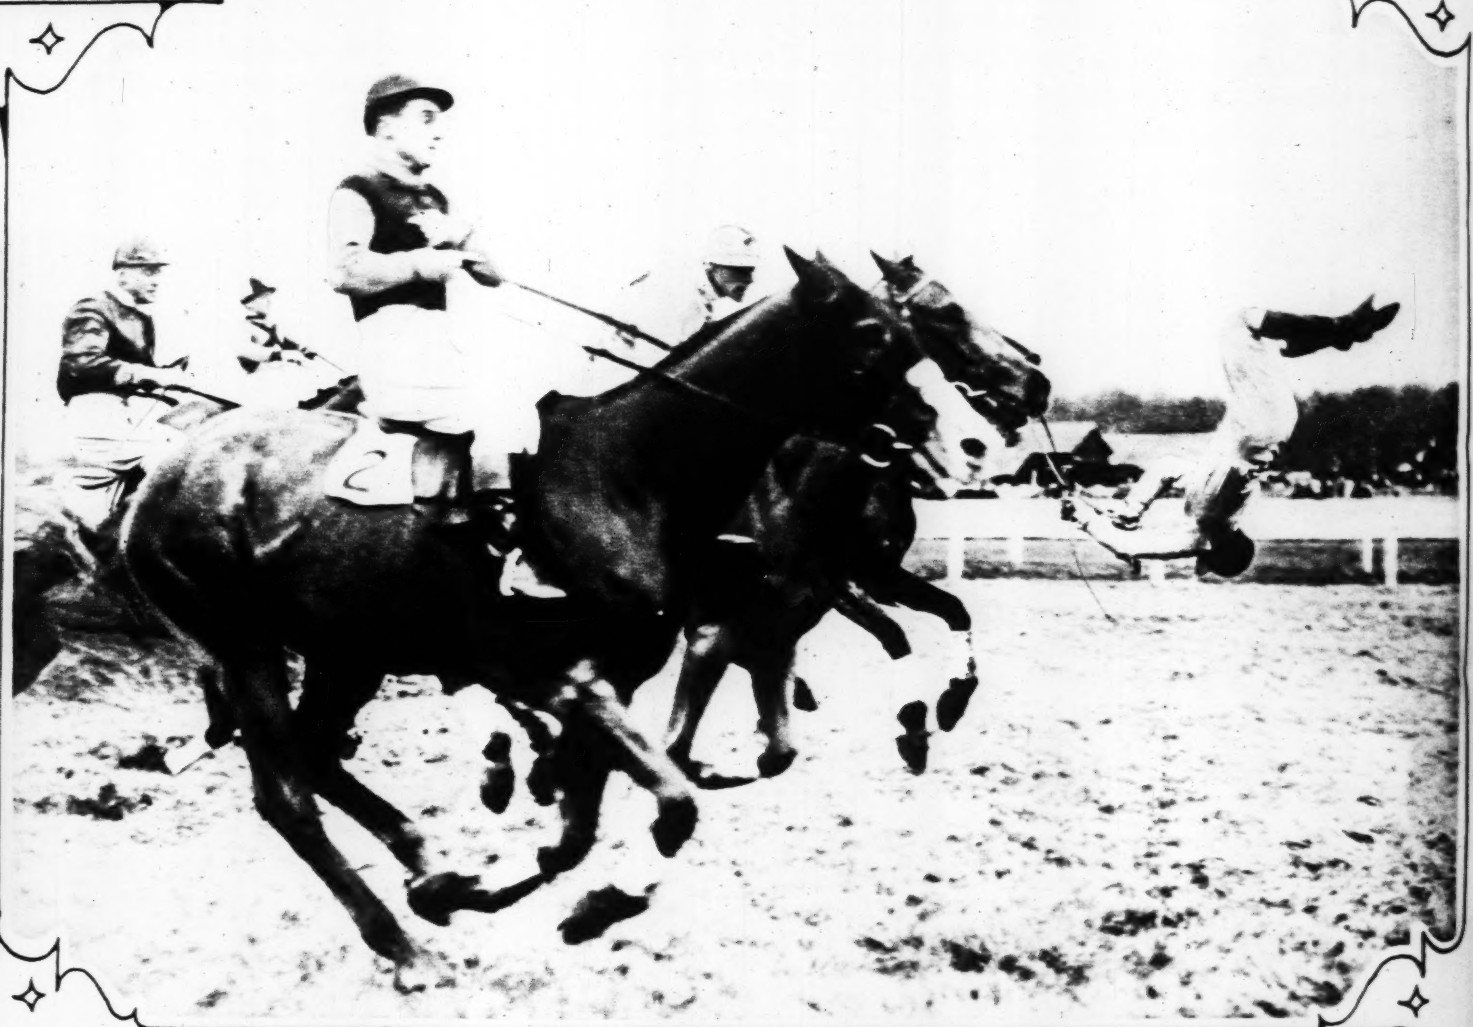


THEY ARE MAKING MERRY AGAIN IN RHINELAND—For the first time since the World War gayety has its way at the Cologne Carnival and throngs hail the tableau floats in the big procession that is the feature of the event. —P. & A. photo.

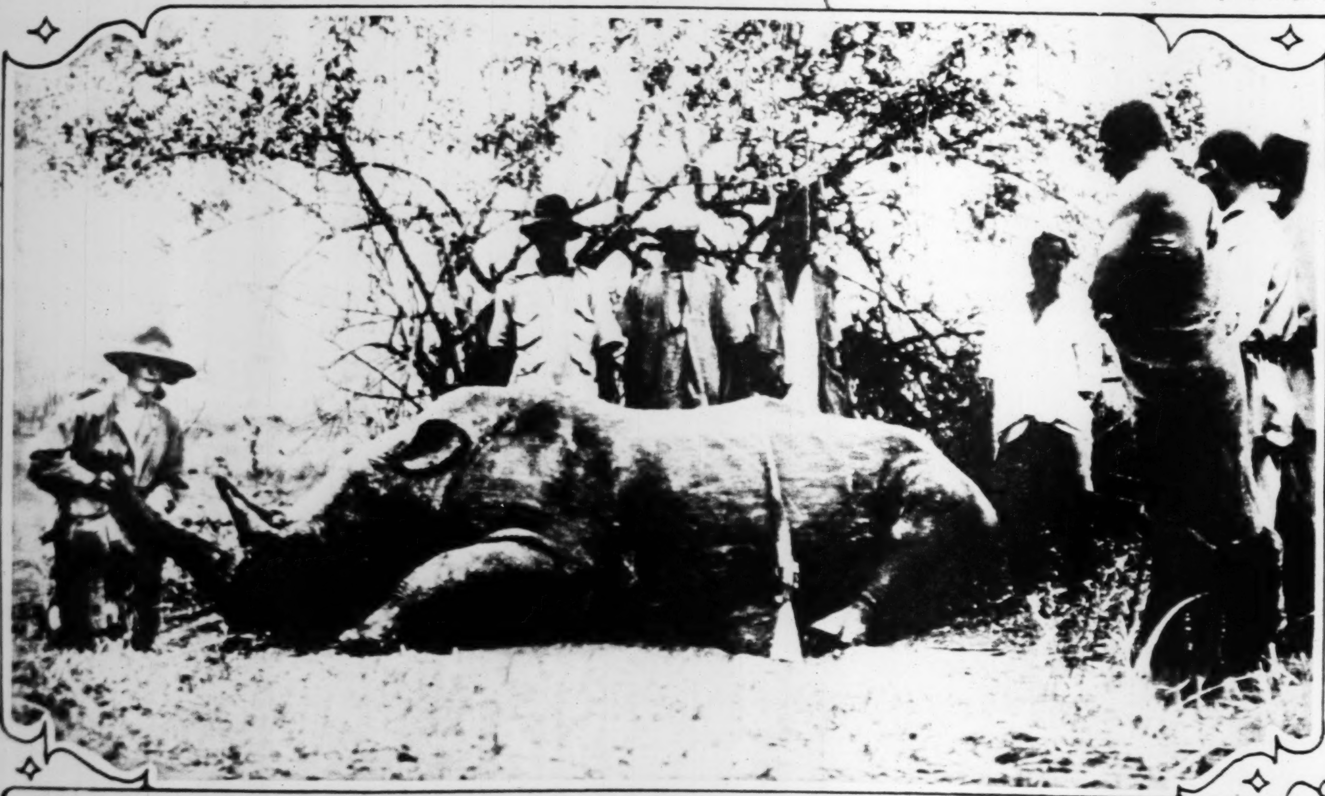
WHEN DEATH HIDES IN THE PIT—Canary sent down into the Monmouthshire mine after the disaster to test the air for gas, pays for the proof with its life. —Underwood & Underwood.

FEATHERED SONGSTER FROM FAR AUSTRALIA—Jennie Golder, tricked out like this, is appearing at the Palace Theater Paris, in a revue called "Palace aux Dames." She dances, too. —Wide World photo.

SOMETHING SNAKY FOR A LADY—Genuine snakeskin is the material used in this hat and coat, designed in Paris, for the outdoor wear of a sportswoman. —P. & A. photo.



A FLYING STOP IN THE STEEPLECHASE—Being a remarkable camera record of an episode in which E. Foster was tossed over the head of W. Phillip's "Miss Caubeen" in the Chequer handicap at Gatwick, England. The rider was not seriously injured. —Acme photo.



WHITE RHINOCEROS IS TROPHY OF A DAUGHTER'S DEVOTION—When Bernard de Watteville, famous big game hunter, was seeking the rare beast in Africa, he was killed by a lion, but his 20-year-old daughter, Vivienne, found one and killed it. —Herbert photo.

ENGLAND ACCLAIMS HER "MOST BEAUTIFUL"—A portrait study of Joan Zockton, who is looked upon over there as the superlative among stage and screen stars. —Underwood & Underwood.

ROOSTERS PERCH ON A PRECARIOUS ROOST—Tom Thumb and Major Dot, bantams, are sitting pretty right now, but what if Buck should take a notion to bark! —Underwood & Underwood.

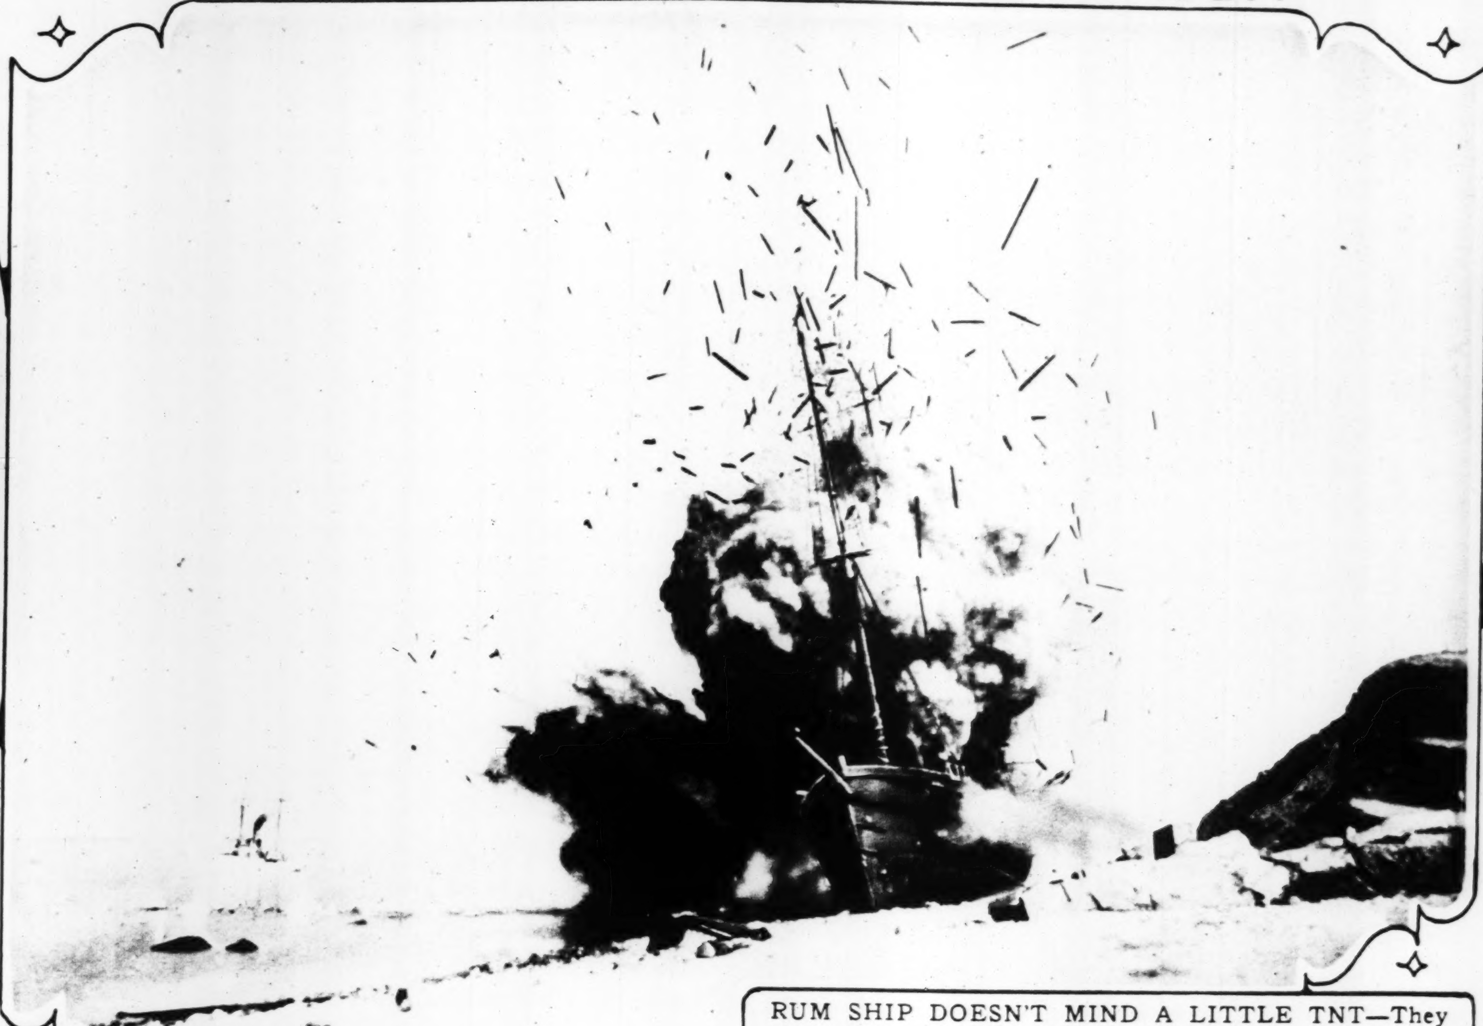
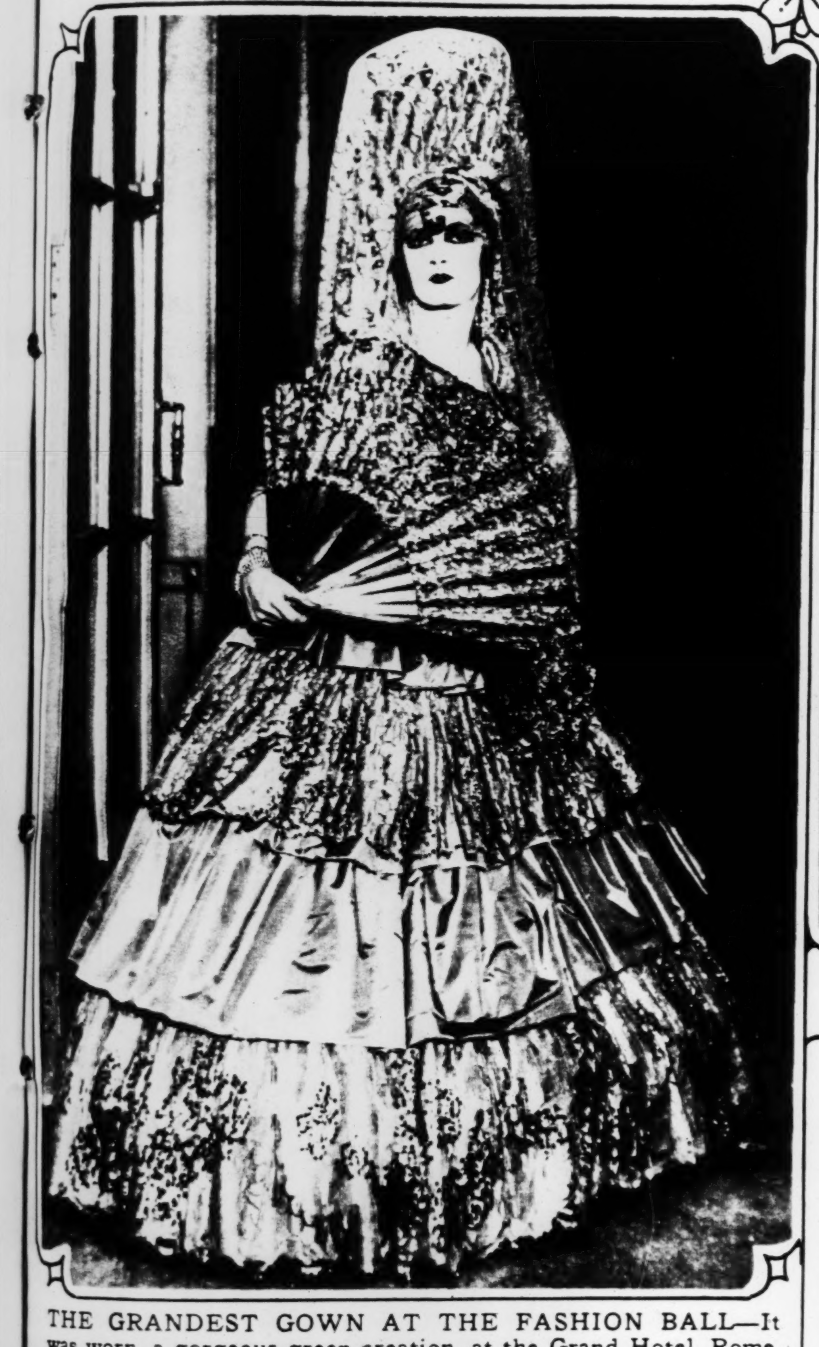
THE ST. LOUIS POST-DISPATCH

TWICE WINS TWIN CITIES' BEAUTY PRIZE——Now Miss Pearl Cramer has been chosen to represent St. Paul at the International Pageant of Pulchritude to be held this spring at Galveston, Tex. —P. & A. photo.



RUM SHIP DOESN'T MIND A LITTLE TNT—They used 100 pounds of explosive on the hulk of the schooner W. T. Bell after it went aground at Bayville, N. Y., with $300,000 worth of liquor aboard, but it wasn't wholly shattered, at that. —P. & A. photo.

"THE EYES HAVE IT," AS THEY SAY IN PARIS—Being the eyes, this time, of Mlle. Nadia Vildy, declared by optic experts to be the most beautiful, in a contest with 200 other pairs. —Herbert. photo.

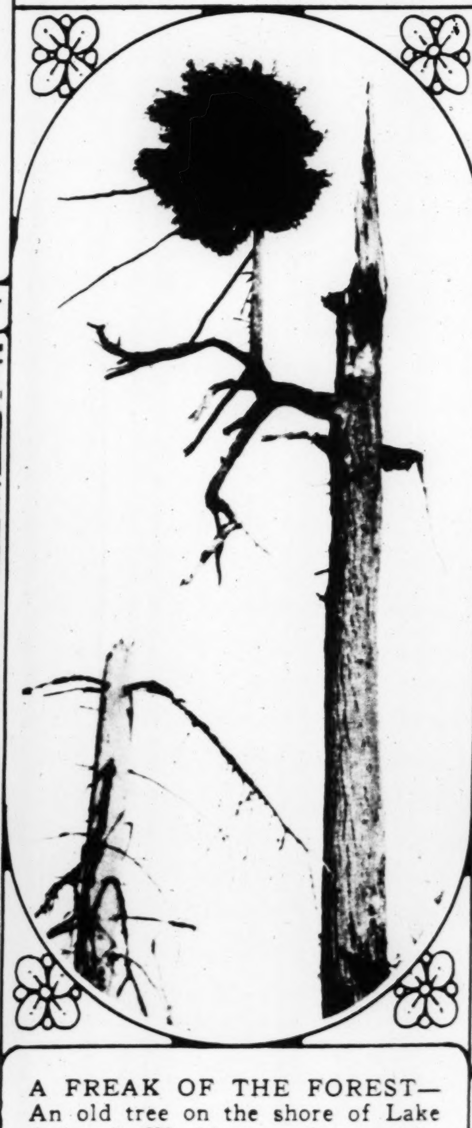


THE GRANDEST GOWN AT THE FASHION BALL—It was worn, a gorgeous green creation, at the Grand Hotel, Rome, at an event attended by the highest aristocracy, and won the prize. —P. & A. photo.

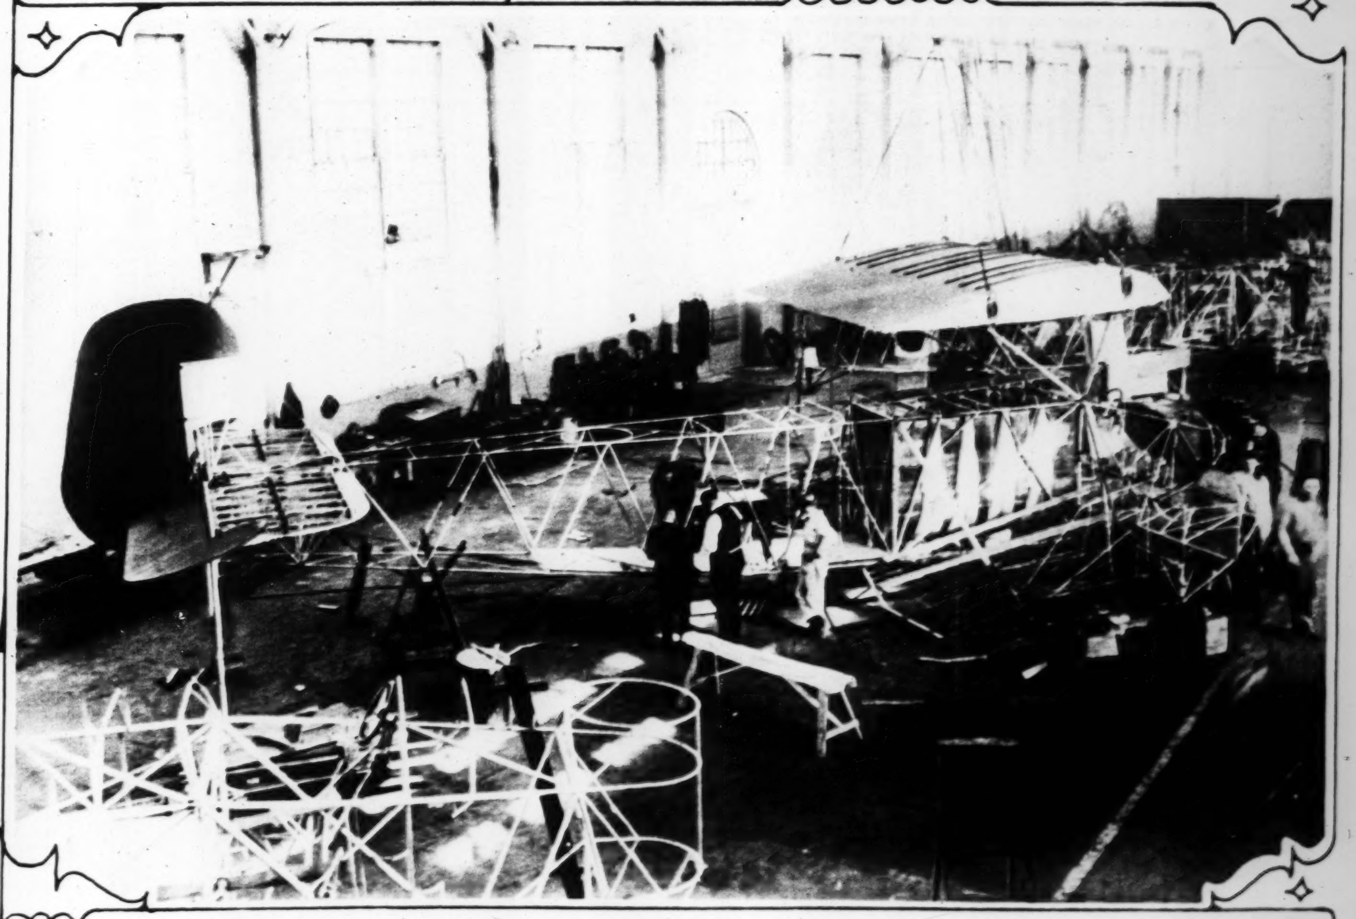
ALL READY FOR THEIR MORNING ROMP—The Hollywood Music Box Revue girls take it in the water, which helps to keep them fit and braces them for the daily grind at the studio. —International photo.

BRIGHT DAYS IN THE BAHAMAS Mrs. John Davis of St. Louis, who has been spending part of the winter at Nassau, pauses in a garden stroll to have speech with Polly. —Underwood & Underwood.

THE JURY STANDS SIX TO SIX—Six women and six men, that is, in the Sapiro-Ford case at Detroit. The women, left to right—Mrs. Grace Stiles, Mrs. Clare Hoffman, Mrs. Grace Jewel, Miss Anna Konen, Mrs. Emma Clarkson, Mrs. Anna Brown. The men—Carl Haag, Amor Durst, Ernest Schwein, Herman Schoenhals, Charles Parkhurst, Charles Daly. —Acme photo.



A FREAK OF THE FOREST—An old tree on the shore of Lake Quinault, Washington, shattered by storm and fire, gives birth to a young one on its topmost branch. —Underwood & Underwood.



BUILDING THE KEYSTONE PATHFINDER—The plane in which Lieutenant-Commander Noel Davis will attempt a flight from New York to Paris, sponsored by the American Legion. —International photo.

ART POSES BY TWO OF THE YOUNGEST FILM STARS—Barbara Kent (left) in negligee of rose-colored satin, trimmed with cream-silk lace, and Marian Nixon in a Chinese ceremonial robe for a negligee.

—International photo.

—Wide World photo.

POSING WITH A POSY—The poser is Ruth Jardine, 10-year-old daughter of the Secretary of Agriculture, and the posy is a white amaryllis which took the prize at the Washington Amaryllis Show.

—Herbert photo.

"HOME, SWEET HOME" IS TO BE SOLD—Gray, weather-beaten farmhouse, built in 1760, where John Howard Payne lived as a boy, is believed to have been the inspiration for the home song he composed.

—Herbert photo.

METHUSELAH AND THE MAID—Methuselah is the oldest and largest alligator in the world, and the maid is Miss Betty Wright of New York City, and the picture was taken at Miami, Fla.

2 DRESSES for $1.69

Regular and Extra Sizes

Delivery Free

DON'T SEND ONE PENNY

JUST send your name and address—no money—and I will send these two dresses to you. This is a wonderful opportunity to get 2 dresses that can be worn either for street or house wear, for about half their regular price.

One dress is made of plain linene with collar, front panel and imitation pocket tabs of figured pongette. Pleats at each side of the skirt. Slip-over model. The other dress is made of a guaranteed fast color cotton crepe in newest small floral designs. It is trimmed with imitation crochet lace on collar, front of waist and skirt. The skirt is shirred across the front in a full flare effect. Guaranteed to wash perfectly. They are remarkable bargains at the price we ask. Do not think they are cheap because the price is so low, as they are worth about double our price. COLORS: The linene dress comes in tan only; the other dress in blue figured designs. Sizes to fit misses 14, 16 and 18 yrs; women, 32 to 44 bust.

JUST write us a letter, and be sure to give size. When the two dresses have arrived, pay the postman $1.69 for them. We have paid the delivery charges. If they are not much better than you expected you can return them at our expense and we will refund your money. Could anything be fairer? Order by No. 89.

Even Paris marvels at this astonishing lipstick

In an amazing way it changes color, as you put it on, to blend with your complexion . . . Orange in the stick, but blush-rose on your lips.

And how light or how deep the shade depends upon how lightly or how firmly you run this magic wand over your lips.

It's as natural as Nature's own glow, for both blondes and brunettes . . . No wonder Tangee is the most famous lipstick in the world!

Be sure you see the name TANGEE on the box and on the chic little gunmetal case . . . for no other lipstick in the world is like this one . . . or has its remarkable property of changing color to blend with every complexion—and is permanent.

"H & W" Belt Corsette with the Inner Belt "that fits"

1. The horizontal boning and elastic side pieces of the diaphragm belt mold the flesh into firm contours.
2. Left side fastening lies smoothly.
3. Abdominal belt joins far enough back to provide essential support.
4. Real lisle elastic side inserts and vertical boning placed in front section form belt.

One of America's most widely copied Inner Belt Corsettes - a garment that gives to the figure those slender, graceful lines that every woman seeks to achieve.

This "H & W" foundation garment combines the double features of corrective diaphragm control with a healthful Inner Belt support. The daily wearing of which results in added poise - and a new beauty of form. There is only one original "H & W" Inner Belt Corsette. Look for the trade mark "H & W" on every garment. Priced from $3.50 to $15.00.

The Well-Known "H & W" Garter Belt

The front and back panels are of quality satin-lined for additional support and wear. With elastic sides and two pair of hose supporters. Side hook.

The Belt hugs the form with a nicety of fit, granting light restraint and perfect freedom to slim figures. For dancing and sportswear. At $1.50 to $3.50

Dish by Chef Otto K. Klopfer of the Jefferson Hotel, St. Louis

Chef Klopfer, formerly of the Waldorf-Astoria, New York, and the Del Monte Hotel, Monterey, Calif., reveals one of his epicurean delights. It is his favorite recipe for Marcaroni Croquettes:

Steam full-length American Beauty Macaroni in bundles of 6, for 10 minutes. Untie bundles, and, while hot, roll in grated cheese. Put in buttered cheese cloth and boil until done. Allow to cool. Cut in 2-inch lengths and fry breaded. Serve with Creole Sauce.

A EUGÈNE WAVE

Speaking of Waves
THE WAVES ACROSS THE SEA ARE EUGÈNE WAVES

That is—nine-tenths of them are—for London and Paris learned long ago that the Eugène technique alone achieves the perfect permanent. . . There are reasons, of course—very clear and logical reasons. . . . . .

—There's the Eugène Automatic Curler that permits the hair to be wound dry, smooth and perfectly flat, tightening it gently, without undue pulling and stretching.

—There's the patented Eugèneol Perforated Sachet which concentrates its myriad pressure-jets of clean, white steam, just where their persuasive power is needed.

—There's the Eugène Two-Sectional doubly-controlled Steamer, waving every length of hair precisely the right length of time. . . Scientific things to be sure, but highly important to you in their perfect results.

The Eugène Method is totally unlike the old methods that drench the hair with liquid chemicals, that wind it wet and bake it dry—often affecting its strength, its color and its true natural lustre.

The Eugène Method's dry winding and its steaming through the Eugèneol Perforated Sachet (illustrated) produce the graceful, undulating waves of the mode.

May we send you our booklet "The Eugène Method"? . . . It explains why the Eugène waver asks a higher price—and tells why his work is worth it. . . . . The names of nearby Eugène Wavers are included upon request.

JUST TWO CREAMS—fragrant, cool, delicate—to cleanse your skin and protect it. A Cold Cream, velvety smooth and fragrant as rose leaves, that thoroughly cleanses your tired, dusty skin with gentle touch. A Vanishing Cream, light as the mists of dawn, that protects your skin and gives it a delicate smoothness and finish.

The finest materials have been chosen and blended with greatest care in these Two Creams, so that together they make a perfect method of caring for your skin to keep it always fresh and smooth and unlined.

Women of beauty and distinction everywhere esteem them, find them delightful to use and effective in their action. This is the method they follow in caring for their skin with these Two Creams, made by Pond's:

Every night before retiring, and frequently during the day, apply Pond's Cold Cream generously to your skin. In a few minutes its fine oils penetrate the pores and lift out all dust and powder. Wipe off, and repeat. Finish with a dash of cold water.

After the bedtime cleansing, a little fresh cream left overnight keeps a dry skin supple and free from lines.

Pond's Vanishing Cream follows every daytime cleansing. It gives your skin a special delicate texture, holds your powder evenly and long, and protects it from the irritations of cold, wind and dust.

You, too, will find satisfaction in the improvement in your skin which comes from the daily use of these Two Creams, so highly esteemed by distinguished and beautiful women in all countries.

Latest Spring Styles Make Youthforms
a Necessity

Spring styles clearly define the bust. Style artists have doomed the ill-fitting, flattening, pressing, tissue-destroying brassieres, and have given women a new charm and beauty with the bust line. YOUTHFORMS are the one support that serves both purposes —holding your bust in correct position and giving you that infinite charm of youth.

YOUTHFORMS' secret is in the elastic band which goes around the body, and the beautiful, first quality double strength satin cup-shaped forms which hold the busts in place, removing all weight from them. With YOUTHFORMS you can place the busts where nature intended, and have greater beauty and comfort. YOUTHFORMS are absolutely unnoticeable and can be worn with any frock. Perfect fit guaranteed. As each one is tailored to measure we cannot give refunds but all alterations are made free. Not sold in stores—order direct.

"Speak for yourself, REM!"
---says this Priscilla

Here's another New England Priscilla who lives not far from the sea--the little daughter of Mr. & Mrs. Ralph L. Brown of 53 Ocean View Ave., South Portland, Maine. Priscilla is still too young to tell how REM quieted a bad cough she had last Winter, but the story speaks for itself:

"REM helped my daughter Priscilla a lot last Winter," says Mrs. Brown. "She had a bad cough and nothing I did seemed to help her for she would be coughing day and night. She frequently kept us awake for she would cough and cough. I was worried, for she usually sleeps so well at night. I saw in the paper where a druggist had used REM and found it good so I telephoned to Tom Johnson's Drug Store on Ocean St. and got him to send me up a bottle. I started giving her the REM right away and she rested better the very first night. She kept on getting better and before long the cough entirely left her. My sister's used REM too for her little girl."

Children seldom have to be coaxed to take REM. It hasn't that nasty taste that makes kids try to hide at "medicine time." No Opiates in REM, either.

It does contain, however, a special ingredient---effective, harmless---not found in ordinary cough syrups. Clinging to your throat as it is swallowed, REM spreads a soothing film over the sore and irritated membranes.

Woman's Greatest Hygienic Handicap

As Your Daughter's Doctor Views It

Because of the utter security this new way provides, it is widely urged by physicians — ABSOLUTE SECURITY, plus freedom forever from the embarrassing problem of disposal

By ELLEN J. BUCKLAND, Registered Nurse

SIXTY per cent of many of the commoner ailments of women, according to some medical authorities, are due to the use of unsanitary, makeshift ways in meeting woman's most distressing hygienic problem.

For that reason, this new way is widely urged today. Especially in the important days of adolescence. On medical advice, thousands thus started first to employ it. Then found, besides, protection, security and peace-of-mind unknown before. Modern mothers thus advise their daughters — for health's sake and immaculacy.

KOTEX—What it does

Unknown a few years ago, 8 in every 10 women in the better walks of life have discarded the insecure "sanitary pads" of yesterday and adopted Kotex.

Filled with Cellucotton wadding, the world's super-absorbent, Kotex absorbs 16 times its own weight in moisture. It is 5 times as absorbent as the ordinary cotton pad.

It discards easily as tissue. No laundry—no embarrassment of disposal.

It also thoroughly deodorizes, and thus ends all fear of offending.

You obtain it at any drug or department store, without hesitancy, simply by saying "Kotex."

Only Kotex is "like" Kotex

See that you get the genuine Kotex. It is the only sanitary napkin embodying the super-absorbent Cellucotton wadding. It is the only napkin made by this company. Only Kotex itself is "like" Kotex.

You can obtain Kotex at better drug and department stores everywhere. Comes in sanitary sealed packages of 12 in two sizes, the Regular and Kotex-Super. Supplied also through vending cabinets in rest-rooms by West Disinfecting Co.

No laundry—discards as easily as a piece of tissue

① No laundry. As easy to dispose of as a piece of tissue—thus ending the trying problem of disposal.

Easy Disposal and 2 other important factors

② Utter protection — Kotex absorbs 16 times its own weight in moisture; 5 times that of cotton, and it deodorizes, thus assuring double protection.

③ Easy to buy anywhere. Many stores keep them ready-wrapped in plain paper — simply help yourself, pay the clerk, that is all.
